

How did Mrs. Nason's bathroom get its striking new look?

A FEW SIMPLE CHANGES AND A NEW FLOOR OF ARMSTRONG VINYL CORLON DID THE TRICK

This is what Mrs. Nason's old bathroom looked like. The 25-year-old Armstrong floor was still in good condition though out of style. For her new floor she chose Armstrong Vinyl Corlon, Mosaic style 6512. The moderate price was a pleasant surprise.

This is why the new floor is luxuriously comfortable underfoot. The craftsman from the store put Armstrong Cushion-Eze Underlayment under the Vinyl Corlon. This soft layer of foam cushions footsteps with millions of tiny air bubbles. It costs so little, adds so much luxury.

This is how Mrs. Nason's new floor got its d tinctive custom design. The circles are one of ma ready-made shapes in Vinyl Decorator Inlays. Wh you redecorate, remember how easily Armstro Vinyl Corlon can bring modern elegance to any roo with a FUTURE?

Then be sure it's cushioned with real Airfoam

You can't take a piece of furniture apart to see if it's good all through.

But when you see the Airfoam label, you can put your money down with confidence that it's buying the best.

Only Goodyear makes AIRFOAM – the true rubber-latex. And only AIRFOAM performs the way that has delighted countless thousands of homemakers over the past 25 years.

AIRFOAM cushioning holds its original lines—year after year after year. It never sags, mats down or breaks down—facts not true of some "foams" that only imitate rubber-latex foam.

So—when it comes to foam cushioning, make sure it bears the AIRFOAM label. It identifies Furniture with a Future—and that's the only kind that makes your investment a good one. Goodyear, Foam Products Division, Akron 16, Ohio.

CLASSICAL READING

at a supermarket price

Start building a library of good books with paperbacks for as little as 25c a volume

Have you noticed how often you see paperback books being tucked snugly into briefcases, blue jeans, pockets, handbags, and baby carriages? These soft-covered, easy-to-handle volumes are changing the reading habits of the country.

Why? First, you can buy paperback books for as little as 25c and prices rarely go higher than $2.95. Second, paperbacks are now offering an incredible selection. There was a time when the only thing you could buy in a paperback was fiction or lurid murder mysteries. Today, publishers are putting out an increasing number of outstanding works of literature, philosophy, religion, art, poetry, and biography. Did you ever expect to find Plutarch's "Fall of the Roman Republic" for only 95c? Or Stendhal's "The Charterhouse of Parma" for the same price? Or Tolstoy's "Anna Karenina" for only $1.85? All of which means you no longer go to a bookstore to buy one volume at a time. You walk away from the shelves with an armload of quality reading and pay very little

It's encouraging, too, that publishers are now giving special attention to their editions of the classics. Quality inks are used. Cover illustrations are carefully and imaginatively designed. And although these editions may cost a few cents more than general paperbacks, you can be proud of them as a permanent part of your home library.

Schools and universities are encouraging students to use paperbacks whenever possible. Today, there are two paperback book clubs for children in grades four through twelve. Through the carefully selected lists of these clubs, you can introduce your children to good books and give them the satisfaction of owning them. If you have sons or daughters in college, you'll be interested to know that more and more textbooks are being printed in paperback at far less cost than bound editions.

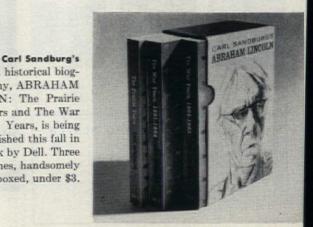

Approximately 75 publishers and 11 university presses put out about 6000 new titles each year. And though schools, colleges, and libraries represent a substantial market for the publishers, the majority of paperbacks are sold in regular bookshops, at newsstands, in supermarkets, and at air, rail and bus terminals. In many shops you see racks of paperback books displaying from 100 to 1500 titles at one time. If a book is not available through a local merchant, most publishers will sell you a copy by mail. The R. R. Bowker Company each year publishes a complete catalog listing all the paperbacks in print. This catalog, running some 200 pages, is available at most bookshops. From it and from the publishers' listings, you can make a wonderful selection of books for anyone of any age.

How we retired in 15 years with $300 a month

"Strange, I remember it so clearlyand more than 15 years seems just a short while ago. For it's only thanks to what happened Christmas 1942 that we're living in Florida today, with our income guaranteed for life.

"That holiday afternoon we'd invited some people in, and as we waited for them to arrive, Dot and I sat by the living-room fire reading. Christmas always made me kind of stop and take stock, I guess. And this year I was turning forty. I'm not getting any younger, I thought, as I leafed through a recent copy of Life magazine.

"For years we'd cherished a favorite dream, Dot and I. Someday I was going to retire. We'd sell the house and move to Florida. Get just a little place where we'd be out in the sun all year. We'd get off the treadmill and have time for living.

"But we'd stopped talking about it lately. For we hadn't banked much money. At almost forty, nearly half my working life was behind me. So I began to wonder that afternoon . . . Must I just live and work and die . doing the same thing every day?

"It was what I was thinking, I suppose, that made me notice the page that said, 'You don't have to be rich to retire on an income.' I read it through. There was, it said, a way for an ordinary salaried man to get a lifetime income and retire. The Plan was called the Phoenix Mutual Retirement Income Plan. With it, I could get a guaranteed income of $300 a month beginning when I reached 55. All I needed was fifteen or twenty good earning years ahead. Well, I'll certainly look into this, I decided, cutting out the coupon.

'Soon my mail brought a booklet telling about Phoenix Mutual Plans. Yes, one was just right for me.

"Looking back, 1942 seems like We saw the war come yesterday. and go with all its worries. Again and again I was thankful we had started our Phoenix Mutual Plan.

"Well, Christmas 1957 rolled around—and we had a big party, for I was almost 55 and set to retire. Soon after, my first Phoenix Mutual check for $300 arrived. We got a good price for our house, packed the car and drove to Florida.

"We found just the little house we had dreamed of. And month after month the postman hands us our pay check. We're financially independent, and will be, for life.

The emcee of radio's famous Breakfast Club takes us on an intimate tour of his home and shares a day of fun at his lakeside hideaway

MRS. PETE MARTIN

Don McNeill is the man who came to breakfast—and stayed for a quarter century. The emcee of the ABC Breakfast Club has been getting listeners out of bed and off to a pleasant start since 1933. The most durable variety show on radio got its start during the depression when McNeill was a tall, gangling youth who had been told he had no future in radio. Now playing to a third generation of early risers from Bangor, Maine, to Fairbanks, Alaska, the Breakfast Club is practically an American institution.

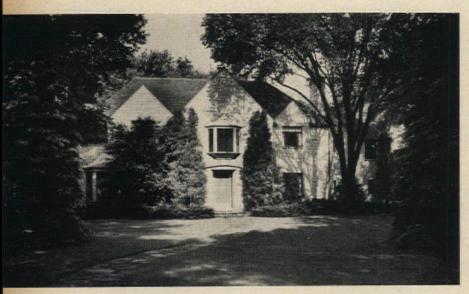

The show's folksy sentiment, cornball humor, and homely religious touch reflect McNeill's character. As Variety, the bible of show business, describes him, McNeill "has none of the grand airs of a celebrity. In Chicago, where the show originates, Mc-Neill is seldom seen publicly, rarely makes the gossip columns, and has never been involved in (continued)

Kay and Don McNeill sit on eautiful winding staircase in the hallway of their Winnetka home. Here is where they read letters from their three sons who are now away from home.

Kranzten Studio, Inc.

"we've really lived here for 14 years"

Don McNeill's home in Winnetka, Illinois, is, in his words, "a friendly Tudor that has given us a lot of real family living in the last 14 years."

anything scandalous. For a celebrity in a name-conscious city, he is not unsung but practically is anonymous. And apparently he prefers it that way."

Through the years the Breakfast Clubbers have never used scripts. As this writer watched the show in an audience of housewives from Indiana, Michigan, Wisconsin, and Illinois, I was amazed at the ease with which this old pro evoked a laugh, ad-libbed his way between songs by vocalists Dick Noel and Anita Bryant, and played straight man to Fran Allison's gossipy old "Aunt Fanny." Working only from a card the visitor fills out when she enters the studio, McNeill casually interviewed a woman in the audience who was seeing Chicago with her conventioning husband. McNeill's gentle kidding put her at ease; she chatted about her home and family and fell into the usual McNeill traps that bring a howl from the audience. (continued)

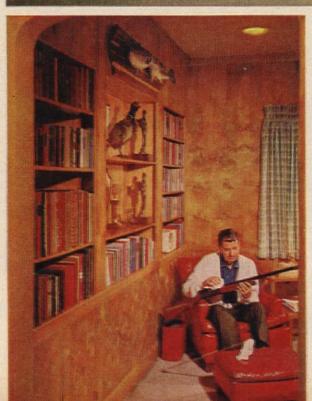

Sunshine pours through the broad windows of the McNeills' dining room of their Winnetka home. Here Kay McNeill is about to serve tea using her favorite Belleek that she brought back from a trip to Ireland.

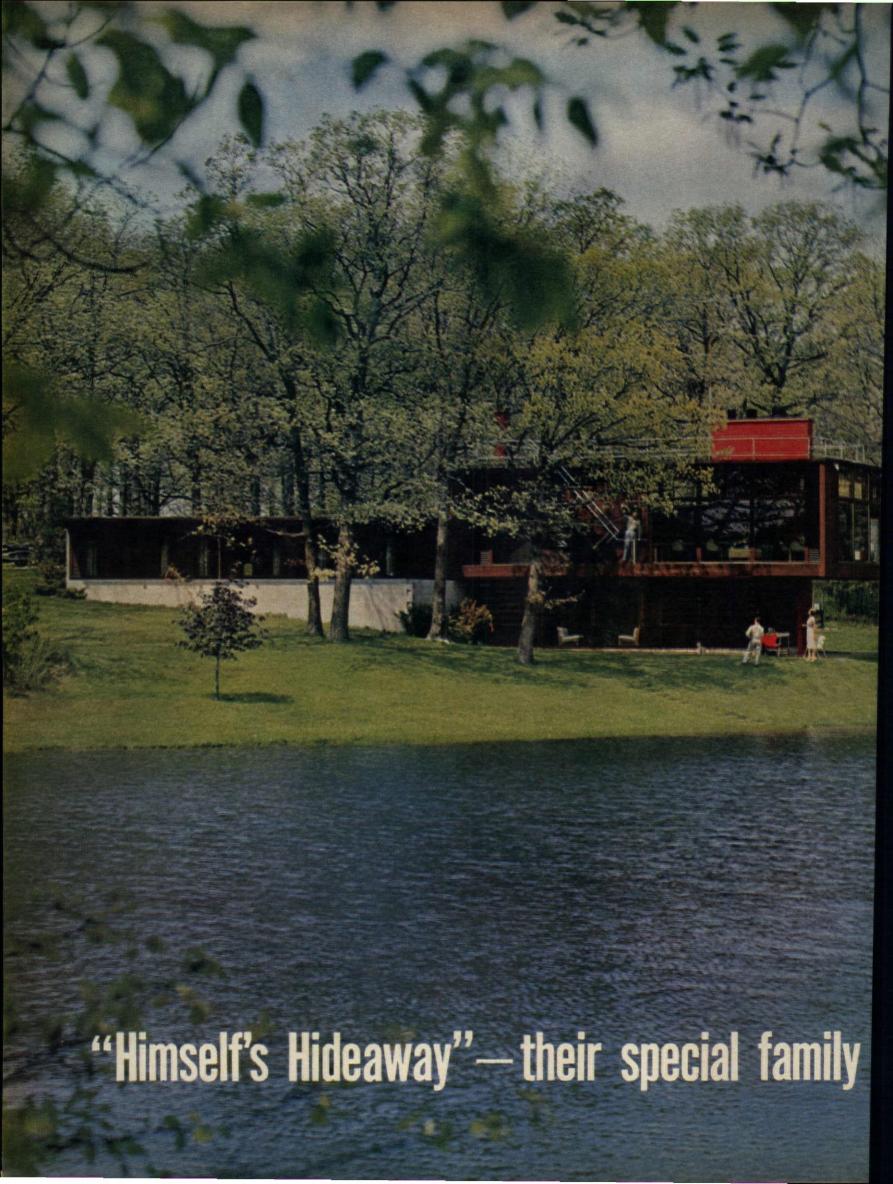

The McNeill boys were home together shortly before Tom, 25 (foreground), went into the Air Force; Don, Jr., 23, joined the Army. Bob, 18, starts Notre Dame this year.

"Every family does something crazy," says Kay. "We play horseshoes in the living room after dinner . . . been doing it since the boys were little. They'll be home soon, so we have to keep in practice."

Paneling in study is burled birch, a gift from Don's father. Shelves hold awards given McNeill for community service. Kay won't allow him to hide them in basement.

the McNeills lead a wonderful double life

Returning to the platform, Don delivered a commercial, paused while the orchestra played a few bars of a hymn, and then requested that both the studio and radio audiences bow their heads and pray "each in his own words." Then the band struck up "March Time" with Dick Noel and Anita Bryant leading the audience in a hand-clapping march around the studio. And all over America, as they have for years, kids and husbands bounded out the door to the roll of drums and the blare of trumpets.

"I feel as if I've known you a long time," I said to Don McNeill as we drove out to his home in suburban Winnetka. "I've listened to you for years, and, like a lot of women, I've stopped doing the dishes and bowed my head right there at the sink for those moments of silent prayer. And I've even marched around the kitchen on occasion—just because it made me feel good."

"Other people have told me the same thing," he said. "But sometimes I wonder how much longer it will go on. We've been at it for 26 years now, and you know people don't turn on the radio for any particular program the way they used to. They'll turn it on if they're in a car, or if they don't have a television set handy."

"Don't let up on taking your vitamins," I said, "because I think you're going to keep going for a long time. Those people who come to see you-who sit up all night on a bus to get to your broadcast-must have great affection for you. They're not going to let you go."

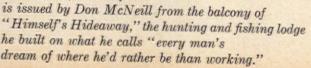

"I'd like to think you're right," he replied.

Flagstone steps lead down a hillside to covered entry of the McNeill lodge. Living areas are to left of entry, bedrooms to right.

"First call for breakfast" is issued by Don McNeill from the balcony of he built on what he calls "every man's "Tell me about your family," I suggested.

"I have three sons," he said. "They're all great guys. They're all taller than I am. Don is 23 and six-six; and Tom, who's 25, and Bob, who's 18, are just a fraction of an inch below that. We're quite a sight when Kay and I walk into a restaurant with them. We made a great mistake, though," he admitted, "in naming our second boy Don, Jr., simply because he is the one who's had the rough time. The kid has been hounded by my name. He's a good athlete, and we used to chase around the country watching him play basketball. But as soon as he stepped out on the floor the crowd started to chant, 'Good morning, Breakfast Clubbers . . . good morning to ya,' and I cringed for the kid. I had a letter from him the other day. He's a second lieutenant at Fort Lee, Virginia, now, and he said, 'They're really letting me

24-Hour Help for the Homeowner

What do you do when a broken pipe is flooding your basement? When your key breaks in the lock at 2 a.m.? Homeowners all over America gladly pay a small fee to dial a number that speeds help at any hour.

HENRY LEE

Within the past few months countless new organizations known as home-service clubs have been springing up throughout the country. Operating on a round-the-clock basis, these clubs answer any SOS of homeowner members whether it be a flooded basement, bees in the attic, or a blank TV screen. For a small yearly membership fee, members can call their club day or night and be assured of satisfactory service from an established contractor or repairman and at a reasonable price.

Though individual services vary and the yearly membership fee may range from $5 to $12, most of the homeservice clubs operate on the same principle. While some have performed truly heroic chores—like catching a wild cat which was trying to romance a tabby—their formula for success boils down to the reputation they achieve for integrity. Ernest Curtis of National Home Owners Clubs says that the Better Business Bureau has yet to receive a complaint on service involving NHOC.

In Los Angeles, United Home Services, Inc. boasts 35,000 members, while in Chicago, Mr. Service Club, Inc. picked up 1000 members in its first six months of existence. National Home Owners Clubs of Detroit, only a little over a year old, has 7000 dues-paying householders

CHOOSE THE RIGHT

Today, there is a paint for every type of outside building material —the right finish makes work easier, lasts longer, looks better.

Not so long ago when the time came to paint your house, you simply went down to the hardware store and ordered a batch of outside paint. Today, builders are using everything from aluminum to steel to asbestos-cement for house exteriors. Along with these materials have come an astonishing array of new paints. Most have been specially formulated for a particular kind of material. Listed below are all the building materials you are likely to find on the outside of your house, and the best paints or finishes to use on them. Study these pages with care, then take off—informed—to your paint store.

HUBBARD H. COBB

PREPARATION Before you paint exterior surfaces it is vital to prepare them properly. Renail all loose boards and prime the nailheads with an anti-corrosive primer before puttying. Always putty after the prime coat so that putty will not dry out. Remove loose, peeling, and blistering paint with wire brush or sandpaper. Seal knots and sap marks with a special knot sealer or an exterior aluminum paint. Calk between loose joints, around doors, windows, and chimneys. Remove mildew with a commercial bleach or fungicide. Don't use lead-pigment paint in areas where there are industrial fumes. Do not paint in damp weather or when the temperature is below 40°. Use dropcloths to protect shrubbery. Avoid painting in the direct sun.

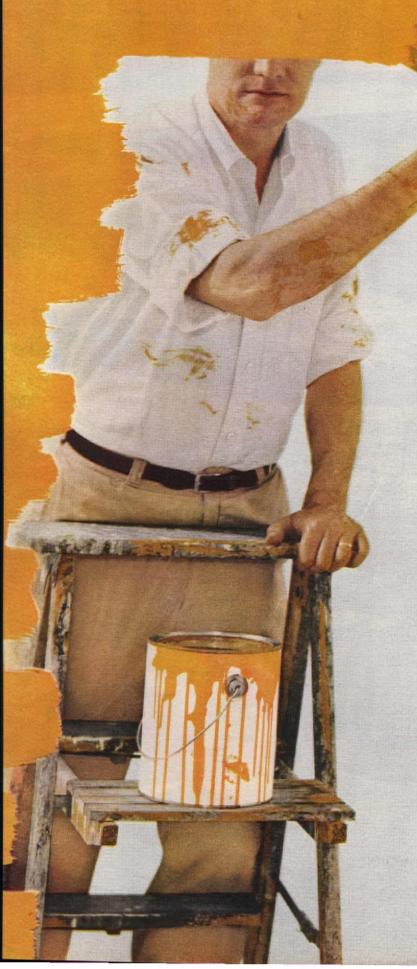

ALUMINUM SIDING Except in areas where there is a high degree of industrial fumes or salt in the air, aluminum does not usually need painting. Prepare unprotected aluminum for painting by washing with a phosphoric acid compound to dissolve grease, then rinsing with water. When the metal is dry, apply a zinc chromate primer. When the primer is dry, apply one or two coats of house or trim paint.

Prepare weathered aluminum for painting by removing dirt and loose aluminum oxide with a stiff brush. Oxidation on the aluminum leaves a gray finish that protects it but at the same time diminishes its brightness. Remove any oil or grease with a detergent or paint thinner. Let dry, then follow with a zinc chromate primer and one or two topcoats of house or trim paint. To retain the original brightness of aluminum, you can use a transparent finish such as an exterior metal lacquer or a spar varnish, although these non-pigmented coatings will not resist the weather as well as paints and enamels.

ASBESTOS-CEMENT SIDING The two recommended classes of paints for exterior asbestos-cement products are resin base and latex masonry paints. Prepare the surface by removing any dirt, grease, mildew, or moss with a wax-free detergent. In severe cases use a 5 per cent muriatic acid solution. Rinse with water and let dry. (Wear goggles, gloves, and protective clothing when using muriatic acid.) If the asbestos-cement materials have eroded over years of use, pretreat the dusty, fibrous surface with a concrete hardener such as zinc or magnesium fluosilicate solution. Paint asbestos-cement with one prime coat of solvent-thinned resin or latex-primer and two finish coats of resin or latex paint.

FIR PLYWOOD SIDING For a natural finish, use a pigmented exterior stain or Forest Products Laboratory's natural finish (see "Wood Siding" below). Before painting, remove any sanding dust with a cloth moistened with turpentine. To prevent "checking" and the grain pattern from showing, be sure to prime-coat the surface with a flat oil or alkyd paint, an enamel undercoater, or penetrating resin sealer. If the second coat is to be a gloss enamel trim paint, mix a half-and-half mixture of enamel undercoat with the finish coat. Let dry, sand lightly, and apply the finish coat.

WOOD SIDING To paint new wood clapboards or siding, always use a prime coat to seal the wood. (As a rule, it is wise to use a primer and finish coat of the same brand.) Your finish coats can be two coats of regular house paint or a new one-coat finish. A prime coat should also be applied over badly (continued on page 82)

Everyone knows trees add value to a home intrinsically and in dollars and cents. But do you know how MUCH they're worth, and how easily they can be damaged or destroyed?

THEODORE A. WESTON

id you know that the oak tree in your front yard the one that measures about 20" in diameteris worth $1900? That one measuring 30" in diameter is worth about $4200? It'd be something of a tragedy, surely, if you accidentally killed your tree. Not only because of the dollar value lost-plus the cost of having the dead tree removed-but because you could never replace it in your lifetime.

Yet it's easier to kill a tree than you may think, and you can do so in ways you'd probably never suspect.

Say you spread a foot or more of heavy topsoil overyour ground to have a better lawn, roll it well to get it perfectly even, then keep it constantly moist to maintain a near-perfect turf. By doing just that you can kill a magnificent old beech that's worth a dozen times as much as your lawn. And the irony is you don't need to spread topsoil for a lawn anyway!

You can commit "arboricide" just as innocently if you raise the grade of your land substantially when you build a new house, remodel an old one, or redesign your garden. So the next time you see dead or dying trees around a new or remodeled house, you can guess what probably happened.

The actual cause of death in such cases is suffocation. The functional, fibrous roots of a tree are near the surface. and in most species they need as much air as is normally present in the upper layer of the soil. If you cut off or greatly reduce their air by burying them under a deep, additional layer of heavy soil, you simply stifle them to death.

Lowering the grade in the vicinity of a tree with a bulldozer can have the same effect as raising it-by removing the fibrous roots instead of killing them by suffocation. And any excavation which severs many of the main roots, and so cuts off a good part of the fibrous system, is likely to work the same way. Besides that, when you cut large roots you reduce the tree's anchorage and thus increase the possibility of its blowing down in a storm.

So think twice before you undertake any kind of work that'll materially affect the soil around your trees.

Light, sandy or gravelly soil is the least harmful kind to add to the surface, and several inches can be added without danger. Heavy, clay-type soil is the most injurious (because its compactness excludes most air), and as little as 1" can injure the most sensitive kinds of trees. The most sensitive kinds include beech, oak, some of the maples, and most of the evergreens. The least sensitive

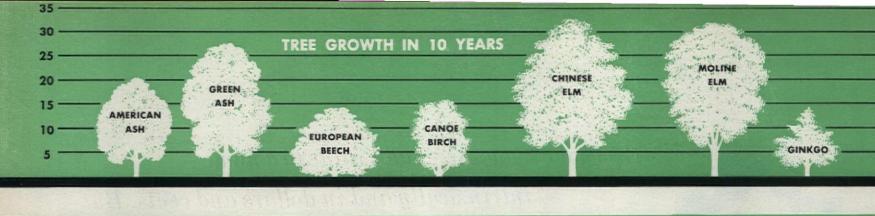

As a rule, you can figure on adding 2" to 3" of light, sandy soil around an oak without danger, and about twice as much around a plane. If your soil is a kinds include willow, plane, elm, and locust.

Lowering the soil level around a tree can be disastrous unless a raised bed is built around it before the regrading is done. This one is of brick, with drainage holes at the bottom, and is planted with ivy as a ground cover.

d your investment in trees! A protective ring like nade from ancient railroad ties, shields a young tree he natural carelessness of all children and many adults.

Save Your Trees

Raising the soil level more than about a foot may suffocate the roots of a tree unless a properly designed tree-well is built before regrading. Here's how a finished "well" looks; at right, how it's built.

Know the shape of a tree and its rate of growth before you plant it in your garden. These drawings, adapted from a chart by E. L. Kammerer in the Morton Arboretum's Bulletin of Popular Information, show the characteristic shapes and ten-year heavy clay, add some sand, gravel, and peatmoss to it before spreading it around your tree.

Nine times out of ten, a dead tree has been killed—by "accident"

If you need to raise the grade 6" to 12", the best procedure is first to lay down 2" to 3" of coarse gravel, then 1" to 2" of finer gravel, over this a layer of straw, hay, or peatmoss to prevent soil from washing into the gravel, then finally to add the light, sandy soil.

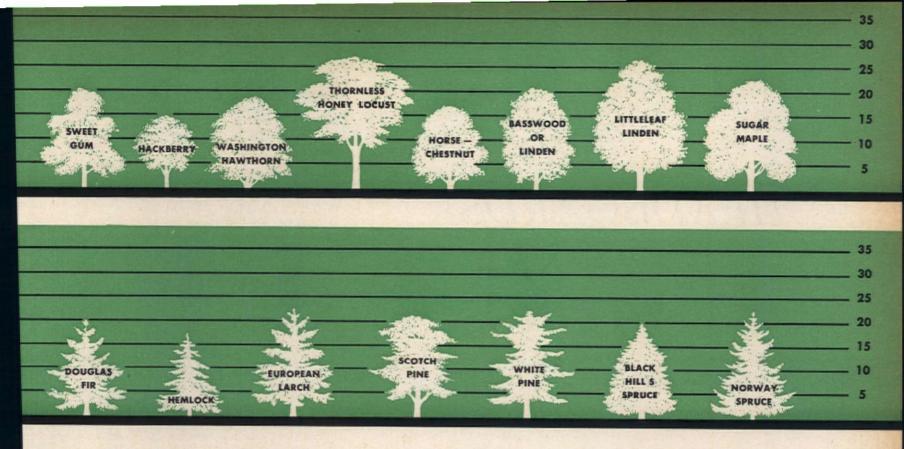

If it's necessary to raise the grade several feet, the only way to be sure of supplying air to the roots and thus saving a tree is to build a properly designed tree-well (illus-

A tree-well's function is to supply air to the roots. This is how stones and tiles are used to build a well as described on page 31.

A soil-mound, which works the same way as a raised bed (page 29), is easier to provide and is preferable in naturalistic surroundings.

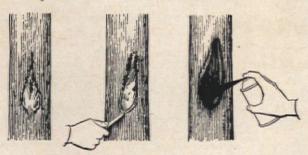

growth of various trees under "average" growing conditions in most parts of the country where they're found. You can reduce the growth rate by pruning young trees, and having older ones pruned professionally, once a year. And you can speed up tree growth by using a root-feeder or subirrigator to fertilize them once or twice a year and to water them during dry spells. But don't choose trees solely for their shapes or rates of growth; consider also their "quality" ratings as discussed on page 77.

trated in the left-hand drawing on page 30) before the regrading is done. The procedure is as follows: Build a circular "well" around the tree, a foot or more from the trunk and as high as necessary for the new level. You can use large stones, blocks, hollow tiles, or bricks. Now start mounding fair-size stones, beginning as far away from the tree as the branches extend, and continuing upward with the mound until, at the well, the stones are just below what will be the new level of the soil.

Before you get very far with the mounding, place 6" bell tiles among the stones, pointing downward, so as to conduct air from the new surface to the bottom of the mound of stones. Place these about midway between the trunk and the outer rim of branches, and about 6' apart in a circle around the tree. The drawing shows how to place them. With the tiles held up by stones, proceed with the mounding until it's completed.

Spread coarse gravel over the mound of stones, then a layer of straw, hay, or peatmoss. Now move in light, sandy soil to the new level. Roll or tamp the soil well and adjust the tiles so they come exactly to the surface. Put a strainer or crumpled chicken wire in the top of each tile to keep out leaves and other debris.

First aid to injured tree: trim damaged bark with sharp knife; spray or paint whole area with tree-wound dressing.

Flagstone, brick, or other paving, set in an inch or two of sand, will not harm a tree, and no special precautions are necessary. Unleached cinders may poison the roots, however, and should not be used. Solid concrete or asphalt paving should include 2" wood strips every 3' or so (thus separating the paving into 3' by 3' squares) to allow air to reach the soil.

To lower the soil level around a tree is either easier than raising it or else it's not possible at all. With deep-rooted trees, like oaks, several inches of soil can be scraped off without danger. But with shallow-rooted maples, the removal of more than an inch or two may prove fatal.

In no case can several feet of soil be removed from the immediate vicinity of a tree. If such a change of grade has to be made, you'll have to leave a soil-mound at approximately the original level, as shown in the right-hand drawing on page 30, or else build a raised bed around the tree, as shown in the photograph on page 29. Since any tree can stand a certain amount of root-pruning at the perimeter of its root system, the soil-mound or raised bed needn't be more than three-quarters the diameter of the spread of the branches.

Lowering the nearby soil level will quicken the drying out of the soil around the tree. So for a few years it'll be advisable to water the tree heavily, preferably with a subirrigator or root-feeder, during dry spells.

Any of these methods of tree-saving, as you've surely guessed, involves considerable effort if you do the work yourself, or considerable expense if you have it done. So if you're faced with a tree-saving problem, you'd probably like to know what your trees are really worth.

The National Arborist Association and the National Shade Tree Conference have worked (continued on page 77)

OLD HEADBOARDS IN NEW SETTINGS

ANTIQUE FOUR-POSTER suggests dashing black-and-white scheme with bright accents. Headboard posts treated with a coat of white paint are joined by pole from which is hung a cushion covered with floral print to match bedspread.

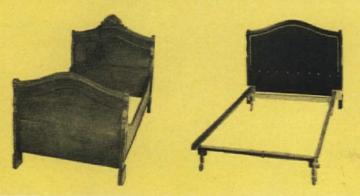

Any room is sharpened with a "center of interest"—some one thing that draws the eye and gives the room a particular dash of character. Your bedroom is no exception • Here we show you some remarkable things you can do with headboards—old ones at that! The secret is to find an old-fashioned bed which has some appealing features and then revamp it • If you don't already have one stashed away in your attic, scout the secondhand stores or keep your eyes peeled at a local auction. You're sure to find a bed to spark your imagination • Paint the headboard an unusual color or cover it with a handsome fabric. You can cut off the gingerbread or use just part of it • And try adding some good-looking accessories for the final touch. There's no limit to the things you can do • For sturdy support, use a steel frame on wheels. There are bed-conversion kits available for attaching old headboards to new frames.

Scott Hyde

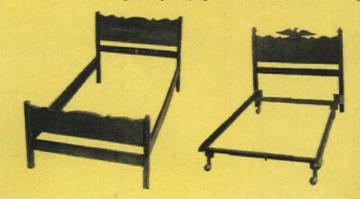

ONE VICTORIAN BED is made into two modern beds attached to separate frames. They are upholstered in deep green felt studded with brass nailheads. Bedspreads are a bold blue-white-and-green plaid which is a sparkling contrast to the white rug and walls.

MAPLE BED sets the style for a teen-ager's Early American bedroom. Original headboard is topped with eagle at center and two wooden finials on the posts. It is painted barn red. The red felt bed skirt sets off quilted paisley spread. Skirt needs no hemming.

the whole crowd if you wish and have that much more fun! Of course, every successful buffet has a success formula. Follow our advice and your next party will make conversation for months to come. First, prepare as many of your dishes as you can in advance . . . something you can pop in the oven at the last minute or keep chilled in the refrigerator. (If possible, plan your menu to avoid on-the-lap carving.) Be creative. Nothing brings forth the "ohs" and "ahs" more readily than beautifully prepared food in a beautiful setting. There are any number of exciting table decorations and unusual accessories to make your table sparkle, your food look its most delicious. Take note of our festive board at the left! On the practical side, keep in mind the ease of serving and the ease of eating. A party that practically serves itself leaves you free to enjoy the festivities. Above all, provide a place for your guests to put their plates (other than the floor). A really wonderful idea is to have a stack of the new lightweight laminated travs beside the table. They make it easy to choose the food and provide a solid surface to eat from. Folding tray-tables, such as the ones of durable fiber glass, can be placed before each guest and stored compactly when not in use. How to make soufflé potatoes

Elegantly French, but so easy to do

SOUFFLÉ POTATOES are made by cutting Idaho potatoes into slices about one fifth of an inch thick. To make the slices uniform, trim the ends of the potatoes on an angle (see above) before slicing. Let them stand in ice water for at least 30 minutes.

HEAT FAT to 250°.
Fry potatoes until they rise to the surface (about 5 minutes).
Remove and drain on absorbent paper.
Then allow them to get cold. (Put them in refrigerator if you wish.) Fry again by plunging them into 425° fat. Remove when puffed and brown.

Warren Reynolds

AFTER THE POTATOES have been removed from the fat and drained, sprinkle them with salt and serve hot. If some of the potatoes refuse to puff, cool and fry again.

When you reach for the skillet... reach for the Wesson!

In newspapers, in magazines—almost every day you read reports of those heart authorities who are recommending the poly-unsaturated qualities of liquid pure vegetable oil in place of the saturated solid fats. Using Wesson you get five times more poly-unsaturate than with shortening, ordinary margarine or lard, and twenty times more than butter—but no higher in calories!

Cholesterol is the villain. Solid fats have been found to build up cholesterol in the blood. But Wesson—the pure vegetable oil—has the opposite effect and helps reduce cholesterol.

For your heart's sake. Serve balanced meals, eat moderately, and watch your weight, as your own doctor will tell you. And, in preparing food where shortening is called for—especially those wonderful skillet dishes your family loves—use unsaturated pure vegetable Wesson.

Wesson Oil takes the smoke out of frying, browns foods beautifully. Lighter, clearer than any other leading brand, Wesson is also the freshest, most highly refined pure vegetable oil you can buy—completely salt-free, never hydrogenated.

2½ c. sifted cake flour 1½ c. sugar 1½ tsp. baking powder

13 c. sugar 14 tsp. baking powder 14 tsp. baking soda 1 tsp. salt 1½ tsp. cinnamon 34 tsp. nutmeg
15 tsp. ground cloves

tsp. ground cloves
 c. hydrogenated vegetable shortening
 c. buttermilk

14 c. mashed ripe bananas (3 medium)

2 eggs, unbeaten *Sea-Foam Frosting 1 large banana, sliced

2 sqs. sweet cooking chocolate 1 tbs. butter or margarine

• Sift dry ingredients into large mixer bowl. Add shortening, buttermilk, and mashed bananas; mix until all flour is dampened. Beat at low speed for 2 minutes. Add eggs; beat 1 minute. Turn batter into three 8- or two 9-inch greased and floured layer-cake pans. Bake in moderate oven (350°F.) 30-35 minutes, or until cake springs back when lightly touched with fingertip. Spread SEA-FOAM FROSTING between cooled layers; top with banana slices; put layers together. Frost cake; make swirls. Spoon melted chocolate into swirls. *Sea-Foam Frosting: Combine 2 egg whites; 1½ cups brown sugar, firmly packed; 5 tablespoons water; and dash of salt in top of double boiler; beat slightly to mix. Place over rapidly boiling water; beat with rotary egg beater or electric mixer at high speed, until frosting stands in peaks, about 7 minutes. Remove from heat; add 1 teaspoon vanilla; beat 1-2 minutes, or until thick enough to spread. For swirls, melt chocolate and butter; cool.

Laborless Day

We think that the time has come for a new name to be given to the annual holiday known as Labor Day. When Congress passed an act legalizing this celebration in 1894, the 8-hour day was just a wild idea and the word "labor" meant just that. Utopia was a future world populated by automatic washing machines, dryers, garbage disposals, electric dishwashers, vacuum cleaners and automatic furnaces that did all the work!

In 1894, "do-it-yourself" was the only way to get most things done around the home. No one had yet thought up the electric drill, the sander or the power saw. If you had told someone that he could wallpaper a room in less than eight hours, you would have been disbelieved.

But how times have changed! Today, modern products take most of the work out of "do-it-yourself". In wallpapering, E-Z-DU* has made the 8-hour day a reality (try a 10' x 12' bedroom and see for yourself). E-Z-DU is a practical product that comes pre-pasted and pre-trimmed. You just cut to length, wet and sponge smooth on the wall. The cost is reasonable and the results are satisfying. Best of all, the work-saving features of Utopian products like E-Z-DU help give you more time to enjoy the world you live in. This leads us to suggest that our September holiday be changed to "Leisure Day." Letters to Congress anyone?

P.S. To receive a colorful decorating booklet entitled "Where, When and How to Use Wallpapers", send 10¢ in coin, together with this rectangle, to Dept. A-9, c/o this Company.

How to make artichoke cups

Here's a practical way to serve this difficult-to-eat vegetable

ARTICHOKES can be eaten much more easily if, instead of serving the whole choke, you peel away the leaves and serve only the cups. Start by cutting straight across the artichoke about half way below the leafy tips. Then scoop out the prickly section (called the choke) in the fleshy heart.

Warren Reynolds

SURROUNDING THE PRICKLY SECTION you have just removed are green leaves with a pulpy flesh at the base of each leaf. Only this flesh and the pulpy center or heart are edible. So by carefully peeling away the green part of these leaves you reach the "bottom" or heart.

BOIL HEARTS IN WATER five to seven minutes or, what's even more delicious, in white wine. Serve with lemon butter or hollandaise. Or, drop a poached egg in the cup, top with a cheese or mushroom sauce.

ndma Snider used to cook up small batches of Snider's catsup in her sunny country hen. She'd simmer fat tomatoes in her copper kettle. When the thick red broth had cooled strained it carefully through fine cheesecloth.

BEDDING CARE MADE EASIER

New fibers and modern equipment keep everything from bed frames to pillows "quest room" clean ne of the best prescriptions for a good night's sleep is a fresh, clean bed. Crisp sheets and soft blankets make the sleeper more comfortable and are within the reach of every budget. Once you have purchased a good mattress, blankets, sheets, and pillows you will want to keep them at their best. With the help of today's man-made fibers, automatic laundry equipment, and the versatile vacuum cleaner this task is far from the arduous one it used to be. Among the new products that are making bedding care easier are wash and wear sheets and pillowcases that emerge from the dryer or come off (continued)

MATTRESS PADS should be washed as often as they show any soil. Bleach cotton pads to keep them white as new. The automatic bleach dispenser on this washer makes bleaching foolproof. For nylon mattress pads, check the laundering instructions on the hang tag.

Plain Hamburgers – or Fancy Cheeseburgers

Burgers aren't burgers without

French's Mustard

And you've never tasted burgers like French's new Cheeseburgers! Yet simply creaming butter, Roquefort (or sharp Cheddar, if you prefer) and French's Mustard does it! For French's Mustard with its smooth, sure blend of rare spices, specially grown mustard seed, fine vinegars—simplifies creative seasoning to a single step! No wonder French's Mustard is the choice of more women than any other mustard!

Recipe for French's Cheeseburgers

Allow ¼ lb. ground beef for each hamburger. Press into 2 thin patties. For Filling: Cream together ¼ lb. butter, ¼ lb. Roquefort (or any sharp cheese) and 3 tblsp. French's Prepared Mustard—enough for 8 burgers. Spread on one patty, leaving ½ inch around edge for sealing. Top with second patty, pressing edges together. Broil on each side. Serve on toasted hamburger rolls.

Friendly Warning Because French's Mustard has a flavor, color, and texture all its own, don't expect best results from this recipe with any other mustard.

the line with few, if any, wrinkles. Overnight storage in the linen closet will eliminate any possible wrinkles in the freshly laundered and folded sheets. New blankets made from such synthetics as nylon, Acrilan, and Orlon are easy to wash and dry. They come in both summer and winter weights. Pillows and comforters, too, are being sold with synthetic fiber filling. These should be laundered according to the hang-tag instructions or as your washer and dryer instruction booklets recommend. Keeping the mattress on your bed clean and smooth should be part of your cleaning routine. The upholstery cleaning attachment on your vacuum will do an excellent job of cleaning the surface of the mattress. You'll be surprised at how nicely it freshens the ticking. Use the dusting brush attachment to clean the bed frames. To keep the mattress smooth, make a practice of turning it regularly. If you have no one to help you, grasp side handles and pull toward you and then ease the mattress halfway over itself. Now go to the other side of the bed and pull the mattress over the rest of the way. Do not hurry or strain.

have it with the Don McNeill stuff, Dad. They're always nagging at me to be a master of ceremonies or something. Have you got any army jokes that will help me out?"

We were off the expressway now, driving down a quiet, tree-shaded street in Winnetka. Don turned into a driveway leading to a handsome Tudor house and stopped the car. It was a conservative stone house with a well-kept lawn shaded by tall old elms.

"It's an odd thing," Don said. "We live quietly out here, but on weekends when the weather is nice a steady stream of cars goes by with people pointing in our direction. It beats me. There's no name at the gate. I don't know how they know it's our house."

He led me to the front door. A miniature schnauzer was at Kay McNeill's side when she greeted us. There's no denying the Irish in Katherine McNeill's eyes—their green is set off by lovely gray hair, by a deep tan she has acquired from gardening and golf—and they twinkled when she smiled and said:

"Come in; I feel as if I've been waiting for you for days."

Kay has the trim figure and mature beauty women dream of for their middle years. She led me into the living room which was cool and restful in tones of aqua.

"It looks neat now, but you should see it when the boys are home. They were all here before Tom and Don went into service and you couldn't climb over it, much less walk through. But I left it that way because fun comes first and straightening up is not as important. Don and the boys never want me to change a thing or move anything—even a few inches—which is a pretty good indication of how they feel about their home.

"We've really lived here for the last 14 years. You know, this may sound crazy, but we play horseshoes in the living room all the time. We've been doing it for years. It's limited to Don and Bob and me now, but when the other two are home we keep score every day and crown a champ every week.

"When we first moved into this house, Don and I debated a color scheme. We finally decided on a deep, rich burgundy for the living-room walls and carpeting in the living room and the hall stairway. We were so pleased and excited about it that we gave a big party to show our friends our new home. One of the first people to arrive walked into the living room and said:

"'Isn't this attractive! I love your puce walls'

"Don and I spent the rest of the evening wondering what she meant by 'puce.' As soon as the guests left, we went to the dictionary and there it was: 'puce: purplish brown; wine colored.' We felt better about it, but I was glad when we got rid of our puce rugs. They showed every footprint. I could vacuum them twice a day and they still looked bad."

In the dining room, the McNeills have blended beige and gold in the draperies and walls and a handsome mullioned bow window frames the garden.

"You're going to think my kitchen is old-fashioned," said Kay, "and it is. But you must remember, I'm outvoted by four men in this house. The three boys grew up in this kitchen and they howl every time I suggest a change. In a way that's a nice compliment and I'm flattered just enough to go along with them." (continued)

Long, low bedroom wing follows contour of hillside and is separated by short stairways from cantilevered living area and recreation area below. Ventilating louvers give shuttered decorative effect.

Don was glad to serve as guide as we entered his study which is paneled in burled birch. "My father, still hale and hearty at 85, sent me this wood from Wisconsin. All this paneling was made from the burl of one birch tree. It was practically the last tree of its kind."

Don touched a spot in the paneling and smiled with satisfaction as he released a catch that turned on a ceiling spotlight over the fold-down gin-rummy table that came out of the wall. One wall was lined with books broken by a collection of gold and bronze trophies which had been awarded to the Breakfast Club for its part in everything from bond drives to community and charitable work.

"Sometimes those awards make me uneasy," said Don. "I mean they remind me I should try to do more. But Kay wants them there."

"I certainly do," she said. "There's too much modesty around this house. The boys came to me and said, 'Mom, we don't want to upset you, but would you mind putting all those high-school trophies down in the rec room?' It embarrasses them to have their friends see them. So they're all down in the basement. But I won't let Don hide his."

Kay pointed to a built-in gun cabinet. Behind glass doors were shotguns, rifles, pistols, and fishing rods. "He keeps this locked. If you open the door it all falls out on you. He won't even let me dust in there."

Don grinned. "You're apt to lose things and never find them again when somebody starts dusting."

Vith Kay, I visited the four main bedrooms, each with its meaningful keepsakes, like the original oil sketch of the "model American mother" in the master bedroom which was used for the painting Don commissioned artist Ben Stahl to do to depict the Breakfast Club's "Moment of Silent Prayer." And in the boys' rooms there were Japanese prints they had brought back from a world tour before going into service, and souvenirs of their days at Notre Dame. A set of bar bells that Bob uses for weightlifting doesn't exactly decorate the floor of his room. But they are important to him, and that matters more to Kay than appearances.

"Bob is the only one who is home now," she said, "and he goes to college this year. I miss the boys; what I miss most is having someone bang open the front door and yell, 'Mom, hey Mom, where are you?' They never failed to do that; they knew I loved it. But I'm not going to start feeling sorry for myself," she said firmly. "To keep busy I've volunteered for work at Great Lakes Naval Training station and Fort Sheridan. They need people to read to hospitalized veterans and help out in many ways. On other days I'll go to the old people's home and take some of them for a drive and a little treat. I bowl in two leagues and play golf and fish with Don, so I'll keep busy."

Don heard the last part of our conversation as he came down the stairs and said, "You've heard of people who remember birthdays and are thoughtful about sending cheerful little notes when someone's in trouble? Kay's the one who does things like that. I'm the guy who promises. I'll promise you this: I'll take you two to lunch and we'll drive out to the lodge."

"It is better known as Himself's Hideaway," Kay said. "I suggested this name because Don's mother, who never quite lost her Killarney brogue, often called Don "himself."

The lodge is really hidden in a beautiful corner of rolling wooded country 40 miles northwest of Chicago. Eight years ago when Don was hunting for a weekend retreat within easy commuting distance of the studio, a realestate man showed him 45 acres of timber in the middle of which was a five-acre lake.

"When I saw that," said Don as we stood on a hill above the lake, "all I could say was 'where do I sign?' I could see this stocked with bass and bluegills, with the boys and myself able to get out here quickly and do a little casting whenever we wanted to. I could see a raft out there where we have it now, and a house that hung right over the water, with the lake and the trees as the view through two walls of glass. This is the sort of thing every man dreams about—and I'll say that the fulfillment has been every bit as good as the dream." The lodge is a split-level, with four bedrooms, shower rooms, a screened patio, and a "utility" room at ground level. Above this, the main room, a huge paneled family room ten feet high to its beamed ceiling, is so close to the water's edge that looking down from it Don can see fish in

He pointed to a little island in the lake. "We made that by dredging out spots to make the water deeper for swimming and fishing. We have plenty of ducks and wild geese drop in on us here. And on those hills on the other sidethat's where the boys camp."

The "boys" are needy and underprivileged children from Chicago whom Don has played host to ever since he built Himself's Hideaway. Youngsters from Chicago Boys Club are brought out all summer; each group gets three days of supervised camping and swimming so that in the course of the summer everybody gets a turn. "Himself" doesn't sit in solitary splendor in his woodland retreat; his pride of ownership runs a poor second to the kick he gets out of seeing city kids dive into the lake or hook a fish for the first time. And if it gets a bit noisy at times?

"What noise? After all, we've raised three boys. It seems to me that the longer I go on, the simpler my viewpoint becomes."

Le stretched his long legs and sank deeper into his chair. "I guess what I'm saying is, why knock yourself out too much when the net result is that when you're through you haven't anything left to enjoy it with. You're looking at a very lucky boy from Sheboygan who's not aiming to work up a snapping set of ulcers or a jittery heart.

"The big things in life are simple: the satisfaction of raising a family, watching the children grow, being part of their lives-and having them want you to be part of their lives. The greatest thing in life is to see what you've done growing up in your children-and to get some happiness out of what you do as you go along."

"Soft water keeps Brian's skin velvety."

Shining chrome is a cinch with soft water."

"The dishwasher does a better job now."

WHAT SOFT WATER CAN DO FOR YOU

Is your hair dull and lifeless? Do you have scum in the washing machine, spots on the glassware, rings in the bathtub? Don't blame it on your housekeeping. You may be living in that 85 per cent of the country that has hard water. To find out what a difference soft water can make in your housekeeping, we visited four suburban families who have water-softening units. On the following pages you will see how soft water makes daily living easier for these families, and what you can do about your own water problems. (Continued)

"Brian and I really look forward to bathtime now. He'd play with the suds forever if I let him."

EDMUND J. ROTCHFORD, JR., FAMILY

With four young children, Mrs. Rotchford is constantly giving baths, washing clothes, cleaning. Soft water makes all these jobs much easier.

"Soft water is easy on the baby's tender skin, and it's kind to my hands."

"Clothes stay white and fluffy much longer when they're washed in soft-water suds."

"I don't have to struggle with Nancy's hair any more. It's so easy to manage, and glossy too."

"There are no more complaints from Daddy when he shaves, now that he gets such a rich lather."

"I got so tired of washing off finger marks that I painted these hands on the wall as a joke."

THE ROBERT E. NEWMANS

In this family with its five beautiful daughters, soft water is essential for good grooming.

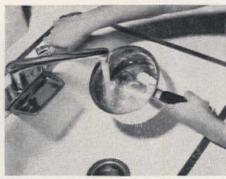

"There's plenty of shampoo for all of us now. A little goes a long way."

"Lance's coat can sure get dirty, but it's easy to keep him clean now that we have soft water."

"Our pots and pans are much easier to clean. Even sticky mashed potatoes soak off quickly."

"I don't mind doing the laundry any more, and you'd be surprised how much less soap I use."

RICHARD W. HARPER FAMILY

Soft water has been an accepted service in this home for several years. The three daughters wouldn't know what to do without it.

"Soft water's a must with a dishwasher. I love to show off my sparkling china and glassware."

"It's easy to get the ring out of the tub and I don't have to spend hours polishing the chrome."

"I have to give my skin lots of care. Soft water leaves it clear and smooth."

THE KARL THAXTONS

got a surprise when they moved from the soft-water area of Atlanta, Georgia, to Cranford, New Jersey. They
"put up" with hard water for two months, then installed
a water softener.

David Thuxton keeps the family car in shining condition. Dirty white side walls quickly respond to a good sudsing, and chrome parts dry spotless after a soft-water rinsing. No arduous polishing here! Since the outside water taps are not connected to the softening system, David uses water from the basement. We were interested in a comment from David's mother regarding the difference she encountered after moving from a soft- to a hard-water area. "Why, after two months of using hard water, I'd forgotten what soap suds looked like."

Is hard water making hard work for you?

This map is a general guide to hard-water areas. Water hardness is measured in grains per gallon.

Water varies from ½ to 3½ grains hardness in these areas and is considered soft.

Moderately hard, from 3½ to 7 grains. Water above 5 grains should be softened.

Hard water in these areas ranges from 7 to 12 grains hardness.

Very hard, from 12 to 20+ grains. Such water causes serious housekeeping problems.

Water hardness may vary from one source to another within a general area. Your local water-softener dealer can make an analysis of your water supply.

An unsightly ring around the tub after each bath, water spots on bathroom fixtures and wall tiles, spots and streaks on dishes and glassware, dingy laundry, scum deposited inside your washer, difficulty in getting a stand of suds with a normal amount of soap or detergent—these are sure-fire signs that the water you're using has hardness minerals in it. And these hardness minerals are making your homemaking job harder than it needs to be.

THOUGH SYNTHETIC DETERGENTS and water-softening compounds help combat the hard-water problem, you can improve it even more. No matter how hard your water supply is, today's modern water-softening equipment can give you a continuous supply of soft water throughout the house at a nominal cost.

which have a definite capacity for removing hardness. When they reach their saturation point these softening minerals must be regenerated with salt obtainable from your water-softener dealer. The frequency with which this must be done depends on the hardness-removing ability of the tank and the amount of water your family uses. Regeneration can be done automatically or, in less expensive models, manually.

FOR BEST RESULTS, it is advisable to soften both hot and cold supplies. If hot water only is softened, the soft-water benefits are somewhat reduced since cold water is usually added to hot for most household tasks. Many families find it economical to soften all water except that used in toilets. A softener can also be installed to bypass outdoor faucets supplying water for lawn and garden. The water softener is usually installed near the water service coming into the house. Most dealers charge for installation.

THERE ARE THREE DIFFERENT WAYS you can have a water softener in your home. We give approximate costs of each to help you decide which is best for you. Prices vary according to locality.

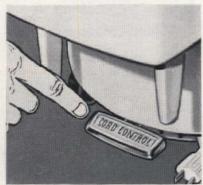

- 1. HOMEOWNED. If you wish to own your water softener you can buy one from a dealer. Most dealers offer installment plans. There are models available in varying degrees of automatic as well as manual models. Prices range from about $150 to $400.
- 2. RENTED. Most water-softener dealers offer automatic as well as manual models for rent. Families often prefer this method of enjoying soft water without (continued)

"A vacuum cleaner with a disappearing cord?"

"You mean to tell me it actually winds up its own cord?" I asked the salesman.

"It certainly does," he said. "You just press this foot pedal and the cord zips out of sight."

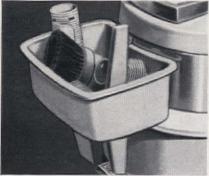

"And this new Cord Reel Cleaner follows like your shadow, steers around furniture at the slightest pull. A new "Steer-Easy" Wheel makes it possible."

"Double-action unit adjusts automatically to clean deepest carpet pile or rugs, and bare floors, too!"

"TWO brushes, instead of one, clean on both forward and backward strokes, save you work."

"Don't miss the handy CARRY-CADDY for attachments. Everything goes right with you."

I spotted the nice big foot-switch and almost clapped. "No more poking and fumbling," I said.

"And your hands never touch dirt... just lift out and throw away the disposable bag, dirt and all."

He showed me how you can DIAL different suctions. Just the right power for rugs, draperies, lamp shades.

"It's the new General Electric CORD REEL Cleaner," he concluded. When I heard the price, I couldn't resist. Your favorite retailer would love to show YOU the new Cord Reel Cleaner. Why don't you let him? Soon.

Magic with mirrors

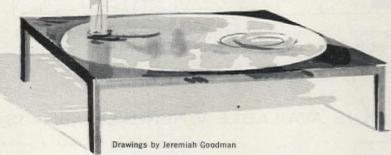

ASYMMETRICAL ARRANGEMENT of different-sized rectangular mirrors brings light to a dark corner, creates design and pattern by reflecting parts of room, flowers, and outside view.

PLAIN SQUARE COFFEE TABLE becomes extremely handsome when it is brightly lacquered and set off with a large round mirror which reflects its decorative accessories and echoes the mood of the room. Notice how much lighter the table looks with the space-making mirror.

"See, it's Thermopane ... you'd never have to fuss with storm windows!"

MARKED FOR YOUR ASSURANCE!

This alert lady has noticed the name . . . Thermopane . . . lightly inscribed in the corner of the windows of the model home they're inspecting. It's a familiar trade-mark of a company she knows and trusts.

She knows, too, that when a house has Thermopane insulating glass in all of the windows, it will be warmer in winter . . . cooler in summer . . . more comfortable all year 'round.

Thermopane reduces drafts near windows, saves fuel. Thermopane muffles outside noise. Without Thermopane, windows are big "holes" in the wall insulation.

When you go house hunting, look for the name Thermopane in the corner of insulated windows. It's your protection against imitations, and one of the sure signs of a quality house built for your comfort and for economy.

Thermopane INSULATING GLASS

a Great Name in Glass

Thermopane consists of an insulating blanket of dry, cliran air sealed between two panes of glass.

Mrs. Irving Kaplan of Great Neck, New York, heard a strange noise in basement laundry, discovered water gushing from broken pipe. She phoned the home-service club number, which is pasted on the telephone.

by the plumber before any serious damage was done. Home-service clubs are constantly answering calls like this all over the country.

and offers national membership which is transferable to any of 23 cities.

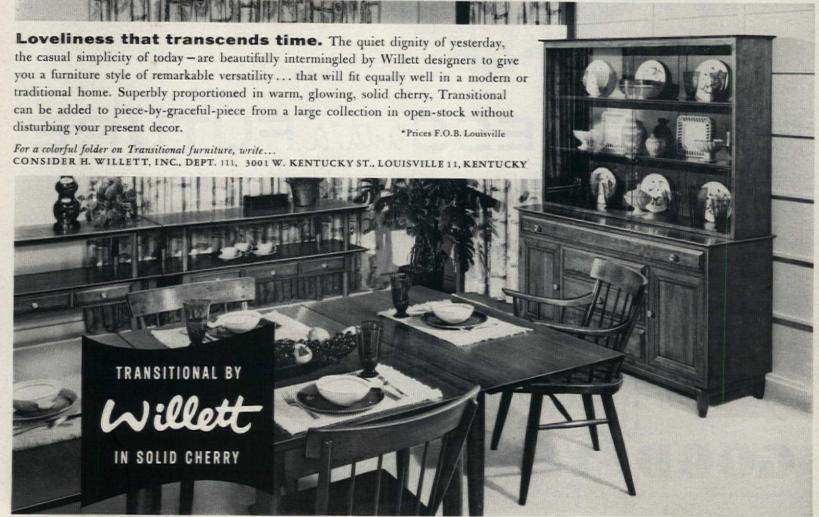

Home Service Clubs of Dallas, Inc. offered 635 services and enrolled 2740 clients in their first nine weeks. "We'll tackle any job as long as it's legal and the client will pay the cost," says Jim Townsend, the 26-year-old president of Home Service.

"Today, there is either a home-service firm in existence, or one being formed in every major city in the country as far as I can see," Townsend reports.

A good example of how these home-service clubs operate is the Allied Homeowners Association. AHA is the brainchild of a young do-it-yourself enthusiast in Roslyn, New York. Living in an "all thumbs" suburb, Arthur Yeckes, an auto dealer, found himself constantly called on to do volunteer handyman work for neighbors.

Two years ago, he gave up the auto business and established the Allied Homeowners Association as a clearinghouse for homeowners in distress. Today, with 3000 members in the parent chapter and an estimated $1 million worth of contractors' billings in only his second year of operation, the 35-year-old Yeckes is busily exporting AHA to harassed suburbanites throughout the country.

Drop Leaf Extension Table $169.00, Buffet Base $189.00, Buffet Top $125.00, Server $109.00, Arm Chair $55.00, Side Chair $39.50.*

Just since February, Yeckes has granted some 40 franchises from Florida to California, and by mail, wire, long-distance phone, and personal visits, he receives 1000 inquiries monthly. But the most significant endorsement is the fact that 95 per cent of his local members renewed after the first year. The reasons for this exuberant acceptance, Yeckes thinks, are twofold:

"First, with our 24-hour service, the homeowner feels that he is buying insurance. Have you ever tried to find a plumber on a Sunday morning when the house was being flooded? Or tried to persuade a repairman to make a call for a minor, but necessary, repair? Our members, especially wives of men who travel, or elderly couples living alone, rely on us for all kinds of protection. Even baby sitters dial us instead of the police to report prowlers!

"Second, so many people have been victimized by shoddy repair work and gouged by outrageous bills that, above all, they want reliability. Before paying, an AHA member signs a completion certificate that he is satisfied, and I personally inspect jobs of more than $150. No contractor wants to risk losing all his AHA business by complaints of poor workmanship or exorbitant prices."

AHA offers the guaranteed services of 185 contractors, craftsmen, and specialized handymen, whose standing Yeckes has checked and double-checked through the Better Business Bureau, past customers, bank references, and other sources. Once satisfied, he gives them AHA business, charging a 10 per cent commission (71/2 per cent on work above $100) and bills members monthly.

For the clients, whether it's a simple carpentry job or the remodeling of a bathroom, they enjoy a month's credit rather than payment on the spot before they know if they're satisfied. Then, just as there is only one phone number to dial in any emergency, there is only one itemized bill that they have to pay-and it contains no dismaying surprises.

The members have until the tenth of the month to pay (though on ambitious home projects they may be advised to get a bank loan) and they are dropped only if they haven't paid in two months. Yeckes has held such losses under one per cent.

For the contractor, there are dividends that make up for the commission he pays. With AHA's insignia on his trucks, he carries a seal of approval, and he feels assured of steady work.

Because of such advantages, the contractor is willing to pledge himself to accept emergency calls and minor business he might ordinarily ignore. AHA contractors must post their minimum charges: $3 for the TV repairman, $5 for plumbers, $7 for air-conditioning service, and quote costs before a homeowner finds himself enmeshed in an unexpectedly expensive repair project. Best of all, he promises a good workmanlike performance.

By far the biggest headaches to the householder, Yeckes finds, are broken appliances such as washing machines, dishwashers, and dryers. Next is TV trouble. Every week Yeckes picks up small appliances that the dealers don't have time to call for, has them repaired, and then returns them to his members.

In many cases, Yeckes has found, the suburbanite needs help to carry through an overambitious, do-ityourself job that he has botched. One of his first clients was a man who almost broke his neck when he fell off a ladder while trying to repair the gutters.

Sometimes there are real emergencies. Once, for example, the sound of what apparently was a torrential downpour awoke an AHA member in Manhasset, New York. Sleepily, he got out of bed to close the windows and stepped into water above his ankles. A pipe had burst and flooded his ranch-style home.

At 4 A.M. he roused Yeckes, who instructed him where the shut-off valve was located, and then had a plumber on the soggy scene in half an hour. Next, Yeckes got the head of a cleaning company out of bed to get a contingent of mop-up men there by 9 A.M. At day's end, the house was almost normal again—walls washed, floors waxed, carpeting drying out.

Trouble follows the seasons. In winter there are shivering pleas for furnace men; during bad storms motorists call for snowplows (once AHA dug a surgeon out of his driveway in time for him to perform a scheduled operation). In spring, there's a rush of power mower trouble.

Whatever the weather, there is almost always a note of urgency in the calls. In Albertson, New York, an early-rising factory owner discovered at 6 A.M. that he had lost his key to the plant, and his day shift was due shortly. Even at that hour, Yeckes located a locksmith within 30 minutes. A man stranded on his own front porch in Manhasset at 2 A.M., having broken the key in the lock, was similarly rescued.

Another crisis arose when a woman phoned from her office that she had seen a squirrel in her house when she had left that morning. And she said crisply that she would not set foot inside, when she came home, if the beast were still there. An exterminator trapped it during the day.

Yeckes' 50 daily calls usually involve such ordinary annoyances of living as jammed windows which handymen can promptly loosen, but, over two years, he has trouble-shot so many off-beat appeals that now he offers 250 services, encompassing almost anything to do with "the living of people in the home."

These range from repairing mechanical controls to zippers, not to mention a dealer in obsolete plumbing parts and a specialist who restores porcelain to chipped tubs or sinks.

Far beyond the call of duty, AHA also offers: a square dance caller to entertain at parties; a painter who will do murals on your walls; a heavily masked bee expert who can lure away the queen—and with her the rest of the hive—from your attic or eaves; and a shut-in couple who specialize in restoring heirloom bric-a-brac.

In one instance, Yeckes prides himself that he may even have averted considerable neighborhood unpleasantness. The flock of a pigeon fancier chose the nearby home of an AHA member, who was not a pigeon fancier, as its roosting place. Yeckes was able to drive them off with a chemical that irritated their feet.

During the first year, AHA members spent an average of $207 through their association for repairs, a figure that Yeckes estimates will rise to $300 this year. According to Yeckes, this means that a city or suburban area of 35,000 to 50,000 is an economically feasible size for a home service club. Your own suburb may soon be only a telephone call away from "24-hour help for the homeowner."

2:15 p.m. Signs of a cold send you to bed. Your telephone couldn't be handier, or more useful. You can call the doctor or the drugstore, keep in touch with friends, have household business at your finger-tips. And all this convenience is pleasantly low priced.

out a system of shade-tree evaluation applicable to all kinds of trees in all parts of the country. It recognizes seven regions of the United States and Canada and 50 or more shade trees suitable for each area. It also establishes five classes of trees, based on "quality" or "desirability" and on rate of growth, for each region.

Class 1 represents trees of highest quality and/or slowest rate of growth; Class 2, trees rated at 80 per cent of Class 1 value; Class 3, 60 per cent; Class 4, 40 per cent; Class 5, lowest quality and fastest growing, 20 per cent.

To allow for the physical condition of a tree (symmetrical growth, health, injury, etc.), the system adopts five percentage classes, ranging from 100 per cent for a perfect specimen, through 80 per cent, 60 per cent and 40 per cent, to 20 per cent for a tree in poor condition but still an asset rather than a liability.

As a basis of evaluation, the system assigns a value of $6 per square inch of trunk cross-section at 4½' above ground for a Class 1 tree in perfect condition.

ere's how it works: To find the square inches of trunk cross-section, make a king-size gauge or caliper and take a true measurement, in inches, of the trunk diameter at 4½' above ground. Square this figure, that is, multiply it by itself. Multiply the result by 0.7854 to get the square inches of trunk cross-section. Multiply by $6 to get the value of a Class 1 tree in perfect condition.

Example: Say you find the trunk diameter to be exactly 20". Squaring this you get 400. Multiplying this by 0.7854, you get 314.2. Disregarding the ".2" and multiplying 314 by $6, you get $1884.

If the tree is in Class 3 (say a sycamore or weeping willow) rather than in Class 1 (such as an oak or a hemlock), you find 60 per cent of $1884—that is, multiply it by 0.60—which turns out to be $1130.

If the tree is not as well shaped as it should be, but otherwise is in excellent condition, so that you estimate it to be about 80 per cent of perfection, you multiply $1130 by 0.80 and get $904. Certainly a tree worth saving if at all possible!

In general, Class 1 trees for most regions include: the oaks, hard maples, beech, sweet gum, honey locust, little-leaf linden, ginkgo, hemlock, hollies, and some pines.

Class 2 trees for most regions include: birch, hickory, pecan, ash, walnut, tulip tree, hackberry, tupelo, eucalyptus, some maples, some pines, and spruces.

Class 3 trees: willow, sycamore, poplar, American linden, sassafras, horse chestnut, buckeye, redbud, and some kinds of pine, spruce, and false cypress.

Class 4 trees: wild cherry, black locust, mulberry, American elm (in disease areas), boxelder, catalpa, some maples, some poplars.

Class 5 trees: tree-of-heaven, butternut, pitch pine, silver maple, Siberian elm, Osage orange, chinaberry.

From the foregoing information you can get a reasonably good idea of what your trees are worth. But if you want a really accurate evaluation—say for a legal action or for an appraisal—you'll of course have to know how the species are rated for your region and how the trees' "percentage of perfection" rates in the judgment of a qualified authority.

A recognized tree expert in your area, who is a member of the Arborist Association, can give you this information. If he is not a member, ask him for an opinion on your trees' percentage of perfection and send $1 to the National Arborist Association, Wooster, Ohio, for a copy of "Shade Tree Evaluation."

If you need trees on your property, the chart at the top of pages 30 and 31 will give you an idea of the characteristic shapes and the rates of growth of some of the popular kinds. With the help of this, you'll be able to choose the right trees for the right spots on the basis of shape and growth-rate as well as "quality."

So if you want a fast-growing kind, choose a thornless honey locust, little leaf linden, or Moline elm, rather than a white oak, ginkgo, or walnut. If you want a slow-growing tree, choose one of the last-mentioned three. And if you want something that'll never grow large, don't choose a shade tree at all, but one of the smaller-growing flowering trees, such as a dogwood, crabapple, or hawthorn, or a large shrub, like a lilac, Cornelian cherry, or smokebush.

When you plant a tree, do the job properly. If it's balled-and-burlaped or container-grown, dig the hole about 6" larger all around and about 2" deeper than the earthball or container. If it's a bare-root tree, unpack the roots to see how large the hole needs to be (a foot wider than the spread-out roots), but repack the roots and keep them moist and shaded while you dig the hole.

Loosen the soil at the bottom of the hole before setting the tree, at the same depth as it grew in the nursery, and mix some peatmoss with the soil you use to fill in the hole. Tamp the soil moderately firm with your feet as you fill in, but leave the surface somewhat loose. And shape the surface like a saucer, so as to hold water when it rains or when you water the tree.

Soak the soil thoroughly after planting, and water often enough to keep it constantly moist, but not soggywet, for the entire first year after planting.

Established trees, young or old, need a certain amount of routine care. In most gardens, where lawn and plants are adequately watered and fertilized, trees don't really need watering and feeding. They'll grow faster, however, if you give them an occasional good drink and a healthy meal with a subirrigator or root-feeder.

Serious insect and disease troubles are comparatively rare (except with a few species) and when you suspect them it's best to consult a reputable tree expert. Storm damage to large trees also should be handled by experts.

Prune recently planted trees lightly once or twice a year to remove damaged or dead twigs and branches and to promote well-spaced branching and symmetrical growth. When you remove branches, though, always cut them flush with the trunk or larger branch from which they're removed—don't leave stubs—and paint or spray the cuts with tree wound dressing.

If you have many valuable trees, a copy of "Tree Maintenance" by P. P. Pirone at $10 (Oxford University Press, New York 16, N. Y.) is a good investment.

Don't hit the trunk of a tree with a lawn mower, wheelbarrow, spreader, or anything else that may rip the bark. A gash in the bark of any tree, unless properly treated, can result in a cavity that'll greatly reduce its "percentage of perfection" and may ultimately doom it.

Don't light a fire anywhere near a tree. A fire under branches can kill limbs and spoil the shape of the tree and may also kill some of the roots. Near the trunk, it can kill a large part of the bark and perhaps kill the tree.

Don't use salt to melt ice under a tree, and don't dump any caustic chemicals, cleansers, paint, tar, creosote, oil, gasoline, or the like anywhere near a tree. They can kill the roots. And be careful with weed killers. Proper use of a selective weed killer, followed by removal of the weeds, will do no harm, but soaking the soil with a general herbicide or soil sterilant can be dangerous.

Don't for any reason put wires or cables around trees. They're likely to be forgotten and, with a few years' growth, can girdle the tree.

Don't let anyone hitch a chain or cable to a tree for anchorage when a windlass or block-and-tackle is used. In a few minutes it can rip off bark that'll take years to grow back—if it ever does.

Don't allow mulching material, leaves or other litter to remain around the trunk of a tree in winter. It's an invitation to mice and other rodents to nest there, and when snow restricts their feeding they're likely to eat off large areas of the bark of both trunk and roots.

And don't let children develop bad attitudes toward trees. With little hatchets they can do as much damage as careless adults with power mowers!

PAINT REMOVER

weathered paint. If the previous paint is in good condition you can just prime the worn spots, let dry, and proceed with the finish coat. Alkyd and linseed base paints are recommended. Some house paints have a chalking quality that lets the paint clean itself when it rains. This chalking will stain masonry.

NATURAL FINISHES: Pigmented stains, transparent sealers, and exterior varnishes will protect exterior wood siding and maintain its natural wood appearance. Pigmented finishes will outwear clear coatings. One of the longest-lasting natural finishes is a formula worked out by the Forest Products Laboratory. It will last at least four years on a southern exposure, up to eight on a northern. You can mix it yourself or have a painter do it. For a five-gallon batch, you will need: 3 gallons linseed oil; 1 gallon paint thinner or turpentine; 1 pint burnt sienna oil color; 1 pint raw umber oil color; 1 pound paraffin wax; ½ gallon pentachlorophenol concentrate (10:1 solution); 2 ounces zinc stearate. Mix by pouring the gallon of paint thinner into a 5-gallon, open-top can. Put the paraffin and zinc stearate in another pan and heat over a low flame, stirring until uniform mixture results. Pour this into the paint thinner, stirring vigorously. Keep flame away from paint thinner. When solution has cooled to room temperature, add pentachlorophenol concentrate, then linseed oil. Stir in colors until mixture is uniform, and ready to use. A single application of the finish is recommended. On a smooth surface, it will cover 400 to 500 sq. ft., on a rough surface, 200 to 250 sq. ft. Pick a dry day to work, as finish takes a full day to dry. Apply only over uncoated surfaces.

WOOD SIDING SHINGLES House paint can be used on siding shingles, although the usual practice is to stain them with a pigmented, preservative stain.

WOOD ROOF SHINGLES A prepared shingle stain is preferable to paint because it is easier to apply, less expensive, and will not cause the shingles to warp as a result of uneven shrinkage stress between the two sides of the shingle. The stain should be quite thin and be applied evenly over dry shingles.

ASPHALT ROOFING Asphalt bleeds through many petroleum solvent-thinned paints, but will not bleed through most water emulsion paints. Use a latex paint on asphalt-felt shingles and roll roofing. A white or a light color will reflect the sun's heat. There are also specially formulated colored aluminum asphalt paints that penetrate, restore, and seal old asphalt roofs. Aluminum particles in the paint reflect the sun's heat. Before painting make sure roof is clean and dry and the temperature not below 50°F.

WOOD PORCH FLOORS Specially prepared porch and floor enamels are tough and made to withstand the ravages of weather and traffic. Apply primer and two finish coats.

CONCRETE FLOORS Paint concrete walks, patios, and porch floors with chlorinated rubber or polyurethane floor paint. These paints are only suitable on concrete surfaces which have been waterproofed from underneath with a vapor barrier. Unless you are certain that the concrete cannot become damp due to the capillary action of ground water, it is best not to paint. (continued)

GALVANIZED METALS Because of the introduction of new paints, galvanized iron and steel need no longer be aged or chemically treated before painting, according to recent findings of the paint industry. New or old galvanized metals can be painted simply by wiping away surface dirt and grease with a detergent or turpentine and applying a coat of metallic zinc paint. For color, add a finish coat of exterior house or trim paint. If old metal has rusted areas, remove all rust with a wire brush. Apply two coats of the metallic zinc paint.

COPPER You can paint exterior copper surfaces in much the same way as galvanized metals. Use a prime coat of metallic zinc paint and follow with a coat of house or trim paint. If you want to preserve the natural appearance of the copper, clean it with one pound of copper sulphate to one gallon of water and rinse with clear water. Then coat with transparent spar varnish. Copper sulphate solution will also remove oil and grease when you are preparing to paint.

STEEL Prepare for painting by cleaning surface of oil and grease with naphtha, and removing rust with a wire brush. Prime steel with red lead or zinc chromate and finish off with a linseed or alkyd base paint. Paint should be applied liberally.

PUSH A BUTTON AND CALROD' RECIPE HEAT' UNITS GIVE YOU HEATS

AS ACCURATELY MEASURED AS THE INGREDIENTS OF ANY RECIPE!

Famous Hotpoint pushbutton controls give you five measured heats from each surface unit. This means recipe-perfect electric cooking is yours whether you're using a new Hotpoint built-in or a handsome Hotpoint Cabinet Range.

The new Hotpoint built-in Oven has a lift-off door for easy oven cleaning—new Roast-Right thermometer that signals when food is done exactly as you like it. And like all Hotpoint Ovens, it bakes, roasts, barbecues, and broils with positively controlled "Recipe Heat."

With Hotpoint you have automatic controls for all your cooking. Even the built-in Surface Section has the Super-Matic surface unit that automatically prevents food from burning and boiling over.

DAFFODILS ARE TOPS for permanent, naturalistic plantings. Here, combined with basket-of-gold and dwarf phlox, they can be overplanted later with annual

Look Forward to an Early Spring

Plant bulbs—the first blooms will be up before winter ends

EARLIEST OF ALL BULBS are the large-flowered snowdrops, nestled here at the base of a tree.

FOR NATURALIZING among broad-leaved or needle evergreens, nothing's more effective than the Spanish scillas or wood hyacinths (Scilla hispanica).

pring can't come too soon! How many times a winter do you hear-or make-that remark? Well, then, choose some early-flowering bulbs right now, set them out in naturalistic plantings as soon as you can get them, and you'll see the first signs of spring sooner than you think.

In fact, if you're lucky to have a cool November, then a mild spell in December, you may see the first of them (large-flowered snowdrops) by the middle of January. In any case, unless you're in one of the coldest areas, the snowdrops will start the "early show" in February and other bulbs will continue it till the daffodils wind it up at the end of April.

"Naturalizing" means planting clumps or larger "drifts" of bulbs in spots where they'll greet you every spring, but will be out of sight and out of mind by the time their leaves wither away at the beginning of summer. Trees, shrubs, rocks, pools, and other "naturalistic" features provide appropriate settings. Or if you choose spots where you'd like flowers later on, you can overplant them with annuals, geraniums, tuberous begonias, or the like.

From first- to last-flowering, the "early" bulbs include: large- and small-flowered snowdrops (Galanthus elwesi and G. nivalis), early species of crocus, followed by the larger hybrids, winter aconite (Eranthis hyemalis), glory-of-the-snow (chionodoxa), Iris reticulata, Siberian scilla (S. sibirica); then come Spanish scilla (S. hispanica), spring snowflake (Leucojum vernum), summer snowflake (L. aestivum), grape hyacinths (muscari), the true hyacinths, and many kinds of daffodils (narcissus).

All these bulbs will last many years, and some will multiply or seed themselves steadily.

PLANT SMALL BULBS (most of the kinds mentioned above) about 4" deep, but winter aconites only 2" and glory-of-the-snow 3" deep. Bulbous iris, Spanish scillas, hyacinths, and summer snowflakes should all be about 6" deep, and daffodils, depending on bulb size, 8" to 10" deep.

GRAPE HYACINTHS, in several shades of blue and purple as well as in white, show off to best advantage in large, irregular drifts. In fact, all the smaller bulbssnowdrops, crocus, chionodoxa, and such—are best planted in dozens, twenty-fives, or even hundreds. (Fortunately they're reasonably priced!) The exception, though, is the small rock-garden planting, seen only at close range, where even three or four bulbs can have a jewellike effect.

These asphalt roof shingles are warranted against blow-off even in severe storms, cyclones and hurricanes.

With Ruberoid Lok-Tabs you get the newest in modern roof beauty plus more protection than with any other shingle. The secret: Each Lok-Tab shingle is secured to the roof from the moment it is applied by strong locking tabs. Only Lok-Tabs provide long-lasting all-weather protection for your roof. LAMP SHADE KITS

DOROTHY LAMBERT BRIGHTBILL

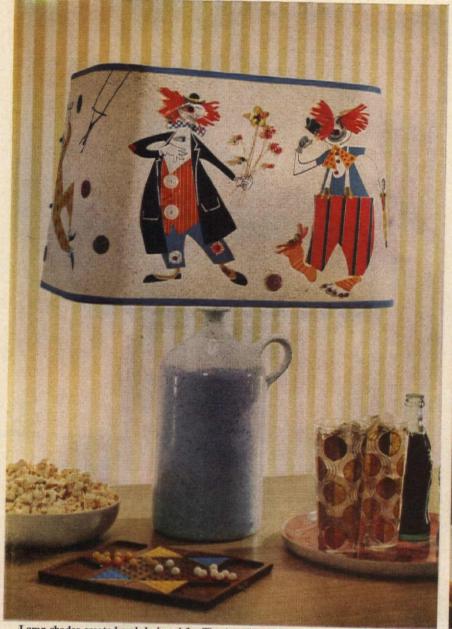

Be creative, turn out your own custom-made shades to fit your special decorating scheme—and have great fun to boot! Start with one of our basic kits which contains the essential makings and from then on you are your own designer. Use fabric, wallpaper, dried flowers and grasses, or bring to light your favorite hobby: photography, sketching, collecting shells, buttons, or matchbook covers. Possibilities for personalizing your shades are fascinating and endless.

Or, you can order kits to make the eye-catching shade motifs pictured above. Ducks for dad and mother, too, because they match the drapery; clowns for everyone, and butterflies for the belle of the ball. Each motif is available to apply either to basic drum or basic rectangular shapes. Chimney basic shape can only be used for butterfly motif.

DUCK-MOTIF SHADE

easy to make with our kit

DUCK-MOTIF SHADE requires one basic drum kit, which contains instructions, special shade paper, ring set, adhesives, clamps, clips, roller, punch, needle, and twine; plus one duck-motif kit, which contains duck cutouts, grasses, and the background finishes.

DO NOT REMOVE brown paper shield. Punch holes along top and bottom of shade. Clip to rings. Draw a line on paper shield where sides lap over. Cut away this narrow strip, then replace in same position. Unclip.

CUT OUT DUCK MOTIFS. Then place the cutout motifs in position (see diagram in kit) on brown paper shield. Draw dotted outline around each motif. This will be used as guide for placement on shade. (continued)

NEVER AGAIN that sick feeling when your toilet overflows

TOILAFL

Toilet ALL-ANGLE Plunger

Ordinary plungers just don't seat properly. They permit compressed air and water to splash back. Thus you not only have a mess, but you lose the very pressure you need to clear the obstruction.

With "Toilaflex", expressly designed for toilets, no air or water can escape. The full pressure plows through the clogging mass and swishes it down.

- · Double-size cup, double-pressure
- Tapered tail gives air-tight fit
- . Designed to flex at any angle
- · Centers itself, can't skid around

For positive insurance against stuffed toilet, have a "Toilaflex" in your home.

More Comfort Wearing FALSE TEETH

Here is a pleasant way to overcome loose plate discomfort. FASTEETH, an improved powder, sprinkled on upper and lower plates holds them firmer so that they feel more comfortable. No gummy, gooey, pasty taste or feeling, It's alkaline (non-acid). Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTEETH today at any drug counter.

DO NOT REMOVE brown paper shield entirely. Lift only as much as necessary to work on any area and replace when proceeding to another area. Lift one end. Slip duck in place using dotted lines on paper shield for a guide. Press duck lightly on shade. Replace paper shield.

PRESS ALL MOTIFS on very firmly. Be sure paper shield covers them with the shiny side down. Go over each motif with small roller to bond it securely to shade paper. Add grasses in same way, curving them into desired shapes. Brush over grasses with special adhesive.

s your pet scratch? Animals often suffer from persistent itching that makes every minute a torment. Now, you can give real help.

The itching or shedding of a pet generally results from skin infection caused by bacteria, virus or fungus.

FAUNASOL®, a remarkable new for-mula, destroys all three in seconds. Itching is relieved almost instantly, the skin infection clears up in a few days, shedding stops, and coat soon returns to normal. FAUNASOL contains CLOR-PACTIN®, a bioticide with such germ-killing properties that Better Homes & Gardens Magazine devoted a feature article to: article to it

Safe—Licking Fur Can't Hurt

Despite its amazing effectiveness, FAUNASOL is so safe your pet could drink it without harm. It is non-staining, greaseless, absolutely non-irritating.

ROY PHOTO SERVICE Dept. A9, GPO Box 644, New York 1, N.Y. SEPTEMBER...your American Home calendar

The calendar says that the new year begins on January 1, but everybody knows it really starts the day after Labor Day. Office-bound fathers face the fact, youngsters dread it, weary mothers welcome it.

September is no-nonsense, vacation's-over, pick-it-up-and-put-it-on month. It's a wonder-full month ("I wonder who my new teacher is going to be"), a little misty for parents of first-graders and college freshmen—full of great expectations and new adventures.

After August's wilting heat, the garden gets a new lease on life and says "what a wonderful morning" in the longer, sharper shadows of each new day. And the crab grass becomes downright submissive!

Vacations are just happy (?) memories, relived when the family lingers over Sunday-morning breakfast. "Remember the day we found that picnic table right next to the lake, Mom?" (Sure she does! That was the day the rain came and the rest of the family was out in the boat and the car was locked.) "Next year I'm going to get the same horse. Can we go back there again, Dad?" (H'm-m. Right now, Dad is glad to trade places—and saddle sores—with TV's Western heroes for a while.)

But somehow you know you've built memories for a lifetime. When the kids have children of their own, they'll talk about this summer. The best part of any trip is home—still standing as you left it. (You did turn off the gas.) Your Old Faithful Lodge never looks better than when you return from those faraway places. Home is where the heart—and mower—is. And you'd better get cuttin' because it's September, national back-to-work month.

PLATO

FIVE GREAT DIALOGUES

Nothing short of amazing is the way this great classic (written more than two thousand years ago) hits so many nails squarely on the head today! Here, in the clearest reasoning in all literature, is the pure essence of how to get the best out of life — whether we possess worldly wealth or only the riches in our hearts and minds.

This beautiful edition of PLATO is the famous Jowett translation. It contains the five great dialogues: Apology, Crito, Phaedo, Symposium, and the Republic. In these dramatic conversations between friends – fresh, spontaneous, humorous, informal—you have "philosophy brought down from heaven to earth."

MARCUS AURELIUS

MEDITATIONS

Through a powerful telescope at the Rome of eighteen centuries ago. You will be struck by resemblances to our own era as you read the wise Meditations of the great emperor-philosopher, Marcus Aurelius, the Stoic who found peace in traditional customs . . . the witty arguments of Lucian, the Skeptic, who punctured all beliefs . . . the impassioned words of Justin, the Christian, willing to die for the new religion. With an introduction by Irwin Edman—and scenes describing early Christian rituals, from Walter Pater's novel Marius the Epicurean.

ARISTOTLE

ON MAN AND THE UNIVERSE

THE master of them that know," this supreme mind of the fabulous Golden Age of Greece was called by the poet Dante. Living over 2,000 years ago, he was so far ahead of his era that his ideas are astonishingly timely today. Nature, politics, art, drama, logic, morals — he explored them all, with a mind open to truth and a heart eager for understanding.

Included is the essence of his five celebrated essays — Metaphysics, Parts of Animals, Nicomachean Ethics, Politics, and Poetics. You will be amazed, as you read them, how this great philosopher discovered by pure reason so many truths upon which modern scientists and thinkers have only recently agreed.

These books, selected unanimously by distinguished literary authorities, were chosen because they offer the greatest enjoyment and value to the "pressed for time" men and women of today.

Why Are Great Books Called "Classics"?

A true "classic" is a living book that will never grow old. For sheer fascination it can rival the most thrilling modern novel. Have you ever wondered how the truly great books have become "classics"? First, because they are so readable. They would not have lived unless they were read; they would not have been read unless they were interesting. To be interesting they had to be easy to understand. Those are the qualities which characterize these selections: readability, interest, simplicity.

Only Book Club of Its Kind
