

RESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Directions and Concepts for '82

AIA derives its strength from the concern, support and participation of its members. Good leadership is the obligation of those entrusted. Much has been accomplished, but there remains much to do. AIA, like other service organizations, is not static. It derives its dynamics from both external and internal forces. The external tends to be reactive, the internal contemplative.

As our world changes, so does AIA. I should like to see AIA continue its leadership role in influencing those issues which concern architects and the built environment. For example, two recent issues very much in the news these days, the 1992 World Fair and AIA's position on the North Loop Redevelopment, were both spawned within our local AIA.

Increased participation by the membership is a continuing goal for 1982. The more involved we become, the more effective we will be. Toward this end, the Chicago Chapter will hold a general meeting of the membership on January 20 from 5:30 to 8:30 PM. The purpose of this meeting will be to give membership the opportunity to help identify issues that the Chapter will pursue, to evaluate the effectiveness of the existing committee structure and to enlist support from the membership in specific areas.

I do not propose to abandon the committee structure, but I believe that effective committees are born of relevant issues. I am concerned that certain of the standing committees wander somewhat aimlessly from year to year without specific goals, except perhaps social. The committee structure should be retained in a minimal sense with a chairman, in order to be able to refer any given matter to an appropriate committee for study and recommendation. Their level of activity will then be proportional to the issues confronting them.

An alternative which we should consider is a task force concept grouped around issues - issues which are timely, important and of specific duration. Officers or directors should chair such efforts and participation will be drawn from the membership at large as particular interests dictate. I cannot help but recall how effectively this worked for the World's Fair. That task force met many Saturday mornings during that period at 9:00 AM and were always very well attended. I saw members that I had not seen before, nor since.

Some issues for 1982 which will be considered at the January 20th meeting are: the proposed comprehensive plan for Chicago; a renewed legislative effort on the Illinois Scaffolding Act; the 125th Anniversary Celebration of National AIA and a proposed membership drive in connection therewith; new work development (everyone's concern); design awards program; intern development; and computer applications within the architects' office. There are others, I am sure.

Please come on January 20. Participate! Help us to help you, particularly the new and younger members. This is your opportunity to contribute or to criticize.

The result should benefit all of us. A social period with refreshments will follow the meeting.

Don Hackl, AIA

DESIGN WORKSHOP

On Tuesday January 19, 1982 at 5:30 P.M. the Design Committee is sponsoring a workshop on housing projects currently being designed by members. If you have a project we'd like to include it. All types of housing from single family remodeling to highrise apartment buildings will be on view. Presentation of drawings will be brief and informal discussion will follow. Several members of the Design Committee will each show a current project. Come, show your work, see what other members are doing, and join in the dialogue. Call Cynthia Weese at 642-1820 if you'd like to bring a project.

SPEAKERS FOR "MATERIALS & METHODS" SEMINARS ANNOUNCED

Mike Biskin, who along with Terry Lallak, has coordinated a series of seminars to be co-sponsored by the Chicago Chapter and the Construction Specifications Institute, has announced the series speakers.

Jan. 20 - "Single-ply & High Tech Roofing" - Richard Debaco of Sanafil Corp.

Feb. 3 - "High Pressure Laminates" - David Pittman of Pittcon Industries

Feb. 17 - "Surface Preparation for Paint Finishes" - Gary Zinn of Tnenemic Corp.

Mar. 3 - "Concrete Additives" Tom Reeves of Material Services

Mar. 17 - "Skylights and Slope Glazing" - Chip McCartney of IBG Industries

The fee for all five seminars is $20, which includes continental breakfast. Registration should be received in the Chapter office by noon the day before each seminar ($5 each) or you may register at $20 for the entire series. Please note that the price is lower than quoted in the flyer last month.

IMPORTANT NOTE: The location for the seminars has been changed to the Chicago Bar Association, 29 S. LaSalle, 11th floor

HOUSING COMMITTEE TO ESTABLISH '82 PLANS

1982 Housing Committee Chairmen, John Nelson, requests the presence of all members interested in participating in a planning session to establish directions for 1982. The meeting will be held Jan. 20, Noon at the Chapter.

FROM THE DOCUMENTS DESK

New price lists for AIA contracts and publications will be available after the first of the year and will reflect price increases on AIA documents and publications. Contracts will increase an average of 5%, and books an average of 10%. Increases are necessary because of the increase in postage, printing and shipping.

New AIA publications that are available:

A512 - An addition to A511 (1980). No charge. The purpose of A511 is to point out the kinds of additional information most frequently required of owners when using A201. A512 includes the recent warnings about property insurance and the new Federal Bankruptcy Law.

TIME FLIES

The Interior Architecture Committee will sponsor the Third Annual Interior Architecture Awards program this spring. Entry forms will be mailed to all AIA members in February. Begin making plans to enter.

1981 ANNUAL OF AMERICAN ARCHITECTURE AVAILABLE

A comprehensive collection of some of the nation's best designed current buildings, including winners of The American Institute of Architects' 1981 Honor Awards, is presented in the AIA's new Annual of American Architecture 1981.

The 164-page hardbound volume, containing the core of the AIA Journal's mid-May review of new American architecture, vividly illustrates the current state-of-the-art in U.S. design. Nearly 100 buildings, selected by journal editors and architects, are featured and analyzed in terms comprehensible to architects and laymen alike.

In addition, the book contains discussions of some of America's noted architects and critics.

Copies are available from AIA publications fulfillment, 1735 New York Ave., N.W., Washington 20006. Catalog #2M731, $20 for members. Checks payable to AIA must accompany each order.
