If you have an eye for elegance and a desire for simple design effects, this is the vinyl floor for you. New Armstrong Tessera Corlon is unique. Colored vinyl chips are inlaid in clear vinyl. The result—a rich three-dimensional effect. You actually look down into this floor. Tessera can be used anywhere in your home—upstairs, downstairs—even over concrete directly on the ground. THE MATTRESS with a FUTURE

It's a fact—there's more sleep-bringing ease in AIRFOAM than in any other type of mattress. And here's why:

When you relax on AIRFOAM, it molds itself under you to exactly match all your body's contours. Not one small incurve or hollow lacks the gentle, up-pressing support provided by billions of tiny air cells encased in springy rubber-latex.

And because AIRFOAM is made from pure rubber-latex, it won't let you down. AIRFOAM stays buoyant, plump and trim. No sagging middle to cause wrinkled bedspreads. Because an AIRFOAM mattress is molded in one piece, there is no need for bothersome buttons and cords to keep it from breaking down or coming apart.

An AIRFOAM mattress—which never needs turning—sleeps cool because air flows freely through it. It stays clean, odor-free and fungus-free because it "breathes" with every pressure. Many sufferers from ordinary allergies find great relief with AIRFOAM.

So for wonderful sleeps—and for keeps—buy AIRFOAM. Only the ENGLANDER mattress is made with AIRFOAM by Goodyear. Ask your Englander dealer about his 30-day free trial offer. You just can't lose! Goodyear, Foam Products Division, Akron 16, Ohio.

AIRFOAM ENGLANDER TENSION-EASE FOUNDATION

ENGLANDER TENSION-EASE FOUNDATION is designed to give you firmness—added relief from tension. It's the only firm foundation with the extra level of Tension-Ease coils. Identified by the Red Line around the border,

Now...shore-fresh cream of shrimp soup for every land-locked table

Campbell's freezes this great seacoast favorite for you to enjoy wherever you live... at only about 13¢ a serving

Famous seaport chefs, who pride themselves on creating great cream of shrimp soup, have this advice for folks who want to make it: first, catch your shrimp—then dash for the soup kettle.

For above all, the shrimp must be fresh. Which is why you seldom, if ever, have the pleasure of tasting the real thing. (Unless you live near the shore.)

But Campbell's has changed all that. Now anybody, even folks in Mid-America, can enjoy a Cream of Shrimp Soup that's as fresh-tasting and authentic as any served in a seacoast restaurant.

Shrimp Never Had It Better

Campbell's begins with choice ocean shrimp. The small, tender kind that cook up whole, pink and fragrant with just-caught flavor. These we plunge into a hot, bubbling blend of milk, cream and carefully measured seasonings.

When the shrimp have imbued the broth with their subtle goodness, we rush it into the freezer to lock in all its fresh flavor until you're ready to enjoy it.

Old-Fashioned Vegetable with Beef Cream of Potato • Cream of Shrimp Clam Chowder (New England Style) Green Pea with Ham • Oyster Stew

Savory Cream of Shrimp Soup—once a seacoast exclusive, now frozen fresh by Campbell's so you can enjoy it anytime, anywhere.

Fine Fare-Plain Price

At a fine wharf restaurant, soup like this might cost the better part of a dollar bill . . . and be well worth it. But Campbell's Frozen Cream of Shrimp Soup costs you far less—only about 13¢ a serving. Look in your grocer's freezer for the red and white can.

Seafood Newburg. In saucepan, combine 1 can Campbell's Frozen Cream of Shrimp Soup; ¼ cup milk; 1 cup flaked cooked lobster (6-oz. can, drained); 2 tbsp. sauterne (optional). Heat slowly; stir often. Serve over hot buttered rice (1 cup uncooked). Makes 3 to 4 servings.

Shrimp Dip. (Prepare two hours before serving.) Thaw I can Campbell's Frozen Cream of Shrimp Soup. Gradually blend with a 3-oz. pkg. softened cream cheese, I tsp. lemon juice, dash garlic powder and paprika; beat till smooth with spoon or rotary beater. Chill. Makes about 1½ cups.

HOW TO DRIVE AND ENJOY IT

We take you along on a 3-day, 1247-mile trip with a leading driving expert who shows you how to be the smoothest driver in town

How long has it been since you took a long auto trip without being scared out of your wits at least once? How long since you've driven through city traffic without emergency stops, neck-snapping starts, and near scrapes?

To discover the secret of smooth driving—the kind that makes every trip a tension-free pleasure for you and your passengers—The American Home sent me to interview one of the leading driving experts in the country today. He is Professor William H. Toth of New York University's Safety Center. Bill Toth spends a good part of the year touring the United States helping authorities study the driving habits of America's 75 million drivers. There's a good chance you've passed Bill on the road. There are few main highways he hasn't "worked," often using radar to see how fast you're driving and cameras to watch how you make stops, take turns, and handle your car generally. When I say interview I do not mean the usual exchange of words across a room. My interview with Bill Toth was a 1247-mile trip on every conceivable type of road from superhighway to country road to crowded city street. I can report that it is possible to enjoy driving today if you learn to handle your car as an expert does. Here's how it's done . . .

- Not once on our trip did Bill Toth slap on his brakes hard, although we faced exactly the same variety of surprises any driver meets on a long trip.
- Not once in the first 400 miles was there an emergency that required him to sound his horn. When an emergency finally arose, it was another fellow's, not ours. (continued)

DON'T

The white car rushed ahead without noticing bus had a front left tire smoking. Toth detected danger and signaled driver who pulled over and stopped.

DON'T make wide turns at intersections. You risk bumping into crossing traffic and may snarl up the traffic behind you if you can't complete the turn. Stay close to the curb.

• Not once did we have a close shave—although we saw plenty of tight situations, one collision, one sideswipe, lots of dogs that suddenly appeared on the road, a few reckless drivers, and one drunken driver who raged down the wrong side of the street.

What kind of driver can handle a car this way so you never have a moment's tension? The answer, I found, lay not only in Toth's mechanical handling of the car but in the things he saw and thought.

The first lesson came even before we started. I had driven to New York City to meet Professor Toth. I found him waiting, at 11:45 A.M. on a Friday at the Safety Center where he teaches driving to truckmen, bus drivers, military experts, driving teachers, and traffic policemen.

Toth, a keen-eyed man with a friendly grin, put his overnight bag in the car and then walked around inspecting each tire. His good driver's mind was at work even before he got into the car.

At one of those bustling restaurants on New Jersey's well-run turnpike I gave him the wheel. "From here on, Bill," I said, "she's yours. As for me, I'm going to sit here and take notes."

Choosing a route that would give us all kinds of driving conditions—pikes, rural roads, village streets, and city boulevards—we headed southwest toward the afternoon sun and Pennsylvania. Traffic speed was 60, but for the first few miles Bill Toth drove 50. "A driver is like a motor," he said. "Both need a warm-up—especially a town driver who isn't used to turnpike driving."

Several times he changed the mirror setting. "Just checking it out in different positions," he said. "On a fast road you need to see more to your left. In town, danger comes out of side streets. On turnpikes it sneaks up on your left rear."

We cruised into Ardmore, Pa. "Bill," I said, "what are some things drivers do wrong that keep them from being good drivers?"

Round Tablecloth

Use two shades of felt. With a piece of strong cord measure from the center of your table across top down to floor. Add 2" to this and cut cord. Spread dark felt smoothly on floor. Tie small nail at one end of cord and fasten to center of felt. Tie chalk to other end, pull cord taut and draw a circle all around felt. If necessary, piece felt to make perfect circle. Make smaller circle of pale felt to drop 10" below tabletop edge. Make scallops by enlarging graph as follows: Draw 2" squares on brown paper. Copy lines of design in these squares. Transfer scallops to felt and cut out. With a razor blade, cut 2" long slits in each point through both thicknesses of felt. Slip tree lights through slits.

Eloquent little remembrance—"jeweled" boxes filled with incense, gold, and myrrh. (Substitute gold glitter and rose-petal potpourri for gold and myrrh.) Later boxes can hold pins, clips, or other trivia on a lady's desk or dressing table. Cut 10" strip of cardboard. Mount on this, with fabric adhesive, 14" length of purple ribbon. Point ends. Prepare boxes as follows: Cover tops of dimestore powder boxes with circles of white paper, center on these gold notary seals. Glue gold bullion and "jeweled" sweater emblems on seals. Add gold braid to sides. Glue boxes to ribbon.

How we retired in 15 years with $300 a month

"Miami is a real paradise for us! Swimming and sunbathing most every day-a garden that beats any seed catalog-and plenty of time to just relax. What's more, we're still young enough to enjoy it all. I'm only 55. But if I hadn't found the way to retire with an income of $300 guaranteed for life, my days would still be bound by the time clock and commuter train.

'Yes, that monthly check really changed my whole life. And it's just by luck that I came to get that check, too. It all started back in 1944 right after my fortieth birthday.

'Sue gave me a surprise party that year. During the evening, Dick Lauman got up and jokingly proposed a toast-'To the first old man of the crowd.'

'Funny how that stuck in my mind. Days after, I found myself thinking about it. I had to agree with Dick. I was getting on. Actually, half my working years were over. It sort of frightened me, too. Especially when I thought how little I'd done to prepare for the day when I'd want to stop work.

"I had a good salary. But we just about managed to come out even every year. It almost seemed too late to begin to save. We could never save enough. And even if we didthere was always the danger of outliving our capital.

"Then one night I was glancing through a magazine. One of the ads caught my eye. And it really hit home! It told about a Phoenix Mutual Retirement Income Plan. That was the way a man like me-a man in his forties with a good salary and fifteen or twenty working years ahead-could use part of his present salary to buy a retirement income for later on. The coupon offered more information. I never was one to send in coupons, but this seemed too good to be true. I sent it in.

"A booklet explaining all the Phoenix Mutual Plans came back in the mail. And when I read it through, I was sold. Phoenix Mutual was for me!

'Soon after, I applied and qualified for a Phoenix Mutual Retirement Income Plan. That was over fifteen years ago.

'Our first check came in May. Sue and I packed up and headed south. And, believe me, it's wonderful-no trains to catch-no appointments to keep-and, best of all, we have no worries about money. But we could never have done it at all without Phoenix Mutual.'

FOR FAMILIES AND BUSINESS

Which of these 24 money-saving ideas should you consider before remodeling?

Like to trade old cracked sidewalls for handsome, new ones that keep their just-painted look for years on end . . . dump forever the spring-fall chore of change-mend-paint-and-store storm windows and screens . . . or convert a porch into a delightful family room? "Home Remodeling on a Budget" tells how to do all these things—and dozens more—with modern aluminum building products!

When light, strong, maintenance-free aluminum goes on the job there's less work for you—fewer bills, too. Aluminum can't ever rust, or rot, or warp, or crack, or chip, or split, or peel. Once installed, aluminum building products are up for keeps.

On these pages you'll find many exciting ways to use aluminum in your home. To learn about still more, just write to Aluminium Limited Sales, Inc., P. O. Box 459, New York 46, N. Y. for your free 36-page, full-color book "Home Remodeling on a Budget."

Spring chores vanish—when you specify aluminum. Fences and trellises are important architectural details that need touching up each spring—unless they're aluminum. Aluminum's good looks are lifetime good looks. It never needs painting . . . never needs replacing. Another outde or work-saver; aluminum grass stop ends edging and trimming.

An inviting look that's always fresh. A dooryard light says "welcome" all year 'round. A neat, trim porch rail echoes the invitation. Being aluminum, they're both up for keeps—with no maintenance. Another good bet to keep a house looking spruce. Aluminum hardware dresses up your doors ... never needs polishing ... never needs replacing.

Turn your porch into a family room ...with aluminum. It's finished in no time at all, and you're wondering how you ever got along without it ... when you make it of modular aluminum wall panels. Add jalousies and screens, prime windows and storm sash. -your room is just as you want it—with aluminum.

Aluminum roofing and gutters add a new lifetime to your house. Aluminum roofing gives you the utmost in weather protection. It reflects heat, too. Keeps you warmer in the winter, and cooler in the summer. Aluminum gutters and downspouts don't rust through.

Aluminum helps transform a dusty attic into a bedroom in the trees. A Dutch dormer gives ample headroom, opens up to light and air. Aluminum casement windows combine old-time charm with modern, carefree living. Venetian blinds control bright summer sun. Nails being used are aluminum, too. They're non-staining.

A TV aerial is a conversation piece . . . when it's an aluminum wind vane, too. Aluminum brightens up the commonplace—makes it more efficient! From power tools to attic and floor fans, the list of aluminum products for better living grows and grows.

Even the walls are carefree aluminum. Here's how to "tile" a bathroom and keep costs and mess to a minimum. Light aluminum tiles are permanently colored. You can apply them yourself easily—put them right over your old walls. Aluminum bathroom accessories stay spotless without polishing.

Colored aluminum clapboard cuts costly painting bills. Now you can have the classic beauty of clapboard without the expensive upkeep. Tough, baked enamel finish lasts for years and years. Aluminum is termiteproof, waterproof, rotproof. It insulates, too. Cuts fuel bills and air-conditioning costs.

Screens and storm windows store themselves. A full Saturday every fall and again every spring—that's about par for changing, cleaning, and repairing storm windows and screens. It's a thing of the past with self-storing aluminum units. They're permanent parts of your house, and they never need painting.

In the kitchen—aluminum is a girl's best friend. From easy-to-clean pots and pans to light, work-saving appliances, aluminum is brightening the kitchen in more and more ways these days. Aluminum range hoods and exhaust fans . . . hardware and trim—they all help keep the kitchen looking spotless.

Aluminum insulation does double duty. Aluminum foil-faced insulation—in bats, blankets, rolls—reflects heat, creates a better vapor barrier. Gives you more year-round comfort, saves heat dollars, cuts air-conditioning costs, too. Another hidden aluminum money-saver: aluminum cable and conduit is quick and easy to install—and it's permanent!

Snug on a hillside, its brown, rough-hewn exterior appropriate to its wooded surroundings, is a small house that lives big. It is the well-planned home of Ike Lasseter and his family of Atlanta, Georgia. Without losing any of the charm of Early American, it features up-to-date ideas for saving space and for practical living. Sleeping and living areas are well separated to insure privacy and quiet. The bedroom hallway proved an ideal location for the laundry, for it is here most of the washing collects and clean laundry is stored. Built-in cupboards and drawers add space in bedrooms, eliminating the need for storage pieces. Living areas are designed to flow into one another, creating an illusion of space.

Many of the decorating ideas are ones Winifred Lasseter had clipped and saved over the years. For variety of color and pattern, she chose several woods—some cherry, some fir, a little pine. Each room carries out the wood theme—in addition to the kitchen and living room, there are paneled dadoes in the bathrooms and at least one paneled wall in each of the bedrooms. Ceilings, designed to slant at the sides in typical colonial fashion, are paneled or papered. Floor-to-ceiling shutters, at right angles to the front door, form a small entrance hall.

THE AMERICAN HOME PICTURE BOOK OF DECORATING-PART II

GIVE YOUR WINDOWS A NEW OUTLOOK

KEY KITCHEN DECORATING to pretty provincial café curtains and valance in blue-and-white border print. Chair pads have same fabric: mats and china carry out color scheme.

SIMPLE ELEGANCE of three-quarter curtains with overdraperies held high by brass-and-porcelain tiebacks is dramatized with red-and-white fringe. Color is repeated in medallion wallpaper.

TO STYLE A ROOM In addition to the fundamental purpose of controlling light, the curtain and drapery treatments in a room can perform the more glamorous job of setting the decorating style. • Your window treatment states the personality of the room. Use simple, tailored panels in sheer or textured fabrics to carry out the clean look of contemporary. • Bring out the informality of a provincial room with the popular and practical café curtains—sill length or to the floor. • For a more traditional room, make windows dramatic with trimmings and dressmaker touches. Try window shades, too — they can be sophisticated or demure! • Adapt some of our ideas to your own windows to give your rooms a new and different outlook.

Shopping Information, page 96

SOPHISTICATED window treatment is a result of budget fabric used with imagination on picture window. Panels of striped ticking have mitered borders. Scalloped shade pulls up in neat folds. BRIGHT AND STYLISH combination of short café curtains, shade, and over curtains makes this window a charming feature in a girl's bedroom. Colorful trimming dresses up plain fabric.

HANDSOME SHOWCASE for a collection is provided by this many-paned window in home of Edward Kenyon-Davies, A.I.D.

WINDOWS WITH A

DUAL PURPOSE give any room twice as much distinction. A window can be a foil for your prettiest glass collection or the perfect spot around which to build a mass of bookshelves. A bay or dormer converts into a sewing, hobby, or study area. A window seat is front row center for the show outside, and how inviting a window is for cozy furniture groupings or the tea table. Windows are doubly attractive when they lead a double life!

celling looks higher when curtain panels in alternating colors are used in striped effect on a window wall. Simply buy pairs of ready-made curtains in two colors. Sew on snaps to hold them together at window. When unsnapped, panels are easy to launder.

WINDOW SEAT, with storage underneath, makes clever use of bay window. Café curtains with matching cushion, and co-ordinated valance and pillows are easy to make. Small table and chairs could be used instead of window seat.

DRESSING TABLE fits nicely into odd-sized space in conventional dormer window. Fabric matching café curtains is gathered on rods in panel effect to cover walls flanking window. Shade has fringe trim.

SHUTTERS CONTROL LIGHT

AND AIR in such a charming manner that it is no wonder they are one of the most popular ways to treat windows today. Louvered shutter panels have the greatest flexibility of any window covering. You can close panels completely, open them slightly or entirely, and louvers can be adjusted to any degree for light or air. The variety of sizes in shutter panels is very wide; your lumber dealer can advise you on the combination to fit your window opening. Stock sizes of the individual panels range from 7 by 20 inches to 16 by 42 inches. Take a good look at your room with shutters in mind, since they fit beautifully into either contemporary or traditional room settings. Shutters are easiest to stain or spray-paint before you install them.

L-SHAPED ROOM DIVIDER made of shutter panels handsomely separates living and dining room.

Paint in alternate gay colors for a bright decorating note.

TEAMED WITH CAFÉ CURTAINS that touch the floor, shutters have vertical louvers adjustable for light.

SHUTTERS GIVE PRIVACY in a bathroom window, are also a good idea as divider between basin and tub. Use bright color for a just-right accent.

FOR CAMOUFLAGE in a family room, shutter panels cover television and hi-fi built in under the window.

GUIDE FOR HOME BUYERS: PART II

HOW TO GET CUSTOM HOME HOME FEATURES AT A READYBUILT PRICE

Hubbard H. Cobb and John Ingersoll

If you are buying a new house, (oftentimes just by asking) you

Too Many home buyers take it for granted that the house they are buying is far from perfect. You've heard your own friends say, "Well, if I had had my way, I would have put the sink over there by the window but this is the way it came." Or, "We really do need another bath but we'll add one on a little later." These families have hardly moved in before they start thinking about remodeling or moving to a bigger and better home.

How much better to get the almost perfect house the first time around! But how?

NATION-WIDE SURVEY

The American Home recently completed a survey among builders to find out just how it could be done. Over 4000 builders from coast to coast were questioned—to our knowledge it was the first survey of its kind to be made. We found that home buyers are overlooking two important facts about buying a home today: (1) Builders who sell from model homes are willing to make changes to meet the needs of prospective buyers. (2) These changes can sometimes be made free of charge, or at a nominal cost.

The survey showed that 60% of the builders who responded, who sell from a model home, would substitute brand-name products of the buyer's choice for those shown in the model. Over 50% would increase the size of one or more rooms, add a basement or garage if requested. Only 19% of the builders who responded will not make any changes in design or equipment. These are primarily the very large-volume builders who work on an assembly-line basis and cannot make even minor changes without disturbing the efficiency of their entire operation.

If you find a model house that more or less suits your family's needs, you should sit down and do a little bargaining with the builder. More than likely he will rearrange the location of electric wall outlets or interior doors. He may even change the location of closets or partitions, provided they are not supporting walls or that changing them would not upset the plumbing or electrical systems. These modifications, you can assume, would be at no charge to you.

ASK BUILDER ABOUT SUBSTITUTING

After you have found out what you can get "for free," it's time to switch to substitution. Your success you don't always have to take it as it comes. With a little bargaining can make changes that will turn it into a home that fits your family along these lines depends on your skill as a horse trader. Try substituting features which are not absolutely necessary for those that make life a whole lot easier. For example, tell your builder you would gladly give up the finished recreation room to gain a second full bath or at least part of a bath. Finishing off a "rec" room after a house is built will not cost you much more than when the house is being built—probably less, if you do most of the work yourself. On the other hand, the average cost of a bathroom runs about $800 during construction (see list at right). After the house is built, anywhere from $1200 to $1500!

Now that you've gone about as far as you can by trading, it's time to open up and offer a little extra money. Many builders will add features to a house for the prices we show on our list. A basement can be added for as little as $1800, wood paneling for $150.

PUT CHANGES IN SALES CONTRACT

Needless to say, any changes in design or equipment should be put in writing and added to the sales contract before it is signed. Also, they must be made before the house is started. Once the foundation is in, the builder can't very well make the house larger. Once the interior partitions are in place and covered with plaster or wallboard, the builder can't easily change the location of doorways or make the kitchen larger. Changes should be indicated on the house plans and it's important that both you and the builder spell out exactly what changes are to be made and what financial adjustments, if any, are involved. This information should be added to the sales contract before it is signed.

Several builders have "Changes and Additions" lists which itemize the changes and additions and state exactly what each will cost. These, after being signed by the buyer, can be incorporated into the sales contract, and many can be included in the mortgage.

So, if you could never be really happy without a fireplace, by all means have one built. You will see from our list that the average cost for an interior fireplace is $600 ($500 on an outside wall). Once your dream house is up, this outside wall fireplace would cost from $700 to $900. Ripping up the interior, the tab would be anywhere from $1000 to $2000.

Here is a price list for the most popular "extras" asked for by home buyers. These are the costs made during construction and are based on a 1400-square-foot, ranch-style home.

FIREPLACE: low: $500; high: $750; average: $600. Fireplace on inside wall should cost about $100 less than on outside wall, and hearth and fireplace facing material will vary cost, also.

A Glorious Family Thanksgiving!

"Over the river and through the wood— Now grandmother's cap I spy! Hurrah for the fun! Is the pudding done? Hurrah for the pumpkin pie!"

-LYDIA MARIA CHILD

he pudding is bubbling, the pumpkin pie is cooling, and the turkey is turning a delicate golden brown. There's a pleasant hum of voices mixed with laughter and "ah's" of anticipation at each tantalizing whiff. Preparations are under way for the greatest feast ever in the big family kitchen at "Applewood," home of Dr. and Mrs. Herbert Engelhard of Golf, Illinois, and so named because it nestles in an apple orchard. As soon as the children and seven lively grandchildren arrive, the holiday spirit truly begins. While the men and children entertain themselves in the keeping room, the women busy themselves in the adjoining kitchen preparing their traditional dinner.

On this day of Thanksgiving, the beautiful, warm kitchen and keeping room are truly fulfilling the purpose the Engelhards had in mind when they designed them. As the children married and had children of their own, they felt the need not for a smaller (continued) kitchen, but for a much bigger one, where their now larger family could gather for impromptu meals and the grandchildren could visit while Kaye baked their favorite cakes. Kaye finds it's also ideal for everyday living and perfect for entertaining and holding meetings of the many civic organizations to which she belongs.

The planning of the kitchen, keeping, and utility rooms evolved from a way of living. There had to be efficient work areas, a feeling of warmth and friendliness, and the right background for Kaye's many antiques. The keeping room was a must, where her visiting grandchildren could play games and store their toys.

For years Kaye has been reading The American Home and clipping kitchen ideas. Many of these she was able to include in her kitchen design. Knotty-pine cabinets, stained to a warm glow, are built all the way to the ceiling, creating additional storage space. A small TV set and a movie projector are housed in the base cabinets of the keeping room. A recessed screen built into the ceiling pulls down for viewing home movies. Shutters and hanging cabinets over the peninsula separating the kitchen from the keeping room provide privacy in either area. By repeating some materials in both areas there is a related feeling. Yet, there are enough differences to give each room individuality. The randomwidth oak flooring in the keeping room and the applewood knobs on the kitchen cabinets give an oldfashioned feeling, while new materials such as the vinyl floor in the kitchen make clean-up an easy job, especially after a busy, happy holiday dinner!

Mrs. Engelhard, having put finishing touches on cake, prepares vegetables for the feast. Peelings disappear in the waste disposer. Chore goes quickly while she talks with daughter-in-law Bonny in the keeping room. Two-year-old Tommy considers cracking the nuts a very special treat.

Utility room, with its tub and counter space, provides an excellent place for arranging Thanksgiving flowers. For everyday use there's a washerdryer and convenient lavatory. Corner desk is Kaye's oil-painting center.

Dinner is ready at last and the family gathers around the well-laden table in eager anticipation of that first bite of the succulent bird.

Grandfather displays his skill at carving the turkey.

HOW TO MAKE ORANGE CUPS

If you're looking for that extra-special something that will make your dinner one the guests will always remember, serve your dessert or after-dinner coffee in fancy orange cups. Dramatically different, they can be used in a variety of ways. To make them, you'll need thin-skinned oranges, a teaspoon with a pointed handle, and a thin-bladed knife. This is a technique you will have to practice ahead of time, until you have mastered separating the peel from the orange without tearing any of the meat. Have oranges at room temperature.

After-dinner coffee aflame in orange cups will really cause a stir. Saturate a cube of sugar in a spoon with brandy or pure food extract. Light and float in cup.

Insert point of knife gently into orange skin.

Score peel around diameter of orange. Do not cut into white membrane or puncture fruit.

With pointed end of spoon handle, carefully loosen the peel of the orange from the membrane. Do one half of orange at a time.

After peel has been separated from the membrane, turn peel inside out with thumb and forefinger until a cup is formed.

When both sides of the peel have been turned into cups, use one as a base or pedestal, the other as a container for dessert or beverage.

"Let's watch and see," he said. And so in Ardmore and Harrisburg, Pa., and Shaker Heights, Ohio, and Geneva, N.Y., and Lenox, Mass., I kept note. Here are a few things he saw:

In Ardmore, a woman made a U-turn, contrary to law. Knowing she was wrong, she turned too fast and couldn't complete the turn in one maneuver. She had to back up twice while horns honked. (She didn't know that a car turns in a smaller radius if you go very slowly.)

In Conneaut, Ohio, a mother rolled through a stop sign without stopping. "She has four children in the car," Bill said. "She doesn't realize that they'll remember everything she does. She is teaching them to be violators. Some day they will ignore a stop sign and have an accident."

In Geneva, N.Y., a driver followed close behind us on the road to Waterloo. Suddenly, risking an accident, he rushed ahead, slammed on his brakes in front of us, then went up his driveway. "You see that fellow in every town in America," said Bill Toth. "He stays behind until it's almost time for him to turn off, then suddenly shoots ahead of you."

"Why do they do such things?" I asked.

"If you asked him," Bill said, "he probably would tell you he didn't know what he'd done. And he'd be telling the truth. He was thinking about something else."

I began keeping a tally sheet, comparing Bill's driving with other people's. Here are a few notes:

OTHER DRIVERS

BILL TOTH

Edged his car to right a trifle before making turn. The position of the car helped signal his intentions and supplemented the blinker. He then made a clean right turn.

Red lights Usually came up to them fast and stopped abruptly, often so close they couldn't see when light turned green. Slowed down a block away to give light time to turn green and avoid a stop. If he did have to stop, he stopped far enough back to see light.

Stop

Often swept up to them fast, then slammed on brakes, frightening drivers in the crossing traffic. Men made more stops than women. Rarely used hard brake application at stop sign. Approached slowly; touched brake at last moment for full stop.

Hill

Usually went over sudden hill crests without reducing speed.

Intersections Often went through on green light at full speed or accelerating, looking neither left nor right.

Tailgating Often followed close behind vehicle ahead, or, at best, observed the old rule of "one car length back for each 10 miles of speed" (i.e., only 6 car lengths—100 to 120 feet at 60 mph).

BILL TOTH

Toth's foot always eased up on gas to prepare for sudden blockade at top.

Toth's foot always came up from gas pedal and moved over to be ready on brake in case of emergency. Result: while other cars accelerated through intersections, we always decelerated.

Stayed far behind other cars at high speed. At 60 mph was usually at least 264 feet (about 15 car lengths back, as recommended by the New York Thruway Authority).

It was near Carlisle, Pa., on the Pennsylvania Turnpike, that I began to see the wisdom of Toth's driving ideas. I'd noticed that on turnpikes, cars frequently travel in bunches. There would be a clear space of a mile, with no traffic, then suddenly here they'd come—20 cars and three or four trucks all staying together and constantly jockeying for position. But on all fast roads, we always rode alone whenever possible.

I also noted other cars, before overtaking slower vehicles, would pull right up behind them, then cut out and pass. But when there was a slow car in our lane, Bill often began his pass a full half mile back. He'd turn his blinker on and let it blink a few seconds to make sure it was being seen, and then he'd gradually pull over to pass.

We wound through the Allegheny Mountains, bored through seven long, dark tunnels, and finally came out on the Ohio Turnpike. Ever since we had left New York, I had observed two things about Toth's driving: First, he was forever commenting on what was happening at the rear. "There's a station wagon coming up fast," he would say. Or, "A red sedan back there is straddling the center line." And, second, he also studied the car ahead. He'd comment if he saw it was overloaded and sagging backward, or had a wobbly wheel, or if he saw a flabby tire.

Noting cars behind and ahead as closely as he did, Toth was in full command of our comfort and safety. He was ready for any emergency.

There was another difference between Toth's driving and that of many motorists we saw. Many, when overtaken by another car, made no attempt to help the other fellow get back in (continued) line. Toth always did, sometimes dropping his speed five or six miles an hour to open a gap ahead.

It was in Shaker Heights, Ohio, that this courtesy paid off. I saw a green sedan coming in fast from a side street. If Toth had held his speed a collision would have resulted. But he gave way.

The car whirled into line ahead of us, then went out of control and swerved to the wrong side of the street. Three cars filled with people were coming toward us. Brakes screamed, cars skidded, and the reckless driver missed a collision by inches. Weaving wildly, the car moved up the wrong side of the street. It stopped at a corner store.

A few blocks ahead we pulled in at a police station and suggested the driver be checked over. At that moment, the car passed by, the driver, intoxicated, scarcely able to control it. The police got him a mile further on before he hit anyone.

But it was on the New York Thruway that Toth's alertness really paid off. Headed east, we had just passed Milepost 268 near Canastota, N.Y. A few minutes earlier, a chartered bus filled with children overtook us, doing about 65 mph.

Now Toth said. "I smell smoke."

"Probably diesel fumes from the bus," I said.

"I think it's smoke," he said.

We looked about us. Nothing was burning in our car. "It's from the bus," Bill Toth said.

I saw his foot hit down hard on the gas pedal. Our car jumped forward and we began to overtake the fast-rolling bus. As we drew near, Bill pointed at the front of the bus.

"Look," he said, "his left front tire is coming apart and smoking."

We drew up. A flap of rubber was whirling dangerously. The tire suddenly threw out a large burst of purple, evil-smelling smoke. Giving the bus a wide berth in case the tire should blow out and pull the bus toward us, Bill shot ahead. I waved to get the driver's attention, pointed at the wheel, saw him slow down, and then we began to edge off the pavement.

It is against the law to stop on the shoulder except for repairs or emergency. This clearly was an emergency. The bus stopped behind us and we hurried back. The driver jumped down and went around to the smoking wheel.

"Your tire is about to blow," Bill Toth said.

"It has already blown," said the driver. He had been traveling at 65 mph on only the inner safety casing!

The bus driver took a deep breath. "We'll stay right here," he said. "Will you send someone to help us?"

The tire was still smoking when we left. Five miles farther on we passed a trooper. Toth waved and pointed back down the road. The trooper nodded, knew he was needed, and went racing toward the bus.

If the tire continued to smolder, he could radio for fire apparatus.

I kept thinking about that busload of kids as Bill Toth steered us through the beautiful green Berkshires, on to the new Massachusetts Turnpike, and then south through Connecticut to our starting point.

I remember how he had checked our own tires. And I began to see the real significance of all the other things I'd seen him do and heard him say.

Most of us have our eyes and minds focused only on our own car, and we see the road only a few feet ahead of us. We are driving only one car

Not so Bill Toth. In towns, his mind roved for blocks ahead of us, behind us, and up and down side streets. On the open highway he was aware of cars on the road a mile ahead and a half mile behind. His eyes and mind—every single moment—were "working" a full 2640 yards of highway, a full mile and a half.

And that is what it takes, I had learned, to be a good driver—in town or on the road! THE END

Rare Prize Offer

Perhaps you would like to win a unique prize never before offered in any contest to our knowledge! The prize will have special appeal if you are interested in American objets d'art.

Rapidly on the way to becoming as extinct as the cigar store Indian, are the hand-designed, maple rollers that were formerly used for printing wallpaper (today's wallpaper is printed with metal cylinders). These hand-crafted rollers make exquisite lamps that are not only collectors' items of rare beauty, but are virtually unobtainable in retail stores. Their value comes from the intricate brass design work that has been tediously hand-set by artisans whose trade has now all but disappeared!

We have had to turn down hundreds of requests for such rollers because they simply are not available. Now, the exception has come about... we have just two superb rollers which are being reserved exclusively for the readers of this magazine! Here's how you can get one—

They will be given to the writers of the two best letters that tell us about personal experiences with E-Z-DU® Wallpaper. To be eligible, your letter must include the answers to these questions: The year you bought E-Z-DU; the name of the store and city where purchased and what influenced your decision... these ads, the "do-it-yourself" appeal, price or you-name-it!

Remember, there are just two rollers available! You must have your letter postmarked no later than November 25th, 1959. Winners will be notified by December 7th, 1959... in time for you to have them turned into lamps for Christmas! Decision of the judges will be final. Address Contest, Department A.

"A vacuum cleaner with a disappearing cord?"

"You mean to tell me it actually winds up its own cord?" I asked the salesman

"It certainly does," he said. "You just press this foot pedal and the cord zips out of sight."

"And this new Cord Reel Cleaner follows like your shadow, steers around furniture at the slightest pull. A new "Steer-Easy" Wheel makes it possible."

"Double-action unit adjusts automatically to clean deepest carpet pile or rugs, and bare floors, too!"

"TWO brushes, instead of one, clean on both forward and backward strokes, save you work."

"Don't miss the handy CARRY-CADDY for attachments. Everytning goes right with you."

I spotted the nice big foot-switch and almost clapped. "No more poking and fumbling," I said.

"And your hands never touch dirt... just lift out and throw away the disposable bag, dirt and all."

He showed me how you can DIAL different suctions. Just the right power for rugs, draperies, lamp shades.

"It's the new General Electric CORD REEL Cleaner," he concluded. When I heard the price, I couldn't resist. Your favorite retailer would love to show YOU the new Cord Reel Cleaner. Why don't you let him? Soon.

Save Your Valuable Shrubs

After last winter, you probably wonder why so-called hardy plants turn out to be nonhardy. And if you've been gardening for years, you've probably wondered why sometimes plants were damaged by a winter you thought was mild but were unharmed by one you thought was severe.

The fact of the matter is that hardiness and non-hardiness are governed by rather complicated circumstances. Gardeners' and nurserymen's ideas of plant hardiness are based mostly on cold-tolerance. But cold-tolerance is only part of the story, and even that is not so simple as you might suppose.

A plant may withstand zero in January but may be killed by 15° above zero in November or March. Or it may survive one night of 10° below zero but succumb to three or four successive nights of only zero. A healthy specimen may be unharmed by a temperature that kills an insect- or disease-weakened plant of the same species, but a normally cared-for plant may come through better than one that's been "softened" by overfeeding. Young plants cannot take as much cold as mature ones, and newly set-out shrubs and trees are more likely to be injured than long-established ones.

Cold by itself—that is, its degree, duration, or time of occurrence—unquestionably injures many plants. But it's cold in combination with some other factor that takes the heaviest toll in most gardens. And of these other factors, wind is undoubtedly the most important.

Strong wind not only intensifies cold, but it also tends to dehydrate plant tissue, and this can seriously affect the semidormant leaves of both needle and broadleaf evergreens and the stems of roses and other plants. Thus a high wind, in combination with cold, can result in injury to plants which would have withstood cold alone.

Sudden, unseasonable warm spells, with strong sun, may have the same effect as wind—by increasing the transpiration rate of leaves and stems at a time when frozen ground and the semidormant condition of the roots prevent an adequate flow of sap. Unseasonable warmth may also activate dormant tissue and expose it to injury by a fast return of cold weather.

Lack of moisture in the soil, due to late-summer and fall drought, limits the flow of sap even more severely than solidly frozen ground, and so is especially serious during windy or unseasonably warm weather.

Any or all of these "freak" combinations may have been responsible for injury to your shrubs in the past, and there's no certainty that they won't be again in the future. But the protective measures pictured on pages 32-33 will reduce the likelihood of injury from violent wind, unseasonable sun, winter drought, frost penetration of the soil, and sudden, drastic changes of temperature. And, next to avoiding plants known to be poor risks in your own area, they're the best way to protect your investment in trees and shrubs.

Dead leaves make your garden grow

So think before you burn!

You're practically throwing money away if you burn your dead leaves. They're ideal for winter-mulching rhododendrons, azaleas, evergreens, and other shrubs and trees, and they're the best material for converting into compost.

Before mulching shrubs, water the soil thoroughly to insure a good supply of winter moisture, then spread a foot or more of leaves evenly over the ground. Lay branches, sticks, laths, or bamboo canes over them to prevent them from blowing away. By spring the mulch will have packed down, and you can then remove the uppermost layer of dry leaves. The partially decayed lower layer will benefit the shrubs, so let it remain and sprinkle a little peatmoss over it if you want it to look neater.

Compost is a valuable soil improver—like humus, leafmold, or peatmoss—and you can put it to good use whenever you do any planting, sowing, or potting.

It's easy to make any size compost heap—as you see in the pictures on page 95—and in about a year it will be ready for use. Not only leaves, but weeds, grass clippings, prunings, and other garden litter can be added to the heap as you go along.

Shopping Information, page 96

Cather your leaves at least once a week, or they'll soon smother grass and small plants. Try this king-size Sweep-Rake (36" wide) or a lawnsweeper to speed up the job.

JUNIOR BOX 29c, gives you enough for a single window. For 5 to 6 windows, ask for the BARGAIN BOX at only $1.39.

MORTITE is the unique "FINGERTIP" weatherstrip. Simply press into place—it adheres to any clean, dry surface. Use it around drafty windows—Government reports show cracks and crevices are responsible for up to 25% heat loss in the average home. Use it around uneven screens to keep insects out. Use it as a sealer, gasket, caulker, plugger-upper . . . there are hundreds of uses around the home, farm, shop, cottage.

- · Works equally well inside or out.
- Never cracks, chips or peels.
- · Can be painted over.
- · Easily removed—leaves no marks.

LOOK FOR "FINGERTIP" MORTITE AT YOUR NEARBY HARDWARE OR BUILDING SUPPLY STORE.

Seals cold out! Seals heat in!

A piece of canvas or burlap—or an old tablecloth, sheet, or drapery—is the best thing for carrying leaves. Dump them in a heap that'll be 3' high when you've finished.

Add a few handfuls of plant food or compost activator to each foot or so of leaves. Keep the heap square-shaped, flat on top, and water it thoroughly each time you "feed" it, if the leaves are dry.

Newest idea in compost making is to cover the heap with black polyethylene film. It retains moisture, speeds decomposition, eliminates weeds, and looks well.

comes news about

SARAKA

Thousands of men and women, still young, are retiring to new life in "sunshine-colonies" . . . the modern Laboratories of Longer Living where every skill and service is available for health, recreation and comfort. From these retirement centers word is spreading about the miracle of SARAKA. One of today's important discoveries for people who want to enjoy the gentle, easy regularity of their youthful years.

Unlike 'trigger' laxatives containing salts or other strong chemical stimulants that may cause a harsh or violent action in the colon, SARAKA is known to doctors for its gentle double action that helps establish and maintain natural-like regularity, without hurry-up or discomfort. Only SARAKA granules contain Bassorin to add the bulk often lacking in the diet, plus Cortex Frangula for mild stimulant laxative action ... and vitamin B₁. The vitamin B₁ in 3 teaspoonsful of SARAKA provides $1\frac{1}{2}$ times the adult daily requirements of B₁, the appetite-promoting vitamin required for normal digestive action. Many doctors who recommend SARAKA are themselves users! SARAKA is also available in sugar-free form as SARAKA-D.

Get SARAKA in the attractive orange and yellow package and take as directed. Middleage constipation will disappear and that wonderfully easy regularity of youth will return as it has to so many people.

Back in 1621, Governor William Bradford proclaimed a day of prayer and feasting. He and the Plymouth colonists were grateful they were still alive. The women spent many days preparing the food, and the aroma of this early American cookout brought something like 80 Indians out of the woods. At that point Thanksgiving Day seemed a little premature. But the Indians were friendly and brought turkeys for the feast. This complicated matters because a woman cooking her first turkey is anything but confident of the outcome. And when you have 80 hungry red men and the future of Thanksgiving depending on you, you don't take chances . . . you baste the bird again and give it 20 minutes more.

The celebration was so successful that it lasted for three days, and solved the problem of turkey leftovers for the rest of the week. The colonists became friends with the Indians as the women proved that the oven was mightier than the musket. They bowed their heads in heartfelt thanks.

This reminds us how thankful we should be in America today. We give thanks for all our blessings—for the music of children's laughter; for the family snug and warm on nights when wind and rain buffet the house; for the happy din that rises when friends and relatives crowd in for a grand reunion and the place rings with the old songs sung lustily, if off-key; for the privilege of working and planning and building a better life in a land of freedom; for these and all the everyday blessings we take for granted, we thank Thee, O Lord.

Why does one washday product do a better job than another? Because it works the hardest. And the one that keeps on working after the others quit is Tide.

If you've seen the test (left) on TV, you know how Tide keeps eating up dirt after other suds are all washed out.

Moral: The product that works the hardest gets clothes the cleanest. And Tide is tireless.
