COLGATE DENTAL CREAM STOPS TOOTH DECAY BEST

Better Than Any Other Way of Preventing Tooth Decay According to Published Reports!

Reader's Digest recently reported on one of the most extensive experiments in dentifrice history! And here are additional facts: The one and only toothpaste used in this research was Colgate Dental Cream. Yes, and two years' research showed brushing teeth right after eating with Colgate Dental Cream stopped decay best! Better than any other home method of oral hygiene! The Colgate way stopped more decay for more people than ever reported in all dentifrice history!

No Other Toothpaste or Powder Ammoniated or Not Offers Proof of Such Results!

Even more important, there were no new cavities whatever for more than 1 out of 3 who used Colgate Dental Cream correctly! Think of it! Not even one new cavity in two full years! No other dentifrice has proof of such results! No dentifrice can stop all tooth decay, or help cavities already started. But the Colgate way is the most effective way yet known to help your dentist prevent decay.

The Nativity, eloquently interpreted primitive by Albert Kramer. Unusual conception of the moving, endless wonderment and beauty of Christ's birth

How we retired with $200 a month

We'd never be out here in California today, financially independent, if it hadn't been for what happened back in Scarsdale, the night of September 10, 1926. How do I remember the date? It was my fortieth birthday and Nell had gotten tickets for "Countess Maritza" to celebrate. While she was dressing that night I sat in the living room, looking through a magazine.

I suppose any man feels kind of serious when he hits forty. Someday we wanted, Nell and I, to really enjoy life. Move out where it was summer all year, in southern California. Grow flowers and soak up the sun. Have time for living. But how could we?

We hadn't saved much. And I realized that a half of my working years had gone. I had a good job and a fair salary. But we found it hard to bank anything. So I began to wonder—must I always live on a treadmill, like so many others?

As I turned the pages, an ad caught my eye and I started to read it. Oddly, the ad seemed meant for me. There was, it said, a way for a man to retire on an income—without ever being rich. It was called the Phoenix Mutual Retirement Income Plan. With it, I could arrange to get a guaranteed income of $200 a month beginning when I reached 60. And it wasn't just an income for myself alone. The Plan actually provided an income as long as either Nell or I lived.

Just as I finished, Nell came rushing downstairs in a hurry as usual. But I stopped long enough to tear out the coupon at the bottom of the ad. I stuck it in an envelope and dropped it in the mail on our way to the show.

Well, that was back in 1926. A few years later, the stock market crashed and the depression came along. Then the war. Many times I was thankful that I had my Phoenix Mutual Plan.

Well, a while back my sixtieth birthday arrived—and was that a celebration! I was all set to retire. And it wasn't long before my first Phoenix Mutual check for $200 came in. So we sold the Scarsdale house and headed for California.

We're in a beautiful spot here, just right for us. And every month, right on the dot, the postman hands us another check. Security? Why, we have more than lots of rich people. Our income is guaranteed for life!

This story is typical. Assuming you qualify at a young enough age, you can plan to have an income of $10 to $200 a month, or even more—beginning at age 55, 60, 65 or older. Over 600,000 Bell Telephone People Are Helping to Get Things Done

It takes many things, all put together, to provide good telephone service for a big and busy Nation.

There are telephone instruments and switchboards and buildings and almost endless miles of wires and cables across the country.

These are important. But they could not possibly do the job without the skill, loyalty and courtesy of more than 600,000 Bell Telephone men and women.

That is the vital human force that puts life into all of this telephone equipment and makes it work smoothly and efficiently for millions of people. That is the priceless asset of the Nation's telephone system.

Essential as they are in peace, the skill, courtesy and energy of Bell Telephone people are of even greater value in time of national defense. They are now helping the country's industries and armed forces to get things done.

JUST PUBLISHED! in glorious full-color!

a portfolio of sixteen prints reproduced from the original Elephant Folio plates on choice linen-weave sheets ready for framing Highly-prized Song Birds, the ma-jestic Wild Turkey and the fiery red Flamingo, generally considered to be Audubon's most brilliant paintings, can now be yours at an un-precedented low cost of pennies per picture.

Printed from engravings costing $1500 apiece At last—you can afford to own 16 of the greatest bird paintings ever created. MARBORO has just published, at an amazingly low price, a portfolio of Audubon Prints reproduced directly from the magnificent Birds of America engravings valued as high as $1500 apiece. Each large 8½" x 11" plate is printed on fine, soft-tex-tured, linen-weave paper superbly suited for capturing the breathtaking, true-to-nature colors of the originals.

Audubon Birds brighten any room's appearance

They lend themselves beautifully to the decoration of home whether traditional or modern. The 16 original engravings from which these prints were reproduced, and which they so closely duplicate, would cost more than $14,000 to purchase today.

Audubon Birds—the ideal gift for him or her

No gift could be more certain of a welcome reception than this impressive portfolio of birds hand-colored by John James Audubon. Marboro brings them to you in a novel, colorful miniature artist's portfolio tied on three sides with removable ribbon. Included is a precut "decorator's mat" in which you can insert each print to see how it will look when framed.

Santa with a Siren,

not a Sleigh!

JEANNIE WILLIS

Inless you've been living in a hermetically sealed cave for the last hundred years, you've undoubtedly observed the phenomenon that takes place when a small child sees a fire engine flash past. Eyes widen with wonder, mouth drops open, and he stands transfixed as the great red engines roar by with sirens wide open. Just seeing one makes the breath come quicker. A beautiful dream would be to ride in one, just like the men in the helmets and slickers.

For the children of Hanover, New Hampshire, this exciting dream comes true each Christmas when the fire fighters of the town step into the role of Santa Claus and give the ecstatic youngsters the treat of their lives with a holiday ride in the big red engines.

Fire Chief Holt says it all started back in 1934. And may it never end. Picture a bustling Saturday just before Christmas on the Main Street of any little town. In the middle of such an afternoon the street is empty. It's the glorious day for the Children's Fire Engine Ride. Everyone in town has either gone to the school, where the procession starts, to help pile and squeeze children into the local fire engines, or is waiting back at the fire house for their unloading. At 2 o'clock sharp, all fire-fighting vehicles and the chief's shiny red car (for those daring juveniles who are too young to cope with a fire engine) are lined up in full array in front of the schools. Last year some 550 children got the thrill of their young lives. Sardine-style, they clamber into these magic vehicles. There's no age limit. As a matter of fact, if you can spare a glance from those enchanted wide-eyed young fry, you'll see a wistful look of envy on many a parent's face.

children, drive slowly around our town. One lucky, lucky child clangs the bell on the way back to the fire house. Here they are unpacked by their grinning parents and they race inside to get in line. Santa is waiting with a bag full of candy, fruit, and a toy for each, a friendly knowing word or two, and a mischievous wink. Fluttering parents then retrieve their chicks and take home as happy a boy or girl as ever lived. The next day the town is filled with embryo volunteer firemen. Imagine—riding on a fire engine and seeing Santa all at once.

This yearly holiday custom is handled financially by the simple process of selling tickets to a Firemen's Ball, run for the benefit of the children's party. And actually the expense is not great—it's the idea that's so great. It's the town's own Christmas custom, and one of the nicest we've ever en-

Basic Recipe

1½ cups sifted flour • ½ teaspoons Calumet Baking Powder • ¼ teaspoon salt • 1 cup sugar • 1/2 cup butter or other shortening (room temperature) • 2 eggs, unbeaten • ¼ cup milk • 1 teaspoon vanilla • 1½ cups Baker's Coconut, cut up small.

Parents get as big a kick out of the proceedings as the children. Here they help unload offspring. Ride is financed by selling tickets to Fireman's Ball countered anywhere. We can only hope it will last forever and a day. The fire department officials in Meridian, Mississippi, hit on a marvelous way not only to give the kids a chance to ride on their big hook-and-ladder set-up, but also to stimulate interest in their parents where fire-prevention rules are concerned. First of all, they offered a free ride in their fire truck to each school class which reported one hundred per cent success in getting their mothers and fathers to read a fire-prevention pamphlet. The results were astonishing: Every single class in the entire district succeeded in getting every single parent to co-operate by reading one completely through. The fire department had its hands full-4,375 kids had a ride that day. And you can take our word for it, there were 4,375 of the most excited youngsters the town has ever seen. The photograph on the right shows some of the lucky ones collecting their reward.

There are many ways for a community to prepare and carry through a novel way in which to entertain the children of the neighborhood at Christmas time, but for sheer excited, tingling pleasure, there doesn't seem to be anything yet which quite comes up to the thrill of a ride on that big red truck. Why not try it in your community this year, offering it as a treat for some special effort, or just because you love children! Unless we miss our guess you'll find your own fire department as enthusiastic about the idea as the good men of Hanover and Meridian were. Here's a challenge worth the taking!

something especially its own. Scandinavians scour their houses and hang paper streamers, let the children seek out their simple hidden gifts, go to church through starlit fields of snow at midnight, and scatter grain for the birds' Christmas. Spaniards, too, go to midnight mass on the "nochebuena." An Italian without the revered "presepio," and in Holland they carry on a pole through the streets. And here, in America? Dur home beautiful and our Thristmas greetings gay. We eat bountifully costly presents elaborately gift-wrapped. But what of the real of Christmas? Do the bery rafters of our churches ring with the joy and spiritual beauty on this birthnight of the new-born Babe? Do the walls of the house we have so carefully nurtured into a home, and so painstakingly decorated, vibrate happily with the lusty tamily singing of the beautiful old carols—or does the radio sing our carols for us? Habe we Americans forgotten the real meaning of Christmas, lost the art of simple happiness?

In all our Thristmas decorating, our eating, and our gift-wrapping, have we forgotten that Christmas is a religious testival of joy, something greater than a family time of reunion?

Thristmas may more nearly approach the lovely, holy thing it should be—in your house and our house. Way the blessedness of giving and the goodness of sharing, the great gift of humility stay with us all, long after Christmas Day is over.

How to Care for Pets

"When punishing a dog," warns Thomas O'Mara, head of a New York pet shop, "spank him with a folded newspaper." Noise and slight sting frighten dog without hurting him. Never use whip or heavy object Photographs by George Pickow from Three Lions, Inc.

Children are enthusiastic pet owners, but they should be instructed most carefully in handling animals or they're apt to get a strangle hold on a puppy when picking him up and inflict cruel punishment without meaning to do so. A child of six or seven is fully capable of taking care of a dog. Starting child and puppy along the right path of behavior pays off in a healthy, obedient animal and a proud, co-operative owner.

Thomas O'Mara is a man with definite ideas about dog owners. Before a customer leaves O'Mara's New York Pet Shop, he has been thoroughly tutored in the proper way to handle and care for his new pet. O'Mara feels that buying a pup involves more than a mere cash outlay and strongly recommends that Dad come along as well as Mother and the children. Then a puppy is chosen which is liked by all. "The dog," says O'Mara, "is actually another member of the family and should be chosen with that consideration in mind."

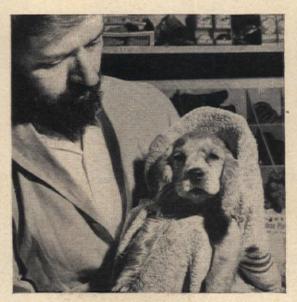

A special dish is used for longeared dogs. This prevents ears from drooping in food and water. Pup needs separate dishes for food and water, water changed frequently

Dog's bed should enable him to enter and leave easily and freely. It must be kept free of splinters and cleaned and aired often. Bottom should be covered with part of old blanket or with special pillow for warmth and comfort. Basket makes bed for small dog

"When bathing a dog," explains Mr. O'Mara, "wet him first. Then give him a good lathering and a thorough rinsing. Don't let him stand in a tub of dirty water. Check water temperature carefully"

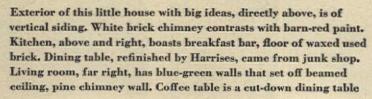

After a bath, the dog should be dried quickly and thoroughly. A turkish towel is good for rubbing down a long-haired dog. Be sure you pick a drying place that is out of drafts and sufficiently warm

After drying, dog's coat is brushed smooth and glossy with stiff brush. Dog's coat should be brushed often. Comb cars with a wide-toothed comb or the Jack Harrises a large house meant all work and no play. Since both are breadearners they wanted a small house they could enjoy without having to put in long hours on chores. A tall order? Not in the hands of a creative builder. The Harrises got everything they wanted from Builder Perry Andrews in less than 900 square feet—and on a modest budget. Along with their original specifications, they got some custom-designed details that make all the difference between a routine interior and an individualistic, livable one.

The kitchen, for example, is separated from the living room by a handsome breakfast bar. Clinical only in function, in appearance it has all the warmth, the welcome, and the easy entertaining features of its old-time country counterpart. The floor is real used brick, waxed to a ruddy gloss and spotted with homemade braided rugs. Curtains are snowy muslin trimmed with red rickrack. Built-ins of natural-finished pine provide convenient storage for china, glass, silver, and linen. The breakfast bar serves for lunch—and dinner, too—when there are no guests. The stools have ruffled cushions of a gay chintz print. Counter tops are red quarry tile. There is a six-foot-long copper-lined planter over the sink for greens and flowers. Modern range has a pine hood, metal-lined. Wallpaper is a red and white Provincial pattern. The dining table is an old golden oak junk-shop model which the Harrises refinished themselves. Ladder-back chairs have rush seats.

Natural-pine sheathing over the fireplace chimney makes a natural extension into bookshelves, makes a good color and texture contrast to the deep blue-green of the walls and the beamed ceiling. The Harrises chose wall-to-wall braided carpeting, which repeats the reds, blues, greens, and browns of the fabrics. Washable triple-tier muslin curtains (made by Mrs. Harris) are trimmed with stripe from the sofa fabric. Comfort again in the big, deep chairs. Two old pine meeting benches that fit under the windows provide plenty of extra seating space and blend perfectly with the feeling of simplicity throughout the entire house—a simplicity that adds up to gracious living.

The bedroom has one entire wall given over to compartmented built-ins for everything from shoes to blouses. Built-ins in the bathroom, too—all as neat and planned as a ship's galley. And for the Harrises—a small house that's as easy-to-take as it is to take care of. Here's another proof that a small house doesn't have to mean a compromise on comfort or good looks.

Good taste-No waste

Here's a house that's an optical illusion—a seemingly small home that is geared for grand-scale living. Designed to fit the individual needs of the original owners, Mr. and Mrs. Stewart A. Clark, and the climate of Miami, Florida, it's a made-to-order dream for Bill Ridenour, who was going to build one just like it, when fate stepped in, and he got the first chance to buy it.

It's as trim as a racing sloop, with no space wasted on halls. The foyer of one bedroom, with linen and clothes closets, serves as a dressing room, and combined with the bedroom provides a masterly master suite. Even the garage, which also encloses the laundry, adds to the living space of the house. It can be converted to a future guest room, if the need arises.

The big story, though, is the large, flexible area of the living room, dining-room-studio and screened porch. The large studio window frames an eyeteasing picture of trees, tropical sky, and smooth lawn often animated by badminton players. Clerestory windows above the porch roof at the front end of the high-ceilinged living room keep the center of the room flooded with daylight.

Sliding doors open to the porch and the slightest breeze has free run through the length of the house and the louvers that flank the studio window. All bedrooms have cross ventilation. Awning windows let in the slightest breeze, and keep out rain when they're open. Private entrances from the porch for the guest rooms are part of the ventilation scheme, too. On the roof above the dressing room is a year-round air conditioner that provides cool air on still, hot days, and heat when the weather turns chilly. For those cool mornings of a Florida winter, there are also electric heating units in each bathroom.

The dining room, as bright as a summer flower bed, has a floor-to-ceiling bay window. There is a sliding door that shuts off the kitchen with an opening serving counter beside it. Below the counter is a capacious cabinet and above, a Venetian blind to screen the kitchen from view whenever desired.

The house is set on a concrete slab with a gray-green terrazzo finish that makes an attractive, easy-to-clean floor for all the rooms.

Color is used to excellent advantage throughout the house. Walls and ceilings are cool yellow. Rugs are of gray string. Two cherry-red upholstered chairs and a bright yellow couch in the studio are the highlights of the large combination room.

Built-in furnishings, to make space more functional, appear in the dining room (above left) where a glass and china cabinet are built beneath the serving counter. In the studio (right) book shelves and a desk have been built in all along one wall of the room

hints to help any old house take out a new lease on style

BEFORE: Who wants to live in a hallway and feel cold drafts down the back of the neck? This stairway at end of the living room is typical of older houses. Step 1: Remove the rail and balusters, strip off the old oaken dado

AFTER: Vertical pine or cypress planks, set at angle, form a smart louvered screen, hide most of the stairway. A modern wood-strip blind dropped to the floor dresses up the window, but lets light pass

BEFORE: Rough red bricks, The Bobbsey Twins under glass, and the neighbors just across the drive. "The Varsity Drag" on the victrolaand we'll bet there's a yellow slicker in the hall closet! Remember when?

AFTER: A mild operation removed the old mantel shelf, replaced it with a graceful curved frame surrounding the bricks. Two shaped valances touching walls and ceiling (plus the draw curtains) make windows seem larger fere's a quartet of remodeling ideas beamed at the middle-aged house. We all know such houses; many of us grew up in them. There are years of good I all know such houses, many of as green applications of living still left in them, but some have grown dowdy with the passing of years. Who hasn't seen the gingerbread mantel with columns and curlicues, nilegreen tiles, and a beveled mirror inset above the shelf? And the stairway that goes up from one end of the living room-bearer of drafts in winter time, but its worst offense is the feeling it gives you of sitting in a big open hallway instead of a cozy living room. And so familiar-the red-brick mantel flanked by French-door bookcases and high, pinched windows! Remember the windows on the left, opening onto the front porch, and the double door at the right leading into the dining room? The stately columns separate many a living room and dining room, but the supper dishes are always in plain view of the front door.

All the changes we suggest are moderately inexpensive to do, call for little structural alteration, can be handled by handyman or carpenter-no high-falutin' cabinetmakers. Hand me the hammer, maw!

BEFORE: A feeling of space is nice between this dining room and living room, but the colonnade effect is decidedly old hat. Step 1: If you're sure they're not needed for support, remove the four columns

AFTER: Two wooden frames fill in where the columns were removed. Matching doors are paneled at the bottom like existing pediments. Openings in the upper sections are screened with metal lath, gilded or painted a pretty color hobby for collecting things often leads to bewitching results.

In this fascinating group of trivets, those practical little stands which used to hold grandma's steaming kettles or flatirons,

Mrs. G. Townsend Underhill of Winnetka, Illinois, has found some clever conversation stimulators. They form a striking border around the top of her breakfast-nook walls. The men who created them have left no trace of who they were, since, with the exception of one trivet, there are no signatures on any. All we know is that they were blacksmiths by trade, and trivets, along with other useful iron implements, were only a sideline. Although Mrs. Underhill's are originals, many of the little three-legged stands have been reproduced and are known to collectors by such descriptive names as Hex, Tassel and Grain, Cupid, Dew Drop, Dutch Dump. This collection not only includes many of the large-sized trivets which will hold a flatiron, but ranges all the way down to a tiny little stand with a tiny iron on it, suitable for a child. The mysterious origin of each piece gives it a lot of extra interest.

How to Buy a Christmas Tree

o most persons, a Christmas tree is an evergreen that you buy at the corner store or a temporary stall. It comes in two sizes, too big and too small, and, at times in recent years, it has also been "too high." Some families can still follow the old custom of going into their woods to select and cut their own tree; some can, and prefer to, buy from a local nursery a choice living specimen with its root ball burlapped or in a tub so it can be planted outdoors after the holidays. But most of us have to take what the market offers of trees cut commercially, perhaps near by but more probably in the north woods somewhere between the far Northwest and the New England states. Here are tips on how to buy a tree and get the most from it.

What is a good Christmas tree? First, it is of proper traditional shape—symmetrically conical with a distinct tip or leader, not too long, but an upstanding, crowning point for that favorite star, angel, or Santa Claus figure. Its foliage should be dense, compact, and rich green in color. If it brings with it that characteristic northwoods fragrance, so much the better. The leaves or needles are abundant and attractive—not stiff or sharp enough to make it hard to decorate the tree, or unpleasant to touch it, as children and grown-ups, too, like to do—and, most important, they should not fall soon after the tree is brought indoors, leaving ugly, bare twigs.

Well, what kinds of trees do we usually find on the market, and which of them best meets the above specifications? As with many other products, the available supply is influenced somewhat by the locality and somewhat by the public's tastes and preferences. To many, the traditional Christmas tree is the deliciously fragrant Balsam Fir with its handsome tree form, thick foliage, and flat, blunt, rather soft needles which are pleasant to handle and which hang on well even in the house.

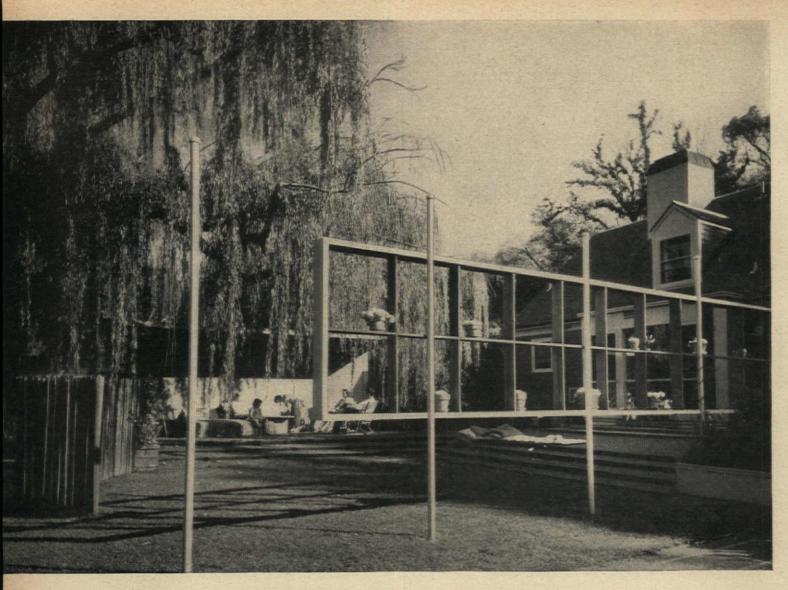

In recent years, the Douglas-fir, a native of the Northwest, has been in increasing supply and has won much favor. Though not a true fir, it has the favorable fir qualities (lacking perhaps some fragrance) and an exceptional beauty of form and texture that makes it truly the "aristocrat of Christmas trees." In tests made at Cornell University, it held its needles in an 80-degree room longer than all others. The figures were: Douglas-fir, 30 days; Red Pine, 20; Scotch Pine, 15; Balsam Fir, 10; Hemlock and Spruce, 5 or less.

ere is a garden that demonstrates the effective application of modern landscaping principles and the fine co-ordination of the ideas of landscape designer and of architect-in this case the owner. It is planned to organize all the available space on a 100 by 160-ft. lot in Marin County, California, for the use of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Bolles and their four children, and is cleverly integrated with the house and within itself. Front lawn, drive, car shelter, and L-shaped terrace are level with the ground floor of the house, or two feet above the rear garden's natural lot grade. Along the west border is the active play space. This is set off from the rest by ten tall pipe poles whose vertical lines are repeated in the long branches of a grand old weeping willow. The four poles nearest the house support an egg-crate type framework which gives a feeling of enclosure to the main terrace, extends the house structure into the garden integrating the two, and provides shelf space for pot plants. On the lawn, two free-curving grape-stake screens add to the sense of space, give interesting form to the area, and introduce an element of mystery as to what is beyond. Study, in the plan below, the skillful use and arrangement of these details and of appropriate plant materials; note placing of terrace with relation to living and dining rooms and kitchen, and how the grassed play yard adjoins children's room and play court.

1. First, remove all drawers. Unserew or pry off tops carefully. Drill screw holes, then screw inside ends of chests together. Be sure to line up fronts flush. Run screws into cake of soap first, makes it easier

7. Match first cross strip between drawers to end pice Smooth on very carefully. Turn edges over and be su they are flat and firmly fastened, so the constant movement of drawers will not loosen fabric

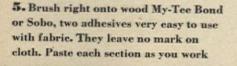

12. Turn chest upright. After all drawers and strips between are finished, top is carefully matched, measured and cut. Match front of drawers, being sure plaid runs up drawers and over top in continuous line

Take a plain, unimposing chest, follow our easy-to-understand directions, and you'll not only have one that's beautifully covered with fabric, but also a reputation that's covered with glory. Depending upon what kind of material you use, this type of furniture can fit in any room in the house. If you want to fancy-up only part of a chest, you can copy a Provincial idea by decorating just the drawer fronts, and a panel on the top. Very Gallic!

If this is your first try, we'd advise you to use a small all-over design, since this wouldn't require matching and measuring. Plaid is really quite a trick to handle well, but like all difficult-to-do things, the result is extra smart and effective. Also be sure the article is completely sanded and smooth, so there will be no lumps or bumps when it's finished. Put adhesive only on the immediate area where you're working, since it dries very quickly. These new preparations don't show through the fabric, but do be sure to keep your hands clean, so your work won't show smudges and will look slick and professional.

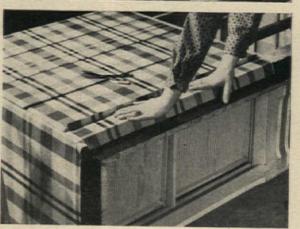

10. First drawer finished. Use as guide for other drawers, top to bottom, side to side. Remove each drawer, measure, apply strip between. Replace each as finished

11. Turn chest on back once more. It is easier to work on drawer fronts this way, as plaid must be very carefully matched across entire front of chest. After each drawer front is finished, apply strip between ost of us come from that enormous stratum of the middle class that is distinguished by its ability to recall better days -that carefree stretch when everybody had plenty of money or got the benefit of others having it. Today, memory of the good old days loses all sovereignty . . . and it should. What we, or our families, once had cuts no ice. The crux is what we have now and how well we can and do manage with the existing income. Yet there are still a good many people, oppressed by the sorry state of construction costs, who mutter about the slim chance today of building an inexpensive house that has even a vestige of individual charm, who cannot reconcile themselves to small scale, servantless living, without loss of dignity. For the benefit of such skeptics. as well as the level-headed younger generation who will spot this immediately as a house that "has the mostest" they've seen in a small house in many a day, I shall tell you the story of this little house, built a year and a half ago in Pacific Palisades by a young contractor, Bruce Tebbe.

Building a house means, in the figurative as in the literal sense, that you have put down roots, that you are where you plan to stay. It is like betting that you are going to live a long, long time; one feels grave, almost frightened, and at the same time, daring, adventurous. This small house is Bruce Tebbe's own house. He had built houses for other people but this was his and his wife Phyllis' first home and they gave it their all. The plans, starting with cloud-born ideas that had been written back and forth in war letters, were drawn and redrawn many times over before they finally came down to bedrock to incorporate, within a budget price, every convenience and attractive feature possible. It was probably the hardest, the most exacting job young Bruce had tackled and yet, like the dentist who gets into a dentist chair for the first time as a patient, he came through the experience much more appreciative of the other man's problem.

The late Robert L. Cook planned their house. They told him explicitly what they wanted and what they could spend, but when they received the plans, instead of impulsively accepting them and rushing into construction, they went over and over the plans costs only $10,500 to build:

Order the plans for it on page 81

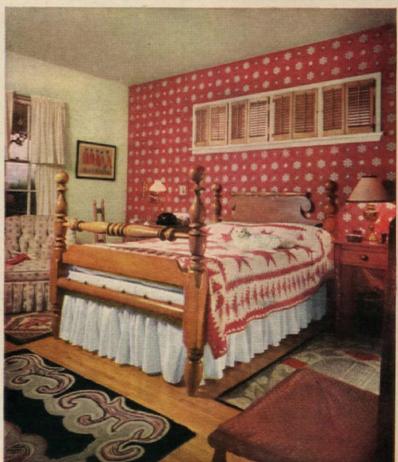

Plan is more than a straightforward approach to small-scale living without damage to dignity. A pliant plan, it allows for a third bedroom, den, or relocation of dining room in U formed by kitchen and bedroom. Also for a future service room off kitchen. Construction, gray wood shakes and stucco, white trim, terra-cotta colored brick

Mrs. Tebbe's color outlook was sunny, flows without a break or, as she says, "with the grain." She carried the living-room color, letting it run naturally with eye travel, into both adjoining dining room and bedroom hall, to give illusion of space and specifications questioning, "If we change this, could we get that? Why can't this be done this way, and that, that?" They clung tenaciously to the fine points they were determined to have, slept over decisions, cocked a sour eye at reducing "quality," but were perfectly amenable to a shift from one costly "quality" item to a "quality" one that cost less. By selective compromise in one place they gained something else in another.

The result of this agreeable owner-architect cooperation indicates it takes something more than money to get all of the things that one may sensibly hope to have in a small house. The house Bruce Tebbe built is a small wisp, the planning everything. For those who are interested in figures, it cost $10,500. For those who are interested in meanings, it is evidence of the fine, particular features that it is possible to have in what Mr. and Mrs. America call an inexpensive small house. (The figure $10,500 is the amount the house would have cost a client and is figured without consideration of the discounts that are often the good fortune of a man in the building business.)

The extra-curricular features in the house are numerous but, roughly, they are a wood-paneled living-room fireplace wall, solid brass hardware, good wallpapers of documentary design, a bay window 21/2 feet deep that was planned to enlarge a small dining room, cross-ventilation in all rooms, floor furnace with thermostat control, bedroom wardrobes with built-in drawer space, a pullman bath-PLEASE TURN TO PAGE 80

We've Got Designs on This Kitchen

For those of you who like streamlined modern efficiency and yet yearn for the color and character of Pennsylvania Dutch designs. Mr. and Mrs. Carl Chapparo of Los Angeles created a minor modern-day miracle when they took the pleasant, but out-dated kitchen you see in the "before" photograph above and revamped it into the good-looking, compact working area, shown in the "after" picture, which makes meal preparation a snap, instead of a chore. To prove that you can have the ultimate in modern kitchen convenience and still recall the charm of a bygone era, we asked Lietta, a Los Angeles artist, to dream up some more of her popular Pennsylvania Dutch designs. The results inspired the sketch at right. The patterns are traditionally provincial, yet Lietta has given them a decidedly modern flair. If you'd like to copy these quaint little characters in your own home, we've made it easy for you with full-sized tracings and color instructions. See page 92 for information on ordering them.

Place and Show

This time we've departed somewhat from the run-of-the-mill decoration, lovely as it is, and come up with an adaptation of the original Della Robbia wreath, which was usually made up with fruit. In this setting, three fat, twisted candles are arranged in the center, their placement depending upon the theme of the scheme—formal or casual. Nuts, fruits, and seed pods have the leading roles, but shellac and colored spray paint, easily applied, change the entire character of these modest ingredients. And, of course, there's holly, as indispensable as Santa Claus. Gather some from your own bush or buy the commercially grown—naturally we're all too sporting to pick it from the wild.

The china is charming, in traditional 1860 pattern. Each piece shows a different scene from that time. The designs are handpainted, won't wear off or fade, as they're protected under a permanent glaze. Inexpensive, too. Place mats and napkins are of red homespun, cotton-and-rayon, heat-resistant, color-fast. Pressed thumb-print and star design trims the handmade green goblet. The sterling is "Melrose" pattern and raises the entire setting into the elegant class, since it is simple, but sumptuous. . . And a Merry Christmas to you, too!

Now you know, and I know, that the fanciest chef in the world can't lure folks from home cooking at Christmas time, and the best holiday parties, the most fun, are right at home. The only flaw is that first-of-the-year's reckoning, when we discover that, in our generosity, we have overreached ourselves, are faced with an astronomical food bill, did not have quite as much time for fun with the folks as we could have wished for. "But Christmas is not the time to stint," you say? Of stinting I'm not speaking, but of planning. Planning food Food that stays beautiful though prepared ahead or in easy stages, food that can be prepared at table or by your family and guests themselves—that allows you to be a guest at your own table, not the serving maid as well as cook. Deck the halls with wreaths of holly" and the mantel with bright, flaming candles to create a real Christmas atmosphere.

The good news is that you can become your own candlemaker just by using materials around the house. Tall tapers burned halfway are seldom usable, and along with other tag-ends lend themselves to re-molding. And here's an excellent use for paraffin removed from jellies, which is not safe for re-use with food.

All-purpose dye can be used for coloring white melted candle ends. For Christmas green, use ½ tsp. jadegreen to I cup melted wax; for deep red, use I tsp. scarlet. The proportion if you are using paraffin (household wax) is the same for the scarlet. but the green should be increased to I tsp. per cup of paraffin. The effect created in coloring paraffin is mottled rather than the solid color the melted candle ends assume. If you wish to try colored wax crayon, use one crayon per cup of either kind of wax.

For easy unmolding, use any container smooth at the top—salad and pudding molds, ash trays, nut dishes offer variety in shape. Waxed cardboard milk cartons make tall, streamlined candles, and round ice cream containers are perfect for fat ones. When the candle has molded, tear waxed cardboard from around it.

Wicks saved from partially-burned candles are more satisfactory than waxed twine. For placing wicks in tall cardboard cartons, thread a darning needle and draw the wick through the bottom, and knot. Place a pencil across top of the candle mold and tie wicking on firmly. An easy way to add wicking to these tall candles is to use a taper burned to the height of the mold. After melted wax has set on bottom and top of mold, insert whole, same-colored taper in center.

In making shallow, floating candles, wick may be inserted with a tooth-pick after wax has barely set on top. If mold is prettier inverted, allow candle to set several hours, invert, and make a hole for insertion of wick by heating pin (held with pliers over heat). Insert wick immediately. We suggest pouring melted wax for floating candles ½-inch deep in mold.

Candles may be etched in their same color or contrasting shades. Remove candle from mold, melt decorating wax, pour it into small-nosed pitcher, let it cool slightly. Hold a piece of cardboard at a slant on top of the candle, let the wax dribble down it. It will form drops as it runs down the sides. To give an artistic touch, brush edges of the drippings with gold or silver paint. A wonderful gift idea is a quart-sized candle placed on a ten-cent store metal tray and surrounded with greenery and shiny colored balls.

"Your floors are a sight, Jane!" Aunt Sally scolded. "Shabby spots are warning signs of real wear. Your floors will be ruined if you don't do something!"

"But what can I do?" Jane cried. "Look how the kids scuff them up; they take more punishment than anything else. No wonder they're getting worn!"

"Now don't fret, Jane," Aunt Sally soothed. "It's not too late—just use real wax. There's nothing like it to protect floors, because the wax takes the wear."

Jane's proud of her floors now, gleaming with genuine Johnson's Wax. And with Johnson's Wax care, her floors will stay lovely, never need costly refinishing!

Jane heeded the warning signs just in time to save her floors!

The LONDONDERRY Dining Group in

Over the snows, from Londonderry, N. H., came the first settlers to Cherry Valley; with them their household goods, including the New England corner cupboard. In Cherry Valley, it fell under the influence of Dutch cabinet-makers from the Hudson River settlements.

Here, you see how it has evolved through the years into a piece beloved by all who have an awkward corner to decorate, or a set of fine china to display.

The ladder-back, rush-bottomed chairs, the drop-leaf extension table, are in close relationship of spirit . . . blended into a living American style by the artist-craftsmen of Stickley's Cherry Valley workshops. Exquisitely beautiful wild cherry fruitwood, patient, custom-like workmanship, the rugged structure of early pieces, all are here, modified only slightly by the evolving tastes of a living age.

For variation of the basic wheel bow use a 1½ turn. Place middle finger up through loop from underside, turning finger toward you, at the same time catching edge of ribbon. Then, with help of thumb and index finger give ribbon a complete turn up and over toward center and, with downward motion, complete the turn room lavatory with drawer and cupboard space below, a man-sized, tilelined shower with adjustable shower head and glass door, an electric bath wall heater, excellent plumbing fixtures, well-designed chrome hardware. Also a bay window fitted with a seat and with view into garden to enlarge one bedroom, deep linen storage and a coat closet off the bedroom hall, door between bedroom hall and living room for privacy and to shut off noise from the rest of the house, an excellent water heater (Mission-30 gallon), generous kitchen cupboard and drawer space, garbage disposer, corner kitchen windows in space reserved for breakfast table, an abundance of strategically placed electric outlets in every room, an outdoor living room with fireplace that is built at the rear of the house into the U that is formed by the jutting bedroom and service wings. This room has been designed and built with such proper beam strength and roof pitch that at some future time the room may be extended six to eight feet and enclosed.

All of these particular features are the result of pre-planning but, too, the house has been given a booster shot of cost-free know-how. High bedroom windows are placed on the side next to neighbors, wall space was planned to accommodate specific furniture, kitchen cupboard shelves were built at the correct height for storing glasses, stacked plates, or lower dishes without reckless loss of space between shelves. Drawers are partitioned for silverware and kitchen tools, and a built-in counter for receiving food from the refrigerator is located on the side of the refrigerator next to the door handle. Conveniently locating a built-in counter at the right side of the refrigerator, planning wall space to fit furniture has nothing to do with the cost of a house, but they are features worth their weight in gold. Good taste also costs nothing. A woodpaneled fireplace wall can have a mellow driftwood stain and soft wax finish at no greater expense than if it had been finished on the orangered side with a high gloss.

It now has only two bedrooms, but when the outdoor living room is enclosed, the picture will change. The new room can become a sittingdining room, in which case the present dining room will be turned into

Tidy Towel Dryer

You don't have to put up with cold, clammy towels. Here is a relief scheme made from a window frame. It is set in the wall of a house heated by warm-air panels in the floor. The warm air spills up through the wall into the frame by way of a grille in the bottom and then over the towels and into the room. The towels hang on simple, attractive wood grid.

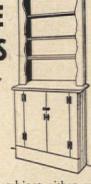

Variations of the idea are easy to devise to fit houses with other heating systems. For instance, a similar rack could be placed above a recessed steam or hot-water radiator. Heat could also come from a bank of elec> tric bulbs in a vented box beneath the frame. Or an infra-red lamp recessed in the ceiling and focused on the rack would do the job. The electric type of heat supply could be fitted with a switch set to turn off after a time sufficient for drying towels.

Christmas Tree

ther fact that spruce needles are stiff and very sharp, spruces in general and the Norway Spruce in particular are, in many places, the most widely used trees. Hemlocks, too, are liked by many, largely because their needles are soft, blunt, and so arranged as to produce a flat branch effect; and because of their slender graceful form.

The pines, whose longer, sharp needles are borne in "bundles" of from two to five, are liked in some places, notably New Jersey. If pruned to shapeliness while growing, they make satisfactory trees on which the needles last well. Both Red and Scotch Pines (two much-used sorts) have two needles to a cluster. Those of the latter are shorter, stiffer and more bristly; those of the Red Pine are longer, thickly grouped, and curved so that a branch forms a sort of thick tassel or plume.

In seeking a tree, therefore, study size, shape, and uniformity. Examine a single needle; if short, blunt, and flattened (so you cannot roll it between your fingers) the tree is a Fir or a Douglas-fir-and a good buy. If a short, flat needle has two white lines along the under side, it is a Hemlock. If the needles are long, sharp, and in pairs, they are from a Pine; if short, sharp, and square in cross section, they are from a Spruce.

Whatever you get, it has probably been cut for some weeks and shipped many miles, so it may soon start shedding its needles if not properly handled. When you get it home, cut an inch or so off the butt and stand the tree in a pail or pan of water. Keep it outdoors, in a shady spot protected from the wind until trimming time; rain or snow will do it good.

Indoors, keep it in water. At Cornell, a tree so handled held its needles in a warm room two to three weeks longer than one allowed to dry out. Recently perfected liquid waxes and other materials obtainable at florist and hardware stores, when sprayed on evergreen foliage retard evaporation and help keep it green and freshand thereby lessen the fire hazard. For while no wholly satisfactory method of fireproofing Christmas trees has been perfected, they are much less inflammable when green and full of sap than when allowed to dry out. Of course it helps to keep all kinds of fire well away from the tree, and to make sure that wires and connections for strings of electric lights are sound and in good condition.

How Small Can a Kitchen Be?

ere's a real poser, but Gertrude Brassard has the answer down pat. Her small kitchen makes use of every square inch of space, provides comfort for the cook, produces meals of culinary superiority. Many of her working tools are hung on the wall, which makes for more room in her well-organized cabinets and closets. All the trimmings and accessories are bright and cheerful, but there's nothing around which isn't useful. Total cost of all the accessories and equipment, not including major appliances and gifts, was $43.35! How's that for economy?

hristmas has always been a happy time for me.

But I'll never, never forget last Christmas-because it brought a very special dream to life.

I came home late Christmas eve from shopping. The house was dark and quiet. I snapped on the light. There-fitting into the room as if it had been built for it-was a new Hammond Organ!

I approached it slowly, ran my fingers over the keys. Suddenly I found myself playing. And even my unpracticed fingers couldn't spoil the beauty of this music. All the voices of an orchestra were mine to command!

It was an amateur's performance, but it was the most beautiful music that I had ever created.

I must have played for at least an hour. Then I heard a familiar chuckle and I looked around. There were the plotters-my husband and Janey.

"Merry Christmas, Mother!" they chorused. "Are we ever proud of you!" Janey laughed.

"You've been wanting to play music like that long enough," John smiled at me. "How about teaching me to play the Hammond Organ, too?"

The Hammond Organ is the world's most widely-used organ in homes and churches. You can learn to play the Hammond Organ in less than a month. No installation needed. Never needs tuning t. A HUSBAND SIMPLY CAN'T TELL this to a sensitive young wife!

Do YOU Know About This Grave Womanly Offense?

Too many wives are careless, too tired or simply don't know how to practice a complete hygiene (including internal cleanliness). Failure to do this so often results in broken marriages.

A modern woman realizes how important it is to put zonite in her fountain syringe for health, womanly charm, after her periods and for marriage happiness . . and to combat an odor even more offensive than bad breath or body odor. She seldom detects this odor herself, but it's so apparent to others.

And what a comfort for a wife to know that NO OTHER TYPE LIQUID ANTISEPTIC-GERMICIDE TESTED FOR THE DOUCHE IS SO POWERFUL YET SAFE TO TISSUES AS ZONITE. Just listen to this—

Zonite's Miracle-Action

The zonite principle was developed by a famous surgeon and a scientist. It is the first in the world to be so powerfully effective yet absolutely @ 1950 Z.P.C.

Gives BOTH Internal and External Hygienic Protection

ZONITE dissolves and removes odorcausing waste substances. It your new home

will have lasting charm built with CONCRETE

Whatever style or size house you are planning—ranch type, colonial, Cape Cod, modern; cottage or mansion—you'll have a charming house and enjoy a lifetime of comfortable living if you build it with concrete.

An insulated concrete house is comfortable. It keeps heat inside in winter, outside in summer, stays clean and dry in all seasons.

A concrete house is firesafe. Concrete walls, concrete subfloors and a firesafe roof protect loved ones and prized possessions because concrete can't burn!

A concrete house is durable. You'll have less work, worry and repair bills because a concrete house requires little or no maintenance.

A concrete house costs less to live in, too. Its first cost is moderate, its upkeep low, its life long. Result: low annual cost.

So for a charming, comfortable, firesafe, durable, low-annual-cost house build with concrete. Write for free booklet, "Designed for Concrete," showing sketches and plans for 31 houses. Distributed only in the United States and Canada.

HOW TO GET A CONCRETE HOUSE

... and what will it cost?

Phone a local concrete masonry manufacturer for names of architects and builders experienced in concrete house design and construction. They know local conditions and can tell you about plans and costs. Take your ideas, plans or sketches to an architect. Have him show you how your home—of any size, style or floor plan—can be built economically with durable concrete walls, concrete subfloors and a firesafe roof.

Ten minutes ago this basement was a playroom

N LESS TIME than it takes to put the youngsters to bed, this basement room can be converted from a children's playroom to an nviting place for adult entertaining. Hide the oys away on the shelves behind the draperes, turn over the furniture cushions, and he transition is complete. The other room decorations, including the handsome floor of Armstrong's Asphalt Tile, do double duty or child's or grown-up's recreation.

Aroom like this is practical in the basement when you start with a floor of Armstrong's Asphalt Tile. This modern flooring was developed especially to stand up under basement conditions. The alkaline moisture that's Iways present when you have concrete in lirect contact with the ground causes most ooring materials to deteriorate—but it has a harmful effect on Armstrong's Asphalt Tile. The smooth surface of this floor is easy to keep clean, too. Its beautiful colors add cheerful brightness. With a floor of Armstrong's Asphalt Tile, the basement is as livable as any other room in the house.

Armstrong's Asphalt Tile goes right down over the concrete basement floor without any special preparation. Its tough composition provides a durable floor that will keep its beauty in spite of hard knocks. Spilled foods and beverages can be wiped up without leaving a trace. Even cigarette burns are easily removed. Occasional washing and waxing is all the care this floor requires.

The design possibilities of Armstrong's Asphalt Tile are almost unlimited, because it goes down tile by tile. Your Armstrong flooring merchant will gladly show you the variety of colors and help you plan a distinctive design. He can also prove its low cost with an estimate for your own floor.

DAYTIME, this basement is a carefree playroom for the children. They can play right on the floor of Armstrong's Asphalt Tile because it's so easy to keep clean. When the toys are put away at night, it's an inviting place for adult parties. Then, the floor adds its beauty to the room's colorful decorative scheme.
