SEED-STARTING KITS

GRETCHEN HARSHBARGER

Now you can have the fun of sure success with seeds planted indoors—for you can buy preplanted containers! Seeds are already in place, at proper depth and spacing, in the most desirable growing medium (sterile and moisture-holding). All you do is add water, and the seeds germinate and grow. Many will flower indoors in a sunny window. Or you can use the young plants to transplant outdoors for your garden. The whole process is magically simple.

In addition to ready-planted kits, there are others that provide "all the makings" including the special "soil," seeds, container, and transplanting pots. You merely put them together.

HOW TO HAVE BEST RESULTS

Though these kits are practically foolproof, here are some green-thumb, common-sense rules that will help you:

To begin: Follow directions on the package exactly! They will tell just how much water to use, how long to keep kit covered, etc. (continued)

While waiting for seeds to sprout, keep container in a warm, light place, out of the sun. A temperature of 70° to 75° is about right; higher than 80° may damage some plants, and it increases the chance of mold growth. Don't start the kits outdoors, even though temperatures are right, for on warm breezy days they dry out faster than you'd expect, and seedlings may die before you realize they've started to grow.

Time needed for different kinds of seeds to germinate varies. Some come up in a few days; others need several weeks. So don't get impatient! The time schedule for your variety may be printed on the kit label. When plants show aboveground, move them to a sunny window. Watering: While seeds are germinating, they must be kept constantly damp. If they're dry for even an hour, some may die. But overwatering is bad, too, since soggy conditions cause seeds and plants to rot! Luckily the special "soil" in the kits makes things simple for you. It has exceptional moisture-holding capacity so you don't need to water often. Do it only when the kit begins to feel light and surface is dry. Always use water at about room temperature.

You'll find a variety of starter kits like these at your seed, hardware, or garden-supply store.

To start the seed, just add lukewarm water—only as much as directions say.

When seedlings appear, keep tray in sunniest window, water enough to keep moist.

Thin out seedlings to 11/4" apart—discard excess—as soon as they're 1" tall.

If they're for your garden, transplant seedlings when they're 2 to 3" high.

Gloire des Rosomanes...Glorions Red Rose of Empress Josephine NOW ALL AMERICA'S FAVORITE

RED ROBIN LIVING FENCE

Intruder-proof Red Robin is beautiful ... permanent ... fast-growing ... low-cost color landscapes your outdoor living ... surrounds your home with beauty and protection!

The fabulous Gloire Des Rosomanes rose was developed in 1825 for the Empress Josephine, wife of Napoleon, by the great French hybridizer, Vibert. Today, more than a century later, as the Red Robin Rose, grown exclusively by the Ginden Nursery, it has become America's most exciting and popular landscape treatment and home fencing.

There is no other rose known and proven today that can give your home the fencing beauty and protection of the Red Robin. It grows straight, upright, stays compact, needs absolutely no support. In a few short months after planting it is covered with fragrant, richly-red roses. And it remains in bloom month after month. Today, Red Robin is a time-tested, RED ROSE Living Fence, thriving in all climates. Today, from coast to coast it is beautifying, giving privacy, and increasing the value of thousands upon thousands of homes. And Red Robin grows and blooms in even poor soils.

fence your property with Red Robin

Your home and garden will enjoy the privacy of a country estate-even on a modest city or suburban lot! This living wall of lush green foliage is covered with richly scented red roses, month after month. In some areas it never stops blooming! Just place my husky, sturdy, strongly rooted, Red Robin plants in the ground this spring . . . this summer your own Red Robin Living Fence will be in full bloom. Folks tell me they've picked up to a thousand fragrant red roses from a single few feet of Red Robin Living Fence.

Each year I get hundreds of letters from happy Red Robin owners like James Knoetgen of Bellport, Long Island, N. Y., who says, "We are living in a new development and the skepticism has turned to absolute admiration. Yours is a rare case of fulfilling the promises of an advertisement."

scores of landscape uses

Right now, this spring, plant Red Robin roses about 18 inches apart. Then, let your Red Robin Living Fence grow to any height you likeup to six or seven feet. You may have a neat three or four foot hedge. You may prefer a higher hedge of 5 feet to keep children and pets in and strangers out. Or you can enjoy a full six foot living wall of green foliage and red roses. Red Robin requires little trimming, is hardy and disease-resistant. It grows and thrives in even poor soils, in desert sun and severe winter climates

Mrs. T. Ray Johnson of Saginaw, Michigan, writes: "before the summer was over these roses were our pride and joy. They bloomed til Here's what Mrs. W. Marks of Lafayette, Louisiana, says about her own Red Robin, "I wish you could have seen all the roses on them! had thousands and thousands. On three plants I counted over 500 blooms until I gave up counting!'

Over ten million Red Robin plants have gone from my nursery...to homes all over America. These ten million plants are at work today beautifying and protecting...perhaps America's all-time record for a single plant.

garden editors feature Red Robin

Garden editors are hard to please. That's why we're so proud of the pictures and stories about Red Robin in Sunset, American-Home, Family Circle and such famous newspapers as Portland Oregonian, Atlanta Journal, Philadelphia Inquirer, and New York Mirror and Los Angeles Examiner ... and many more!

Mrs. E. A. Chenault of Hurst, Texas, writes: "In one month they grew unbelievably . already have some rose buds." With a 4 to 6 foot Living Fence of Red Robin roses, you enjoy privacy, permanent landscape beauty, security against unwelcome noise and intruders . . yet you save up to 85% of your hard-earned fencing dollars! Red Robin is providing beautiful protection to homes in every state in the Union. It requires no special care or attention.

Plant Now for Permanent Beauty

Just put these uniquely hard-working roses in the ground. Then watch them grow! Red Robin is not a "climbing" rose nor is it a sprawling "multiflora" rose. It grows straight upright, requires absolutely no support. Each sturdy plant grows into the next plant to form a compact living wall of green foliage and red roses. Plant them this spring. You'll actually enjoy the beauty and fragrance of these Red Robin roses in a few short months. And this coming summer you'll discover that you could actually spend hundreds of dollars and receive no better fence protection, no greater garden beauty than my Living Fence will bring you year after year. And to see how little my Red Robin Living Fence will actually cost...glance at the special offer coupon below!

HOW TO FIND "YOUR" DUDE RANCH

Somewhere in the West there's a ranch that can give your family the vacation of a lifetime. But if you've never tried it before, here's practical advice on how to go about choosing the ranch that's right for you

Every year thousands of families go west to enjoy unforgettable vacations on dude ranches. Most of these are repeaters; they return to the same ranch year after year because they feel at home and like the country and the people they meet.

But every season some families are disappointed. These are people who have never been to a dude ranch before, who had hurriedly read a description in a travel folder, or had heard about a ranch from friends. Knowing little more than the location and the rates, they invest their precious once-a-year vacation—plus about $100 per week, per person, while at the ranch—and end up wishing they had never left home. Choosing a ranch can be risky and costly, too—if you don't know how to go about it. There are no two ranches alike; selecting one is like choosing a family to live with.

To help you in your selection, The American Home interviewed people who had found the "perfect" ranch, families that had been disappointed (continued)

NEAREST THING TO HEAVEN for kids is a dude-ranch vacation. Many families return to the same ranch every year and youngsters "grow up" together during summer. No need to worry where they are; they're either on a horse or at the corral.

WILLIAM WILSON

AT HOME OUT WEST

but had tried again and succeeded, ranchers whose reputations depend upon satisfied guests, young families with children, and older couples who still return to their favorite ranch long after the children are on their own. The result is some very practical advice on how to find a dude ranch to your liking.

What's the big attraction of dude ranches? The chance to live the life of the West you've read so much about. You can see the West by touring it, but you get the feel of it only after you've lived on a ranch. It's one thing to view mountains from a highway, quite another to be in them on horseback. The best Westerns you've seen can't compare with the thrill you get when you swing into the saddle (and make it!) and ride across country which is living proof that all the color and romance of the West isn't on movie film or TV tape. But the biggest attraction for dudes is the way they are treated by the rancher, the ranch hands, and the other guests.

The moment he sets foot on the place, the dude finds himself on a first-name basis with the rancher and his familyand with the hands and the guests as soon as he meets them. Western hospitality is real and it's contagious; no one stands on formality when he's wearing blue jeans and a plaid shirt. A good guest ranch bears no more resemblance to a resort than home does to a hotel. You're a guest-not a customer-and you're treated as such by the rancher. That's why families return year after year to the ranch they have come to think of as their second home in the West. It's where they have found wonderful friends and where their youngsters are as free and as secure as they are at home. That's why families go through more than a little trouble and expense to find the right ranch. It's worth it.

WHERE TO START

There are hundreds of dude ranches, but the job of finding what each has to offer is simplified by directories issued by The Dude Ranchers' Association, Box 1363C, Billings, Mont., and The Colorado Dude and Guest Ranch Association, (continued)

> HEADING FOR HIGH COUNTRY, trail riders file past lodge of Wildhorn Ranch, Florissant, Colorado. After riding, guests can relax in heated swimming pool or fish several lakes, well-stocked with trout.

HIGH IN THE MOUNTAINS of the San Juan National Forest, riders from Wilderness Trails Ranch, Bayfield, Colorado, rest and enjoy scenery of area known as the "Switzerland of America."

DUDES at Triangle X Ranch, Moose, Wyoming, are in Grand Teton National Park, can drive to Yellowstone in less than an hour.

YOUR HOME IN THE WEST may be a comfortable room in the main lodge or your own cabin nestled among the pines. Most ranches offer unlimited riding with your own horse.

WONDERFUL HOME-COOKED MEALS are part of the Western tradition. Ranches surprise guests with buffet dinners, outdoor steak fries, and chuck-wagon dinners on the trail.

LODGE AT WILDHORN is center of evening fun that ranges from cards and movies to square dancing. At 8 000-foot altitude, fireplace is cozy spot on summer nights.

There's smart, new design, new ease of care in this wall-hung toilet. You clean under it with just the swish of a mop. There's exciting new beauty in the wide, wide, one-piece china top of the cabinet-lavatory that wipes clean with a damp cloth. Double doors open to new roominess for storing towels, toiletries. Yes, this lovely powder room gives you much new beauty, new convenience.

2126 Estes Street, Denver 15, Colo. The directories contain a concise, accurate description of each member ranch, type of accommodations, entertainment, climate, area and scenic attractions.

Descriptions of additional ranches can be obtained from Travel Service, Santa Fe Railroad, 80 East Jackson Boulevard, Chicago, Ill.; the Union Pacific Railroad, 1416 Dodge Street, Omaha 2, Neb.; Rock Island Lines, LaSalle Street Station, Chicago, Ill.; Northern Pacific Railway, c/o G.W. Rodine, St. Paul 1, Minn.; The Burlington Railroad, Travel Bureau, 547 West Jackson Boulevard, Chicago, Ill. The major airlines and state travel bureaus also supply information on ranchland.

TWO TYPES OF RANCHES

The directories and literature indicate two types of ranches: the guest ranch, which specializes in dudes, and the working ranch, an operating cattle ranch that accepts paying guests. Originally "working ranch" meant what it implied: you could pay your board and live as a guest on the place while the rancher went about his business of running cattle. You were on your own; if you wanted to ride with the hands or help with the chores, you could. But you got little in the way of special accommodations or treatment. Today, ranches that belong to dude-ranch associations use the terms "working ranch" or "operating cattle ranch" to assure guests that cattle as well as dudes are their business and to prove that they are not resort ranches.

Many working ranches now have accommodations and facilities—like swimming pools—on a par with ranches that deal only in dudes. Some people seek a working ranch because they feel it brings them closer to the real West; they can witness round-up and branding operations, ride fence with the cow hands, help with some chores. Those who choose a working ranch for authentic atmosphere are willing to forgo some of the entertainment and social activity of an all-dude operation. But remember:

(1) "working ranch" means different things on different ranches;
(2) generally there's little difference between the accommodations and rates of an all-dude operation and a working ranch; (3) neither the all-dude ranch nor the working ranch bears any resemblance to a resort ranch. The latter can be anything from a motel with horses to a plush country-club operation.

Since the Dude Ranchers' Association claims that all its members operate "approved bona fide Western ranches," it would seem simple enough to choose one and write for reservations. But how about those disappointed families?

THEY "CHOSE THE WRONG RANCH"

Dudes who report they "chose the wrong ranch" never complain about the food or accommodations at ranches which are members of the DRA or the Colorado Dude and Guest Ranch Association. Their criticism ranges from "there wasn't any planned activity" to the opposite, "we didn't like all the organized recreation."

The Dude Ranchers' Association emphasizes that it's wise to "write several ranches in different states or localities for their literature and rates, or we suggest consulting reliable transportation agents or well-known travel bureaus. If you will outline your needs, the Executive Secretary of the Association will be happy to submit names of suitable ranches."

HOW TO READ LITERATURE

Writing for information gets the ball started, but it's important to read carefully the literature you receive. When a folder states that a ranch has "10 miles of private stream and river fly-fishing," and says nothing about sight-seeing trips to nearby scenic attractions, trail rides, or pack trips, you can be sure that this is a great spot for fishermen but definitely not for you if you want to spend most of your time in the saddle. On the other hand, if your vacation isn't a success unless you catch your limit, you'd better write and ask when the fishing is at its best. Most ranches have at least one good trout stream, but if the fish don't bite well during the weeks you plan to reserve, the rancher will tell you so. As one rancher puts it: "There's nothing worse for the morale of the guests than a disappointed fisherman."

If you're searching for relief from summer heat, note the altitude of the ranch. Mountain ranches can promise warm but pleasant days and sweet sleep under blankets. If you're not a selfstarter and like social activity, look for a ranch that schedules activities: "movies on Sunday night, square dancing three times a week. We go to town on Saturday nights." If this sounds too much like regimentation to you, you'll be happier on a ranch that has "no planned entertainment, but we're always ready to help you arrange whatever you think would be fun."

Trails Ranch, Bayfield, Colorado, for the past nine years, says: "If I were a dude trying to locate the ideal ranch for my family, I would attach more importance to the correspondence I had with the rancher than I would to any literature I got. Literature gives general information, but letters give specific answers to the questions you ask. And you should ask questions. Otherwise how can the rancher tell whether or not he has what you want?

Julia Longley, who has managed a popular Colorado guest ranch, says that "the number of guests a ranch can accommodate is often a good indication whether or not it's for you. As a general rule, when there aren't too many, the operator has more time to spend with his guests and can show them a better time. On the other hand, many people prefer a large place with a wide variety of social activities. Size alone may be the reason why you'll prefer one ranch to another."

But the most important thing to look for is what ranchers call "the kind of outfit they run" and what dudes call "the atmosphere of the place." This is largely determined by the personalities of the rancher, the corral boss, and the wranglers. A personable corral boss who's long on patience and generous with encouragement makes timid tenderfeet feel at home in the saddle in a few days, sees to it that riders get ideal mounts, and makes trail rides and pack trips the high points of your stay at a ranch.

"A ranch is known by the company it keeps," say ranchers who've been in the business for years. Since many families return year after year, ranchers who know their guests well try to arrange compatible groups. Some suggest, for example, that a family with teen-age children try to make reservations during the same period when others with teen-agers will be vacationing at the ranch. When possible, they try to pair up bridgeplaying groups, or those with younger children. The result is that some groups traditionally vacation in July, others in August because they're assured of a good time with people they have come to know and like.

WHAT DO YOU DO ALL DAY?

The family that likes the wide open spaces, or the dry exhilarating air of the mountains will find their stay at a ranch all too short. Trail rides, chuck-wagon dinners, overnight pack trips, rodeos (either at the ranch or in town), fishing, square dancing—these all crowd the days with simple, wholesome fun.

Many ranches now have heated swimming pools to accommodate those who arrive in early summer or early fall—or because the altitude makes lake swimming too cold for comfort. Ranches near Yellowstone, Grand Teton National Park, Glacier Park, the Royal Gorge, Pikes Peak, and other natural attractions are glad to arrange trips.

Even people who don't feel up to "the vigorous life" in the saddle go West for "a good rest."

HOW TO GET THERE

Most families—especially those who've never been West before—drive. But an increasing number of "repeaters" prefer to travel by train or plane. They have discovered the advantage of family-plan fares and that the time and motel bills saved en route give them extra vacation time and money. Most ranches will arrange to meet you at the nearest railroad station or airport. Many Eastern families fly out and rent a car to use for fishing and sight-seeing during their stay at a ranch.

RATES ARE ALL-INCLUSIVE

Practically all ranches charge for a one-week minimum stay, based on the type of accommodations desired, number in party, and length of stay. The rate includes cabin or room accommodations, meals, saddle horse (in a few cases quoted extra), and all the many services which the ranch furnishes to make your stay interesting, exciting and comfortable. A duderanch vacation is an "all expense" proposition-there are no unforeseen "extras." Weekly charges vary, but in the main run between $75 and $100 per person.

WHEN TO MAKE RESERVATIONS

July and August are the most popular months-and reservations are hard to get then because families with school-age children must fit their vacations into that period. June is a good bet, and those who aren't limited by back-to-school plans will find September and October spectacular with color. Some ranches offer reduced rates in September. Many guests make reservations a year in advancewhich is a good indication of how people feel about this kind of vacation where there are no lavish parties, where tipping is frowned upon, and "dress" consists of blue jeans, a cotton shirt, inexpensive boots, and a ten-gallon hat.

ALL AMERICA LOVES A

RED, RED ROSE

And each to his own shade of red!

Here are four of the most popular—light, medium, dark, orange—and if you can't decide on your favorite, plant them all!

THEODORE A. WESTON

LISANTI INC.

LIGHT RED

'Charlotte Armstrong' is twenty years old and is still one of the best light red or deep pink hybrid tea roses! Others are 'Sonata,' 'Show Girl,' and 'Peaceful.' Among floribunda or cluster-flowered roses, 'Vogue' is the most outstanding of the few that have yet appeared in this color group.

ROSES ARE RED...

What's your favorite flower? The rose. What color rose? Red.

According to all the polls, that's how most Americans would answer.

Roses have such an overwhelming lead over all other flowers—both as cut blooms and as garden plants—that there's no question about their being America's favorite.

As flowers, their beautiful form, rich colors, and delightful fragrance appeal to everyone. And as garden plants, their top popularity is clinched by their long season of bloom and their adaptability to every garden use.

To some rose lovers, the pink varieties are tops, while others prefer the yellows, the whites, or the newer color blends. But the greatest number will always concede that red roses are really their favorites.

But what shade of red—light, medium, dark, or some other—do most people like best? To that question, however, the polls have no answer. So your own choice is as good as the next fellow's!

The four roses pictured on the preceding pages show you how different red roses can be. The whole gamut actually runs from near-pink to nearblack, and from cerise to orange.

The varieties illustrated are hybrid tea roses—most popular because of the large size and beautiful form of their flowers. Recently, however, they've been getting strong competition from the floribundas. The reason is that this newer type of rose has many more (though smaller) flowers and so makes a more spectacular (continued on page 89)

DARK RED

The rich, deep color of 'Crimson Glory' has made it a favorite for 25 years. Other top-notch hybrid teas are 'Chrysler Imperial,' 'Zulu Queen,' 'Nocturne,' and 'Midnight.' Dark red floribundas include 'Garnette,' 'Red Favorite,' and 'Red Ripples.'

ADD YOUR PERSONAL TOUCH TO READY-MADES

Chop the stores today and you find them D brimming over with vast collections of readymade slipcovers, curtains, draperies, bedspreads, and studio-couch covers-in an abundance of colorful patterns and smartly tailored styles. But our point is that you need not stop here. Simply by adding a few custom touches you can give these ready-mades a wonderfully fresh originality and charm. Suddenly a room is transformed into one that's very personally yours. For example, your own special touch can be the trimming you choose for the curtains and draperies or the painted wooden rings on which you hang them. You can add a decorative border on slipcover or bedspread, or cover a headboard in a matching fabric. Depending on your choice of trimmings, you can dress a room up or down, make it elegantly feminine or boldly masculine. And you can top everything off with some small accent pillows of your own choice of color and design.

An Early American Setting takes a crisp color accent from the bright orange braid used with black tassel fringe as border trim on the ready-made draperies. The small pillow is our custom plus, designed to give the room pattern interest.

The ready-made plush corduroy studio cover is wonderfully adaptable to a casual room which doubles as an extra bedroom. What makes it yours alone is the handsome Roman-stripe flat braid stitched on the studio cover, bolsters, and draperies. Red mats on pictures follow through on color scheme.

READY-MADE & TRADITIONAL What could be more charming than the quiet dignity of a four-poster bed with matching ready-made coverlet and draperies . . . all in flowered chintz? The extra touches here are the matching quilted-valance canopy and the turquoise velvet ribbon border that has been added to the bedspread and draperies. The blind successfully carries the color accent a step further, gives the small window added importance.

HOW TO TRADE YOUR HOUSE WITHOUT HEADACHES

Does the thought of getting stuck with two houses (or perhaps no house) scare you? It should. Read here the best way to go about house trading DUILDERS report that two out of every three buyers are second- or third-time home owners. If you plan to be one of them, you should know that buying a second house is not as easy as buying your first one, simply because two houses are involved. Bankers and lenders usually advise against buying a new house before your present one is sold. Sometimes this is impossible . . . you may be transferred to another state; a house you are particularly interested in is for sale, and you can't get a buyer for yours; or your family has grown and you need larger quarters. Even if you do sell your present house first, there is the difficulty of coordinating closing dates on the old and the new house, so you won't be left without a place to live. To help all of you contemplating the purchase of another house, we have examined the problems that most often arise in home switching. Study our advice on how to negotiate the sale of your present home and the purchase of your new one.

WHERE TO GO FOR MONEY, MORTGAGES, AND APPRAISALS

Money for down payments and mortgages can be obtained only from banks, savings and loan associations, and mortgage companies.

Appraisals are done by all the above, the FHA, VA, and real estate appraisers and brokers. Fees vary from $20-$25 charged by FHA and VA to considerably more from private appraisers. Local banks and similar institutions often give a free appraisal to customers.

HOW TO OBTAIN THE DOWN PAYMENT FOR A HOUSE

Increase the mortgage on your present house. If your existing mortgage is low in relation to the value of your house or if you have considerable equity in the house, you can get a new mortgage for a larger amount. The difference between the face value of the new mortgage and the old can be applied as a down payment. Of course, the new mortgage will be based on current interest rates which are much higher than those of five or ten years ago. For example, if your present mortgage is at  $4\frac{1}{2}$  per cent, you may have to pay 6 or  $7\frac{1}{2}$  per cent for a new one. You will also have to pay for having the new mortgage drawn up. The one drawback to this arrangement is that, should you fail to sell your present house quickly, you'll be burdened with two sets of rather high mortgage (continued on page 91) kitchen remodeling, we show you, step by step, how we did this one. You'll find scores of ideas to copy or adapt.

We even give you an idea of how much the job costs and how you can pay for it!

Who would guess that this was once a problem kitchen?

Most outdated kitchens are afflicted with similar problems. We took a kitchen filled with the basic problems found in practically every remodeling and turned it into one that's efficiently planned. There's plenty of storage space, a laundry area, and a place for family meals. And it's all wrapped up in a new decorating scheme!

Whether you do your remodeling in one fell swoop or a little at a time, you must solve your problems before you begin any work, if you're to end up with the kitchen of your dreams. We hope the answers we came up with will help you.

Space was gained by knocking out the partitions which chopped the old kitchen into unworkable areas. No changes were made in exterior walls and windows. The U-shaped plan was worked out to fit the end of the 9 x 19' room—out of the main stream of traffic. Steel cabinets with mellow pecanfinished wood doors are moderately priced and have many features homemakers want. Wiring is generally outmoded in old kitchens and this was no exception. New circuits and outlets were added, and the lighting was greatly improved. Plumbing changes were essential as well as installation of gas lines to accommodate the refrigerator. built-in range, and dryer. Walls needed patching after partitions and cabinets were torn out. Wallpaper covers a multitude of imperfections and we chose a charming floral print, inexpensive and washable, to cover walls, soffit, and ceiling! New appliances brought the kitchen completely up to date. The white refrigerator and laundry appliances are striking accents. A built-in range in brushed chrome matches stainless steel sink. Vinyl tiles were chosen for flooring as they are easy to care for and fit handsomely into the overall decorating scheme.

Now comes the big problem-how to pay for it. Aside from paying cash, there are several ways to finance your kitchen remodeling, if you own your home or are buying it on terms. The recent change in the FHA Title I Plan (which makes loans available for home improvements) now makes built-in kitchen appliances such as ovens, cooking tops, and dishwashers eligible for Title I financing. Freestanding appliances are not eligible. Most banks and other lending institutions have their own homeimprovement plans. You may be able to borrow additional money on your present mortgage or refinance it. Investigate the various avenues open to you. You may have a new kitchen sooner than you think.

Steel cabinets with pecan-finished wood doors form a continuous U-shaped work area. Provincial molding on cabinets and dishwasher front gives a country air to this delightfully informal family kitchen. Built-in cooking top is shallow enough to permit full use of drawers immediately beneath it. Ventilating fan in hood carries off cooking odors.

Brass grillework doors enclose the laundry area and form a handsome backdrop for informal dining. Steel utility cabinets at far right and wall cabinets in laundry repeat the cool blue found in wallpaper and counter tops. Sharp green accents pop up in unexpected placesincluding a washable felt tablecloth—to give the room its sparkling color scheme. Curtains behind lower sections of doors disguise the handy laundry complete with automatic washer, gas dryer, and laundry tub (see below).

They're either flopped over haphazardly or pulled through a ring. But have you ever seen one fashioned, Scandinavia style, into a seashell, a rosebud, or perched high in a water goblet as a fan? You can use paper napkins or cloth napkins for these fancy folds. And they're as charming with traditional place settings as they are with the beautiful contemporary setting shown here. Try them the very next time you entertain. Your gay, colorful table will get the party off to a wonderful start! For simple folding instructions, see page 60. ■

Further proof that chicken is a world-wide favorite is the INDIAN CURRY dish at the far right, center. If the flavor of curry entices you, you'll love this one. And with it are some tantalizing accompaniments including raisins and rice, chutney, preserved kumquats. shredded green pepper, and chopped egg! In the upper right is a continental favorite— CHICKEN PAPRIKA. Beautifully browned and slowly cooked, it has sour cream added at the last minute. Serve this one with Spätzle (drop noodles if you're not up on your German). Directly at the right, something wonderful has happened to roast chicken—CABBAGE STUFF-ING with a hint of caraway and onion! Of course, any words written about chicken would be lacking without SOUTHERN FRIED CHICKEN. But have you ever tasted it with a cream gravy made in the skillet? Suh, you have no alternative but to serve this one with hominy!

Which Chicken to Buy?

If you are a trifle puzzled about what kind of chicken to buy, we offer some useful information about the birds in general. BROILERS are 7 to 12 weeks old. They range from 1 to 21/2 pounds. The 1-pound broilers are sometimes called "squab broilers" and are often served whole-one to a person. The larger ones are usually split or quartered, and broiled or sautéed. They may also be roasted very quickly. Half a broiler is usually considered a portion, except for the very large ones. Naturally, if they are to be sautéed, the birds are disjointed. FRYERS are from 14 to 20 weeks old and range from 1 to  $3\frac{1}{2}$  pounds. The best ones have full, plump breasts, compact structure, and some fat. They may be split, cut, or disjointed for cooking, and are used for frying, sautéing and roasting. ROASTING CHICKENS are from 5 to 10 months old. They are used not only for roasting but for casserole dishes, fricassees, and boiling, although the flavor is not as good as that of a fowl for these dishes. FOWLS are mature hens. They are probably the most flavorful of all chickens, although they require long, slow cooking—either braising, fricasseeing, or boiling (more correctly (continued on page 44) called poaching). They range from 3 to 8 pounds and are usually quite fat. The excess fat may be used for cooking; it will be found ideal for certain dishes. A fowl is either prepared whole or cut into convenient-sized serving pieces. CAPONS are unsexed male birds. They are at their best from 6 months to a year old. Because of the more or less inactive life they lead, they develop into large and delicately flavored birds. Often weighing as much as 8 or 9 pounds, a capon is an excellent buy for roasting, braising, or serving cold.

Buying and Storing Chicken

Ready-to-cook chickens are sold either fresh, ice-chilled, or quick-frozen. They are fully drawn, pinfeathered, cleaned inside and out, and ready to be cooked. You can buy them whole, cut up, or in parts.

If you buy FRESH CHICKENS, remove the store wrapper quickly; wrap loosely in waxed paper or aluminum foil and refrigerate. Use whole birds within 1 or 2 days; cut-up birds within 24 hours. Put FROZEN CHICKENS in the freezer at once and keep frozen until time to thaw for cooking. Stored at 0° F., a bird can be kept several months. If stored in refrigerator's freezing compartment keep only a month.

When buying DRESSED CHICKENS, have the butcher draw the bird. Singe hairs over a flame, and remove pinfeathers with tweezers. Remove oil sac at tail; be sure all the lung has been removed from inside. Wash and dry bird well; wrap loosely and refrigerate as for ready-to-eat chickens.

INEXPENSIVE SOURCE OF PROTEIN

A serving of this fine dairy food costs one-half to one-quarter less than most meat. You get about the same amount of animal protein in one rounded half cup ( $4\frac{1}{4}$  ounces) as you do in a medium serving of lean meat.

poultry, fish, three slices of cheddar cheese (3 ounces), or three eggs. Cottage cheese is easily digested and readily assimilated. Therefore, it is an ideal food for older folks who may have digestive or dental difficulties. How cottage cheese got its name is a mystery.

Just when man began to make it is unknown, but whatever the origin, even if born in a cottage, cottage cheese is welcome in the homes of all income levels.

HOME STORAGE OF COTTAGE CHEESE

Cottage cheese, a delicate-flavored product, should be kept cold and covered for it readily picks up permeating odors. The best place to store it is in the refrigerator. Under these conditions it will stay at its peak for about a week. Do not freeze cottage cheese.

TYPES AVAILABLE

You can usually buy small curd or large curd, either creamed or uncreamed. Creamed cottage cheese is the curd of the coagulated protein of skimmed milk, with fresh sweet cream added. The curd is cooked in its own whey, drained, and washed. Uncreamed cottage cheese is drained curd without the cream added. A third variety, called bakers' cheese, may be found in some markets. It is also known as pot or hoop cheese and is mostly used by bakeries, hotels, etc. It is curd drained dry of whey but without cooking or washing.

GOOD NEWS FOR CALORIE COUNTERS

It is true that cottage cheese is a valuable food for calorie counters. High-quality protein and calcium are two nutrients apt to be low in reducing diets. Cottage cheese is rich in both.

The Secret's in the

-the fillip that stamps you the true gourmet

If you aspire to be a gourmet cook, the first feat you must accomplish is the perfect sauce. For a truly superior sauce is a work of art, inexplicably adding to the flavor of a dish but never overpowering it. The French "sauciers" spend years working as apprentices under the great master chefs to refine this art. But this is no reason why you should pack yourself off to Paris and Le Cordon Bleu. Here, we bring you four eloquent sauces. Each is worthy of the finest cuisine... each is as easy to make as reading the recipes below. So the next time you serve brook trout, serve it with a caper sauce and have Peach Melba for dessert. Or, if your husband craves hollandaise for broccoli or mushroom sauce for squab, by all means surprise him!

MELBA SAUCE is as much a star as the opera personality whose name inspired it. Combine 1 cup raspberry preserves and ½ cup currant jelly in small saucepan; heat slowly until melted, stirring to blend. Remove from heat; strain through fine sieve; chill. Makes 1 cup sauce. To make Peach Melba: Place 1 large well-drained and chilled peach half, whole or cut petalfashion, in sherbet dish. Top with serving of ice cream. Spoon sauce over it.

CAPER SAUCE is magic in turning a pedestrian fish dish into a gourmet's delight. Melt 2 tablespoons butter or margarine in small saucepan; blend in 1 tablespoon flour; gradually add 1 cup fish stock. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until sauce thickens and comes to a boil. Remove from heat. Stir in 1 tablespoon lemon juice. Beat 1 egg yolk and 1 tablespoon heavy cream together in small bowl; stir in a small amount of hot sauce, then stir mixture into remaining sauce in pan. Return to heat; cook, stirring constantly, until sauce thickens; stir in 2 tablespoons capers. Makes 1 cup.

HOLLANDAISE SAUCE served over vegetables or fish really calls for cheers. Combine 3 egg yolks, 1/4 cup cold water, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, and a few grains of cayenne in top of double boiler; beat with wooden spoon or wire whisk until smooth but not fluffy. Divide 4 tablespoons butter or margarine into three parts. Add one part to egg yolk mixture. Place over hot, not boiling, water; cook, stirring constantly, until butter melts. Add second portion of butter; cook, stirring constantly, until butter melts; add remaining third of butter and continue cooking and stirring until butter is melted and sauce is thickened. Remove from heat; beat until glossy. Makes 34 cup.

MUSHROOM SAUCE is versatile, rewarding, and a breeze to make. Cook 1/2 pound of sliced mushrooms, in 4 tablespoons butter or margarine in top of double boiler for 10 minutes or until golden; add 3 green onions, chopped; cook 5 minutes longer. Blend in 2 tablespoons flour and a few grains of pepper; stir in 1 cup water; add 1 chicken bouillon cube (or granulated bouillon) and ½ cup dry red wine. Cook, stirring constantly, until bouillon dissolves and sauce is slightly thickened. Keep warm over hot water. Before serving, add 2 tablespoons chopped parsley. Makes 13/4 cups sauce.

What do you use to make pie crust?

Yellow Spread? Your favorite spread for bread gives good color—but doesn't make crust really tender.

White Shortening? Makes crust tender—but naturally doesn't give it such warm golden color.

Get the best of both...with today's Golden Fluffo

Maybe you've been using part white shortening and part table spread... or using white shortening in the dough and brushing the color on with spread. Watch Golden Fluffo put the gold right in the dough itself.

Makes pastry more golden

Naturally, it goldens as no white shortening does. You'll see the difference right in the mixing bowl. The color shows you the exact minute of perfect blending. That's one reason why Golden Fluffo gives you such tender, flaky crusts.

More tempting foods

You'll find, of course, that Golden Fluffo makes everything you bake or fry more tempting. Keep it handy for all the things it makes so much better than white shortening . . . or yellow spread . . . or both. Get the best of both with Golden Fluffo.

So digestible—finest shortening you can buy. Not a table spread. Look for the new Golden Fluffo can!

An elegant Continental soup can be on your table tonight

Campbell's freezing brings you an authentic cream of potato soup for only about 12¢ a bowl

If it hadn't been for a quick-thinking seaman returning from America with Sir Francis Drake, the world might still be waiting for potato soup.

When Drake ordered everything thrown overboard to lighten ship in a storm, one of his sailors pocketed a few potatoes. These were the first ever planted in Ireland, and soon potatoes were everyday fare all over Europe.

This was the potato's role—a plain, but companionable vegetable—until French chefs brought out all its delicate flavor in a fragrant cream soup. Here was a dish so superb that it found its way onto fancy menus everywhere (at fancy prices).

Continental Eating at Home

Now, thanks to Campbell's skill and freezing, you can serve a cream of potato soup at home comparable to one you'd get in a fine Continental restaurant.

Campbell chefs start with specially selected white potatoes and cook them until tender. Then they add fresh milk, cream, butter, onion, and seasonings, and let the soup simmer up to the precise moment it satisfies their educated tastes.

Then, quicker than you can steal a whiff, the soup is rushed to the freezer. There just isn't any other way to keep the flavors kettle-fresh for your table.

A Dollar's Worth for Pennies

At a gourmet restaurant, soup like this might cost $1 or more... and be well worth it. But Campbell's Cream of Potato

Crème Vichyssoise. In saucepan, combine 1 can Campbell's Frozen Cream of Potato Soup and 1 soup can water or milk; heat slowly until soup is thawed. Beat until smooth with an electric blender or rotary beater. Chill at least 4 hours. Thin with cold milk if desired. Serve in chilled bowls. Makes 3 servings. (For variation, stir in ½ cup sour cream after beating.)

DELICATE setting for precious silks and modern synthetics. They dry in 15 minutes at safe, low temperatures-come out smooth, unwrinkled.

REGULAR setting is for cottons, linens . . . all the things you wash most often. They dry at high speed, in gently warmed air; come out smooth, fluffy and fresh.

HEAVY for ordinarily hard-to-dry bedspreads, heavy towels, rugs, double-seamed jeans and work clothes. They come out like new-need no ironing.

nobody likes you like Chevrolet

(and how this superlative '60 shows it!)

Nowhere will you find another car that caters to your driving wants like this one. That's because nobody else has gone to such lengths to find out what you want, and to give it to you. Eighteen sizzlin' new models for '60-every one designed for a particular set of requirements. Once you've picked out your favorite, give it a good leisurely going over and notice all the extra ways Chevy tries to please you (without once forgetting your budget):

Roomier Body by Fisher with a lower and narrower transmission tunnel that gives more foot room.

Pride-pleasing style (you'll like the way it combines good looks with good sense, that easier-to-load vacationsized trunk, for instance).

New Economy Turbo-Fire V8 (makes friends fast by getting up to 10% more miles on a gallon of regular).

Widest choice of engines and transmissions (24 combinations in all-to satisfy the most finicky driver).

Hi-Thrift 6 (built, of course, with Chevy's ever-faithful dependability).

Coil springs at all 4 wheels (with the extra cushioning of newly designed body mounts, you've never had it smoother than you do in Chevrolet).

Quicker stopping Safety-Master brakes (another important reason Chevy's the kind of friend you can count on).

SHOW-OFF SHELVES

INFORMATION: MARTHA DARBYSHIRE · PHOTOGRAPHER: GENE TRIND

Lightweight and free standing, these shelves were designed by Marguerite Lansing, A.I.D., of Beverly Hills, California, to hold her fine pewter collection.

To make your own shelves, use 2x2" stock for the four uprights that form the "gates" and 1" diameter dowels to support the shelves.

You can have your own show-off shelves to decorate a lonely wall and to display your favorite china or pewter collection. The unit is made with two separate end pieces, called gates, hinged where the uprights meet at the back. There is no connection between the two gates except for the plate-glass shelves that carry straight through from one gate to the other. On top, a single shelf is used on each gate with the center space left open to accommodate two large coffeepots and a large platter. The gates are 79" high. The plate-glass shelves measure 79" long and 13" deep.

Make Pretty Flower Pillows

Our rose and pansy velvet pillows can be embroidered in a jiffy on your sewing machine, or take just a little longer by hand. Follow graph below for pattern. Each square equals 1". Draw 1" squares on a sheet of brown paper. Copy design, line for line, in each square as shown here. Cut out pattern and place on velvet. Thumbtack to a flat surface. Draw around outline of pattern with pencil. Using sharp pencil, prick through embroidery lines on pattern. This leaves a series of dots on velvet for embroidery guide. Untack. Baste a stiff piece of organdy on wrong side of velvet to give it body while stitching. Use mercerized thread and set sewing machine for satin or buttonhole stitch to the widest width and the length closest to 0 on your stitch regulator. Now stitch embroidery lines of design.

Cut away organdy on back, close to embroidered lines. Cut out shape of pillow 1/2" outside of outline to allow for seams. Cut out back of pillow in same shape. Stitch self-covered welting between back and front. Leave several inches open to allow for the filling. Before filling "pansy," sew a little cluster of yellow ball fringe in center. For hand embroidery, first outline design with chain stitch, then cover chains with satin stitch.

Complete kitchen remodelings do cost money, but they're worth it

Although labor costs vary in different areas and each remodeling has its special conditions, the cost of remodeling this kitchen will give you an idea of the expenses you'll encounter. Labor costs are based on an average remodeling; prices of appliances and materials are approximate.

ALL COSTS ARE APPROXIMATE

Organized desk cabinet and inverted wall cabinet support counter top used for homemaking paperwork.

Lazy Susan in the corner cabinet opens wide for easy access to pans and makes good use of space.

BEFORE PLAN

Here's what was wrong:

- Bad arrangement of appliances; work areas widely separated
- · Lack of counter space
- · Lack of storage space; some inaccessible
- Area by outside door wasted space
- No place for laundry equipment
- · Poor lighting
- Inadequate wiring and lack of wall outlets
- Drab dining area
- Cracked plaster walls in many spots

Here's what we did:

- Opened up space for better arrangement
- Planned continuous work areas
- Increased storage space
- · Added new wiring and plumbing
- Improved lighting
- Added complete laundry area
- Installed new appliances, ventilating hood
- Repaired walls and wallpapered them
- Decorated in handsome color scheme
- Increased resale value of house

Floor design took its cue from the provincial molding on the cabinet doors. Easy-to-install, 9" vinyl tiles in bright blue and emerald green were used to achieve this highly individual floor. A 2" white feature strip separates the blue center sections from the green border.

Wiring plan shows location of new outlets, switches, and lighting fixtures. Double wall outlets were strategically placed for convenience when using small appliances. Recessed fluorescent fixtures were installed in ceiling and soffit over the plan desk, sink, and laundry, in addition to under-cabinet lights.

Here are ways to cut costs and still have a good kitchen

Decide what you want in your kitchen and get cost estimates before work begins. Changing your mind may be a woman's prerogative, but it can be expensive!

Keep structural changes at a minimum and avoid changing exterior walls if possible. Don't sacrifice a good kitchen plan, however, if knocking out that pantry wall would open up more space to get the kitchen you want. Plan your kitchen around your present plumbing system, if possible. This was not practical in the kitchen shown here.

Do part of the work yourself, such as tearing out partitions, wallpapering and painting, or laying the flooring.

Use some of your old appliances and replace them with new models as your budget permits. It's smart to think of new appliances and their sizes when you're planning your kitchen to allow necessary space for them. Don't always buy de luxe models. We used the top of the line models to show all the features. However, you'll find that the lower-priced models produced by a manufacturer have the same good styling as the top models, and will perform the same basic job. Weigh the extra features in more expensive models against your budget.

Shop around for cabinets. There are many quality brands of factory-built cabinets which offer a wide choice of features, colors, wood finishes, and styles in a wide price range. Eliminate some of the custom features. We might have eliminated the plan desk area and grillework doors. (See checklist for remodeling—page 72). (continued)

Stainless steel sink is designed for use with a disposer. Cutting board fits over sink, increases work space. Cutout lets waste slide into disposer.

Power unit installed in counter operates a blender, mixer, and other appliances. Another custom feature is an electric can opener built in the wall.

CHECK LIST FOR YOUR REMODELING

Clip and save for the day you decide to do over your kitchen. These are questions you'll want to ask yourself.

- How many people will normally be in the kitchen at one time—how many on special occasions?
- Do you have sufficient unbroken wall space to allow a fairly continuous arrangement of cabinets and appliances?
- What kind and how much storage space do you need?
- Do you want to change some or all of your appliances?
- How many structural changes will be involved? Doors, windows, walls?
- Will you need additional plumbing to take care of a dishwasher, new sink placement, or laundry equipment?
- Is your present water heater adequate to handle the additional requirements of a dishwasher and washer?
- Does present wiring provide plenty of current for the new appliances you plan to add and enough wall outlets for using small appliances?
- Do you need better overhead and under-cabinet lighting?

ADHESIVES

JACKSON HAND

You can join or mend practically anything these days. You can mend an iron radiator, bond foam rubber to metal, glass to plywood, or level a floor, or put a boat together—all with adhesives.

Adhesives can be divided into three groups—glues, cements, and mastics. Each group has particular properties which enable it to do certain jobs best.

Glues work when there is some degree of porosity for the glue to bite into. It flakes off nonporous surfaces. So, while crockery can be repaired with glue, china cannot. A good fitting of mating parts is essential and a thin line of glue tightly clamped provides the strength.

Cements stick to almost any clean, chemically inert surface regardless of porosity. Clamping is usually not necessary, but there must be absolute immobility while setting. (continued)

Plastic resin glues should be mixed with water to a creamy consistency—thick enough so that they reluctantly run down vertical surface. When mixed, apply and clamp.

Ready-mix glues come in tubes or plastic squeeze bottles; are strong and easy to use. Do not use these glues where they are exposed to water, fungus, or high heat.

Contact cement is most often used for applying plastic sheet material to counter and table tops. Coat both the surfaces to be joined.

Waterproof glues come in two containers—one powder, one liquid.

Mix the two carefully in small amounts to guard against quick setting.

Separate cemented surfaces with two sheets of paper (overlapping half of area). Remove one sheet, make contact, then remove the other sheet.

Household, cellulose, or rubber cement mends dishes, paper, leather, and thin layers of wood. Its non-aqueous form won't buckle thin materials.

Epoxy resin cements are often used to repair valuable china, glass, and jewelry. Squeeze out equal amounts of resin and hardener for intermixing.

MASONITE

Toothed spreader is the usual method for applying mastics for plastic or ceramic tile, wood-block flooring, and some laminations. Spreader leaves the proper amount of mastic on the supporting surface.

Mastics are initially sticky in their most common forms in contrast to the slipperiness of glues and cements. This stickiness holds the object in place while the mastic slowly sets—sometimes this takes several days or weeks to reach its ultimate strength. Mastics are most often used for large applications of ceiling, wall, or floor tile.

Ready-mix glues are easy to use—spread them on, clamp, and wait. Most jobs around the house can be done with these glues where they will not be subjected to extremes of moisture or heat.

Water-mix glues of the plastic resin formula are vermin- and fungus-proof (smell the formaldehyde when you mix it). They are also highly resistant to water. You can use them for repairing outdoor furniture.

Waterproof glues are resistant to everything. They meet government specifications for use under boiling or freezing conditions and when exposed to fungus, solvents, and mild acids and alkalis.

Household cement is entirely waterproof and will stick to almost any non-oily surface. A major advantage is that it doesn't require clamping.

Contact cement sticks to almost any surface and, when dry, sticks to itself. It is custom made for laminating sheet material.

Epoxy resin cement is by far the strongest adhesive ever made available to the public. It is expensive, but the repairs it accomplishes make it well worth the price. It can be used on almost all clean, dry surfaces.

Mastics are designed to do many different jobs. For example, some are used to provide a water-proof layer under resilient flooring in basements. Others are specially formulated for resistance to heat and cold, expansion and contraction. Most mastics provide a self-leveling bed for the materials applied to them. This would be particularly useful if you have uneven walls or floors.

This is the "Most"!

Have you noticed the widespread use of the superlative "most" in advertisements? A certain beverage is not just "flavorful"...it is "most" flavorful. One particular breakfast food is not ordinary "crunchy"...it is "most" crunchy. There is an automobile that is more than mere "beautiful"...it is "most" beautiful. We have even read about the ultimate in cigarettes...a "most-perfect" smoke!

Such advertising is silly and unbelievable and serves only to break down confidence in the product. We think consumers want facts instead of fancy. Some things are taken for granted, such as expecting to get an evenly toasted piece of bread from an electric toaster, or beauty from wall-papers. More importantly, will you always get an evenly toasted piece of bread or will your wallpaper keep its beauty?

We enjoy talking about our wallpapers and giving information. We will load a listener with facts about the scrubbability of Glendura Fabric Wallcovering*; or the ease of hanging pre-pasted E-Z-DU*; or the guaranteed washability of all our wallpapers. If you have time to spare, we'll tell you about our paper mill where we make our paper stock to control quality. We'll describe how we produce our chemical pigments to assure uniformity of color in roll after roll. As for eye-appeal, our designers can talk on and on about the beauty and useability of our wallpapers. Visit your Imperial dealer soon and see why for yourself.

Handscrew clamps have large flat wood jaws that need no cushioning. They exert great pressure and are excellent for irregularshaped objects.

Bar clamp is well adapted for the widespread job. Buy clamp devices at hardware store, then use any pipe length necessary to fit the job.

Spring clamps in several sizes are excellent for small work. The constant spring pressure creates great force. They are ideal for use with cements.

Specialist clamp is intended for use in picture-frame work and other mitering. It holds both pieces of frame at right angle for gluing.

C-clamp is the simplest, most common clamping device. For fine work, cushion the jaws with scraps of wood. Cushions with magnets imbedded in them don't need to be held.

Hardwood blocks are often used to strengthen a corner. They are glued into place with a sliding motion without clamps, nails, or screws.

FAREWELL TO CRABGRASS

WILLIAM H. DANIEL

Turf Specialist, Purdue University

New chemicals kill seedlings and keep crabgrass out of your lawn permanently!

Materials that can prevent crabgrass are just as near as your garden-supply dealer. One application any time before crabgrass gets started, and the pest is out of your good grasses for the season. All you have to do is spread toxic concentrations of the proper materials uniformly over your lawn, and crabgrass seedlings will be killed soon after they germinate. Established grasses (those already growing) won't be seriously affected, so only the crabgrass will be selectively prevented. This is known as pre-emergent treatment. The other and more familiar way to control crabgrass is to kill the plants after they have grown by applying chemicals to the foliage. This post-emergent method currently requires a minimum of two applications, usually made in midsummer—when your lawn may be almost pure crabgrass!

FACTS ABOUT CRABGRASS THAT WILL HELP YOU FIGHT IT. Crabgrass starts from seed each year, grows mightily through summer, produces and drops seed, and is killed by frost. It thrives in heat and sunshine, and doesn't grow well in the shade of trees or of dense high-cut (2-inch) lawn grass. It looks fairly attractive in hot midsummer, but is not a good lawn grass! It dies and rots, leaving bare ground through winter and all of spring. Each plant produces thousands of seeds. Unfortunately, these seeds can remain alive in the ground for years before sprouting. The ones on the surface, where sun can reach them, begin to germinate in spring with the first warm wet period, when temperatures reach 75°. That's about the time iris blooms. And they keep coming up all summer! There can be as many as 50 seedlings germinating in one square inch of soil! The ground in your yard is undoubtedly full of crabgrass seeds; so is any topsoil you might purchase. But one place crabgrass seeds do not come from is lawn-grass seed that you buy! It's tested and accurately labeled as to content.

HOW CRABGRASS PREVENTERS WORK. The principle of getting rid of crabgrass with pre-emergent treatment is to kill it before it passes through the seedling stage. Chemicals must be in place in the soil just at the surface before seeds germinate. This means putting them on in early spring, or getting a head start in fall or winter, so all is ready before lilacs bloom. In Southern California it should be on by February, or in Chicago by May 1. Then as crabgrass seeds sprout, their young roots absorb so much chemical that the plants die by the time they reach the "two-leaf stage." Of course, if any seedlings escape death, either because the chemical missed the soil where they were, or because it wasn't applied at a strong enough rate, they may (continued) grow extra big and troublesome. So it's extremely important to spread the chemical uniformly over every inch of ground and at adequate rates. Light rates are a waste of time and money. This is particularly true of chlordane formulations.

After application, avoid digging weeds, or otherwise disturbing the surface of the soil, or you may bring up additional crabgrass seeds.

Some other pesty annual lawn weeds and weed grasses are also controlled in seedling stage by preventer chemicals. These include foxtail and barnyard grass, common and mouse-eared chickweed, and annual bluegrass. Fullgrown plants of chickweed and annual bluegrass are killed by arsenicals too.

As a marvelous bonus, the crabgrass preventers kill grubs and insects in the soil. This indirectly keeps moles out of your lawn, since they feed on soil pests.

A WORD OF CAUTION. Observe common-sense rules and precautions when storing and using crabgrass preventives. Follow the instructions on the package just as you would for any other garden chemical. Research men and product distributors have found no evidence of harm to pets and children.

HOW TO APPLY CHEMICALS.

You'll find directions for spreading and amounts to use on the bags in which chemicals are purchased. Follow these instructions carefully. Use a lawn spreader. If you don't own one, you can usually rent one from your garden-supply dealer. The setting that's about right for most kinds gives measured openings of  $\frac{3}{16}$  to  $\frac{1}{4}$  inch.

 Uniform application is a must. Avoid skips, or your lawn may have strips where crabgrass comes through.

TIMING THE TREATMENT.

- General rule: Don't put crabgrass preventers on unless you have a lawn established.
- On old lawns: Apply either autumn or very early spring. If grass is so heavily infested with crabgrass that considerable reseeding will be necessary, the first step in renovation might be killing crabgrass this summer with postemergent chemicals. Follow this with fall reseeding and feeding. Then next spring apply preventers.
- If you started a new lawn from seed last fall: You can treat it early this spring. Lawn grasses should be big enough to have been moved twice; their larger size and deeper roots increase their resistance.

- If you're sowing seed for a new lawn this spring: Hold off treatment until autumn or early next spring. In the meantime, kill the crabgrass during the summer with two applications of post-emergent chemicals such as AMA or DSMA (such as Sodar, Di-met, Ortho Crabgrass Killer, etc.) applied to foliage.
- If you start a lawn from seed early this fall: It can be treated late this same autumn, but it's safer and better to wait until early next spring.
- If you want to reseed big bare spots: It's best to get grass well started before treating for crabgrass prevention, just as with a new lawn.
- To maintain toxicity: Repeat treatment every 2 or 3 years (fall preferred) at recommended rate for new treatment. Or each year apply ½ to ⅓ of normal rate.

WHAT'S THE COST? Preventing crabgrass is not cheap. Chemical production, transportation, and distribution are expensive. Several products retail at near $5 per 1000 sq. ft. to get toxicity and control

FOLLOW-UP PROCEDURE. Getting rid of crabgrass doesn't insure a dense green lawn. Something has to fill the gaps left where crabgrass grew! Overseeding may sometimes be the obvious answer. But usually it's smarter to feed what grass you have (if it's merely thin, or full of small bare spots). For when the competition of vigorous crabgrass is removed, the desirable grasses can quickly expand into the space. if they have the help of food. Plan to give your grass two or more applications of lawn fertilizer every year-in the spring and again in late summer or early fall.

If you're treating with arsenicals, better control is expected if you use the new lawn fertilizers, many of which are high in nitrogen and low in phosphorus. High concentrations of phosphorus reduce arsenic's effectiveness; with low phosphorus availability, less arsenic is required. You may prefer to use nitrogen fertilizers only, the first year or more, since grass responds most to nitrogen. Some of the pre-emergent products have nitrogen in them as a service to

The time that must elapse after using crabgrass preventers, before grass seed can be planted, varies with different chemical products. Chlordane, Zyton, and DAC prevent nearly all seedlings for a month or longer. Arsenic will slow and weaken seedlings, though bentgrass and bluegrass species tolerate arsenicals more than crab-

No weed control chemical label states: "This product will grow grass"-but, without weeds, growing a uniform dense lawn can be easier for you. THE END

Red Roses

show in the garden. There are almost as many shades of red in floribundas as in hybrid teas.

Most varieties in both these classes grow between 21/2' and 31/2' though in mild-winter areas they can be grown taller.

The newest class of rose, the grandiflora, has flowers about midway between the hybrid teas and the floribundas, and the plants grow considerably taller. The number of grandiflora varieties available, however, is still rather limited.

There are also many shades of red available in climbers, miniatures, shrub roses, and tree roses. So, no matter where or how you want to use red roses in your garden, you'll find wide selections to choose from. Write for a few catalogues and see!

Garden care is pretty much the same for all classes of roses.

Feed them in early spring and again in midsummer-in mid-March and in middle to late July in most parts of the country. Use either a standard complete plant food or a special rose fertilizer-at the rate recommended on the package.

Don't feed a rose at the time of planting, but wait till a few weeks later-say at the time the soil mound is leveled, as mentioned in Step 6 on page 25.

Water roses thoroughly every week or two during hot, dry weather. The frequency will depend on whether your soil is sandy or clayey, as well as on the temperature, humidity, and wind. Just be sure the upper foot or so of soil never really dries out. Use a waterbreaker or bubbler on the hose so as not to wet the foliage.

Spray or dust roses with a combination insecticide-fungicide every couple of weeks if you live in a dry-summer region, more often if your area gets a lot of summer rain and humidity. Leaf and stem diseases are the main problem in wet, humid areas.

Pruning hybrid tea, floribunda, and other bush roses is mostly a matter of cutting out winter-killed wood in early spring, keeping the plant shapely during summer, and cutting back the stems to 2' in late fall. With climbers, cut out one or two of the oldest stems each year to keep up the production of new, vigorous growths.

These main steps in rose care are suggested in the photos on pages 21-24—the planting shovel, hose and water-breaker, sprayer, and pruning shears.

An additional step-winter protection-is advisable in the colder parts of the country. In late fall, mound the soil up a foot or so around the plants and, if they're in a windy spot, put a burlap or snowfence screen on the windward side of the planting. THE END

Seed-Starting Kits

This applies both for starting seeds and for care of larger plants.

For damp-off disease: If seedlings suddenly fall over and die, water soil at base of stems lightly, using a pinch of any washday detergent dissolved in a half cup of lukewarm water.

Where to put kits: Plants will be most healthy, vigorous, and sturdy if they're in a spot with as much direct sunlight as possible. First choice is an unshaded south window. East and west windows are also good. Best temperature is 58° to 65°, but most plants sold in starter kits grow satisfactorily at temperatures up to 75°. If plants lean toward light, turn box around. Feeding: Usually preplanted kits have enough plant food in their soil to take seedlings to transplanting size. After that, feed with any complete house plant food every 10 days, following directions on the package. Be careful not to feed too much, for overdoses of fertilizer make plants sick.

Thinning is important: Kit manufacturers are generous with their seed to be sure you'll get enough plants. Then, if they all grow, you have too many for the space! So when plants are about an inch tall, thin to about 11/4" apart. Pull or snip off the spares. Don't be tenderhearted or you'll regret it.

For insect troubles: If pests appear. use bomb-type house plant spray. Hold at least a foot from plants so the propellant won't cause injury. About transplanting: Plants left in crowded condition in their original container will live, and can flower, but won't develop to full size. If you want them for your summer garden, they should be transplanted. They can go directly from kits to outdoor ground if weather and soil are warm, and if plants have been hardened off by being exposed gradually to outdoor sun and air. Or they can be transplanted temporarily to more spacious boxes or pots indoors.

Easiest moving size is 2 to 3" high. Try not to disturb roots. Water your kit well before transplanting. Then break off chunks of the growing medium containing individual plants and set in soil of the new situation at the same depth as before. Water in, making sure mud and fine silt penetrate the original chunk to make a bond between it and the surrounding soil. Space plants widely to give them enough room to grow big! Good luck! # How to Trade Your House Without Headaches (continued from page 33) payments. However, as soon as your old house is sold, the mortgage will be discharged or taken over by the new owner.

Open-end mortgage. If you have this type of mortgage, you can borrow funds from the mortgage holder up to the face value of the mortgage and at the same interest rate. If the original mortgage was for $12,500 and you have decreased the principal to $10,500, you could get $2000 from the lender without having to rewrite the mortgage. Your monthly payments would remain the same but the number of payments would be extended. Obtaining funds through an open-end mortgage is faster and less expensive than writing a new mortgage, but many lenders will put a limit on the amount you can get. If the mortgage is FHA or VA insured, there is a long delay plus considerable filing of papers before the funds would be available.

Second mortgage. Cash can also be raised by getting someone to accept a second mortgage. There is a higher interest rate and usually a heavy discount. This means that you may pay interest on money that you actually do not receive. Were you to take out a $3000 second mortgage, you might have it discounted at 20 per cent, which would mean that you would only receive $2400, but you would pay interest on $3000. Second mortgages are usually for periods of three to five years. If you are certain that you can pay off the second mortgage within a shorter period of time, the mortgage should be written so there will be no penalty should you pay it off before the expiration date.

Personal loan. If your income is high and your credit is excellent, your local bank or lender may advance you a considerable sum on your signature. Securities, bonds, other investments, and the equity in your old house may be used as collateral for loans. These loans have the disadvantage of being for a short term and the interest rates on many of them are high.

Life insurance. If the loan value on your policies is sufficient, you can borrow on your insurance. While you do not have to pay out money for interest, it will accumulate and decrease the face value of the policy.

MAKE SURE YOU CAN GET MORTGAGE MONEY

Mortgage money is not always readily available to banks and lenders. This means that sometimes, even if they want to give you a mortgage, they can't. To make certain you will be able to get your mortgage, ask your banker or lender for a mortgage commitment in advance of the time you will actually need it. This is assurance that the lender will set aside money so he will be able to write your mortgage when you are ready.

Find out how much of a mortgage he can give you on the new house and what it will cost. This is important because the higher interest rates will make your monthly payments higher than they were with the lower interest.

HOW TO GET A QUICK SALE ON YOUR HOME

Have a real-estate dealer set a price on your house. Decide whether you are willing to accept it. Most homeowners are overly optimistic on the value of their homes, so be prepared for a sum somewhat less than you have anticipated. If you accept the price, approach the owner of the house you want to buy and make a firm offer contingent upon your ability to get financing and his being willing to accept a certain amount of time between the signing of the contract of sale and the closing. With a sensible price on your house and enough time for a prospective buyer of your home to negotiate a loan, you have a better chance to co-ordinate the selling and closing dates.

A trade-in. The realtor or builder through whom you are buying your new house may buy your old one outright, charging no commission but making his profit on the house he sells to you. Many realtors and builders today offer this type of service because of the large number of families who are switching homes. The price he gives you will probably be less than if you found a private buyer.

The realtor finances your home for a year. During the time the realtor assumes the cost of financing your old house, you may even rent it and receive the income. After the house has been sold, you repay him with a lump sum for assuming these carrying costs.

Some realtors guarantee you the market price. The price is set by the realtor and he deducts a 5 per cent commission. If he doesn't sell the house in the period of time specified and takes it over himself, he will still charge you the commission. He may also deduct an agreed-upon fee for renovating if it is required for sale. This fee should be agreed upon before any sales contracts are signed. Before signing an agreement be sure to consult your lawyer.

GET A CONTRACT WITH YOUR BUILDER

The contract between you and your builder is all-important. Unless you make sure that it protects your interests, you may end up with an inferior house—a lemon. "Get It in Writing" in our April issue tells you what a good contract should cover.

THE BUYER CAN TAKE OVER YOUR OLD MORTGAGE

This is a decided advantage to the buyer for he will get the same low interest rates that apply to your mortgage rather than having to pay the higher rates that a lender will demand on a new mortgage. This is not always a good arrangement for you, as the seller. If the property is sold "subject" to your mortgage, you continue to be responsible should the buyer fail to make payments and the house is sold at foreclosure for less than the value of the mortgage. The lender will expect you to make up the difference. Another way to transfer the mortgage is for the buyer to "assume" it. In this case you obtain a release of liability from the lender and you cannot be held responsible if the new owner fails to make payments.

Before the buyer can take over your mortgage the deal will have to be approved by the lender and also by FHA or VA if your mortgage is insured by either of these agencies. Lenders don't like a buyer to take over a mortgage carrying low interest rates because they prefer to issue a new mortgage at today's higher interest rates.

You cannot switch the mortgage on your old house to the new one. A mortgage is security on a specific piece of land plus the buildings.

PROFIT FROM SALE OF HOUSE IS NOT ALWAYS TAXABLE

The present law states that if you buy another home within twelve months of the sale of your first house and your new home is equal or greater in cost, you are not taxed on the profit you have made. The law also permits you to deduct from your Federal income tax the expense of the sale of your old house and any expenditures you may have put into that house, such as painting and repairs—work done within three months prior to the sale and paid within one month after. This is assuming the house was sold at a profit.

FIVE POINTS TO REMEMBER

The trick of house trading, according to the American Bankers Association and other sources, is:

1. Be sure you can get the necessary financing on the new house before you sign a contract to buy.

2. Get as much time between signing the contract and the closing as feasible.

- 3. Offer your old house at a price which will insure its rapid sale.
- Make sure that the buyer of your old home can get his financing before a contract is signed.
- 5. Coordinate the closings on your old house and new house as closely as possible so you won't have to rent temporary quarters. —FAY HENLE here's a big difference between the first day of spring and a spring day. One is a date—the other is as delightful as the meaningful kiss a young girl gives her parents as she sets out for her first prom.

March sunshine takes the frost out of the ground, warms hearts, and makes high adventure of an ordinary weekend. Neighbors you haven't seen all winter suddenly appear with rake in hand and determination in their eye.

Jet-propelled space-age kids stand rooted in one spot for hours, anchored by the ageless fascination of a kite. Women slip out of the kitchen to see how the garden came through the winter. And, with the first sign of spring, men have been known to wash a car, clean a garage, talk about a bigger patio, hurry off to a nursery and return with a car full of evergreens, or jump the gun on the barbecue season.

But remember, March is a mixed-up adolescent, as likely to greet you with sudden tears as warm smiles; one day acting for all the world like a perfect lady, the next wailing like a banshee, rattling shutters, banging doors, and carrying on like a terrible tomboy. Patience; you've been through this before. It was ever thus before the big garden party that's coming.
