DIFFERENT BY DESIGN AND BETTER BECAUSE OF IT

A Gorham Sterling fork is more than just a pretty pattern on top and tines at the bottom.

A Gorham Original is much more than a beautiful pattern in sterling. It is a total design, perfectly balanced in every way.

There's a perfect balance between every fork tine, every spoon bowl, every knife blade and its handle, in both design and feel.

That's why the series of scrolls that border the Strasbourg fork for instance, flow naturally into the tine area to complete the design. And why the straight sweeping lines and intricate Spanish detail of the Hispaña fork are offset by a smooth tine area.

Every line, every curve, every detail in Gorham Sterling is in perfect harmony with the overall shape and weight of the piece. And that's what makes Gorham Originals, original.

To discover that there's more to sterling than what meets the eye, write for the informative booklet prepared by Gorham, the world's leading maker of solid sterling since 1831. Just send 10¢ for handling to The Gorham Company, P.O. Box 2823-J, Providence, Rhode Island, 02907.

Do you own a Gorham Sterling Original?

Now the world-famous Michael Field will teach you the secrets of gourmet cooking in your own kitchen.

For years, people from all over the world have been flocking to Michael Field's exclusive New York cooking school to learn the art of fine cooking. Here, every student, from novice to accomplished cook learns the techniques of preparing truly great dishes the unique Michael Field way. Now these secrets need no longer be the exclusive privilege of the few who can afford his celebrated school. Recognizing the growing interest in artful cooking throughout the country, Michael Field has found a way to translate his renowned teaching methods into a course that food lovers everywhere can follow—in their own homes, at their own convenience, at a surprisingly modest cost.

Michael Field's answer is not just another cookbook.

is much more basic, something that sures the success of Michael Field's udents. Something which always has nabled cooks from Karachi to Callao, om Rome to Rio to transform ordinary ngredients into delicious dishes withut the benefit of elaborate appliances r a great deal of time.

heir secret is simple: omeone showed them ow. Someone showed nem step by step exactly ow to do it. And this is fichael Field's great seret. Each dish, each proedure has a reason which nust be understood beore it can be successfully xecuted. There is one moment at hich whipped eggs have reached their pamy perfection; a few seconds when poached fish hovers between delicate akiness and crumbly disaster. Even mple broiling must be understood or remains forever a harrowing hit-andniss process. Michael Field's entire aproach is to teach a full and complete nderstanding of culinary techniques. It is students graduate with a file full of utstanding, unique and mouthwaterg recipes. But much more important, they have mastered the art of cooking, that is what Michael Field now can each you in your own home.

ach one of the 12 Cooking Lessons vith Michael Field is devoted to one of the basic methods of preparation basting, sautéeing, baking, etc.

esson One, BROILING will be a revetion—even if you've been cooking for ears. You will learn why this simplest f cooking methods is the most exactng, You will learn the professional method of testing meat for doneness—method that keeps all the flavor in me meat undamaged. You will learn hat utensils to use and how to choose ifferent grades of meat. You will learn ow to trim, season, marinate beef, tmb, poultry and fish. And how to prepare the appropriate sauces for each. Then Michael Field will lead you step-by-step through the preparation of his own internationally-acclaimed recipes. You can start with Beef Shashlik, Broiled Leg of Lamb, Broiled Deviled Chicken, or any of the dozens of recipes included in the lesson. And this is only Subsequent lessons include recipes for succulent roasts, elegant mousses, tempting appetizers, imaginative salads—dishes you never thought you could make so easily. Dishes that have dazzled guests around the world.

The course is divided into 12 monthly lessons, paced to fit comfortably into even the busiest schedule. Each lesson comes in a handsome, 96-page hardbound volume, illustrated in full-color. The books are designed to stay open and lie flat while in use. The larger-than-usual type and wipe-clean bindings are a special boon to the cook. Each lesson includes Michael Field's most exciting recipes using the techniques covered. All the recipes in the text are also printed on individual 3 x 5 varnished cards for easy reference.

Every month, too, you can look forward to "Culinary News and Notes," a newsletter that brings you extra tips and ideas on food buying and preparation, plus news of wines, cheeses, spices, helpful utensils all the many delights of gourmet dining.

In addition, Lesson One comes with a handsome slipcase to accommodate the first six volumes of the course. (A second slipcase will come with Lesson Seven.)

Personal supervision

Michael Field is so concerned with your success in this course that he will be available for any questions that may arise along the way. If you have any inquiries for him in connection with the lessons, you may direct them to him personally for a quick and complete reply.

Lessons costing $30 each in New York

At his New York cooking school, Michael Field can teach only a few people at a time and his fee, accordingly, is $30 a lesson. But this new exciting series, Cooking Lessons with Michael Field, enables him to teach hundreds of people everywhere at the same time. The cost of the 12 lessons you receive is only $5.95 each plus shipping and handling.

On the cover: The Christmas tree in Mr. and Mrs. Wyatt Cooper's Manhattan town house is not only a work of art (Mrs. Cooper is painter Gloria Vanderbilt) but also a family assemblage. As the Coopers describe it: "We trim it with collections that the family has had for centuries-shiny balls with Nativity scenes inside, see-through glass balls holding figures of angels and shepherds. Some of the ornaments we make or made ourselves-walnuts dipped in gold paint, popcorn chains, paper ornaments the big boys cut cut when they were little, along with candy canes and tinsel and a whole brigade of toy soldiers. When the tree's finished, it's completely encrusted from the trunk to the outermost needles." Glorious as it is, the free is only part of the holiday glitter at the Coopers. A Two-Letter Course in Fine French Wines.

B&G. French made easy.

BARTON & GUESTIER 36 FINE WINES IN ONE FINE FAMILY.

Imported by General Wine and Spirits Company, Browne-Vintners Division, NYC.

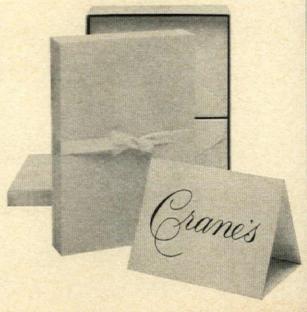

We hand-brushed the borders on Mrs. Grassi's notes.

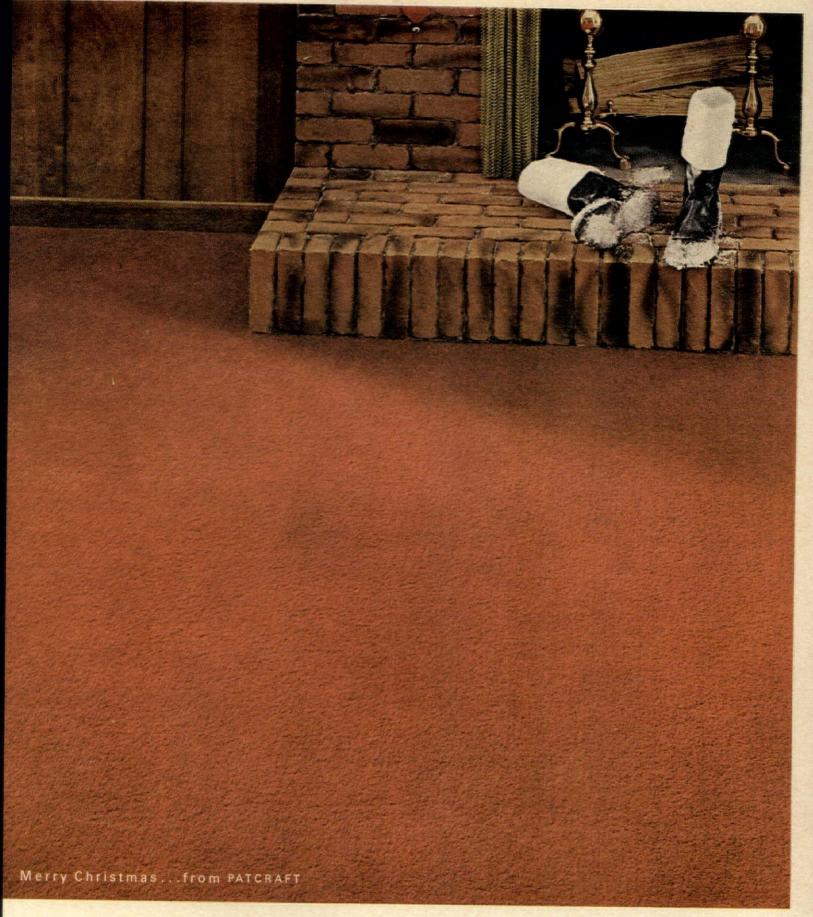

It's a nicety we believe you'll like, too. Our hand-brushed borders, in eye-striking colors, add to the character of your notes—the one you want to project. Gay, sophisticated, serene, utterly elegant—the choice is yours.

We add them to notes that are notably luxurious. These are made from paper that begins with the use of 100% rag fibers—a particular Crane custom. Our watermark underscores our discrimination and your good taste.

For notes and other papers that speak beautifully for you, see our designs. You won't find them everywhere. The jewelry stores, department stores, stationery and specialty shops that carry Crane are a select group . . . authorities on paper and paper "etiquette." They're the ones to consult, too, about formal invitations and announcements, both the paper and the engravings. And they have lovely Crane gift sets, many for under $5.

Our booklet, "About Letters, Notes and Invitations," comments helpfully on correspondence and papers. Write (enclosing 25¢ to cover handling cost) to Crane & Co., Inc., Dalton, Massachusetts 01226.

AH-H-H...

We used a computer to separate the men from the boys.

RCA's new Computer Crafted Stereo Tuners are designed to separate crammed-together-on-the-dial stations.

There you are. Listening blissfully to a fugue by Bach while trying to ignore the overlapping beat of some East Village group.

But when you try to get the fugue alone, the overlap may linger on.

With a lot of stations crammed together on the dial, both you and your tuner have trouble trying to figure which one to listen to.

So RCA engineers used computers to develop tuners that are especially designed to keep crowded stations apart. And pull in hard-to-get FM Stereo ones, too.

Tuners that are so sensitive and so strong, they set new RCA standards of performance.

On the production line, for example, computers test each part against performance standards stored in their memory banks before the part goes into the tuner.

And, if the part doesn't measure up to the engineer's original design, the computer lights up and rejects the part.

No ands, ifs, buts or excuses. 560 computer tests later—7 times as many as before the computer—the entire tuner is tested for optimum performance.

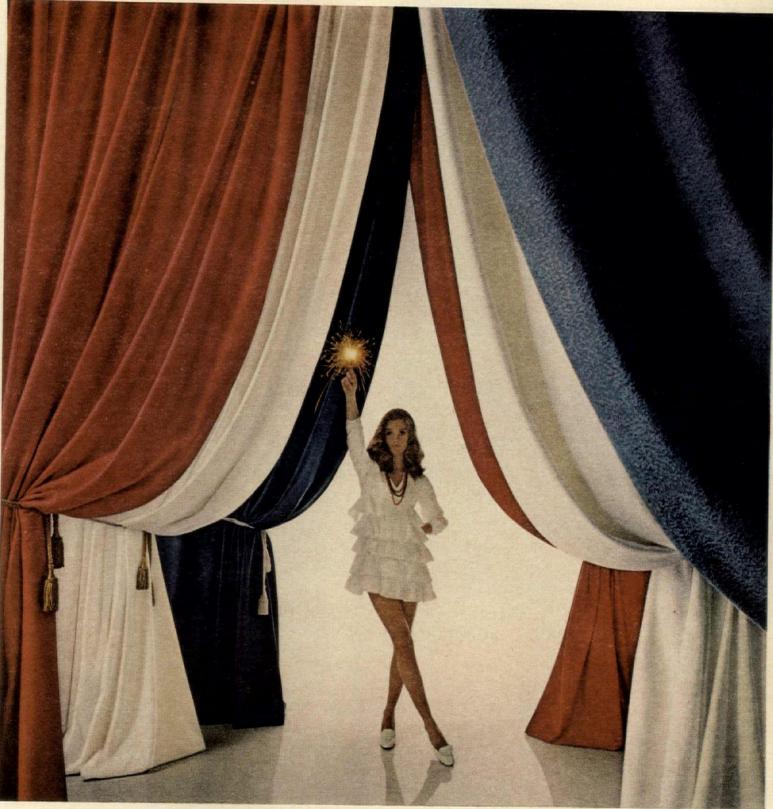

So the tuner you get not only separates stations better but also pulls in stations from farther away. Even out in the hinterlands.

Test-listen an RCA stereo with a Computer Crafted Tuner at your RCA dealer—one station at a time.

It's red, white and blue because you love the colors. It's Perma-Prest® because you hate to iron.

Just take the glorious flag colors of Sears "Pearl" draperies and put them all together. It's high fashion. And pure Americana.

But relax. Since these Neatnik™ draperies are Perma-Prest, they tumble dry and never need ironing. Now what could be more American than that?

Nothing. Unless you consider the rich jacquard weave, the sizes that fit just about any window. And the colors...well, we must admit there

Why you need a decorator

before you build

BY WILLIAM BALDWIN

f you are planning to build a house—and you want it to be designed perfectly from foundation to rooftop for the way you live-you should make friends with two people right off the bat. One is your architect. The other is your decorator.

Stenetural details affect decorating Not many people realize how important a decorator is even in the earliest stages of planning a house. Today, so many structural details affect the decorating of a house-often are a major part of it. I have found that some architects and clients plan houses from the outside in, concerning themselves far more with the pitch of the roof and shape of the windows than with what goes on inside. What looks beautiful from the road may be absolutely impossible to live in.

Even before you hire an architect, while you are still in the throes of deciding what kind of house you want-contemporary or traditional, tall or sprawling-take notice of the kinds of rooms you feel most comfortable in. If you find one that you think is in marvelous proportion, write down the dimensions, the height of the ceiling, the number of windows. Then the architect will have a concrete idea of what you like, and you'll never have to complain that "It's so much smaller than I expected," or "the ceiling is so low." I hear these laments too often-and too late.

After the plans are drawn and you are asked to approve them, you should sit down with your architect and decorator picky questions and ask a lot of picky questions.

Ask a lot of ill doors crash into the furniture or compete with each other for swinging space? Do some thinking about doors. You may feel the same as a woman I know who begins to fidget after sitting in a room for two minutes unless all the doors are closed. "Open doorways make your eyes wander out of the room," she says. "If there is the slightest amount of movement at the door, it snaps your concentration, rattles the peace, and interrupts your conversation." Doors that are kept closed most of the time should be more decorative, perhaps, or completely camouflaged so they blend with the wall.

room before you enter it? Are there enough wall sockets? I think wall sockets should be everywhere, sometimes even in the middle of the floor so you can have lamps there without snaking wires under the rug. Putting in lots of sockets as the house is being built costs almost nothing. Having a single one installed later can cost plenty. Have you thought enough about lighting fixtures? Some must be built into the house—spotlights for paintings and sculpture, lighting for bookshelves, lights in the floor, outdoor lighting for the garden. It's very important that the architect and decorator work out the lighting in great detail, perhaps even calling in a third professional—the lighting expert—to be sure it is all perfect the first time.

Reading a blueprint can be misleading

The reason you must be so picayune is that reading a blueprint is so often misleading-you can hardly ever picture what the room will actually look like. One of the first things I look for in a blueprint is whether there is enough wall space for the furniture you will need. I was looking over some plans one afternoon, and there they were-all those huge windows again, taking up the whole master bedroom. "Will you kindly tell me," I asked in exasperation. "where I am expected to put the bed?" "Mr. Baldwin," the architect said smiling, "those windows begin exactly 13 feet from the floor." I was speechless. He handed me the elevation blueprint, and I could see then that the bedroom was just like a tower, with the whole top of glass. It was incredibly beautiful.

いいないのという。大学でいるのはははなるとのという

levations are as important as the floor plans and must be read as carefully. So often after the house is done, you find an awkward window or even discover you don't like one whole side of the house. Then you hear the terrible phrase: "Don't worry, we can plant it out." Will someone please explain why you should spend vast amounts to build the house of your dreams and then plant it out? How much more logical—and less costly—to take more time in the initial planning.

Recently, I was asked to decorate a kind of auditorium in the South. I was so impressed by what the architect had done that I decided to ask him how he thought the interior should be attacked. But when he began to talk about colors, I was aghast. "Those colors will destroy the lines," I said, "the incredibly beautiful flow that you want." I'll never understand how he could have created such a masterpiece without being able to follow it through. I suppose that's just the kind of thing that makes one man an architect and another a decorator—and makes you need them both to build the perfect house.

"People come to architects to improve the quality of their lives."

SAYS RICHARD MEIER

RICHARD MEIER. thirtyfive, has been professor of architecture at the Cooper Union for the Advancement of Science and Art since 1962. All the houses he has designed have excited editorial comment, and many received national hane awards for excellence. Mr. Meier has described his designs for residences as intellectual exercises. They are also, as the Saltzman house on page 78 shows, stimulating places in which to live.

What is exciting about today's residential architecture?

What's happening is a kind of awareness. The fixed idea of what a house should be is changing, so things are possible in residential design that weren't before. People are saying "Hey, that's a nice way to live," instead of thinking of a house as a means of storage, so to speak, as they did a few years ago. People are becoming more concerned with the experience of living in a house. It is not simply a lot of rooms in which one makes do. I think people are coming to architects more and more because they want to improve the quality of their livesthey want their environment to be more stimulating.

What makes a good client?

One who listens to the architect. No, one who is able to articulate specific needs, is open to suggestions. One who will think about such questions as: Do you read in bed? Where do you read? Is television an important part of your life style? In terms of your family: Where do you need to be private? Where don't you need privacy? There's a very important hierarchy in the definition of community spaces and private spaces in any house.

The Saltzman house has many glass areas, as do most of your houses. Do people ask "how am I going to curtain them?"

No. They're designed in such a way that there is no problem of privacy. Light enters the spaces

Our Bounce shag carpet. When you step on it, it won't lay down and die.

Some shags have a very short life expectancy.

You see that thick pile of theirs makes them extremely vulnerable. And after a while, the crush of feet and couches and piano legs and coffee tables finally does them in.

But that's why we made Bounce. To bounce back.

This carpet is made with Du Pont 100% continuous filament nylon.

Now nylon has long been famous for its toughness and resiliency. But this nylon is especially tough.

Even Junior's lead foot won't get it down.

What's more, it's easy to clean, it's moth-proof, it's non-allergenic, and it won't mildew.

Bounce comes in your choice of 21 different colors and patterns.

So if you want a shag that won't lay down and die, visit a dealer and ask to see Bounce.

SEARS ROEBUCK 1902 CATALOG

A MERICA AT THE TURN OF THE CENTURY. When penny candy was king...when knickers were a boy's best friend and when a woman showed ankles, maybe. Enjoy all the nostalgia of a young, still largely rural America in this remarkable, and amusing book. Published in the Spring of 1902, this Sears Roebuck catalog mirrors the dreams and needs of Americans at a time when life was far less complex...much more fun, and cost far less!

Buggies were the rage. The 1906 Pure Food and Drug Act was four years away and you could still get a Sure Cure for Tobacco Habit...Dr. Rose's Arsenic Complexion Wafers and a white Ribbon Secret Liquor Cure. And prices were something else again ... Toothbrushes 3¢...a drophead sewing machine guaranteed for 20 years and priced at only $10.45...a solid oak home organ for only $22...and high button leather shoes only $1.98!

All are beautifully illustrated with fine line steel engraving of the period.

This great book is over 700 pages, a large 8½" x 10%" (the actual size of the 1902 catalog) and has more than 40,000 items, carefully illustrated and fully described. It's really a joy to read, with a lesson in thrift and true American thinking for every member of the family... nostalgia for the older, an education for the young. It's a wonderful book, a wonderful gift, and at $3.98, a lot more for the money than you can find today. Only 1 printing—the supply is really limited. Order today. It's worth it!

so that curtains or draperies are not necessary. And it works. For example, when you are looking out through the glass walls in the Saltzman living room, you never get the feeling of being cut off. I didn't want a window in their third level balcony, partially because of how it would look from the outside, but principally for the reason that the sense of enclosure would be lost with the insertion of a window where spaces open on to other spaces, which then open out. Also, it was more important to see out in that direction from the other side of the space. There should be a sense of privacy and enclosure when you're in so small an area.

Why is the pool so separate from their house?

A swimming pool is one type of place and a house is another. During the winter months—and this is a year-round house—a pool is unused. Since it has to be covered up in one way or another, it is apt to look rather forlorn. So, out of sight, out of mind.

Is wood the best building material?

Not necessarily the best, but the most economical and most traditionally American building material. I think it's an artificial notion that wood is not permanent. Look at the traditional houses of America—all wood houses. The reason wood is used so much is partially due to the labor situation. No matter where you're building, you can put up a wood house. It's not so easy to put up a concrete house or plexiglass skin—there just is not the technical know-how.

How can one save money on a house?

Wood construction is going to be less expensive than masonry most of the time and in most locations. Also, the way space is used can bring more enjoyment for a longer time. For example, I would suggest building one great bathroom as we did in the Saltzman house instead of two adequate ones. Not just a bathroom, a place.

Why are all your houses white?

That's what they should be. I could say, "Why not?" I think in terms of white. Henry Ford said, "Cars can be any color as long as they're black." And I know what he meant. Certain things should be colorful, and other things shouldn't be. A phenomenon of today's society—it's a very decorative society—is that everything has to be an object that shouts out, "Hey, look at me, I'm red, white, and blue, or fluorescent." Most of the time it's "I'm hideous." It seems to me that there's a hierarchy of objects, and everything doesn't have to cry out for attention.

Is white a better background for furniture?

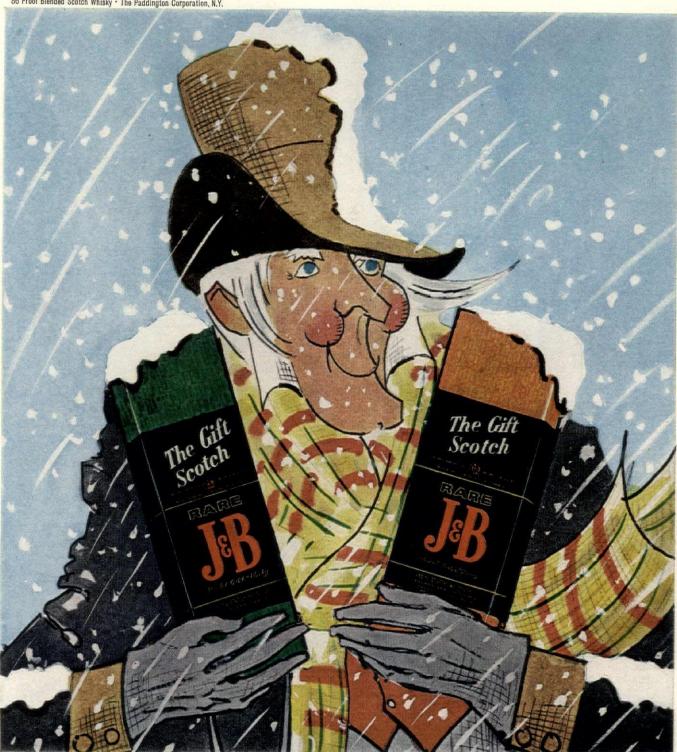

Oh, I think it is. It depends on the kind of furniture. I don't believe in object furniture.

What do you mean by object furniture?

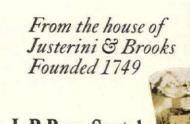

Where each element of furniture is an object and cries out for attention—distinct and separate from all other objects.

Take a great chair—I don't think each place one sits has to be an object piece of furniture. Certain seating should be built in, should be an extension of the architecture. The house is a place to live in, it's not a stage on which one places furniture. It's organized for the way it works. It can change, it can be altered, you can move things around but surely not all the time. It's not good to keep shifting things, unless it's that kind of a space. If a house has a view, has priorities in the way in which one sees out and in the way light comes in, you can't keep pushing things around and have the space work properly.

How do children change your thinking about a house?

When there are children, it is important for each person to follow his own pursuits while at the same time relating to the others. The architect must create natural ways for the family to come together as well as to be apart. Natural ways of giving children and parents their own places. Also, to build in ways the house can absorb the changes in their needs as they grow up.

Does it take longer to build a house with an architect?

It takes more energy to work with an architect than merely to say to a contractor, "I want a house like that one you built down the street only give me an extra bedroom." There's more input, it's more time-consuming, and I don't recommend that someone who doesn't want to expend that energy go to an architect. You have to care about art in building. You have to want art strongly to get it. You don't go into a print shop on Lexington Avenue and buy a great master that you just happen to find lying around in the back under some dust. You have to know what you're looking at, you have to educate yourself, you have to work at whatever it is you're going to be involved in. Otherwise, don't do it. You can't just swim by jumping in the water.

Do you want your clients to be actively involved?

I think for a house to be good they must be involved. Often, a good building is an education process for both the owners and the architect. Building a house entails a lot of energy and a lot of work. So everyone involved has to really care and be continually and acutely aware, otherwise all the energy and time to create become totally irrelevant and of no value.

How would you say your admiration of Le Corbusier influenced the Saltzman house?

Well, I think there's no question that an influence is shown by the importance of natural light and the way in which that light comes into a space. Le Corbusier was always concerned with that, as well as the interrelationship and definition of spaces, the "free plan" and the way in which a column as a structural support also serves as a space-defining element. And I guess the relation of the building to the site is probably also influenced by Le Corbusier. The expression of the building not as an extension of nature, but rather as a counterpoint to nature. In other words, an opposition in attitude serving to define each more clearly.

GOOD LOOKS & GOOD HEALTH

BY REBECCA WARFIELD

A PLAY FOR CHRISTMAS

Mightn't you give more this Christmas? More than an inanimate object. More than any grounded thing that has edges, limits, bounds? Fragrance, while superpersonal, is still completely untrammeled, unearthbound, has the power to ring the wearer in a zone of communication where there is motion and emotion, revealed truth, and sometimes amazing consequences. What goes on there is an open dramatization of a hidden inner life. Exactly what takes place in this induced atmosphere depends on the skill and brilliance, the intellectual concept, and the poetic creativity in the formulation of each scent. At its very best fragrance lives, is true human drama. Here, a few ways to give a pass—or passes—to someone you know, man or woman, for this living theatre, some of it specially staged for Christmas....

DAYS OF WINE AND ROSES... The concept here, pure pleasure, the atmosphere, fantasy, and the subject, roses (reason why the orchestra seats are so costly—Bulgarian roses are the rarest, most sought after, smallest, sweetest roses and now cost two thousand dollars a pound): PATOU'S great audience pleaser JOY.

A LION IN WINTER... Story of civilized man, his subtlety, his controlled power: In a bottle decorated with a lion and a lily, LILY PULITZER'S smooth new cologne MEN'S STUFF.

TOYS IN THE ATTIC... Two pantomimes concerned with the incomparable charm of the very small: Inside a tiny, tiny doll's change purse of golden metal with a turquoisey stone in its side, the no-holds-barred appeal of ESTÉE LAUDER'S frank YOUTH DEW... In a midget silvery snuffbox, carved with the pattern of a breaking wave, her ESTÉE, a stylized adventure-romance that holds interest all the way.

PRIVATE LIVES . . . The excitement, tension, ecstasy, and conflicts involved in a strong sex-draw between two people: REVLON'S insightful INTIMATE.

ODD MAN OUT... A story about the man who refuses either to be All American or a typical Continental. He is represented by a cologne like no other: witty, peppery SIGNOR VIVARA by EMILIO PUCCI.

DESIGN FOR LIVING . . . Set for Christmas in a golden cigarette-lighter case with an impressive letter N on its side (for Napoleon? Norman? Never? Now?): a classide

Takes The 'Pressure-Pain' Out Of Your Nervous Headache In Minutes

... so relaxes its nervous tension, releases painful pressure on nerves ... you feel great again.

The pressures of today's hectic world often give people today's nervous tension. And nervous tension causes the most common headache of all. Tension presses on nerves and tiny blood vessels in your head, then brings on a 'painful pressure' headache. You want the quick strength of Anacin® for real relief.

Anacin is a special fortified formula that turns off headache pain in minutes, so relaxes its tension, releases painful pressure on nerves. Helps you feel great again. And the soothing effect continues for hours.

Anacin gives you 100% more of the specific pain-reliever doctors recommend most for headaches—than the other leading extra strength tablet. Powerful Anacin helps relieve a painful pressure headache but doesn't dull your senses. Smooth, gentle acting, too. Next time take Anacin Tablets.

HOUSE OF FLOWERS . . . A pastiche of blossoms, each making an occasional point as the wearer moves, altogether a message of great femininity: ADELE SIMPSON'S engaging new COLLAGE.

THE MALTESE FALCON . . . Nearly insoluble detective play. In a remarkable, delicately wrought, Benvenuto Cellini-like small sculpture of a falcon, is a cache of solid perfume. Lift one wing to find the treasure: the pleasure of CORDAY'S FAME.

THE WILD BUNCH... A long-running attraction in nine scenes, a United Nations of shaving cologne. All in a special dispatch case or one country at a time (Sweden, Germany, Brazil, Hong Kong, France, Spain, Ireland, Italy, England): NINE FLAGS.

PROMISES, PROMISES... This famous scent gives the impression of handsome people at a dazzling party. Give one of them LANVIN'S ARPEGE.

THE SOUND OF MUSIC . . . This scene is a small dark hideaway where gypsy violins are playing The sound: PRINCE MATCHABELLI'S moving STRADIVARI.

A FUNNY THING HAPPENED ON THE WAY TO THE FORUM and/or Acropolis. In a riotous, campy copy, in milk glass, of a caryatid from the Parthenon: about 12 inches worth of delicious bath oil by AVON.

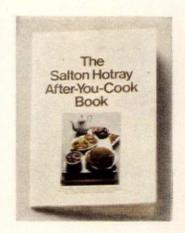

SWEET BIRD OF YOUTH... A very happy tale of youth and beauty, high-spirited and light-hearted MISS DIOR.

TIGER AT THE GATES . . . On its package, a lean carved antique beast, itself, a lemony kind of scent: SIGNO-RICCI a spray cologne by NINA RICCI.

Finally. An After-You-Cook Book.

You shop. You prepare. You season. You marinate. You stir. You slave. You pull out of your oven a virtual feast that is if the king is caught in traffic? Or your guests would like

That's why we've written the After-You-Cook Book.

It's a small booklet. And it's all about Hotray®. Because Hotray is the whole story.

In a word, Salton Hotray protects your dinner after you've cooked it. It can do this because the temperature of its radiant heat, glass panel is thermostatically controlled to a point right under the cooking point. Thus, the food on it neither continues to cook, nor to stand around growing cold.

This means that those late-coming husbands and extra-drink guests will no longer pay the price of an overcooked and dried out dinner.

And when dinner is finally served, Hotray will put an end to your jumping up and down from the table.

You just put the entire dinner on Hotray, put Hotray on the dining table and serve from there. Firsts will taste like firsts. And seconds will taste as good as firsts.

Of course, there's much more to Salton Hotray. But to find it out you'll need our book (which also contains a special section of gourmet recipes), or Hotray itself.

Get both. You'll find out how good a cook you really are.

Hotray electric food warmers are available from 6.95 to 54.50. At fine stores in the U.S.A. and Canada.

WHAT IS STATUS?

IN THE MIDDLE AGES: Milady's hennin, a towering, conical headdress, was worn as a barometer of her economic standing. Its height rose and fell with the fullness and leanness of the family purse, and loyal wives refused to be "high-hatted" by any women they suspected of being poorer than themselves.

family From Customs & Curiosities, page 524 VOGUE'S BOOK OF ETIQUETTE AND GOOD MANNERS

TODAY, a woman's status is measured by her grace, tact and assured knowledgeability... not by the height of her hat. It takes much more than a material symbol to give her direction, acceptance and finally distinction, in the many roles now expected of her as wife, mother, career woman, dietician, cook, hostess, handyman, taste-setter... and on... and on.

With so many responsibilities, a woman needs a reliable, very up-to-date guide to correct and attractive behavior in hundreds of situations. And now it exists—after three years of meticulous preparation . . . the new, completely revised edition—just off the press—

BOOK OF ETIQUETTE AND GOOD MANNERS

... an entire reference library in one comprehensive volume!

It carries the prestige and dependability of a magazine that has been the recognized authority on taste for the last 75 years. It is a definitive, democratic reference work concerned with the attitudes and social procedures that have authentic value today. It puts etiquette in a totally new perspective—as a highly personal code based on consideration for others, good taste, and respect for still-valid traditions.

Here is a book to use on a thousand occasions . . . whether you're entertaining for two or two hundred . . . writing to your son's brand-new fiancée or your senator . . . arranging a wedding or giving a surprise party . . . traveling at home or abroad . . living alone or sharing an apartment . . . meeting new neighbors or a new boss . . . speaking in public . . . furnishing a house . . . learning a sport . . . raising money for a cause . . . introducing an ambassador . . . applying for a job . . . dining with business associates . . . starting a conversation . . . choosing a suitable wine . . . borrowing from a friend . . . facing an emergency . . . accepting a formal invitation . . . eating a lobster.

VOGUE'S BOOK OF ETIQUETTE AND GOOD MANNERS comes to grips with problems that are not discussed fully—if at all—in other reference books of its type. Timely subjects such as Manners and Money . . . Religious Ceremonies ranging from Bar Mitzvahs to Ordinations . . . The Large Family Dinner . . . The Backyard Swimming Pool—are examples. You will find all the information you will ever want or need in this 768 page guide to modern living. And you can put your trust in every word.

Here is a book to consult confidently, a book to own with pride and give with pride.

What a suitable present: for the mother of the bride-to-be, so she can plan a flawless wedding . . . for the new bride, so she can cope with her new responsibilities . . . for the young mother, so she can properly guide her children!

What an intelligent present: for schools, libraries, churches, con mittee chairmen, various organizations, institutions and business firms

What a thoughtful present: for relatives and friends who love t entertain and be entertained!

People who prize fine music make Magnavox the number one stereo console in the world.

Year after year Magnavox is number one. Because more people realize that Magnavox is the unchallenged leader in the flawless re-creation of music. Magnavox has engineered precise musical fidelity and purity of tone into each stereo instrument. New air-suspension speakers, in many of this year's models, add even greater presence to music... from records, stereo FM/AM radio or tape.

Notes for

the hostess

BY MARY MOON HEMINGWAY

The Christmas season is not only a time for big parties, but also a time for intimate gatherings—inviting two close friends, perhaps, who share your passion for caviar, to an elegant small feast thereof complete with all the accompaniments: sweet butter, onion and lemon, homemade Melba toast, and lots and lots of ice-cold, dry white wine. If anything is needed after this, you could provide lemon ice, gaufrettes, and black coffee.

Or what about inviting older persons—those who are no longer up to much night life—to a grand tea party? Serve thin, thin bread-and-butter sandwiches, watercress sandwiches, Smithfield ham on beaten biscuits, individual angel food cakes, and Florentines. And give your guests plenty of time to enjoy them.

Another idea: two tables for bridge, beginning play early with just enough nibbles to stave off starvation and keep the senses alert. Then when the games are finished, have a superlative midnight supper: Crab Andrew (a mixture of butter, cream, mustard, A-1 Sauce, sugar, and hollandaise sauce; spiked with lemon juice and heated together; the lump crab meat added just before serving), wild rice, Bibb lettuce, and cranberry crisp (a crunchy betty with cranberries instead of apples), served hot with a cold lemon or orange sauce.

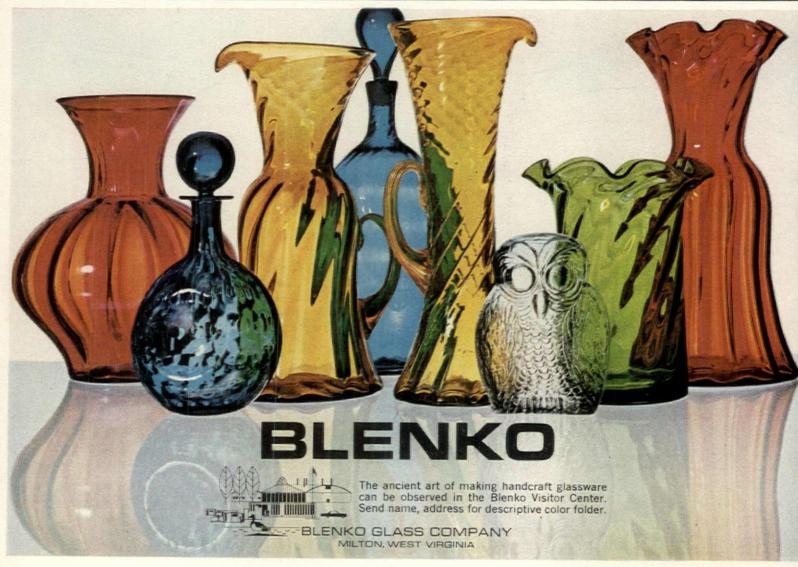

One of the most delicious little bits of nonsense I have seen in a long time is a tiny bisque box—really just a trompe l'oeil bauble—that is a reproduction of a small stack of LU Petit Beurre biscuits. I'm going to buy six of them to use for fondue butters, individual butter dishes, cheese mixtures, or anything else I can think of—they are so appealing. The boxes are at Soupçon, 147 East Seventieth Street, New York, N. Y.

Every once in a while, to my discomfort, a last minute check of my dinner party table shows me that a piece of silver here and there needs touch-up polishing. Now that I keep a pair of Aladdin's polishing gloves in the sideboard, it's no great problem. The gloves are marvelously efficient, good for regular polishing, too, as the hand-in-glove action helps bring about that patina, which is the glory of old silver.

Have you ever thought:

Of a most simple yet sensational sauce for ham—a jarful of guava jelly mixed with lots of prepared mustard and heated up in a double boiler.

Of the superlative combination: coffee ice cream, bitter chocolate sauce, crushed macadamia nut brittle, and grated fresh coconut.

PRESENTING GODARD

England's finest waxes, polishes and cleaners; famous for six reigns.

BY APPOINTMENT TO

H.M. QUEEN ELIZABETH II
MANUFACTURERS OF
SILVER POLISHES
J. GODDARD & SONS, LTD.

For your fine furniture... Goddard's Cabinet Maker's Wax.®

For centuries, British cabinet makers set the world's furniture trends. Chippendale, Hepplewhite, Sheraton . . all were cabinet makers whose names have lived on in the masterpieces they created. These men knew that fine wood could not go uncared for and unprotected . . . so they developed wax formulas to polish their masterpieces to a lustrous patina. Many of these formulas were based on beeswax, to provide the ultimate in protection and to retain the furniture's beauty. Quite unabashedly, Goddard's has appropriated their know-how and have made it available to you. Goddard's Cabinet Maker's Wax, rich in beeswax and available to you in a choice of delicate fragrances... Lavender, Lemon Verbena and Sandalwood. Goddard's Cabinet Maker's Wax for truly fine furniture.

The quality of British woollens is famed the world over. To care for and protect them, Goddard's has developed a superb cleaner that cleans so gently that it will not yellow even the most delicate woollens, yet cleans so thoroughly that it restores the garments and maintains their like-new appearance. Goddard's Wool Care. For none but the very best woollens.

For your favoured silver... Goddard's Silver Care.

Historically, England has produced some of the world's finest silver pieces. Her silversmiths are said to have few peers. England's silver polishes enjoy a similar reputation. Since 1839, when Joseph Goddard invented polish for silver plate, Goddard's has been England's leader in silver care. Today, Goddard's Silver Care maintains this tradition: a combination of the finest silver polish and an unusual tarnish preventive to give your silver a brilliant finish that will last and last. Goddard's Silver Care. The only polish of its kind.

For immaculate clothing... Goddard's Dry Clean.

Whether their attire is Saville Row or Carnaby Street, the English are noted for their meticulous care in dress. Until recently, no spot remover could meet the exacting standards of the British. Now there is one. Goddard's Dry Clean. This remarkable product sprays on wet, then dries to an absorbent white powder that lifts out stains rather than spreading them. Its spray contains many of the same solvents used by professional dry cleaners, combined with a special chemical that absorbs stains without harming the fabric. The result is an incredibly effective spot remover. So effective, in fact, that it meets the standards of the fastidious English. Rest assured, it will also meet yours.

For your cherished pewter... Goddard's Pewter Care.

The manufacture of pewter is one of Britain's oldest traditions, dating back to the time when armies of Imperial Rome occupied England. In the twenty centuries that have passed since then, English pewterers have consistently produced some of the world's best pieces. Whether your collection is made up of dark antique pewter or the bright, durable pewter produced today, there is only one proper way to keep its elicate surfaces glowing perfectly.

delicate surfaces glowing perfectly. Goddard's Pewter Care. Not only a polish, Pewter Care is also a restorative. It can take off the heaviest tarnish without damaging the fragile metal below. And, because it rinses away, Pewter Care will save you hours of tedious work. Goddard's Pewter Care. Because your collection deserves only the best.

BY LOUISE ADE BOGER

Can you give me any information about this old stove made by Chaney-Hunter of Rochester, N.Y.—and perhaps its age? E.S.H.—Aiken, S.C.

Your decorative, four-column, wood-burning parlor stove dates around the eighteen-forties. The columns, which support a horizontal piece with an opening for a stovepipe, help spread the heat. Recently an amazing number of people have become interested in the more elaborate examples of parlor stoves because of their ornamental appeal.

AMERICAN BANJO CLOCK

I have been told that my clock is a museum piece. "A. Willard, Jr., Boston" is printed on its face. The clock is wound once a week and keeps perfect time. Can you add to my information about it?

E.T.A.—Coos Bay, Ore.

Aaron Willard, Jr., made your banjo clock sometime between 1823 and 1850, the years he was in business. The clock probably is a museum piece, depending upon how much of it is original.

IRIDESCENT GLASS DISH

The word "Quezal" is printed on the bottom of this candy dish, which belonged to my mother. What can you tell me about it? J.S.C.—Washington, D.C.

The short-lived Quezal Art Glass and Decorating Company, active in Brooklyn from 1916 to 1918, turned out lovely pieces of iridescent glass. The name came from the quezal bird of Central America noted for its long feathers of iridescent golden green. The popularity of this kind of glass reached its peak in America between 1910 and 1920.

STAFFORDSHIRE DINNER SET

I recently inherited the remnants of my great-grandmother's dinner set of oriental design. I have sketched the markings on the bot toms of the pieces. Might this pos sibly be Chinese export porcelain? J.E.H.-Middletown, R.I

Your dinner service bears the mark—a swan over the initials J.B -of James Beech who produced earthenware from 1877 to 1889 at the Swan Bank Works, Tunstall and Burslem, Staffordshire

Chinese export ware, always porcelain, never bears a factory mark

This chest is one of a pair I own and would like identified. They are 291/2 inches high with black-andwhite marble tops. The chests are mahogany with flower inlay in pale vellow and leaf inlays in light and dark green. B.P.C.-Hickory, N.C.

Your pair of small cupboards are in the Art Nouveau style. They probably date around 1900 to 1910 and probably were made in France.

ART NOUVEAU CUPBOARD

My wife was given this glazed porce lain Chinese statue thirty-five year, ago. We heard that during the Ming dynasty women used the hollow cen ters of these statues to transpor valuables and carried them in the long sleeves of their kimonos. Is the statue really Ming?

J.A.K .- Tucson, Ariz

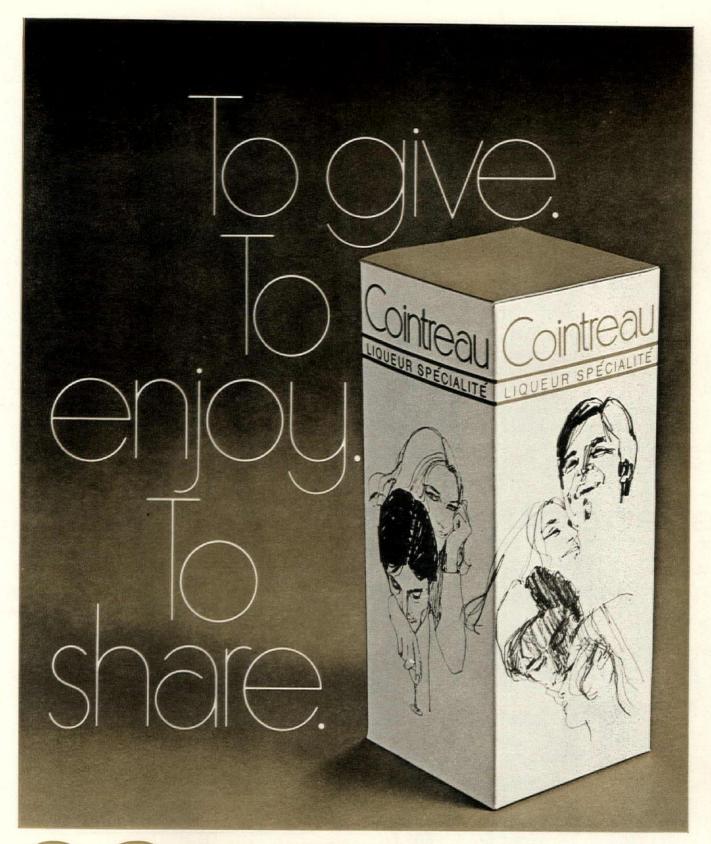

Your Chinese figurine is of late eighteenth- or nineteenth-century manufacture, not Ming. If it were, the modeling of the figure would be quite different. Ceramic figurines are of necessity hollow, to allow for shrinkage when they are fired in the kiln, but the mate rial is too fragile to permit them to be used for any but ornamental purposes.

My three-handled vase is 71/2 inches high, decorated with grapes and vines. My curiosity is piqued by the mark: a CAC monogram in a circle, with an artist's palette and brushes above to the left and the word "Belleek" printed below. This is not the usual Belleek mark.

Although Belleek was first made in Ireland, it was also made at several American potteries. Your Belleek cup was made by the Ceramic Art Company, established in 1889 at Trenton, N.J., by Jonathan Coxon, Sr., and Walter S. Lenox. In 1906, the firm was renamed Lenox Inc.

Notes of a happy housekeeper

BY MARY ELIZABETH FALTER

I have always approached a hot casserole with extreme caution. Most of ours are enameled iron and they bake divinely, but it takes steady well-padded hands and a cool head to maneuver them out of the oven. Evidently someone else shared my trepidation and designed "Casserole Paws"-an almost yard-long padded potholder with pockets in the ends for your hands. Just being that well protected gives you more confidence, which is half the battle in warding off accidents.

Baking has never been my thing, but I've vowed to turn over a new leaf and try to produce some holiday goodies. I looked up a recipe for fruit cake, and I'm all ready to roll up my sleeves and begin. Part of my enthusiasm comes from the fact that we recently acquired a dandy food grinder called the Grind-O-Mat that ought to make quick work of chopping all those fruits and nuts. Alice Winslow put me on to it when she heard I'd all but given up making anything that required grinding or mincing. Our old grinder had a million easy-to-lose parts. It was heavy, awkward, and hard to fasten to the counter, and every time I tried to use it I banged my knuckles. The Grind-O-Mat is just the opposite on every score: It locks into place with a vacuum device, the handle is high enough to spare my knuckles, and the whole thing is easy to store. There is only one extra cutting screen, and I simply stick that to the base of the grinder with a bit of tape when I put it away. No more hunting through the kitchen drawer for blades, washers, and butterfly screws.

Since we moved to this house, Sally has never stopped complaining about the fact that her bathroom has no shower. One day she saw an ad in a magazine for a thing called Shower-All, so to appease her we called our plumber. Yes, he could get one with the proper fitting to attach it to the tub faucet. In a few days he arrived and installed the new device in a matter of minutes. It looks a bit like a telephone: A flexible metal cablelike tube carries the water to a receiverlike spray head that you hang on a hook (which comes with it) next to the faucet. The Shower-All has its own valve that diverts the water from the faucet when you turn the shower on. And since the shower head can be held close to the body, the water doesn't splash all over the place so you don't need a shower curtain. Great for Sally's almost daily shampoos.

editors' on people and things

ust for fun, we asked a few people we know what they're loing for Christmas. They have ome lovely ideas for feasting and festivities ...

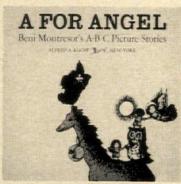

Joshua Logan, director, and is wife, Nedda, follow the Southern custom of trimming the tree week ahead of time so that riends and family can come and out their presents under it early. 'I'm also old-fashioned enough," Mrs. Logan says, "to like that plum pudding in the shape of a nigh hat, flaming with brandy as it comes in."

Skitch Henderson, conductor. and his German wife, Ruth, trim 20-foot tree in their New York nouse with edible baked ornaments, which they and their two children make every year. They pake in the wire loops and leave the shapes in their natural colors. On Christmas Day, everyone eats his work off the tree-"including several dogs, who eat the bottom." On the first Sunday in Advent, Mrs. Henderson puts a fresh wreath decorated with fruit on the table, then adds one fat candle (each with a story to it) for every Sunday until Christmas.

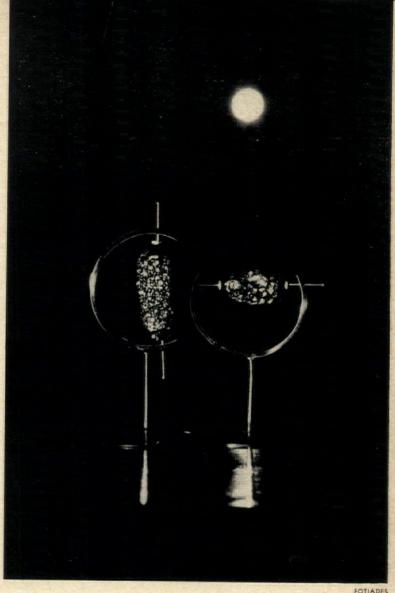

Sherrill Milnes, Metropolitan Opera baritone, and his father planted a number of trees on their Illinois farm many years ago. Since then they have cut down a tree each year, driven it to New York, and dressed it with international ornaments. A good idea, we think, for those who have a spot to do some planting.

Someone we know is giving moon rocks. Tektites, right, those tiny black rocks that are actually small bodies of pocked silicate glass, could be the present of the year - and museum pieces of the future. Tektites are believed to have started showering to earth as molten droplets about 700,000 years ago from the shock of a giant meteorite crashing on the moon. Now they're available mounted on 5-inchtall, hand-made brass stands designed by Marguerite Stix. Rock sizes vary; prices, including stands, are: 1 inch, $25: 11/2 inch, $50; 2 inch, $100. At International Gem, 15 Maiden Lane, New York, 10038.

Beni Montresor is a theatre designer and book illustrator. His is a wonderful old-world Christmas at home in his native

Venice. "Mama cooks a sevencourse lunch Christmas Day that includes cappelletti, a candy-size, handmade pasta containing seasoned chopped meat. Then three kinds of meat courses with Venetian wine, and cake. I take American presents with me. I'm giving the children my new alphabet book, A For Angel."

Leontyne Price, Metropolitan Opera singer, takes New York presents back with her to her tiny home town of Laurel, Mississippi. Her mother bakes a great big batch of fruit cakes to deliver to their family and friends on Christmas Day.

Jeane Dixon predicts that in the foyer of her Washington, D.C. house will be an antique. full-size children's sleigh colored Chinese red and with a carved. gilded lion on the front. During the year, it's filled with green plants, but at Christmastime she covers the seats instead with presents for needy children, puts a lighted Christmas tree in the bottom, festoons the sleigh with tinsel, ribbon, and jingle bells.

Laurindo Almeida, concert and recording guitarist, and his Portuguese wife eat a few pomegranate seeds for good luck, and then enjoy rabanadas, or French bread dipped in beaten egg and fried, then sprinkled with cinnamon and sugar.

Thalassa Cruso, the lady expert on indoor gardening, advises finding temporary storage for indoor plants, saying that "old rubber trees look ridiculous with Christmas decorations." Not content with just one Christmas tree, Mrs. Cruso lines the back porch with several more weighted down with stones in heavy pots. She also fashions a tepee of evergreens on the lawn for the birds to feed in. And she cuts up all the neighbors' discarded tree branches for mulch.

Julia Child hopes to finish the menus for her new cook book so that she can go to her house in Provence, France. "We always make our own foie gras with fresh truffles," she says. Last year James Beard and I sautéed the fresh, raw foie gras and made another stuffing for the suckling pig. I cook the foie gras right in Mason jars, then put up some of it for Easter. We go to Christmas Eve mass, then return to a réveillon, or midnight banquet.

One such three-dimensional collage she composed for a dinner for three, above: She covered the table first in silver paper, then in snowy lace—a shimmery foil for the mélange of candles, crystal paperweights, Nativity figures. "The Christmas tree is Victorian," she says, "crowded with tiny horns, silk roses, and at the top, a tiny wooden angel's head."

At another party, right, the rich bare wood of the table reflects a school of silver and jeweled fish, silver cups with horn handles, a coconut shell lined with silver. Dinner plates are shell-shaped; real shells hold butter—molded into tiny shells.

Ut really is a Christmas house at any time of the year"

"If the holidays are perfect, it's Gloria's doing," says her husband. "She is the most organized person I know. She'll say 'If we get the tree six days before Christmas, the needles will smell just right.' I would never think of that."

It is this same thoughtful attention to detail that makes the Coopers' house a delight all year long. Even after the greenery and tinsel are packed up until next year, light still sparkles through crystal; there are still all the bibelots that never really get put away, just rearranged in some more distant corner.

"We all love our Christmas house at any time of the year," says Mr. Cooper. "You can always feel the sense of vitality—the quiet stir of something special about to happen."

Mr. and Mrs. Cooper, who decorated the house entirely by themselves, think the people who actually live in a house should do more of their own decorating. "Too many people are overly concerned with having the right thing," she says, "it is only your own thing that matters."

The test of her respect for "one's own thing" are the private domains of her husband and two older sons, Stan, nineteen, and Christopher, seventeen. "The boys' rooms look just like hippie pads," she says. "And in the study, Wyatt spreads out all his material and works."

Mr. Cooper, the editor of Status magazine, wrote in his first issue, "I see no point in being editor of a magazine if you can't put your wife on the cover"—and then proceeded to do just that. His workroom at home is a landscape of books, manuscripts, photographs piled on every available surface. (Continued)

Mr. Cooper's velvet-walled study, top left, is crammed with books and manuscripts and all the other raw materials of an editor. Propped in a window is a panel of Renaissance stained glass-a lucky find in a junkyard. At the big desk across the room, center, surrounded by crowded bookshelves and a pair of aquariums, Carter and Anderson often join their father for a serious discussion of the day's events. In Mr. Cooper's bath, top right, a ceiling-high mirror reflects an amusing Rousseau-style mural painted on the walls and ceiling.

In the Coopers' bedroom, bottom left, the massive bed is hung with lace, covered with a curious patchwork spread made of fabric circles gathered into flat disks and stitched together. Mrs. Cooper sometimes covers her dressing table, opposite page, with patchwork too-when she is not borrowing the quilt for a table setting (see page 50). Arranged on the quilt are gleaming bottles, mirrors, combs, and shell boxes from Scotland. "I put the daisies and lilacs there because the simplicity of the flowers is so unexpected," says Mrs. Cooper. "All the gold looks so extravagant, the flowers so naive."

Beside the dressing table, and indeed all over the room, Mrs. Cooper has turned shelves, tables, and desk tops into backdrops for wonderful clusters of bibelots. "In the étagère by the bathroom door is a pair of absurd little poodles holding hats, and some very old English china castles—replicas of their owners' houses—and at the very top, an old doll head with a rather stern face."

In the adjoining bath, bottom right, balms and lotions and fragrant salts share an étagère with more pictures and collections. "On the second shelf is a set of antique English alphabet post cards a friend gave me," says Mrs. Cooper. "It took years to collect the cards—and they spell 'Gloria Cooper."

CENTENNIAL

PLENDOR OF DECORATION

House & Garden presents to its readers this keepsake feature of nine of the most beautiful period rooms in the world, photographed for the Metropolitan Museum Centennial. Beginning now and continuing into the spring of 1971, the celebration marks one hundred years of beauty and culture brought to the people of the United States. The foremost museum in the Americas, the Metropolitan has among its treasures a collection of European period rooms that are some of the greatest ever assembled. Two are being presented to the public for the first time as added excitement for the museum's one hundredth birthday jubilee.

Seen for the first time as part of the Metropolitan's Centennial Celebration is this salon, dated about 1735, from the Hotel de Varengeville in Paris. The museum describes its boiserie by Nicolas Pineau as possessing "a rococo virtuosity rarely matched by comparable ornament in France." Red lacquer writing table was made for Louis XV. Purchase, 1963. Funds given by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wrightsman.

Oby François Boucher; the little fire screen of carved and gilded beechwood once belonged to Marie Antoinette.

the third new exhibit, the Viennese Palais Paar Room, the Metropolitan Museum calls "the final chastened frolic of rococo before Neoclassicism." Purchase, 1963. Funds given by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wrightsman.

the Bordeaux Room is a circular room distinguished by its boiserie—delicately green and carved with the fantastic skill that reached its zenith in late eighteenth-century France. Gift of Mrs. Herbert N. Straus, 1943.

the Metropolitan Museum's Venetian Bedroom from the Palazzo Sagredo is dated about 1718. The wood and stucco decoration the museum calls "marked by the qualities typical of Italian Baroque." Rogers Fund, 1906.

the Crillon Room, 1777-1780, was possibly the Duc d'Aumont's bathroom before his Paris town house became the Hotel Crillon. Style is arabesque with painted cupids, birds, tiny animals. Anonymous Gift, 1944.

ated about 1682, the Metropolitan Museum's Swiss Room came from the "Little Castle" in Flims. Carved and inlaid decoration combines local figures with mythical animals and Renaissance motifs. Rogers Fund, 1906.

the Tapestry Room from Croome Court. With its Adam ceiling, Gobelins tapestries after designs by Boucher, it is a striking combination of English and French motifs. Gift of the Samuel H. Kress Foundation, 1958.

the Adam Dining Room from Lansdowne House in London. A Metropolitan Museum treasure, it is dated about 1768. Rogers Fund, 1931. Silver by Paul de Lamerie, gift of Mrs. Widener Dixon and Mr. George Widener.

our very personal expressions of the meaning of Christmas by four writers of different ages and backgrounds. Fact or fiction, each is especially relevant to our time

MERRY

BY JOHN STEINBECK IV

At the age of twenty-three, John Steinbeck IV is almost constantly en route from one spot in the world to another, says he is happiest and most at home in San Diego. Although he was a dropout "long before dropouts were in vogue," his book, In Touch, is an absorbing and highly literate account of his experiences in Vietnam and later in Washington.

As I write this, it's not Christmas yet, and thinking now of the coming event stirs only my memories of a Christmas in Vietnam, of Tet, the Vietnamese new year celebration, and a few fragments from my child-hood holidays. It would be wonderful to be able to say that this Christmas will be the best Christmas in my life, and to feel the moment as something thrilling or perfectly Christian, and I mean that in the most meek and ethereal sense of the word. But since I was sixteen, Christmas has often passed nearly unnoticed except for the commercial aspects of the holiday, which seemed always to overshadow everything.

On the eve of 1970, when you're too old to be singing boy soprano, despite the childhood memory of choiring in the high church, what does Christmas mean anymore? In America, beyond the platitudes of a secular fiesta of grotesque proportions in dollars and cents, what is Christmas? What will the festivities mean to my contemporaries? Most people are too jaded for Santa Claus by the time they're twelve. Judging from the way things are today, the whole concept of Christmas would have died fifty years ago but that Charles Dickens and O. Henry and a few poets breathed some life into it, which helped what remained of the warmth of the holiday to get this far.

No doubt there are millions of older Americans who have memories of Christmas with goose and turkey and cranberry sauce, and sleigh rides, and forages deep into the forest to get a prize tree, but unfortunately very little of this remains to cheer the children and youth of today. Department stores are the nuances of Christmas today with cocktail parties and big tips as the gestures of good will.

I remember my Christmas in Vietnam, when I was there in the Army, in an isolated outpost near Pleiku. For three weeks before Christmas, mail delivery had been regular and there were a lot of packages of crumbled chocolate chip cookies, fairly sturdy fruit cakes, and various kinds of gluey homemade candy. My friends and I ate it all immediately it arrived, and began to grow nostalgic in the evenings when Armed Forces Radio began to broadcast more and more Christmas carols every evening from Saigon. We felt this holiday was exclusively our own, and it suddenly became a sad one because we were in an Asian land. It was hard to imagine Santa Claus, even without the war, bounding down the tin smokestack of a thatched hut.

On Christmas Eve there was a cease-fire, although guard duty on our mountain-top post was still mandatory. We felt that though we might not be the picture of mufflered, snow-flecked carolers, we at least had the chance of not having to endure the nightly rocket attack. Inside the low-ceilinged tents surrounded by sandbags, the pinups and family pictures near each cot were peppered with bright-colored Christmas cards from home. It was so hot most of us had our shirts off. We'd piled the goodies from that day's mail in the middle of the room on the table with the tree made out of a pyramid combination of barbed wire and bayonets; the tree was trimmed with grenades and machine gun ammo belts for tinsel. We had our extra C rations of canned date pudding, chocolate bars, and crackers, and several cases of rapidly warming beer. We'd also pooled some money to get some Scotch from the black market in the town at the foot of the mountain.

I remember feeling that I was almost sorry Christmas had to be celebrated. We sat in a neon pool of light, drinking, eating, and sweating while the transistor radio reeled out Mel Torme singing "Chestnuts Roasting by the Open Fire" and repeated greetings sent to us boys out there in Vietnam by the President, various USO girl-voices, the Commanding General, and the Army announcer in Saigon, who was the only one who laughed when he said "Merry Christmas!"

Certainly for the GI, Christmas in Vietnam was what any Ernie Pyle fan would have loved. It gave us all a chance to feel like the great heroes of all the war movies we had grown up with. On Christmas Eve. marijuana or booze helped us all fantasize just what we would be doing if we were home right that instant. This was the great Christmas game. and by filibuster, you could tell the story as long as you could keep talking, but if you once tired, or paused to grab a beer, someone else would jump in with, "Well, that's pretty good, but that ain't nothing. Why if I was home, well let me see, right now it's almost Christmas morning, but back home in Massachusetts it's still the day before Christmas, and right now I'd be just driving my Chevy . . . did I ever tell you about the way I have my Chevy set up? ... well, anyway, I'd just right now, right this instant, be picking up my girl from her folks' house to take her over to my house to start putting the presents under the tree . . ." and the voices of fantasy would drift on the open Christmas caucus while everybody dreamed his own dream about where they would be at that precise moment if they weren't in a hole in the ground in the Nam.

The tragedy of those who would never see another Christmas was a terrible weight on the happiness of those of us who made it back; but for those who did, despite terrible homesickness, our Christmas in war gave some of our shabby lives a drama and pathos that was much better than watching war movies. Why, here we were starring in Guadalcanal Diary with much more guts and fortitude than Anthony Quinn or William Bendix ever gave to the role. For maybe the first Christmas, we were our parents' heroes to the man. You could almost hear them at their Christmas party and how they would be saying right now, "Merry Christmas everybody, and a toast and a prayer for our Billie away in Vietnam . . . that's him on the piano just after he got out of Basic."

But anyway you looked at it, Christmas remained pretty much a contrived affair. With these images and memories swirling in my brain, I cannot wonder that my generation has chosen to rebel against society, or to conclude that Christmas is meaningless. My generation is faced, seemingly, with two possibilities: either to hang on desperately and try to believe in the reality of the "old-fashioned" Christmas that the magazines give such great picture space to every year; or to accept the fact that Christmas is meaningless, especially in Vietnam burned out by almost thirty years of war.

These possibilities, and many more frightening ones, spurred me to go back to Vietnam as a civilian, after my discharge from the Army. The country fascinated me, and I wanted to go there without a uniform, be vulnerable to a way of life and thought I had only been able to be nourished by at a distance.

As a civilian in Saigon, I saw another aspect of Christmas. At first, watching the little kids move among the tables on the terrace of the Continental café selling Vietnamese Christmas cards to the officers and newsmen, I still thought of Christmas being an American, a Western celebration, and that the Vietnamese were only trying to make another quick dollar by catering to the round-eyes' whimsies. But as I walked down Tu Do street or Nguyen Hue street, I saw that all the stores and stalls were crammed with green plastic fir trees, gee-gaws that bristled and tinkled in the air, huge paper stars with a light inside them, box upon box and row after row of toys from Japan, France, and America, Hong Kong and Singapore. On a side street I saw maybe thirty different vendors of real fir trees as beautiful as I'd ever seen. They were brought down in trucks from the mountains of Dalat.

My impression still was that all this must be a further sign of the Americans' tendency to impose their cultural traditions, as well as their technology, upon the tiny country. (Continued on page 112)

BY DEE HARDIE

Mrs. Hardie, whose four children range from twelve to sixteen, won the Vogue Prix de Paris the year she graduated from Skidmore. She was married to an American in Paris and lived in Europe before she and her husband, now a Maryland businessman, settled down on their farm in one of the Baltimore valleys. For the Baltimore Sun, Mrs. Hardie writes a column, "A View from a Hill," which is now syndicated and appears in several newspapers in other cities.

Christmas is a child's pageant with small angels in tilted halos of tin foil and a wise man tripping along in his Dad's best dressing gown.

Christmas is an ostrich-plumed bed jacket when you had schemed for knee-length mink.

Christmas is a round, wide, wicker basket in the narthex of the church rising high with cakes and cans of food and one perky poinsettia sitting on top because Miss Alice, who put it there, said, "you can't live by bread alone, y'know."

Christmas is the day George Washington stood up in the boat, and Christmas is the little boy who found grass under the snow for the camels, as well as the reindeer.

Christmas is whatever you put into it, however you feel, a birthday party for everyone. Sometimes as unexpected as the smile of Scrooge, often as deliberate as a maiden aunt's shopping list. Christmas is a light in the dark of winter. For me, Christmas is a tree. Christmas trees always and everywhere.

* * *

That's why I left Paris. There were no Christmas trees. It was December 1949, my first Christmas away from home, my first taste of the champagne of Paris, the City of Light. But for me it was flat, and it was dark. I longed to see a tree with gaudy lights and a crooked star on top.

At home in Boston, the tree had always been our Christmas Eve, and the height of the tree measured my father's temper—usually too tall. It was always a night to remember, and the tree when finished, although the crew was exhausted, was the most magnificent, the most glorious, the best.

In Paris twenty years ago, the only tree I could find was in the window at Chez Dior on Avenue Montaigne. It was large, of course, all white on white on white. A Utrillo-like tree for the elegant clientele of Monsieur Dior. But I wanted a little peacock in my Christmas tree so I crossed the Channel for merrie olde England—London, to be exact.

Lord Nelson may not have been holding the highest Christmas tree in London while standing on his columned perch in Trafalgar Square, but he looked beautifully festive. All of London did. The spirit of Christmas wove in and out of the narrow centuries-old streets with the same rhythm as the curves of ribbon candy. Here, at last, I had found Christmas 1949. Rationing of sugar still existed, but eggs were flown in from Dublin and somehow contraband sugar was unearthed and there were plum puddings in largess. Roaring ones.

On Christmas Eve, friends sewed me into a borrowed, black lace dress. From time to time, as I remember, the silver thimble was filled with neat gin. (Obviously, "just a finger full" comes from moments such as this.) For dinner, the most succulent roasted pig was produced—a Christmas carol created, carved, and never quite forgotten.

Christmas in Madrid is Papa Noël and sausages wrapped in silver paper. Christmas in Maryland is special fish for a special time in the fish stalls of Baltimore's Lexington Market—cuttlefish and eels and smelts. Christmas is when you suddenly become the mother of Joseph as he walks on stage in yesterday's grain bag and your prize silk scarf.

* * *

For me, December 1950 was golden as well as silver. Wedding bells rang as well as the bells of Christmas. I flew from Boston to marry an American in Paris. He met me a few days before Christmas at Orly airport in a new fourteen-year-old Citroën convertible, a low chariot of azure blue. In the rakish "speed-aire," the now forgotten rumble seat, was standing a Christmas tree and up front, a bunch of violets, Paris violets.

The tree later proved to be the only decoration in our apartment in the Villa Guibert. We were married twice in one day—first in the vast mairie of the sixteenth arrondissement, then in the chapel of the American Cathedral on Avenue George V. In between we had lunch with the tree. A friend had magically touched that forlorn little evergreen, decked it with whatever was on hand, whatever was in reach. Baroque pearls, strings of them, sausage-like links of second-class metro tickets, red and white checked napkins tied in broad bows, and at the top, a gleaming tin cookie cutter in the shape of a heart.

On Christmas day, my husband and I (Continued on page 113)

Christmas is something else

Now thirty-three, Mrs. Clifton attended Howard University, lives in urban Baltimore, is the mother of six children who step up from three to ten. Her husband is educational coordinator for the Baltimore Model Cities Program and part-time member of the black studies faculty at Harvard. This year Mrs. Clifton published two books: Some of the Days of Everett Anderson, a story for children, and Good Times, a book of poetry.

One time we didn't get anything. Almost. Christmas morning, early, we ran down to find the space by the piano bench and around the tree almost bare. There were coats, heavy coats, one for each of us. Mine was green, a teddy bear coat though no one was wearing them any more—and too small. My skinny wrists split like sticks through the sleeves. We were very quiet.

We turned to our stockings, our socks hung up, and pushed aside the orange, and the apple, and the tangerine, kin to the ones on the dining-room table, looking for our what? Our something else, our good thing, our Christmas stuff that we didn't need and that we would have broken up before the day was out, our something else. We each had a comic book.

The kids, the almost-my-age brother and sister, were frightened and confused.

"I wasn't bad, Lue. Hon was bad but not me."

"I was not! I wasn't that bad neither."
"Hush, wasn't none of us bad," I whis-

"Hush, wasn't none of us bad," I whispered; "this ain't all, this must not be all."

We began to look around the downstairs, quietly so we wouldn't wake Mama and Daddy.

The kitchen was cold. Mama always turned the oven on when she got up. The main heat sat filling up the dining room—the space heater. But Mama always turned the oven on and left the oven door open for kitchen heat. The stove would sit like a black and comforting open mouth.

The dining room still smelled of smoke and old liquor. Every Christmas Eve as long as we could remember Daddy had held open house. All the old, oldest friends would come around and laugh and party till almost day. Mama would cook ham and potato salad and fix fruit and nuts on the table, but she never stayed up for the party very long. She tried. Sitting in her chair by the window, rocking, humming "Precious Lord," she would smile as the friends stood dutifully before her for a minute, making dutiful small talk, saying hello to Thel. But the party would soon arrange itself all through the downstairs, and we children upstairs in our beds would hear Mama vanishing into hers. The dining room would smell like that for days, like a lot of things going on without Mama. Dry. The coffee can on top of the space heater had long since settled into rust.

There was no place in the living room, the front room, to hide Christmas. The wall next to the door leading out and upstairs was filled with our pride, the piano. It had been in the house when we moved there, the legacy of our old and dying landlady. We kept the white key tops in a box inside the bench. The landlady had left things in the house for the children when she had moved into an apartment downtown. In the attic a doll for me, naked and scratched. For my sister a small cradle, which meant that we should share the doll. And for all of us the great upright piano. Later, my sister and I discovered that our brother had made a discovery in the attic, too, a loaded gun, which he had hidden and then taken out one day to play. But it had been rescued from his five-year-old swagger by a teen-aged boy, a big boy, one of the revered Purdy Street gang.

We tripped through the downstairs again, again. There was nothing hidden that we could find. We had a coat and a comic book. That was all.

The kids started to cry.

"Hush, I'll go tell Mama." I tiptoed up the stairs. Mama slept in a junk-filled room at the side of the house. The big room, the front with the windows, was shared by Daddy and my brother except on Christmas Eve when we all three slept together: my sister and brother, the kids, and me, Lue. Mama had slept alone since we could remember, in a room filled with newspapers and magazines and old Bibles and pictures. The room smelled curiously like our grandmother. Mama was awake.

"What's the matter, baby?"

"We didn't get nothing for Christmas but comics, and we wasn't even bad."

With her, safe from the eyes of the kids, I started to cry. She had a way of shaking her head very quickly while looking at nothing, as if not being able to believe the things that no one else could see. Now, she shook her head.

"Was we bad? We wasn't bad, was we?"

"No baby, you all are good children." She shook her head again. Then she lay back in her bed as if everything was going to be all right. I saw, and was calmed.

"That's all right, baby, Santa Claus must of forgot you all. In the morning Mama will take you all to Sears and buy you all the toys you want." She closed her eyes.

I ran down to the kids, satisfied.

Of course it would have to be this year, the one year they picked me to be an Angel in the Pageant. I've always wanted to be an Angel. Everyone does, really, only they won't admit it. I mean, it's really beautiful when they put down the lights and all you can see is Judy's gold hair and the gold wings of the angels shining in the light from the cradle. Crèche, as Anne-Marie calls it (she's my stepmother). And the shepherds are waiting on their knees and the Three Kings holding gifts on purple satin pillows up to the cradle. Crèche. And Johnny Barr sings, "Myrrh is mine, its bitter perfume breathes a life of gathering gloom. . . ." It sends shivers down your back, it's so beautiful and holy.

But Anne-Marie says, "Darling, you must come, we've got this divine house in Gstaad for Christmas," and Mummy says, "You must go, you're such a lucky girl, you can't have everything," and then, "If you really want to be in the Dalton school pageant, you could stay here for Christmas." help because when I ask them, all they say is, "What I'd really like is something you've made." That's the only thing they have in common, really, all my parents, "Oh, don't buy me anything, just give me something you've made." But I'm eleven, and that's too old to make things, especially if you're as bad with your hands as I am. I mean, it took me hours to finish that psychological test we had where you have to draw a man and a woman and a nightmare you've had. They must have thought I was really disturbed. But if you think that was bad, you ought to have seen those clay animals I had to make one year. That was brilliant. I struggled, my dear, I worked my fingers to the bone to make this horse for Anne-Marie because I liked horses at the time. The ears came out okay, but there was clearly something wrong with the legs. I knew it wasn't any good, I knew that perfectly well, only you ought to have seen her face when she opened the box. Surprise, wonder, pleasure, deep tenderness, heartfelt gratitude—the expressions passing over her face one after another. I mean, it took about five minutes. Finally she gets up, rushes over and hugs me with this warm spontaneity. "Darling," she cried, "what a lovely frog!"

"It's a horse," I said.

Of course I shouldn't have said that. After all the effort she'd made, it really wasn't fair to her, but she simply has to realize the position I'm in, what with Mummy and David, her and Daddy, Solomon and four Grannies, all of them wanting "just something I've made." I mean, there I am, "the intellectual of the family," slaving away every day from the beginning of school in an absolute nightmare of finger paints, Plasticine, wood shavings, (Continued on page 116) or Ellin and Renny Saltzman, right, their crisply modern house is a machine for living that sets them free every weekend. During the week, they work in a world of fashion and furniture, design and decisions. She's a topflight fashion consultant and he's a well-known interior designer. Their days speed by at the super pace New York City seems to impose, and they thrive on it. "But the children [they have two, David, seven, and Elizabeth, four] were missing all the stretching parts of growing up," says Mr. Saltzman. "We wanted them to know a home where they could wander off to explore for hours, or help a tree to grow, or run freely in and out of an unlocked front door-and they can't do any of those things in town. Since we didn't want to become commuters, a country house for weekends and holidays seemed the solution. As soon as we bought the land, Ellin found the architect. She had asked me how to find one, and I said, 'Look through magazines for a house with the same spirit you have in mind."

"One day I saw a house built by Richard Meier," says Mrs. Saltzman. "It had everything I like about modern design: clean lines, lots of light, big spaces, yet it wasn't cold. Its curves gave it warmth and a human scale. Before we went to see him (see page 12), we made notes of everything we'd ever wanted in a house. Small bedrooms so the children would be out and into the sunshine. Several exits to the outdoors. Loads of closets to hold clothes that may suddenly be the right length again."

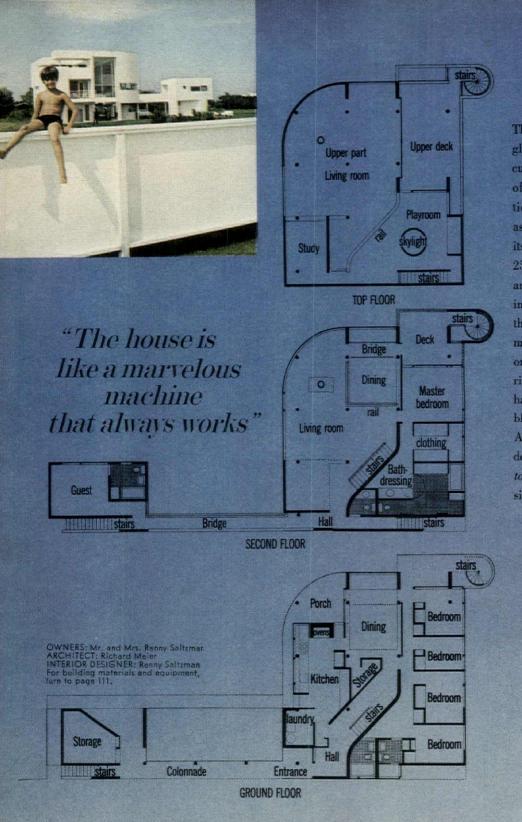

"We wanted," say the Saltzmans, "easy-to-care-for things like self-cleaning ovens and permanently finished floors. Wash basins built 42 inches high so you don't have to bend double. A kitchen big enough to breakfast in as well as a dining room where we could seat fourteen. We know that might not sound like casual entertaining, but the best food in the world is nothing if you have to balance it on your lap."

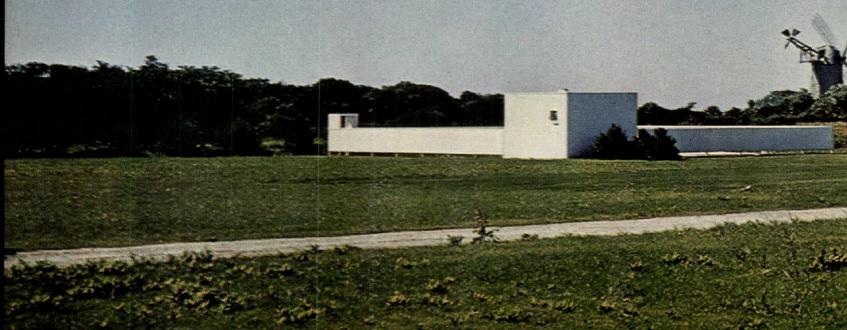

"Our city apartment is quite formal and one I've lived in since childhood," says Mrs. Saltzman. "We bought everything new for this house, so that I came to it like a bride." (Continued)

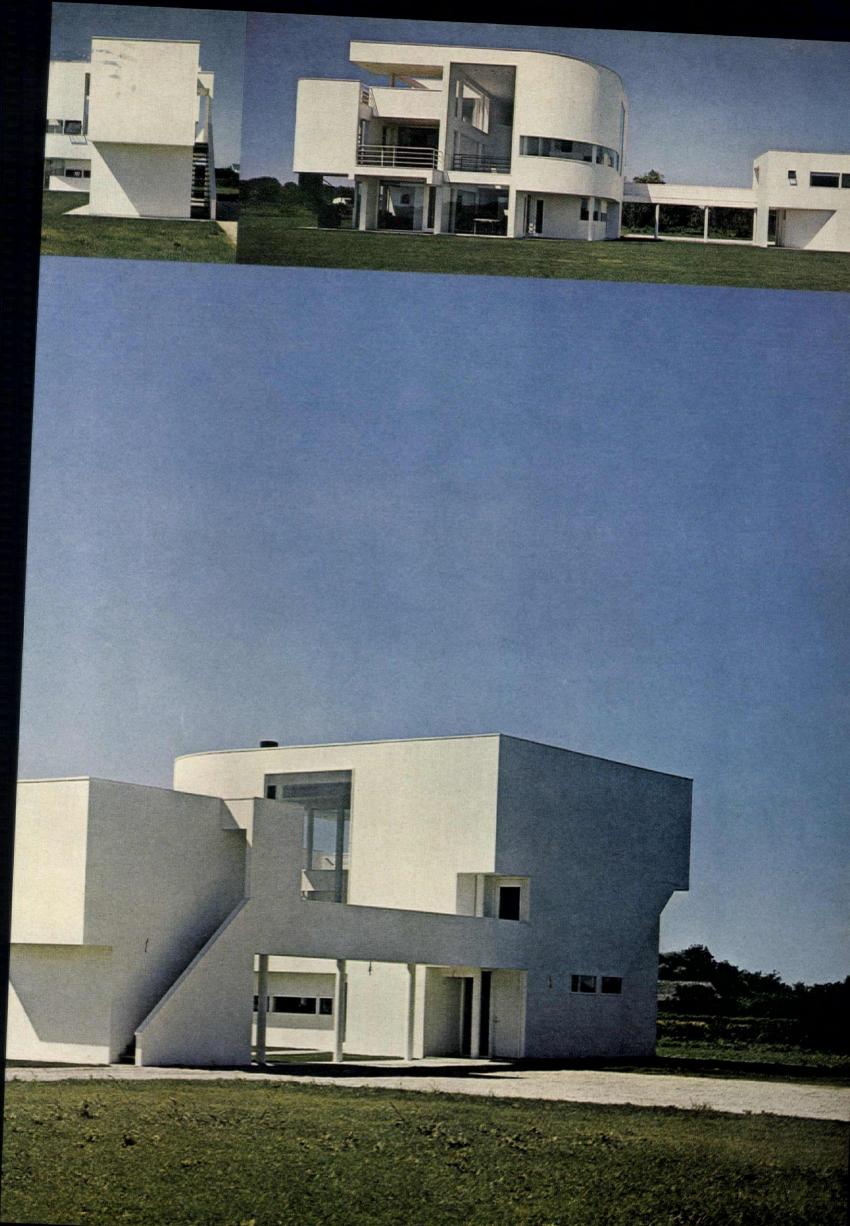

The house seems to float above the ground. At first glance, it is almost impossible to comprehend this white cubistic cluster that rises sparkling on a three-acre plain of sea-air tousled grass. Quite literally, it is a construction in both time and space; it unfolds completely only as you walk around it. A cross section at any point shows its interpenetrating spaces: a dining room that is really 25 feet high, the two-story soar of the living room balanced by the snug little cove formed under its overhanging mezzanine. Although the house is three stories high, the third story (see plan, top left) is mostly air space—a mezzanine for the children's rainy-day play. On the second level (see plan, center left) the two-story living room rises to gather in every bit of the view. The master suite has an adequate bedroom but a generous, mirrored double bathroom, with a steam shower and copious storage. Also at this level, a railed companionway crosses to the detached guesthouse. On the children's floor (see plan, bottom left) their four small bedrooms are lined up along one side and the kitchen and the dining room on the other.

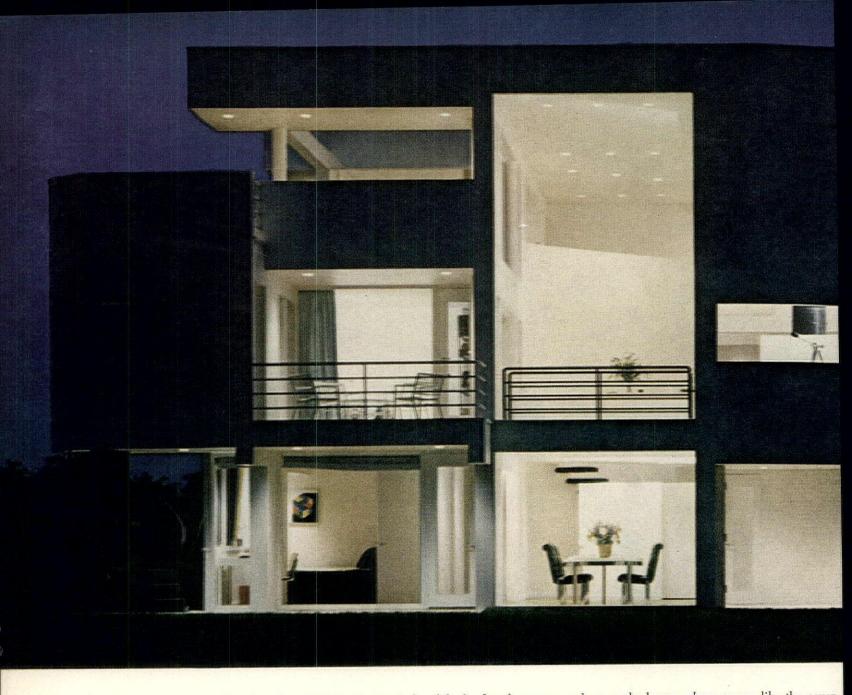

"Sometimes the house has such purity it seems almost spiritual," says Mrs. Saltzman. "But if for no other reason, I would feel good about it because children so adore it. Everyone, whether it's his first or tenth visit, likes to wander around. Guests relax almost visibly and act at home. They seem to find the house a refreshment." Above: Mrs. Saltzman, on her bedroom deck, reflected in the living room window. Top right: Elizabeth Saltzman, who at four years old can lean on the dining room table—but tippytoes help. Right: The dining room table set with a light Sunday luncheon for sunbathers and swimmers to carry outdoors. "For the children, the house is like a giant toy"

At night, when darkness erases marks of the land such as trees and grass, the house, above, seems like the super-structure of a luxury cruise ship. From the top deck, miles of ocean and shoreline can be seen. Inside, superbly engineered lighting washes the walls with even brightness; the spiral staircase leads up to both the top and master bedroom decks without carrying traffic through the house. Below left: The 20-by-40-foot pool is set away from the house to mute the splashing and shouting. Fenced and surrounded by a wide paved terrace, it becomes a separate entertaining and barbecue area that despite the flat terrain cannot be seen into from the road. Pool house has dressing rooms, showers, a tiny kitchen, and plenty of storage so that none of what makes the area work so well is in sight. Opposite page: In the kitchen, sleekly white except for flame red Formica on counters, the stainless steel appliances and metal cabinets are as closely fitted as marquetry. Ample storage was secured and a scrap of view preserved by running a long, low strip of windows at countertop level. Below right: The master bedroom, although severely shorn of surplus space, extends its horizons with its outdoor deck.

orst is just as philosophic about the wildlife sharing his acreage. He may gently discourage a determined chipmunk from making a home in a geranium pot, but he lets the squirrels steal the apples from his trees. "At least there will be no falling apples to damage the coleus plants I like so much, above left, or the impatiens." Though the general atmosphere of this garden is strangely poetic, the plain fact is that Horst, who commutes every weekday to his studio in New York, depends largely on—and makes the best of—the plants that are for sale at ordinary roadside stands. He has little time for his gardening except on weekends; and many of his floral effects are frankly impromptu, the result of quick potting or transplanting a few moments before the arrival of his Sunday lunch guests. His bedroom opens onto a shady courtyard, top left, paved with brickwork in basket weave. Borrowing an idea from an English garden, he left some empty spaces among the bricks where he can set plants, according to the season, in cubbyholes lined with peat moss: tulips in spring, gloxinias in summer, and in the fall, chrysanthemums. He uses wild flowers as well as garden flowers indoors, interspersing furniture and house plants, opposite page, top right, with wild flower arrangements. The sailcloth-awninged French doors of the west wing, opposite page, bottom right, give onto a formal terrace, set with potted roses—transplanted later to the cutting garden—and boxwood edged with salvia and marigolds. Informal, by contrast, a shady path, above, from the drive to the west wing (which is new—the house is growing, too) is blue and white in spring with ajuga, vinca, violets, and lilies of the valley, all transplanted from the woods; and is aflame in summer with impatiens and coleus—pink, red, and purple—glowing like the floral shapes in a medieval tapestry or a Bessarabian carpet. For a dedicated amateur gardener, Horst has an unusual problem. In April, May, June, and again in September—just when there is everything to do and so much in bloom to enjoy—he is often in Europe, photographing other gardens. "For years I have missed my lilacs, peonies, and old-fashioned roses," he says rather wistfully. But like all good gardeners, he uses his time away from home to absorb new ideas for more leisurely hours. (Continued)

CORKSCREW:

For Christmas wassailingcheering drinks

BY HENRY McNULTY

EDITOR'S NOTE: An American, born and brought up in China, Henry McNulty has lived in Europe for the past twenty years and now resides in London with his wife and daughter. Businessman, gourmet and wine enthusiast, he has been closely associated with the French champagne and cognac industries and is a member of the Compagnons du Beaujolais.

In the high and far-off times, when there were such things as witches and demons, one way to get rid of unwanted warlocks was to hold a colossal wassail party. Everyone, Druids and hoi polloi alike, had a marvelous time, and the demons were successfully routed-possibly drowned-in the most agreeable way.

You may not realize, as the Christmas wassail slides down your eager throat, that you are carrying on an ancient and honorable pagan tradition. All those dances until cockcrow, libations, mysteries of barley sheaves and new wine, animal sacrifices, and religious ecstasy were far more convivial than a cocktail party and more interesting. But the general purpose of these midwinter Saturnalia, both prehistoric and presentday, is the same-to rid oneself of the cold-weather blues.

By undertaking some pleasant research, I have uncovered several beverages that may help you inhibit witches and the doldrums at this time of year. More positively, they should also help to ease the psychological problems of the festive period and lessen its tribulations.

The season is a long one, and the winter, of course, even longer, so here is a variety of recipes for cheering things up Continued on page 104

A CHRISTMAS TREE GOOD ENOUGH TO EAT

Each ornament on Mrs. Carter Burden's tree is a sweet confection and making, baking, and hanging them a favorite family tradition that is each year the cue for a party. On Christmas Eve guests join in trimming the treethey contribute to the goodies, taste them too. On the next page are details of how Mrs. Burden makes these ornaments together with the menu and recipes for this Christmas Eve party. Ornaments clockwise, from top left: crescent cookie, popcorn, cranberry strings and cloved oranges, grapes, gingerbread man, white fudge, candied apple, flower cookie, sugar cookie star, meringue Christmas tree.

MRS. CARTER BURDEN'S CHRISTMAS EVE TREE TRIMMING PARTY

Mr. and Mrs. Carter Burden give an annual Christmas Eve tree-trimming party for family and close friends. The tree (see the Cook Book cover) is decked with edible ornaments.

POPCORN STRINGS
CRANBERRY STRINGS
CRANBERRY STRINGS
ORANGES STUDDED WITH CLOVES
CANDIED APPLES
GINGERBREAD MEN
*CHRISTMAS TREE MERINGUES
SUGARED DOUGHNUTS
FLOWER AND CRESCENT COOKIES
WHITE FUDGE WITH RED AND GREEN
GLACÉ FRUIT
CHOCOLATE FUDGE
RED GRAPES
STAR COOKIE WITH SILVER BALLS

Edible Ornaments:

Stud oranges with cloves, pull strong wire through orange, and knot at bottom. As oranges are heavy, hang near trunk. Secure to branch with wire. . . . Wrap CANDIED APPLES in cellophane and tie with ribbon. Wire apple stick and set on top of branch, securing wire to tree. . . . Make 1/4-inch holes in top of GINGERBREAD MEN before baking. If hole closes in baking, recut while still warm. Decorate with icing. . . . Punch FLOWER and CRESCENT COOKIES with holes as for gingerbread men. Sprinkle crescents with colored sugars, and flowers with silver balls and red hots before baking. To make COOKIE STAR knead extra flour into basic sugar cookie dough, roll the dough about 1/4-inch thick, and cut a star outline in it 6 to 7 inches wide. Stud with silver balls and bake the cookie until it is a golden brown.

Christmas Tree Meringues

8 egg whites

1/4 teaspoon cream of tartar

1/2 teaspoon salt

2 cups granulated sugar

1 teaspoon vanilla extract

Plain or colored sugar

Sprinkle the egg whites with cream of tartar (if you are beating the whites in a copper bowl, this is not necessary) and salt and beat until very foamy. While continuing to beat, sprinkle on the sugar 1 tablespoon at a time and beat until the meringue is thick and stiff. Beat in the vanilla extract.

Butter and flour baking sheets and with a knife tip outline Christmas tree shapes. Put the meringue in a pastry bag and using a notched nozzle fill in tree outlines on sheets. Sprinkle with plain or colored sugar. Bake in a 200° oven for 1 hour. Do not allow meringues to brown. When cool, carefully pierce at top with thin wire, slip a tiny satin bow on top of tree, and twist wire to form a loop for hanging.

MENU FOR BUFFET:
TINY HOT DOUGHNUTS
GINGERBREAD ROLL FILLED WITH ORANGE
WHIPPED CREAM
*LA TARTE DES DEMOISELLES TATIN
HARD SAUCE
*GLÖGG

La Tarte des Demoiselles Tatin

Sugar
12-14 green apples
Sweet short pastry made with proportions for 1 cup flour
1 egg beaten with a little water or cream

Butter

Blend 4 tablespoons butter and 1/2 cup sugar in a heavy pie tin and cook over medium heat until the mixture is thick, syrupy, and lightly browned. Peel, core, and slice apples. Arrange them on top of the butter-sugar syrup in layers. Dot each layer with butter and sprinkle with a little sugar. Build the apple slices up in the center to come above the rim of the pan. Cover with sweet short pastry rolled 1/3-inch thick. Brush with egg. Bake in a 450° oven for 10 minutes. Reduce the heat to 375° and continue cooking until the apples are soft and the crust cooked through, about 35 to 40 minutes. Let cool a few minutes and invert on a fireproof serving dish. The apples should have caramelized with the sugar-butter mixture, making a delicate brown top for the tart. Serve warm with hard sauce. Serves 8.

Glögg

3 bags dried spiced mixed fruits 3 bottles red wine

Sugar to taste

1 bottle port

1/2 fifth vodka or cognac

Bring to a boil spiced fruits, red wine, and sugar, and simmer until fruits are tender. Cover and leave at least 3 hours. Add port and vodka. Serve warm in glass mugs from a large silver tureen.

MRS. WYATT COOPER'S CHRISTMAS WEEK DINNER

The Wyatt Coopers divide their Christmas entertaining between a large open house on Christmas afternoon and intimate dinners during Christmas week. The sumptuous table setting for this party is on page 52.

*RUM SOUFFLÉ WITH VANILLA SAUCE

Roast Quail with White Grapes

4 quail
6 tablespoons butter
Salt
Freshly ground black pepper
About 30 Thompson seedless grapes, peeled
(if not available, use Belgian White
Muscat or California Emperor grapes, peeled, halved, and seeded)
2-3 tablespoons cognac

1/4 cup dry sherry, white wine, or vermouth

1 cup chicken stock

11/2 teaspoons arrowroot

1 teaspoon grated lemon zest

1-2 teaspoons lemon juice

Rub quail generously with butter, salt, and pepper. Put a lump of butter, salt, pepper, and 3 or 4 grapes in the cavity. Sprinkle with cognac. Place in a roasting pan and roast in a 450° oven for 12 to 15 minutes, basting thoroughly 2 or 3 times. While the quail are roasting, gently heat the remaining grapes in sherry and chicken stock in a small saucepan. Remove grapes with a slotted spoon, add to quail, and roast 5 more minutes. Remove quail to heated serving platter. Mix arrowroot into sherry and chicken stock and add to pan juices with grated lemon zest and lemon juice. Stir well, scraping up brown bits on bottom, and simmer until slightly thickened. Check seasoning. Pour sauce over quail and serve immediately.

Rum Soufflé with Vanilla Sauce

Butter

Sugar

3 tablespoons sifted all-purpose flour

3/4 cup milk

1/3 cup sugar

4 egg yolks

2 tablespoons butter, softened

5 egg whites

Pinch of salt

1/4 cup dark rum

1 tablespoon grated orange zest

1/4 cup ground toasted almonds

Confectioners sugar

Butter well a 6-cup soufflé dish and roll sugar around in it to coat the sides and bottom evenly. Shake out excess sugar.

Beat flour with a little milk in a saucepan until smooth, then gradually add remaining milk and the sugar, reserving 1 tablespoon. Stir until the mixture comes to a boil and thickens, and boil, stirring, for 30 seconds. Remove from heat and beat for 2 minutes to cool. With a wire whisk beat in egg yolks one by one. Beat in butter.

In a copper bowl using a wire whisk, beat the egg whites and salt together until soft peaks form. Sprinkle on the reserved sugar and continue to beat until stiff peaks form.

Add rum, grated orange zest, and ground almonds to the sauce base. Gently stir in ½ of the beaten egg whites, and fold in the rest. Pour into the soufflé dish, leaving ½-inches between top of soufflé and rim of dish. Bake in a 375° oven for 30 to 35 minutes, until soufflé is nicely puffed and browned. Sprinkle with confectioners sugar and serve immediately with Vanilla Sauce. Serves 4 to 6.

Vanilla Sauce

1½ crps milk 3 egg yolks 1/4 cup sugar
 11/2 teaspoons vanilla extract
 1/4 cup heavy cream, whipped

Scald the milk. Beat egg yolks with sugar in the top of a double boiler and slowly stir in the hot milk. Cook over barely simmering water until the custard thickens slightly and coats a spoon. Cool, stirring occasionally, add vanilla, and fold in the whipped cream. Makes about 2 cups.

Molasses Cookies

2 cups sifted all-purpose flour

1/2 teaspoon salt

1/2 teaspoon baking soda

1 teaspoon double-acting baking powder

1 teaspoon ground ginger

1 teaspoon ground cloves

1½ teaspoons cinnamon

1/2 teaspoon nutmeg

1/2 cup soft shortening

1 cup granulated sugar

1/2 cup light molasses (dark molasses may be used)

1 egg yolk

Frosting (see recipe below)

Preheat oven to 350°. Sift flour with salt, baking soda, baking powder, ginger, cloves, cinnamon, and nutmeg. Beat shortening, sugar, and molasses until creamy. Add egg yolk and beat well. Blend in flour mixture. Chill dough for about 1 hour. On lightly floured surface roll out dough ½ to ¼ inch thick. Cut dough freehand or with floured cutters into gingerbread men, Christmas trees, stars, and ring shapes. Place ½ inch apart on ungreased cookie sheets. Bake 8 to 10 minutes or until done. Cool. Decorate with colored sugar, raisins, or nuts, or frost, using a cake decorator or paper cone. Makes about 70 assorted cookies.

Frosting

1½ cups sifted confectioners sugar ½ teaspoon cream of tartar 1 egg white ¼ teaspoon vanilla extract

Sift confectioners sugar again with cream of tartar. Add egg white and vanilla extract. Beat well with egg beater or electric mixer until frosting holds its shape and is glossy and smooth. Keep the bowl of frosting covered with a damp cloth while you are decorating the cookies.

Hot Fruit Compote

1 pound mixed dried pears, apricots, and peaches

2 cups water

1/2 pound sugar

2 whole cloves

1 cinnamon stick

Cointreau

Fresh orange sections

Wash the fruit and soak at least 12 hours in the water. Put the fruit and water in a saucepan with sugar, cloves, and cinnamon stick and simmer gently until the fruit is soft. Remove the fruit and boil the juice for a few minutes until it is syrupy. Remove the cloves and cinnamon stick and add a dash of Cointreau. Pour over the warm fruit, garnish with orange sections and serve. Serves 4-6.

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM RAYNER'S MIDNIGHT CHEESE AND WINE BUFFET

Midnight supper at the William Rayners is a special Christmas Eve tradition—a finale to the wrapping of presents and dressing the tree. Thirty or so friends drop in for a buffet supper of cheeses matched with complementary wines.

CHEESES AND WINES:

RED BORDEAUX BRIE VALENÇAY POUILLY FUMÉ BEAUJOLAIS SAINT MAURE REBLOCHON MOULIN À VENT PONT L'ÉVÊQUE POMEROL ROQUEFORT CHÂTEAUNEUE DU PAPE RIESLING MONTRACHET CARR'S WATER BISCUITS *CRÊPES DE VOLAILLE *SPINACH SALAD WITH HOT FRENCH DRESSING

CHAMPAGNE: DOM PÉRIGNON

Crêpes de Volaille

2 whole eggs
2 egg yolks
1 cup all-purpose flour
Salt
2 cups milk
Butter
Chicken filling (see recipe below)

Beat eggs and yolks in mixing bowl. Sift flour with pinch of salt, and stir into eggs. Add gradually 1½ cups milk and stir well until batter is smooth and the consistency of heavy cream. It should just coat spoon removed from batter. Add more milk if necessary. Refrigerate for at least 1 hour before cooking.

Heat a small 5- or 6-inch frying pan, preferably copper or iron, and brush with butter. Pan should be hot. Cook one crêpe at a time, using about 3 tablespoons batter per crêpe. Rotate pan with one hand while pouring batter to spread out crêpe. The first crêpe is "for the pan"—do not expect it to turn out. Cook crêpes for 1 minute or until edges become brown. Turn once and cook for 1 minute (until light golden brown). Set aside on paper towel when cooked. If batter becomes too thick, add milk; if too thin, whisk in a little flour.

Cool crêpes, cover with aluminum foil, and store in refrigerator.

When ready to reheat, thoroughly butter

a heavy frying pan and heat each crêpe in butter.

Place 2 heaping tablespoonfuls of filling on each crêpe and roll up with spatula and fork to make a tube.

Keep warm in well-buttered oven-proof casserole. Makes 20-25 crêpes.

Chicken Filling

Season 7 chicken breasts with salt and pepper. Sauté in 2 tablespoons butter in large frying pan until lightly browned. Transfer to a baking dish and dot with 2 tablespoons butter. Cover with buttered wax paper and bake in a 350° oven for 25 to 30 minutes or until tender. Reserve stock for sauce.

Cool chicken breasts and mince with scissors to prevent shredding. Season with salt and freshly ground black pepper.

Melt 2 tablespoons butter in heavy saucepan. Add flour and mix well. Add enough chicken stock to broth reserved from cooking chickens to measure 2½ cups, and slowly add milk and chicken stock to butter and flour. Season to taste with salt, freshly ground black pepper, and dried thyme. Stirring constantly, cook until thick and smooth. Add the chopped chicken and cook until heated through.

Spinach Salad with Hot French Dressing

5 pounds fresh spinach 1 pound bacon, crisp fried and crumbled Hot French Dressing (see recipe below)

Wash spinach thoroughly and remove stems from leaves. Drain.

Toss thoroughly with hot dressing and sprinkle on crumbled bacon. Serves 30.

Hot French Dressing

2 cups olive oil

1/2 cup vinegar

2 teaspoons salt

2 teaspoons freshly ground black pepper

Combine olive oil and vinegar, and season the mixture with salt and freshly ground pepper. In a small saucepan, heat to the boiling point.

WILLIE MAYS'S CHRISTMAS EVE DINNER

MIXED GREEN SALAD

*SOUTHERN PECAN PIE

Herbed Veal Roast

3 slices bacon

5-pound rolled Plume de Veau veal leg, rib, or shoulder

1 teaspoon rosemary

1 small clove garlic, minced

1 tablespoon minced parsley

1 teaspoon salt

1/4 teaspoon freshly ground black pepper

1/8 teaspoon crumbled bay leaf

1/2 cup dry white wine

Arrange bacon on top of roast and secure with toothpicks or skewers. Place on rack in shallow pan. Combine rosemary, garlic, parsley, salt, pepper, bay leaf, and wine and heat to a simmer; spoon some over meat. Roast in a 350° oven for about 3 hours or until very tender and the juices run clear yellow. Baste the roast often, first with remaining seasoned wine, and then with the accumulated pan juices. Serves 6 to 8.

Southern Pecan Pie

3 eggs

1 cup sugar

2 tablespoons butter, melted

1/2 teaspoon salt

3/4 cup heavy cream

1/2 cup dark corn syrup

1 tablespoon vanilla extract

11/2 cups pecans

1 9-inch frozen or prepared pie shell

Preheat oven to 375°. Beat eggs and gradually mix in sugar, butter, and salt. Whip cream gently for 1 minute and stir into egg mixture with corn syrup. Add vanilla and 1½ cups pecans. Spoon into pie shell and bake 40 to 50 minutes.

Decorate top with remaining pecans. Serves 6-8.

Kebab

2 pounds lamb cut from the leg

1 large onion

3 firm tomatoes, peeled and seeded

1 green pepper

Salt

Freshly ground black pepper

1 tablespoon cooking oil

1 tablespoon fat

Cut lamb into 1-inch cubes. Cut onion, tomatoes, and green pepper into 1-inch chunks. Marinate meat and onion in salt, pepper, oil, and fat for 2 hours, turning from time to time.

Alternate pieces of lamb, onion, tomato, and green pepper on a long skewer. Cook for 7 minutes on a revolving spit or under broiler (turning over during cooking) that is heated to slightly above moderate. Serve with Oriental Rice. Serves 4.

Oriental Rice

1 cup long grain rice

3 cups chicken stock

1/4 pound butter

2 tablespoons tomato purée

1 tablespoon grated onion

1 small chicken liver

Butter

1/4 green pepper

Sprig of parsley

1 ounce peeled almonds

1 ounce snobar (pine nuts), optional

Salt and white pepper

Plain yoghurt

Let rice stand in hot water to cover for 2 hours. Drain well. Add enough chicken stock to cover rice in pan by 1½ inches. Add 4 tablespoons butter, tomato purée, and grated onion. Cook very rapidly for 5 minutes, then lower the flame and cook 10 minutes longer.

Sauté chicken liver in butter for about 3 minutes. Finely chop green pepper, parsley, almonds, and chicken liver and add to rice with remaining butter and snobar. Season to taste with salt and pepper.

Serve with a bowl of plain yoghurt to be spooned over rice. Serves 4.

The best white wine for cooking is not white wine.

It's Martini & Rossi Extra Dry Vermouth.

Continental cooks use M&R Extra Dry Vermouth in any recipe that calls for white wine. And the recipe is the better for it. M&R gives food all the fine flavor of white wine. Plus a subtle hint of herbs. Next time try M&R.

STUFFED PARTY VEAL

6 slices veal top round, butterflied 3/4 lb. mozzarella cheese. sliced thin

6 slices ham

2 eggs, slightly beaten with 2 tablespoons water 1½ cups fine dry bread crumbs ½ cup butter 1½ cups Martini & Rossi

Extra Dry Vermouth

Pound veal thin. On half of each veal slice, stack 2 slices cheese, slice, Stack 2 slices cheese. Solice of ham, 2 more slices cheese. Fold veal over, fasten with toothpicks. Dip in egg and water, then crumbs. Brown in butter 6 minutes per side. Add M&R, simmer 5 minutes. Baste. Serves 6.

RENFIELD IMPORTERS, LTD., N.Y.

that you can experiment with progressively. There are the drinks that glow, for example, and the nourishing ones. There are the sociable drinks and those that you sit by the fire and enjoy all by yourself. And there are even drinks to keep your tots busy while you enjoy the more potent preparations.

DRINKS THAT GLOW

Drinks that glow put you into the right humor for the time of year. One of the best of these is Mulled Wine. This is simply a spiced wine, sweetened and served pistol hot. It is the drink for the open fireplace after coming home from sledding, skating, or skiing. If you have a log on the fire, use the poker to keep the wine heated. Let the poker get red hot and stick it into the mull from time to time or just before pouring to maintain the temperature. You should not use your best crystal punch bowl for mulled wine, but something metal. The sizzle and steam are spectacular, and this method adds a certain old-time taste to the brew.

The most memorable Christmas I have ever had since the days when I expected Santa Claus to come down the chimney at any minute was in the heart of Wales where we were snowed in. In England it takes very little snow to give you the impression you are cut off from the world as effectively as in the Great Blizzard of '88. This is partly because the British are never ready for snow, and you really are isolated. There is no way to clear the roads, and the railroad "points" seem to freeze up automatically, thus throwing the whole rail system into total chaos.

Our Welsh house party was snowed in for four days in this way, for all the world as if we were in Antarctica. The host was fortunately a providential and genial one, and we all helped to keep the fireplace supplied with wood we chopped ourselves. His cellar was well stocked with wines and his larder with all sorts of eatables, including the right spices. Talk about glow! We had wine mulled by poker in a score of ways, and we came away with the procedure deliciously fixed in our minds.

Mulled Wine is made by poker-warming a bottle of wine into which you have poured a syrup made of the peel of 1 lemon and I orange, grated nutmeg, 2 sticks of cinnamon, and 6 whole cloves boiled in a cup of water. Usually it is made with red wine, but I prefer white myself. You can also make the wine much stronger by adding a jigger or two of cognac. Anyone who has been skiing knows this drink as Gluhwein, which started, I believe, in the Austrian Alps, but has now spread to delight après-skiers in most winter resorts.

Another glowing libation is a Sambuca, an Italian concoction with a very slight licorice flavor. You pour Sambuca liqueur into a tall liqueur glass and add 3 whole coffee beansthis seems to be the optimum number in Italy-which float on top. Then set the whole business alight. When the flame dies out, the drink is ready to sip.

Hot Buttered Rum is also a glower and a vigorous one, sort of a frontiersman's drink. You put a jigger of rum and a teaspoonful of brown sugar in a tumbler and pour in hot water. Then float a small lump of butter on top, stirring until it Continued on page 109

You could have one of cancer's 7 warning signal and not recognize it.

1. Unusual bleeding or discharge.

A lump or thickening in the breast or elsewhere.

3. A sore that does not heal. Change in bowel or bladder habits.

Hoarseness or cough.

Indigestion or difficulty in swallowing. Change in size or color of

For a little girl's Christmas: a roomful of pretty furniture

Designed to please both the eye of the young and the practical mind of their elders, the Pizzazz collection by American of Martinsville, all pristine white, is impervious to exuberant gymnastics, spills, or finger smudges, covered as it is with 3-M's Tartan-Clad embossed vinyl veneer. An occasional washing with soap and water restores it to inspection-passing sparkle. The campaign chest styling, complete with brass hardware, lends sophistication to the design, keeping the furniture perfectly apt for a girl's room as she grows into adulthood.

Five-drawer chest provides ample room for the paraphernalia of tots and teen-agers. 43 by 31 by 173/4 inches deep. $160. Low campaign chest makes easy-to-get-at cache for sweaters, toys, games, or can serve as bedside stand or foot-of-the-bed locker and bench. 313/4 by 18 by 173/4 inches deep. $120.

THE HOUSE GIFT

A gift for the home bestows a subtle accolade. It carries with it an extended thought, a very special message. One is saying, in effect, "I recognize—and admire—your personal life-style; that is why I know you will enjoy this cache pot . . . mini TV . . . Batik pillow . . . breakfast china . . . electric patio grill . . . Victorian music stand . . ."

The House & Garden House Gift can be food to please the palate, or the soul. It can be a delightfully frivolous bit of "instant status" that comes as a heady surprise, or a major appliance that answers months of patient waiting. It can be the gift that transforms any room in the house into a more meaningful personal environment; in the end, the most personal gift of all.

Without doubt, a House Gift can please everybody on the lengthiest Christmas list — even that footloose cousin with no permanent address. (Select something portable, packable, and infinitely luxurious!)

is dissolved. Finally put in half a teaspoonful of mixed ground spices—cloves, allspice, mace, and a bit of ground cinnamon or nutmeg. You can use cider instead of water for this drink, if you wish, and for the children cider only, omitting the rum.

A strictly adult beverage with a guaranteed built-in glow—not to say bushfire—is a thing called a Cooch Behar after the Indian maharajah of the same name. Although it was invented in India, the drink adapts beautifully to cold weather. This individual central heating system is made by steeping one of those red-hot Mexican or Italian peppers in a bottle of vodka. The longer you leave it in, the hotter the liquid gets. Then the "improved" vodka is added to tomato juice and the whole served on the rocks. You will not, I think, find that there is any necessity to add another spice to this one.

NOURISHING DRINKS

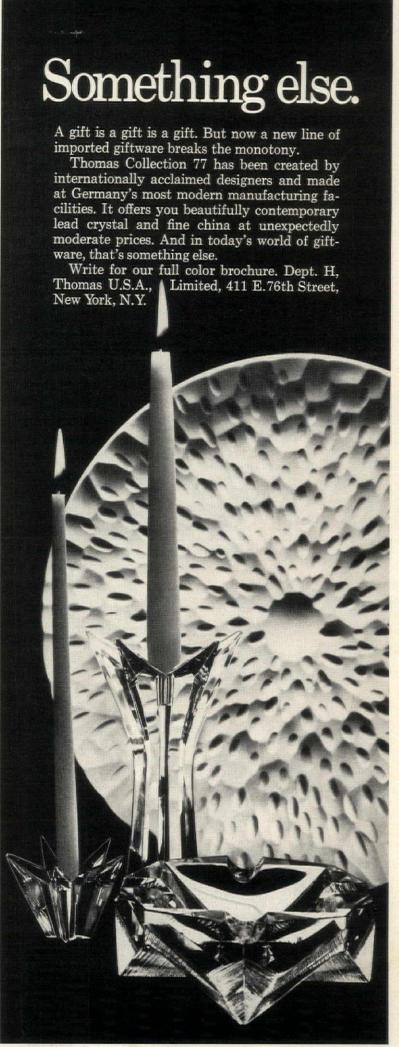

Sometimes the festivities of the season leave both host and guests a bit the worse for wear and in need of nourishment—a little backbone to the drinks, as it were, a combination of food and drink. One of the best of this type is the Bullshot, an invention of Lester Gruber, the jovial patron of the London Chop House in Detroit. My version consists of a tumbler of beef bouillon—any good canned one will do—a jigger of vod-ka, salt, pepper, and a dash of Worcestershire sauce. The whole is tossed in a shaker and served on the rocks. The seafood version of this is made with clam juice instead of beef bouillon, and a bit less spiciness.

Then there is the famous old stand-by, the Bloody Mary. Everyone has his own recipe, but the usual one consists of 1 part vodka to about 6 parts of tomato juice. To this you add Worcestershire sauce, Tabasco, or any other unsweetened spice. Sometimes a little lemon juice is mixed in, and often freshly ground pepper and some salt go into it, too. If you make Bloody Marys in a blender, you can add celery leaves and the white of 1 egg, so that you have a sort of vegetable salad-pick-me-up all in one go. Very nourishing!

An Italian variant served at the newest "in" resort, Porto Ercole, by the Pellicano bar combines the best of both alcoholic and nourishment worlds. This is the Bloody Bullshot, which, as its name implies, is half Bullshot and half Bloody Mary. What I like about this cocktail, if you can call it that, is that it is not in the least sweet.

Another way to pick up a few reviving calories when you are feeling low is with egg-based drinks. Personally I find them a bit too filling, but sometimes on a crisp cold New Year's Eve, they seem to suit the mood of the occasion perfectly. There are dozens of ways to make Eggnog, and I am sure to get into trouble with some people over my recipe, but at least it has the quality of simplicity and can be either a one-man affair, or expanded to serve as many as you like. An individual portion consists of an egg, a teaspoonful of sugar, a tumbler of milk, and a jigger of almost any kind of liquor you can name—sherry, port, madeira, cognac, rum, whiskey, or applejack will do. You shake the liquor and the rest of the ingredients in cracked ice, pour into a tall glass, and sprinkle nutmeg on top.

But I learned that this is not the case with Christmas. It is a big holiday in Vietnamese cities because of the large Catholic population. The Catholics represent fifth generation believers, for one of France's justifications for colonizing Vietnam well over one hundred years ago was not unlike that of Spain's in Latin America: It was a mission to convert the heathen into the true faith.

The Jesuits came and conquered, but, as in every other case of foreign imposition on the Vietnamese, the people absorbed the Catholic religion and made it into something uniquely Vietnamese. It is possible to make endless comparisons between Vietnamese Catholicism, Vietnamese folk religion, and pure Buddhism if the purpose is to establish what is strict Roman law and what is the actual Vietnamese interpretation of it. One needs to remember that the origin of Christian symbols to identify the various psychic or spiritual phenomena between man and his universe have exact parallels in Taoist and Buddhist thought. For the very reason that the Vietnamese bring to the drama of Christ their own background containing their organic suffering, there is a reinforcement of the divinity and authority of that drama and Buddha's drama as well. The Hindu sacred texts say: Worship, the worshiper, and the worshiped-these three are one.

What if we told you to cough up $18.75 or else?

You wouldn't like it, of course.

You see, one of the nice things about buying U.S. Savings Bonds is that you don't have to.

That's because you happen to live in a free country where nobody forces you to do anything.

Rather, your country asks that you simply consider the many advantages of Savings Bonds.

First of all, if you think they're a get-rich-quick scheme, forget it. Bonds aren't for you. They only pay off in the long haul. For a quick return, there are a lot better ways to make a buck.

They do pay off, however. Handsomely, as a matter of fact.

A little over 4 dollars for every 3 you invest. Plus, the privilege of buying the new 5% Freedom Shares along with your Bonds.

But these are the selfish reasons for buying Bonds.

Good, but selfish.

There's one other very important reason why Americans already own over $52 billion in Bonds.

It's called pride.

It just so happens that most Americans still choose to think this is the best piece of real estate

If you happen to be one of these Americans who thinks there's something to this country of ours, why not buy into it.

Sign up for the Payroll Savings Plan where you work.

Or go to your bank. And cough up that $18.75.

A couple of months after Christmas came Tet, which is a high holiday time of the year for everyone throughout Vietnam. Tet is still very much associated with the motif of spring—planting, budding, fertility. Truckloads of fresh flowers are brought into the cities from Dalat, and the people buy them in great quantities to decorate their homes, shrines, churches, and pagodas. Large branches from certain kinds of flowering fruit trees are for sale. A single one of these branches costs about forty dollars, but a great many of them are purchased for the home, where they are considered much more than mere decoration. If the buds on the branches blossom out during Tet, this is a mark of good fortune for the whole year. Particular emphasis is made on prayers, offerings, devotions to ancestors during Tet, and the Catholics and Buddhists all respond to the mood of this period.

The Americans are not quite sure what to do about Tet because there is a tension of excitement in the air then that carries with it the force and impact of what is truly, mysteriously Vietnamese, what cannot be molded and shaped to fit America's notion of what would be best for Vietnam. But to my mind, which is attracted more to the spiritual than the political, the mystery and excitement of the spring festival of Tet and the fervor of their Christmas gave me new feelings about my own idea of Christmas, new hope for my own country, America. That is: Tet, Christmas, or what have you, are manifestations of man's spiritual imagination. That aspect of man's nature will never die. Christmas commemorates a day that historically might have happened 2,000 years ago, though its place in space and time is immaterial. On that day, the infinite consciousness of God mingled and interchanged with the consciousness of man; in this particular case, it was Jesus Christ. This is not to say it couldn't have happened countless times before and after to men of love and charity. Every culture and its religion has its own way of helping you open the real Christmas gift, the potentiality of our own divinity. As new generations arise in America, with their peculiar rebellions and kinds of things they find enjoyment in, today's idea of Christmas may change in form and custom. But the change will always revolve around that fundamental truth: God is in man, and man, as he rediscovers this over and over, finding myriad doors opening in his soul, will find just as many ways to celebrate his joy.

free. At Mr. Jefferson's house, Monticello, Christmas is small table trees draped with miniature popcorn ropes and tied with tiny, red velvet bows.

On Christmas 1951, we were in Yugoslavia. The streets of Belgrade were filled with people in heavy overcoats and high boots walking aimlessly. Even there my husband managed to find a Christmas tree. Eventually we gave it away to the elevator boy, decorated sparsely with some chocolate bars saved from Spain.

Christmas afternoon we went walking—it seemed to be the thing to do—and suddenly we heard someone whistling "Anchors Aweigh." It was a young Yugoslav on a bicycle, and when we turned in his direction, he saluted us and smiled. His was our only Christmas greeting. It was time to go home.

* * *

Most of all, Christmas is home, now Thornhill Farm, high on a hill overlooking the Worthington Valley in Maryland. Our house, half stone, half wood, was built in 1846, and every Christmas is the best of times—for us and our four children.

Christmas now is choosing our tree, with everyone casting a vital vote. We pile into the car, and in a minute we're at the Butler Volunteer Fire Department, one of the four main edifices of Butler, Maryland. (The others: Sam Adams's grocery store; Butler House, once a drummers' hotel; and the stern, square 1828 fieldstone Baptist church.) Tree after tree is examined, from stack after stack. We twirl, we hold, we test the boughs. We look at these evergreens as Flo Ziegfeld may have looked at hopefuls for his chorus line. But we don't choose Follies' girls, we carry home the plumpest Scotch pine we can find.

Delivery free in a bright red jeep? No indeed, no thank you, we want to bring home our trophy ourselves, our first treasure of Christmas.

Then it becomes child's play. The children wind it with golden beads, loop after loop, dot it with red balls and blue balls, tie it with tartan ribbon from the highlands of Scotland. At the very top is a green parrot. He hasn't a name, but to us Christmas is a green parrot who never talks back.

The girls set up the crèche, which over the years has become a true mélange of memories—the ceramic angels from Portugal, the wooden camels from Jerusalem, the splendid Woolworthian wise men. There may be more beautifully carved crèches in Munich, more handsomely painted ones in Italy, but it's hard to beat a cardboard manger from the Five and Ten purchased by four children with an international cast of angels.

Christmas Eve is a young son serving as an acolyte for the first time, valiantly trying to stay awake at midnight.

Christmas Eve is St. John's Church, our church, quite small, Gothic, stone, rebuilt 100 years ago after the Christmas Eve it burned down. On a late fall day it arises from bordering fields of corn, with the same moving simplicity that Chartres Cathedral arises from fields of wheat. With snow on the ground at Christmas, nothing seems so peaceful.

we wasn't bad, Santa Claus must of forgot us, but tomorrow she's gonna' take us to Sears and buy us anything we want."

And we all sat down on the piano bench or next to it and ate our orange and read our comic book.

But she never did.

* *

A long time after, another house, another Christmas. The last with Mama. Ever after that all our rooms are dry. I was newly married and big with new mother pride and arrogance. We were all together laughing and waiting for dinner. My brother went into the kitchen.

"Listen, you all, listen, Mama, I want to tell you something."

My brother, my Mama's Honeyboy, her baby, was serious and his new man's voice quieted us.

"Mama, I joined the army. I got to go away next week. I joined the army, Mama."

Silence. Daddy looked stern in his confusion. His son was doing something he had never done, something that he had not told him to do. He looked at us, at Mama, not knowing what to say, looking for a clue. She kept setting the table, humming, but began to shake her head. She didn't say anything, and we could see the tears insisting in her eyes and her child's hands twisting forks in her dress. Then she sat down.

"Well, Honey, you're a man now, you can't hang around your Mama all your life. You still my Honeyboy, but this ain't all, you know, I'm gonna have another baby to keep me company."

She turned her head toward my bulging middle and closed her eyes. And we laughed. We laughed and patted my brother's back, and Daddy got drunk and talked on about his son in the army, and my brother was comforted because Mama would be all right, she would have her first grandchild. He went away the first week in January.

My baby came to be seen in March, but she had dropped dead in February and so she never did.

* * *

Except the next one, the first Christmas after Mama died, we rode, Daddy and the kids and I carrying my baby girl out to Mama's grave. We were silent, angry, furious that Christmas would dare to come with Mama gone. I was slow in the weather, carrying the baby, and the others reached the place before I did. When I approached them I could see them standing, looking down at the unmarked place that held our Mama, and Daddy was talking, plainly, conversationally, talking as he always talked, as if he were standing over her sitting in her chair.

"Back again," he said; "it's Christmas and we're all back together again. But this ain't all. Look, Lue got the baby. Merry Christmas, Thel."

A CHILD'S CHRISTMAS IN MEGALOPOLIS

balsam needles (you know, for those little pillows you always make too big so the balsam slops around), and glue to paste shells on matchboxes that fall off the moment you unwrap them. It's child labor, I tell you. And then what do they do with them but put the monstrosities on the mantelpiece or somewhere obvious (in Anne-Marie's case, next to the Louis Seize clock) so that when people come into the room they can say, "Oh, look what Jeannie has made us for Christmas." It's too shaming.

And when you think how much easier life would be if I could go to Bloomingdale's and buy presents for Anne-Marie with the money Solomon gave me for my birthday and give one of the two watches I got last Christmas to Sandra (that's my stepsister on the other side), who really needs a watch.

Of course they don't usually make that mistake—giving me two of the same thing for Christmas-because Mummy gives me what she thinks will be useful, whereas Anne-Marie is very Impulsive, so when she asks me what I want, I say, "Oh gee, I don't know, you always give me such wonderful presents." Which she does. One year when I was staying with Mummy and David for Christmas, she sent me this beautiful bracelet that looked like a snake and came in a Cartier box. Of course, it was really too expensive for a girl my age, and Mummy said, "Your father is such a talented man. He works so hard, and he has such enthusiasms that he often quite forgets those he loves best and tries to make it up to them later." But then the next year, Mummy gave me this beautiful gold pin with two little sapphires, and, of course, I had to make the mistake of wearing it that night at dinner with Daddy. Not that he really minded, of course. They're very civilized in my families. I guess they'd have to be with three divorces, an annulment, and a papal dispensation (Anne-Marie had that). Though they never see me together, they meet quite a lot at parties, or how else would Mummy know that Anne-Marie had this "divine" house in Gstaad.

Where I really want to go except for missing the Pageant. I'll never get to be an Angel again because they only pick one dark-haired girl a year. For some reasons most angels are meant to be blond, so Judy and Sylvia get to do it every year because Judy is blond and Sylvia is a Negro. A Black.

and better...and better...and better...

Out in Benton Harbor and St. Joseph, Michigan, the V·M folks are still very big on the little things that some people seem to have forgotten. The more you poke into our V·M stereo phonographs this Christmas, the more you'll admire them for it. And that's when Benton Harbor starts to grow on you.

For example, Benton Harbor may be the last place in the world where you can say "Haste makes waste" and not get a laugh. That could explain why you never saw better made phonographs than V·M.

And remember this one? "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure?" Out in Michigan, that's tellin' it like it is. Which is the reason your new V·M will still be going strong, most likely, ten Christmases from now.

Voice of Music has pioneered one new idea after another for twenty-five years. And our people are still at it, thanks to an old idea that goes: "If a thing's worth doing, it's worth doing well."

This Christmas you'll no doubt be tempted by some other stereos. But you go to your Voice of Music store and compare them with the look and the sound and the value of V·M. You'll see what a big job they do for you in our little town.

Which isn't fair because except for Sylvia I'm the only Christian in the whole class. Of course Mary and Joseph and the shepherds and probably the Kings were all Jews. But are there any Jewish angels?

Mummy's not very clear on that, though she always used to take me to church on Christmas and Easter. I really liked church, but I was pretty dumb in those days, so we'd have those terrible conversations, like I'd ask her, "Why doesn't Solomon come to church?" (Solomon is my ex-stepfather) and she'd say, "Because he belongs to a different Faith."

"You mean he doesn't believe in God?"

"Oh no, he believes in God, it's just a different God."
"Well, which God is the God we believe in?"

And it would be pretty rough going from then on because it turned out that she went to church because it was her Upbringing and it was a Good Thing To Do, especially on Christmas-which-is-otherwise-nothing-but-crass-commercialism. But after a while she stopped taking me, I guess because she felt funny going, with a name like Mrs. Solomon Steinwald. And how many candles could she light a year, anyhow? Granny (that's Mummy's mother) said it would be all right for her to go again after she married David, but Granny's often a bit unrealistic about such things. For instance, when she stayed with us last year, she seemed to be expecting the sort of Christmas you read about in third-grade readers, you know, the sort of thing where there's snow falling and the smell of spruce and everybody rushing around opening their stockings and kissing each other before "trooping off" to church. But that was the year that Mummy and David managed to get us all together, including Bob and Sandra (they're David's children who live with their mother and a painter on an island on nothing) and Carol, Mummy's child-by-her-second-marriage, who lives with us, and Israel, who lives with his father (Solomon), and my brother Jonathan, who goes to school in England and sometimes spends his vacations with his roommate in Persia. Iran. And the baby who belongs to Mummy and David, plus David's mother, Granny Coleman, who just got divorced.

So we did our best, rushing around trimming the tree and filling each other's stockings, though of course we didn't know each other too well, in fact some of us had never met before. But it was the "trooping off to church" that was the hard part because, as it turned out, Jonathan is a Confirmed Atheist, Bob and Sandra do Yoga meditations, Israel is about to be bar mitzvahed, and Carol, who is very serious about these things, calls everyone else a hypocrite. So there was only me to "troop off" to church with Granny. And I was sick. Boy, were they mad, especially Carol, because I got to spend the day in bed opening my presents and reading The Black Stallion Returns. They said I was faking because they saw me looking in the mirror and singing "Myrrh is mine." But I wasn't. I really wasn't. I had these terrible pains in my stomach, and Anne-Marie said that I looked frightfully pale when I went to see her and Daddy later on.

Happiness is having a mother to love you

And nine-month-old Lin Su contentedly sucks her thumb as she watches her new "mother" come to give her a nursing bottle of warm milk.

Lin Su's "mother" is a staff member at our Pine Hill Babies' Home in Hong Kong and to Lin Su she means happiness and security-and most important-

You see, until she came to us, this little girl had been badly neglected and abused. Her mother died when Lin Su was born and her father disappeared soon after. Lin Su was left alone in the shack which was her home. Neighbors found her and tried to take care of her.

But they were desperately poor with several children of their own. There simply wasn't any place where Lin Su was wanted. No one picked her up to cuddle her, she was often hungry and wet and cold for hours before anyone found time for her.

Besides being dangerously undernourished, Lin Su had been deprived of the warm, loving atmosphere that all babies need if they are to thrive.

Now, Lin Su is happy. You can see from her picture that contentment and security have filled her world. She is responding well to the tender care she receives and her eyes light up when her "mother" comes near.

It's good to comfort and take care of a little one like Lin Su. Won't you share this feeling with us by becoming a CCF sponsor one of thousands of other children who are victims of events they cannot help?

I urge you to reach out to a needy child. For only $12.00 a month you can sponsor a little boy or girl, and help provide happiness, security and love.

Please fill out the coupon today. Then in about two weeks, you will receive a photograph of the child you sponsor and a personal history. Your sponsored child will write to you and a housemother or staff worker will send you the original letter and an English translation, direct from

Whenever you may wish to send a special little gift, you've only to send your check to the CCF Richmond office and the entire amount will be forwarded, along with your instructions for its use.

For more than thirty years, through CCF sponsorships, Americans have shared their blessings with needy children around the world. Please, let today be the day you join this special group and begin to enjoy the rewards that come from personto-person sharing with a little

Thanks so much.

John Saladino, architectural designer, decorates his tree with tiny lights. "I love the way chandelier prisms with tiny mirrors reflect the lights," he told us, "and cash register light bulbs give a warm, reddish candle glow. At my family's, my mother serves a country Italian Christmas Eve dinner in the study by the fire. She stuffs Sicilian sausages by hand, serves bread cooked in olive oil with garlic and grated cheese, and Bibb lettuce. For dessert, with heavy espresso coffee, we have her special fig cookies made with piecrust dough cooked in deep fat, then stuffed with ricotta cheese, figs, chocolate, and cinnamon."

Trini Lopez, recording artist, goes home to Dallas every Christmas to see his family. "Mother fixes the customary Mexican holiday dishes," he says, "and special foods like buñuelos, a dessert cooked for days in advance, made with honey and a dough that can be eaten crisp or like crêpe suzettes."

Lionel Hampton, jazz great, will celebrate his homecoming Christmas Day with a soul food banquet. His long-time cook, Sweete Bell Benson, will lay out appetizers of chitlins, black-eyed peas, okra and rice, collard greens, and ham hocks. After that, a mixed green salad, and then the turkey-with special corn bread and oyster stuffing, and on the side, corn bread and candied yams. After the meal, "Hamp" will put on his Santa outfit and hand out presents, then sit down with his jazzmen and swing into a "soul singing session" of Christmas songs.

Graham Kerr, alias "The Galloping Gourmet," will have an Australian summertime Christmas with his wife and their three children. They will feast on the traditional cold-jellied chicken, South Australian Strawberry Pie (a kind of mince pie with whipped cream and strawberries on top), and Long White Cloud, a traditional New Zealand Christmas pudding that is frozen with ice cream on top, then served flaming on a very hot platter with apricot sauce and brandy. Both recipes are in Mr. Kerr's cook books.

Rosalyn Tureck, Bach pianist, always decorates a large blue Christmas spruce entirely with gold-trimmed velvet birds and fruit. She covers other smaller gold trees with red velvet birds and tiny musical instruments.

Stacy Keach, star of Indians, the hit Broadway play, is making Christmas live up to his Buffalo Bill Cody role; he'll have buffalo burgers (yes, real ones!) for a late informal buffet Christmas Eve. He's wrapping his presents in colored burlap and twine and decorating a real green tree with Indian corn, cranberries, and hand-carved Indian ornaments of wood and bone, many made and sent by his friends.

Nathaniel Merrill, Metropolitan Opera stage director, and his wife Louise Sherman, an assistant conductor with the company. open their presents in bed Christmas morning. The "packages" are huge red flannel stockings made by Louise's mother.

Carol Lawrence and Robert Goulet, a pair well known for their acting and singing talents, string their staircase with Italian stained glass illuminated ornaments with gold tinsel bows. For their two sons, they cover a little tree in the den with Santas, snowmen, drummer boys, leprechauns, and musical instruments. They have two dolls dressed as children out of Charles Dickens, electrically animated to ring a silver bell.

Delicately hand-carved by Thailand craftsmen these goblets are made from the heartwood of the Teak Tree. Because of its unique characteristics of extreme durability and its essential oils that make it impervious to water action, it is considered the ideal drinking goblet. These very elements are the assets that make these goblets so desirable—they preserve, rather than affect the true savor of the wines and liquids they hold. Age only serves to enrich and enhance their beauty and 1,000 years hence, they will be cherished by your descendants.

A rough ride 'em toy chest

He's a friendly fellow, full of rollicking good fun. A swell pet for every boy and girl. Kids love to ride him, to pull his bushy tail, to stick their head in his jaws. But don't worry Mom, he won't bite, and he's so easy to care for. Toby feeds on toys. Just spread his jaws and stuff his tummy. Because he is especially fond of toys scattered about the house, Toby even makes after-play cleanup fun. And he's a tough tiger. Made for riding of plastic-coated reinforced corrugated fiberboard (smudges and writing wipe right off). Stripes and markings are in gorgeous full color. Measures 25" L x 14" W x 13" H.

Musical Multiplication Records

teach all the tables from 2's through 12's as easily as the words of a song!

Help your child do better in arithmetic— especially in the New Math—by getting him these new multiplication records. Modern Math teachers insist on children memorizing their tables. Now even children of pre-school age can easily learn all the tables from 2's through 12's simply by playing these records.

No urging needed from parents. Children love these records. Each table has its own catchy tune and jingles. And the man on the record quizzes your child so the tables stick in his memory. He must know his tables to learn long division, fractions and decimals.

Send No Money. Just send coupon and the records will be mailed to you postage prepaid. If returned within two weeks after receipt, you owe nothing. If kept, pay only $9.95, price in full. Bremner Records, Dept. R-9, Wilmette, Illinois 60091.

School Principal writes: "Your records have a unique teaching approach and a good one. Our pupils are taking new interest in their tables, Excellent as a home-tutoring aid."

A. Blair Owens, Principal, Lewiston Elementary School, Lewiston, Pa.

Parent writes: "All three of my children used your records and in 6 weeks had learned all the tables from 2's through 12's. Best investment I ever made." A. J. Perez, Parsons, Kansas

Tomorrow's Weather?

Ask the Famous ROYAL CRYSTAL SWAN

What a beautiful and delightful way to tell the weather! Set up this sparkling Royal Crystal Swan. Place it on your TV, table, shelf, mantle-piece, near a window, etc. Then be prepared for a pleasant surprise! As you watch, the ruby-red liquid creeps up or down in a strange, almost eerie sort of way. If it surges up into the graceful swan's neck, you are forewarned: stormy weather is in the offing. But when the liquid drops, be of good cheer! A beautiful, fair day beckons. Young and old are entranced by the un-canny-like actions. Soon everyone's asking:

"WHAT MAKES IT WORK?"

The truth is, this Royal Crystal Swan is really a clever Rudimentary Barometer in disguise. The shimmering ruby liquid surges up or falls in direct response to atmospheric pressures. Exactly like weather bureau barometers in Washington, San Francisco, New York, Chicago, etc.

NOW .. OUTGUESS THE WEATHERMAN!

It's such fun to be your own weatherman. Put this Royal Crystal Swan to work for you. Then see how you score against that faraway weatherman. See if you can't beat him in divining local weather conditions — within a local weather conditions — with radius of 25 miles of your home!

SO EASY TO OPERATE!

So easy to use! No complicated readings to interpret. No difficult adjustments. Yet this simple little invention really works . . it always reacts to changes in atmospheric pressure in the same manner as a $1000.00 instrument. strument.

A MASTERPIECE OF CRYSTAL ART

Our picture gives only a faint idea of the true beauty of this statuette. Note the finely detailed body . . . the long, the true beauty of this statuette. Note the finely detailed body . . . the long, majestic neck . . . the pure, gleaming crystal! Not stamped or mass produced from cheap, brittle plastic! Each and every one is individually blown and hand shaped by a clever, deft artisan. So exquisite! So truly aristocratic! But you must see it to really appreciate it. You will be delighted to see how it adds new beauty and drama to any room!

You'll be saying it a thousand times in a thousand different ways. You'll be writing it on cards to friends at home and at the end of long, warm letters sent to the other of the earth. You'll call it out to people at the market . . . in the five-and-ten . . . and in church. You will carol it, shout it, whisper it, proclaim it with a great big guess-what smile. You'll wrap it up in tiny packages for people you'll see on Christmas Eve and you'll tie it to the weighty unwrappables that will answer big, big dreams.

A mong the nicest ways to say Merry Christmas to those on your gift list who truly love their homes ...who spend lots of time and effort making them beautiful indoors and out...who delight in sharing the pleasures of their houses with frequent guests . . . is a gift-subcription to HOUSE & GARDEN.

Giving HOUSE & GARDEN is so easy. (And inexpensive: 12 issues for $6.) Simply fill in and mail the order form facing this page. We do everything else for you. We sign your gift cards, as you tell us, and mail them for at-Christmas delivery. Then, once a month for twelve months, we'll mail another of your gifts of HOUSE & GARDEN... echoing your wish of Merry Christmas to each friend throughout a

WAIST-AWAY

RELAX INTO A YOUTHFUL SHAPE WITHOUT EXERCISE

Athletes don't exercise to lose weight or reduce midriff fat! They "sweat it off" with special rubber suits. You can now use their proved, fast method. No weights!

So simple, it's amazing how easy it works while you relax. WAIST-AWAY is a pliable wide belt of soft rubber-like composition that you wear next to your skin. It makes your body heat melt away excess "flab" while you do housework, jog, or just sit and watch TV.

The soothing massage effect relieves back and waist tensions. Posture improves, too. A wonderful aid to athletes, businessmen, housewives.

Velcro adjustment keeps belt snug. Specify man's or woman's model.

Wonderful news for Women! THIGH REDUCER Belts

Spot-reduce legs the sure, fast way.

If you've struggled to reduce your thighs with exercise, massage, dieting, but have had disappointing results, take heart. There's a new way to slim those thighs where exercise alone can't help. IBEM's THIGH REDUCER Belts spot-reduce the heaviness at the top of the thigh while you walk, work, or just sit. Based on the same proved, effective principle as the WAIST-AWAY (see above)—using body heat to melt away excess fat with a relaxing massage effect.

Here's a fast sure way to slim thighs. Now you, too, can wear those revealing mini-fashions. Do it now and get results fast!

IBEM Thigh Reducer Belts are soft, pliable, rubber-like composition. Adjustable Velcro fastening keeps them snug as your thighs get thinner. Send your upper thigh measurements at point indicated by arrow. Whatever method of thigh reducing you've tried without success, don't give up. Order a pair of IBEM Belts today on money-back guarantee. Check or money order, no COD.

What's your I.Q. on home furnishings brand names?

How many of these famous names do you recognize?

If you don't recognize at least half of these names, you might not be ready to buy furnishings for your home.

Why? Because when you furnish your home, you are making an investment for the future. You want the assurance that you will be proud to live with the merchandise you select. When the maker puts his name on a product, he is giving you his personal assurance of quality in workmanship...satisfaction in performance. Brand names are your guide to easier, safer buying. You can be completely confident that you are getting the very best for your money with a brand name.

Be brand conscious. Remember, when you buy a brand name product — it costs no more.

We'd be delighted to send you our booklet "Know How To Buy Home Furnishings", a buying guide for all categories of home furnishings. Just write to Brand Names Foundation, 477 Madison Avenue, New York, New York 10022, and enclose 25¢ for handling.

VIRGINIA HAM AGED LIKE VINTAGE WINE

Christmas Tradition for 300 Years!

Smoked for weeks over hand tended fires, kept going day and night, while juices drip and pungent hickory smoke flavors the meat. Aged a year, then baked with wine and sugar. Arrives ready to serve (doesn't even need heating), for Christmas feast, buffet, cocktails, sandwiches, etc. Traditionally sliced paper thin and served cold; goes a long way; easy to keep; a delight to any homemaker during busy holidays.

300 years ago Virginia planters traded their hams to English sailing masters. Soon the old world's epicures were agog over this new flavor. Virginia Ham be-came famous around the world. It still is. Each magnificent ham now hanging in our aging rooms has been slowly is each magnineent ham now hanging in our aging rooms has been slowly cured, smoked to a rich mahogany hue, and aged the way the colonists did it 300 years ago. For there is no short cut to such flavor. Just before shipment each ham is soaked, simmered, skinned, the first is soaked. the fat trimmed, then sauced with wine and sugar, and baked to a sweet and

Gardener's notes

A FAMILY LANDSCAPE OF MANY ROOMS

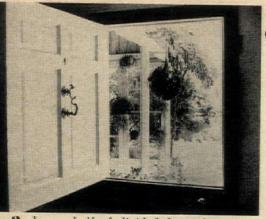

With the various needs of a growing family uppermost in their minds, Mr. and Mrs. George Reed divided the space around the three buildings of their Malvern, Pa. home into a series of garden "rooms." Some serve as play yards for the tots. Bigger areas are designed for teen-age games, and more formal spaces are furnished for adults. All are closely interconnected and easy to use as a whole. At the wedding of their daughter, for instance, guests were free to wander at will throughout all the different areas. Numbers on the plan, left, are keyed to photographs.

1. A wooden gate set in a stone wall forms the approach to the Reeds' front door. A flagstone walk leads to a paved area the full width of the house front. This is the place for meeting, greeting, and entertaining casual groups. A cluster of tub plants screens the area from the gate.

2. Opposite the front door, a stone-edged poor offers the color and fragrance of water lilies, the lulling sound of water trickling from a wall found tain. The raised pool rim is a stage for displaying choice pot plants—one of Mrs. Reed's hobbies

3. Lower half of divided front door stays shut to keep in family cats, while open top gives view of columnea and other plants hanging from side porch eaves. Wisteria drips mauve blossoms in the spring and fuzzy green pods all summer.

4. The second floor gallery faces a formally patterned garden of lawn and boxwood, overhung by an ivy-clad pine. The meadow beyond, always full of light, is spacious enough for large parties or outdoor games.

5. The old stone toolhouse separates a decoratively planted area from the utilitarian vegetable garden beyond. Day lilies, yew, and juniper make for trouble-free plantings, with a variety of flowering shrubs for color.

6. A stepped path leading downhill toward the toolhouse is densely planted along both sides with ivy, ajuga, and sedums as ground-cover, veronica, coral bells, and summer annuals for color and cutting.

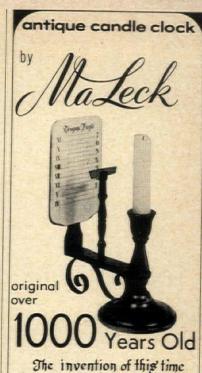

7. The ivy-covered stone foundation of the barn makes an ideal backdrop for mixed perennial plants. In this sheltered spot, iris, delphiniums, and peonies bloom to perfection in spring, while phlox, rudbeckias, and chrysanthemums round out the summer and autumn garden.

8. South of the sheltering barn is a sitting area used by the family almost year round. Here spring bulbs show earliest bloom, hollies stay glossy leaved all winter. Best of all is the amount of privacy from house and road.

PLANTS TO GIVE FOR CHRISTMAS

You don't have to be a gardener to appreciate the lively color that plants bring indoors during the gray days of midwinter. Yet many people hesitate to give plants as Christmas presents because they are afraid they will overburden the recipients' resources of gardening skill. This is sometimes the case, to be sure, but plants are expendable, after all, and if they give up the ghost after a few days, they still will have given the pleasure they were grown to provide.

A little judgment on the part of the donor, however, will go a long way toward keeping the gift plant in good condition for a reasonable length of time. So here are a few basic dos and don'ts aimed at both sides of the gift-giving fence:

 DON'T give cyclamens, gloxinias, gardenias, or African violets to people who live in hot, arid city apartments. DO give orange trees, dracaenas, or any of the numberless members of the bromeliad (pineapple) family.

- DON'T give cactuses (any of the hundreds of kinds), hibiscuses, or geraniums to anyone whose sunlight is cut off by tall buildings or trees. DO give ivies, members of the fig family (the rubber plant is one—and one of the best), philodendrons, and aspidistras (no joke, this—aspidistras can be very nice).
- DON'T try to grow any plant on top of a hot radiator or where it will get a blast of hot air from a heating outlet or, conversely, where it will get the cold blast from a window usually left open at night. DO try to put some humidity into the air around a plant. This may be done simply by sprinkling the leaves every day or so or by setting the pot on a bed of moistened gravel or even on a bed of wet, crumpled newspaper.

A FEW OTHER PRESENTS FOR GARDENERS

A featherweight snowplow may be literally what the doctor ordered for the man of the house. The Toro Snow Pup comes in both electric and gaspowered models each of which weighs just over 20 pounds. Another feature of the Snow Pup is a lifting bar with which the whole machine may be raised waist high for knocking the tops off recalcitrant drifts.

The new pruning shears and saws with blades coated with Teflon, which has now moved out of the kitchen, make welcome gifts even for gardeners who already have the old-fashioned type. Even better than its rust-preventative qualities is Teflon's resistance to the build-up of gummy deposits that make pruning saws stick and bind.

When you think of giving outdoor plants as Christmas presents, you may think of a "living Christmas tree"—an idea that has undoubtedly killed more hopefully dug evergreens than any custom in history. Profiting from other people's mistakes, a new enterprise calling itself the Samara Tela-Tree Service is licensing agents all over the country to sell gift trees and shrubs properly dug and wrapped and scheduled for delivery at the correct planting time. All kinds of hardy evergreen and deciduous plants are included in the list of varieties available, and all are delivered in tubs of soil so that they may be used as house plants before planting outside. Plants that do not take kindly to being indoors for even a short time are delivered in the form of a gift certificate at holiday time, with the plant itself following when the weather is suitable for outdoor planting. A branch of this organization, named Santa's Forest, concentrates on evergreens with the same plant-wise procedure being followed.

A new garden almanac and wall calendar that any gardener would be proud to own has been prepared by the Hallmark Company with the cooperation of the New York Botanical Garden. Its monthly pages contain colored illustrations of flowers, trees, and birds, as well as room for writing daily appointments. Other unusual features: a tree identification chart, a revolving dial on the cover explaining how to care for sixteen house plants, a hardiness zone map of the U.S., formulas for eight different potting soils. For each month, there is a special tip on some type of home gardening—a window sill herb garden, hanging baskets, coffee can bird feeders. The Hallmark Garden Almanac retails for $3.50.

When you make this eggnog for a group, however, it is best to take some care with the preparation of the eggs. The yolks should be beaten separately until frothy. Whip the sugar into them, and add the liquor gradually while stirring, and let the mixture stand for an hour. Then beat the whites until stiff and fold them into the mixture. Finally, eggnogs should be kept in the refrigerator. And don't put ice into them. Serve in a large punch bowl, after dusting the top with grated nutmeg.

Orange juice, of course, is another food product that combines well with alcohol. One of the happiest champagne concoctions for Christmastime is also one of the easiest to make-it is simply half orange juice and half French champagne, sugared to taste if you like things sweet.

SOCIABLE DRINKS

Christmas and New Year's are, if nothing else, times of extra sociability, and some of the most sociable drinks are the punches and champagne mixes. In one such holiday period, I traveled with a connoisseur from New York to Buffalo for Christmas. We had hardly left the purlieus of Manhattan when a tremendous thirst took my friend and we stopped at the nearest pub for a Milk Punch. The barman was uninstructed in anything so complicated, and my pal took over. From then on, our progression was slow since we had to sample the techniques of every bar we passed along the route. I think it took us twenty-three hours to negotiate the passage. By the end of that time, we had reduced the recipe to its most basic form.

I pass on to you for its historical value the recipe thus learned by trial and error on this rather unique trip. It is made with 2 jiggers of applejack in a cup of milk, with sugar to taste and not too much of that. These basic ingredients are shaken with cracked ice until thoroughly chilled, poured into a tumbler, and if you have the energy, dusted with nutmeg. But this last is an unnecessary refinement!

Of course, you can turn basic milk punch into one of those nourishing drinks by adding an egg or make it richer by using cream instead of milk. And if the weather is too cold for an iced drink, you can warm it up by using hot milk. But a punch is essentially a frappéed drink, to be served in a frosted glass, not just a cold beverage like a highball.

Champagne Punch probably has the most glamorous associations of any Christmastime beverage. Just the idea of making it begins to conjure up euphoric feelings, and the thought of using the most aristocratic of wines in this plebeian way adds to the sensation of open-handedness that the season seems to require. There are many recipes for champagne punch, but one of the best is a sort of huge champagne cocktail.

For this you need the juice of 2 lemons and 1 orange, 4 jiggers of cognac, and 2 bottles of French champagne. A small amount of sugar, say about 4 teaspoonfuls, should be dampened with orange bitters. Put this with the fruit juices and cognac into a big bowl, making sure the sugar is dissolved. Then add a large lump of ice, and just before serving pour in the champagne and stir. This should serve 10 to 12 people.

Finally, of course, without any fuss apart from opening the bottles, you can have a perfect Noel fiesta with perfectly plain champagne. Just chill the bottles, pop the corks, and pour.
