2021 PALLADIO AWARDS CALL FOR ENTRIES

Honoring outstanding achievement in traditional design, The Palladio Awards program recognizes both individual designers and design teams whose work enhances the beauty and humane qualities of the built environment, through creative interpretation or adaptation of design principles, developed through 2,500 years of the Western architectural tradition.

The Palladio Awards are the first and only national awards program for residential and commercial/institutional projects which demonstrate excellence in traditional design.

The Palladio Awards program is produced by Clem Labine's Traditional Building. Presented by The Traditional Building Conference, the award is named in honor of Andrea Palladio, the Renaissance architect who created modern architecture for his time while drawing on past models for inspiration.

Period-style lighting does far more than provide mere illumination; it proudly shines a light on the past and creates a warm, glowing atmosphere in the spaces in use today. Here are some of the lighting firms that are keeping up the tradition.

AUTHENTIC DESIGNS authenticdesigns.com

Operating in a converted wood-pick mill in rural Vermont, Authentic Designs creates reproduction Early American, Colonial, and other period-style lighting for designers, architects, and homeowners.

“Sources for our designs include private collections, historic buildings, restorations, museums, auction houses, and antiques dealers,” says Michael Krauss, whose father established the company in 1966.

Authentic Designs, which has been featured on PBS’ “This Old House” and Architectural Digest, has supplied lighting for projects ranging from the Saratoga Race Track 1863 Club in Saratoga Springs, New York, to the Golden Pheasant Inn in Erwinna, Pennsylvania.

“We start from scratch using tools and machines that we have acquired over the years, salvaged or in some cases built ourselves,” Krauss says, adding that all the company’s lighting is UL listed. “We use only the finest raw materials, including brass, copper, terne, and American-grown hardwoods. We take great care to ensure that the quality and durability of our lights are as lasting as the originals by which we are inspired.”

BALL AND BALL ballandball.com

“Our expertise comes from creating historically accurate 18th-century reproduction lighting fixtures for nearly 89 years and utilizing craftsmen whose experience has been gained from being involved in some of the nation’s significant historic lighting preservation and reproduction projects,” says company co-owner Bill Ball.

Ball and Ball’s lighting fixtures illuminate a number of America’s prominent buildings, including Independence Hall, the U.S. Capitol, the Oklahoma State Capitol, the Old Mississippi State Capitol, and the Pennsylvania State Capitol. They also are installed in several Ivy League universities, including Harvard and Brown, and are featured in Disney’s “Pirates of the Caribbean” films.

Like Ball and Ball’s hardware, the fixtures, which are fabricated in the company’s plant in Exton, Pennsylvania, are handmade.

“They have the character and quality of the old-time hand craftsmanship,” Ball says. “We use materials, tools, and techniques that most closely mimic those available or used during fabrication of antique lighting.”

Ball and Ball also does custom work.

CRENSHAW LIGHTING crenshawlighting.com

For over six decades, Crenshaw Lighting has specialized in the manufacturing of custom decorative and historic restoration and replication lighting.

“We believe in producing the highest quality possible and preserving the art of the lamp maker in the United States,” says marketing manager Patrick Gable. “From our full-service metal and machine shop to our glass-blowing studio, we are able to provide our customers options and control not only how their custom fixtures come to life but keeping their design integrity intact.”

The company, which is based in Floyd, Virginia, employs more than 50 people in its 56,000-square-foot production center and has created lighting for a variety of venues, including the U.S. Capitol, the U.S. Supreme Court, and the New York Stock Exchange.

Crenshaw tests and lists luminaries and evaluates lamping performance in its on-site CSA UL 1598 co-witness testing lab.

“We provide more than just illumination,” Gable says. “We believe that lighting should be the jewelry of the space and that every fixture be held to the highest standard of quality.”

CUSTOMLIGHTSTYLES customlightstyles.com, homelighting.net

Family-owned-and-operated Customlightstyles has been designing and fabricating high-end bespoke outdoor lighting and interior chandeliers, pendants and sconces since 1909.

“We specialize in creating designs that endure,” says Mary Lu Hunt, president, designer and third-generation owner. “We use heavy grades of brass, copper, and bronze that will withstand the outdoor elements and remain for many years afterward.”

The company, whose 3,000-square-foot manufactory is in Nevada, has 30 employees, many of whom have worked there for over 30 years. It counts a number of contemporary celebrities, notably Drake and Barbra Streisand, as well as Hollywood legends Jean Harlow and William Holden among its customers.

“We love to work with individual homeowners on a personal level to help them achieve their personal vision,” Hunt says.

FORBES & LOMAX forbesandlomag.com/usa

With the introduction of the Invisible Lightswitch in 1987, Forbes & Lomax established itself as a purveyor of decorative light switches in a range of sophisticated finishes, including brass, bronze, and nickel.

“Our switches have a unique design with screwless, flush-fitting wall plates for a sleek look,” says Noah Pelletier, Los Angeles showroom manager. “Our Invisible Lightswitch features a transparent acrylic wall plate to pair with your favorite wallcovering or paint finish for a seamless look.”

The company’s toggle switches, rotary dimmers, push buttons, and outlets are installed in luxury residences and high-end hotels through North America and Europe and “meet all the demands of modern technology while preserving a timeless appearance,” Pelletier says. “They are suited for use in both modern and historic homes, with switch options for conventional wiring, as well as momentary switches for use with home automation systems.”

GRAND LIGHT grandlight.com

An experienced restorer of historic lighting fixtures and a manufacturer of custom ones, Grand Light has a history of award-winning projects.

The company, based in Seymour, Connecticut, dates to 1929.

“We specialize in assisting a project’s design team in the design, engineering, restoration, and manufacturing of aesthetically pleasing, energy-efficient, and practical lighting solutions for historic and commercial properties,” says vice president Ryan Stockman.

In the Senate chambers of the Massachusetts State House, which was built in 1798, Grand Light removed, restored, and reinstalled the lighting fixtures, which include a 30-foot-tall, 1,850-pound chandelier, 18 cast-brass wall sconces, and a set of torchieres.

“We also designed and manufactured custom chandeliers based on a historic photograph,” Stockman says of the project, which received numerous awards, including the 2019 Boston Preservation Alliance Preservation Achievement Award.

The company also restored the large signature exterior lanterns on the façade of the Moynihan Train Hall in New York City and refurbished, rewired, and replicated an array of chandeliers, ceiling lights, and wall sconces in the Persian Terrace, Grand Ball Room, and main lobby of the historic 1920s Hotel Syracuse (Marriott Syracuse Downtown) in Syracuse, New York. The project received the 2017 Excellence in Historic Preservation Award from the Preservation League of NYS.

“Our restoration process never denigrates the historical significance of a fixture,” Stockman says. “Grand Light has a unique understanding of both large and small projects and is committed to exceeding client expectations.”

HERITAGE METALWORKS hmwpa.com

The Pennsylvania-based Heritage Metalworks, which has been specializing in custom lighting and restoration and reproduction fixtures since 2001, has two signature to-the-trade collections—Heritage Traditions Lighting and Scofield Lighting.

“Our focus is timeless style, heirloom quality and honest craftsmanship,” says marketing director Cheryl Ort. “We’ve learned from the elegance of the past and adapted it to the future.”

Heritage Traditional Lighting’s nearly 100 authentic reproduction and adaptive historic lighting designs include an exclusive reproductive license for Winterthur Museum. The pieces are handcrafted from iron, cast brass, and other traditional materials.

The Scofield Lighting collection, distributed by Remains Lighting, has more than 120 original custom and reproduction designs, including traditional-inspired lighting handcrafted from copper, tin, and wood.

“We use the highest quality materials to create pieces with exacting standards,” says Ort. “We go as far as using 24-karat gold leafing and plating with nickel.”

She adds that the pieces are hand made by in-house artisans who use traditional tools and techniques.

“We have the knowledge and experience to pay special attention to detail along with in-house capabilities to design, create patterns, perform metal casting and hand apply authentic patinas and finishes,” she says.

LANERN MASTERS lanernmasters.com

“Our goal is to manufacture lighting fixtures that are visually pleasing, artfully crafted and totally functional,” says Sharyn Olesker, vice president manufacturing. “Many of Lantern Masters’ designs are looked at as works of art or fine pieces of jewelry.”

The California-based company, which has been in business since 1978, designs and manufactures lanterns, chandeliers, sconces, pendants, and semi-custom, and custom fixtures that encompass all periods from classical and old world to modern and contemporary.

Noting that each fixture is made to order, Olesker says that clients include casinos, theme parks, hotels, restaurants, places of worship, private gated communities, and private residences.

LIGHTING NELSON & GARRETT lightingnag.com MILLS ARCHITECTURAL LIGHTING millslighting.com

(church lighting division)

This pair of companies, based in Toronto, Canada, have been creating custom architectural lighting fixtures for generations.

“We do interior and exterior fixtures in all styles, including contemporary and traditional as well as historical reproduction, replication, and restoration,” says John Garrett, who, along with Christopher Nelson, co-founded the main company, Lighting Nelson & Garrett in 1991.

He adds that Mills Architectural Lighting, which dates to the 1940s, makes standard catalog church lanterns.

Lighting Nelson & Garrett recently completed a number of high-profile projects. In 2019, it produced over 1,000 custom fixtures in 21 styles for the West Block of the Canadian Parliament Buildings in Ottawa.

“The fixtures were hand-made in our 16,000-square-foot factory of solid brass using traditional methods but include high-performance LED engines engineered in-house,” Garrett says. “It was quite a challenge to balance strict performance requirements with visual comfort for this project.”

For the iconic Toronto Union Station, the firm re-created its long-lost outdoor pendants, wall, and post lanterns. “We consulted original architect’s sketches dating back to the early 1900s as well as some photographic evidence from the 1950s,” Garrett says.

Along with decades of experience and thousands of commissions, the firm has amassed what Garrett says is “likely to be North America’s largest collection of lighting-specific archival drawings, historical casting patterns, and reference materials that date to 1918 and have been passed down through the generations. These assets uniquely position us to design and execute custom fixtures of most any period, style, and material, incorporating cutting-edge light sources and manufacturing technologies in our fully equipped factory.”

NORTHEAST LANTERN northeastlantern.com

For more than 33 years, the family-owned and -operated Northeast Lantern has been crafting solid brass and copper light fixtures for indoor and outdoor installations.

“We are now in our second generation of ownership, and we are continuing the same tradition of building quality into our product,” says President Christopher Heal, son of founder Skip Heal. “This quality is backed by our lifetime guarantee on our craftsmanship.”

Based in Exeter, New Hampshire, the company makes all its products in its 16,000-square-foot manufacturing headquarters. Its fixtures, many of them custom, are sold directly to showrooms and designers.

In addition to creating the holiday lights for the Town of Exeter and town offices, Northeast Lantern has done projects for actor Richard Gere, professional wrestler John Cena, numerous theme parks, and hotel and commercial projects.

“Our product is made from an elemental material,” Heal says. “The finish patinas and beautifies with time. We hand apply a factory finish to all our fixtures, and once they are installed in the natural surroundings, atmosphere takes over and the living characteristics of the metal start to shape.”

Heal says it’s exciting and gratifying to revive period-style fixtures: “We keep one foot in history and the other in the future with our timeless designs.”

Northeast Lantern, established in 1987, makes solid brass and copper lighting fixtures.

PERIOD LIGHTING FIXTURES periodlighting.com

“An exceptional reproduction lighting fixture, like an exceptional antique, is a marriage of four components—design, construction, finish, and the ability and sensitivity of the craftsman,” declares Chris Burda, the owner of Period Lighting Fixtures. “Slight any one, and the result will be inferior.”

The company, established in Chester, Connecticut, in 1974 and now located in Clarksburg, Massachusetts, makes faithful reproductions of early American lighting.

“We specialize in lighting from 1620 to 1850,” Burda says, adding that eight employees work in the company’s 10,000-square-foot headquarters. “Each fixture is individually built by hand by a single craftsman utilizing old-world methods and techniques. While all of our fixtures are electrified, we also provide candles-only and gas versions as well.”

In addition to creating lighting for Historic Deerfield, Old Sturbridge Village and the Colonial Williamsburg Foundation, the company’s products have been featured in a number of films, including Amistad, The Patriot, and Cold Mountain. In addition, a number of celebrities, notably Billy Joel, Michael J. Fox, and Christie Brinkley, have commissioned lighting for their private residences.

“Our fixtures are always pleasing to the eye,” Burda says. “They are free of the awkwardness so prevalent in most other reproductions. Through special techniques, the various finishes will appear exactly as an original, indistinguishable from antiques that are 200 or more years old.”

Burda says that period lighting is much more than a mundane method to illuminate a room in an authentic manner.

“We believe that a lighting fixture, by its very nature of bringing light to darkness, often has a special meaning to people,” he says. “When we consider that it lights the way for the nighttime traveler or provides a warm focal point for the gathering of friends, it is natural that some of us prefer the standard of our lighting to be consistent with those of the antiques and furnishings used throughout our homes.”

It is for these reasons, he adds, that

Are You Suffering from Window Bias?

You might be if you automatically consider replacement windows rather than window inserts. Replacement windows are cost-prohibitive and often do not solve all comfort needs.

Commercial Window Attachments for Historic Windows

Why do replacement windows remain the standard market solution when window attachments are better at addressing performance and aesthetic issues? Window attachments, like inserts:

- Reduce noise significantly, 50%-70%
- Add energy efficiency, reducing bills by 20% on average
- Preserve the original building

Period Lighting Fixtures' products "embody a classic simplicity of design faithful to the original and the finest, most enduring quality of craftsmanship. That is why they are a perfect fit for your historic home or a brand-new one. They are timeless in design."

RAMBUSCH DECORATING CO. rambusch.com

At the forefront of lighting for more than a century, the family-owned and -operated Rambusch Decorating Co. designs standard and custom lighting and restores and replicates historic fixtures.

The company has several crafts workshops, including ones devoted to custom metal and stained glass, under one roof in its Jersey City, New Jersey, headquarters.

"What makes our 'product' unique is that Rambusch is the product—it's our history and experience," says CEO Edwin P. Rambusch. "We have always approached lighting from a decorative-painting perspective."

Rambusch Decorating has worked in almost all the State Capitols, the U.S. Capitol, and the White House. It was Rambusch Decorating that designed a new lighting solution for the original torch of the Statue of Liberty using Lumenetix LEDs and Lutron controls. The torch is on display in the new Statue of Liberty Museum on Liberty Island.

In addition, the company was chosen by MBB Architects and Sciam Construction for the design-assist process to engineer LED downlights, accent lights and to create new decorative performance lanterns for Trinity Church Wall Street in New York City.

It also designed new luminaries for the Utah State Capitol that blend with the style of its historical fixtures and retrofitted the original Rambusch fixtures of Penn State University's Thomas Lecture Hall with 100 of its Mark V LED downlights.

"A multi-million-dollar project can be put in jeopardy simply by trying to save $50,000 on a lighting solution," says Martin V. Rambusch, chairman of the board. "It's important to work with an experienced firm because lighting affects everything, and we have to make it work."

STEVEN HANDELMAN STUDIOS stevendelmanstudios.com

For nearly half a century, the craftsmen at Steven Handelman Studios have been making and restoring historic and historically inspired custom wrought-iron, brass, and cast-bronze lighting fixtures.

Forty craftsmen work at the studio, whose 2,500-square-foot showroom and 10,000-square-foot factory are in Santa Barbara, California, and the company has a catalog with more than 1,000 original designs in every architectural style.

Its lighting has been installed in over 20,000 private residences around the world, and its clients range from Cher, Bruce Willis, and the Saudi royal family to Yale University, the Dubai Opera house, and California's Pebble Beach Country Club.

"We make each piece one at a time," says founder Steven Handelman. "We do not use prefabricated parts or assembly-line techniques."

In a project with Robert A.M. Stern Architects, for instance, the studio duplicated over 500 1920s decorative light fixtures for Yale University.

"The challenge of such projects is to create convincing historic reproductions in a way that balances the finished products with the realities of current code requirements, budgets, production time, and skilled workers required," he says.

One key to success, he adds, is understanding how craftsmen from previous eras worked. He notes that before World War II, the cost of materials was greater than the cost of labor—a fact that had a direct influence on design.

"Oftentimes, the craftsman who was making the item would weigh the material to come up with a price for the finished product," Handelman says. "The value of a product was often determined by how long it would last. Most all products would be repaired rather than replaced."

Handelman says his studio strives to reproduce the best examples of the best craftsmen of their day.

"The emotion that is connected to 'hand-made' goods is the result of the maker's presence in each piece," he says. "This is accomplished by making products in a way that conveys the human interaction with the production process. Machines just can't compete with humans when emotion is an important part of the finished product."

ST. LOUIS ANTIQUE LIGHTING CO. slalco.com

This award-winning company, which has done work for the U.S. Capitol, the U.S. Supreme Court, 16 state capitols, more than 60 federal courthouses, and hundreds of historic buildings around the country, has over 3,000 custom designs in its archives and an extensive collection of historic lighting catalogs.

Established in St. Louis, Missouri, in 1973, it specializes in historic lighting restoration and replication and custom architectural lighting.

"Historic accuracy and traditional craftsmanship distinguish our lighting fixtures," says President Gary Behm, IES. "Our shop workers are true craftsmen, many with decades of experience. We make our products in our own 16,000-square-foot factory the same way they were made 100 years ago—by hand."

The fixtures, which are UL or ETL listed, are designed using AutoCAD software, and when required, are modeled with 3-D technology. Several of the company's projects have won IES and ILAD awards as well as a variety of AIA awards, including the International Illumination Design Award of Excellence.

"We understand the science of lighting," Behm says. "As members of the Illuminating Engineering Society of North America (IESNA), we study advances in new lamp technology so we can usefully adapt those to traditional lighting designs. We pride ourselves in working with architects and lighting designers to adapt new industry technologies for use in period lighting projects."

HOW TO USE THIS GUIDEBOOK

Welcome to the 2021 Guidebook. For this year's Guidebook, the editors have selected 225+ COMPANIES whose products or services meet the ever-growing need of architects, builders, developers, conservators, facility managers, property owners, and those who work preserving, restoring, renovating, and creating new buildings in traditional styles. You can find these in our Product & Service Index starting on page 29.

Granted, most of this material can eventually be found on Google—if you spend lots of time sifting through all the undifferentiated results Google floods you with. To save you time, the editors of TRADITIONAL BUILDING have done all the sifting for you. As a result, the listings in this issue provide:

- CURATED LISTS Only products and services appropriate for buildings in traditional architectural styles have been included.
- SYNERGY & SURPRISE DISCOVERIES

Because the editors have carefully grouped like-with-like, these listings allow you to make surprise discoveries of things you weren't looking for—but which are extremely helpful. It's just like searching for movies and seeing related titles you hadn't known about.

The Product & Service Index is divided into 20 MASTER CATEGORIES (listed below) and there are 650+ SUB-CATEGORIES therein. There is comprehensive cross-referencing across the categories. For example, if you look for Gazebos in the Landscape section, we will refer you to the Conservatories, Greenhouses & Outbuildings section where you will find the sub-category for Gazebos.

Once you find the sub-category you are looking for, you will see a list of companies that provide that product or service. To learn more about each company, see the Company Listings (starting on this page) which has a description with contact information for every company in the index.

There are many more companies we maintain information on that due to space limitations we are unable to publish in the magazine. Please visit www.traditionalbuilding.com and there you'll find over 1000+ companies broken down by the same 20 master categories and 150+ sub-categories.
