Hello Everybody:

←From DesignLife: First-year College of Design students Ryan Whitley and Matt Hirsch carefully planned and executed a tribute to NCSU College of Design Dean Marvin Malecha at NCSU's Free Expression Tunnel. When all was said and done, it took 9 hours, 20 gallons of white primer, 31 cans of spray-paint, and 35 pairs of hands the night of October 17. View a Flickr slideshow of mural photos. The mural features a quotation by Malecha from the "The Brick," a first-year orientation NC State student publication. All of NC State's deans were invited to offer advice to incoming students. Malecha's advice: "You have before you the opportunity to ask deep questions, to explore as you never have and to redesign whom you are on the basis of what you believe. Be open to all that is available to you, participate broadly in the life of the university community. Be wary of the trivial and the superficial. See to find the joy in your life."

The new kitchen that Raleigh architect Gene Brown designed for himself and his wife Penny as part of a recent whole house remodel is on the cover of the annual Fall/Winter Kitchen and Bath issue of Fine Homebuilding magazine.
