PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

One of the more gratifying tasks of being President is the involvement with the Educational Fund of AIA Colorado. Not only is it a pleasure to work with Ken Fuller, who has been a superb steward of the fund, but it is a pleasure to meet the recipients when the scholarships are awarded. Some of the awardees are familiar faces. Some we have met only through their applications. All are deserving. Everyone present, I think enjoyed the awards luncheon held Friday, the 24th of April.

The presentations were made by Ken Fuller, myself and a very special guest, Mrs. William C. Muchow. This was the first year the William C. Muchow scholarship was given. This award was presented by Mrs. Muchow to Scott E. Giles, a graduate student in the School of Architecture & Planning, University of Colorado at Denver. The William C. Muchow scholarship was made possible through the generosity of AIA members from throughout the state, all friends to the late Bill Muchow. Your thoughtful contributions have allowed a continuing tribute to Bill's memory to be established. You should be proud. A special thank you to Bill Dilatush for his efforts in making this scholarship a reality.

A total of twelve scholarships were given to students for continuing study, and to both students and practitioners for study abroad. My heartfelt congratulations to all the recipients. May your studies go well and your travel be safe.

The following scholarships were presented:

- The Anniversary Scholarship Award was presented to Timothy D. Pochay of Eldorado Springs, Colorado. Tim is an undergraduate student at C.U. Boulder.
- The Centennial Scholarship Award went to Nicole Beth Landau of Evergreen, Colorado. Nicole is an undergraduate student at C.U. Boulder.
- The C. Gordon Sweet Scholarship Award, which is awarded to a C.U. Boulder undergraduate, was presented to Caroline A. Westers of Loveland, Colorado.
- The Producer's Council Scholarship Award, which is awarded to a graduate student at C.U. Denver, was presented to Christopher T. Stumm of Wheat Ridge, Colorado. Theresa Hsin of Denver was named as the alternate for this award.
- The William C. Muchow Scholarship, which is awarded to a graduate student at C.U. Denver, was presented to Scott E. Giles of Noank, Connecticut.
- The Temple Hoyne Buell Scholarship, which is awarded to a C.U. Denver graduate student, was presented to Amy J. Hause of Denver, Colorado.

More Scholarship Recipients:

- The Robert K. Fuller Scholarship, which is awarded to a C.U. Denver graduate student went to Melvin T. Dickerson of Boulder, Colorado.
- The Robert K. Fuller Scholarship Award II, which is awarded to an architectural graduate student went to James H. Hall of Denver, Colorado.
- The Robert K. Fuller Award III, which is awarded to an architectural graduate student, went to Timothy F. Hodges of Denver, Colorado.
- The Arthur A. and Florence G. Fisher Traveling Scholarship Award I went to David A. Hammond of Denver, Colorado. David will travel to the Netherlands to study the work of Dutch Architect Herman Hertzberger's elderly housing "De Drie Hoven."
- The Arthur A. and Florence G. Fisher Traveling Scholarship Award II went to Peri R. Eringen of Denver, Colorado. Peri will travel to Turkey to study "The Relationship between man and earth and the intangible thread tying them together."
- The Arthur A. and Florence G. Fisher Traveling Scholarship Award III went to Peter A. Orleans, AIA, Denver Architect, to study "Ground Relationships" of buildings in European Cities and "Their spatial settings."

The AIA Colorado Educational Fund presented a total of $15,500 in scholarship awards this year.

UPCOMING EVENTS

May 5 The last of the AIA Denver Chapter's Breakfast Seminars will be presented at the Denver Design Center, 595 S. Broadway, at 7:30 a.m. A catered continental breakfast is included in the $20 price of admission. Reservations are required. Michael Jacoby, President of the State Board of Examiners of Architects, will speak about: Colorado laws regarding architectural practice; the laws most violated by architects; and who the State Board is and what they do.

May 13 AIA Denver May architectural firm tour at RNL Design, 1225 17th Street, Suite 1700, from 5:00 p.m. to 7:00 p.m. Refreshments will be served and the tour is free and open to the public. Architects in the firm will speak about their current practice and projects and will conduct a walk-through of the office.

May 20 AIA Denver Interior Design Committee presents Lighting in Design: how lighting influences design, new technologies in lighting. Alan Reeves, lighting designer with Shaper Lighting, will be the scheduled speaker. Call Steve Newman, RNL Design, at 295-1717 for more information.

BOOKS AND DOCUMENTS

ADA: A Resource Guide:

This collection of introductory information helps you form a strong foundation upon which to build your ADA education. Included in the manual are sections on the law, ADA employment policies, information on additional resources and educational opportunities, as well as a section to organize your ADA information from other sources. You'll find such information as copies of the 1990 ADA law, Title III regulations and guidelines (ADAAG), a list of compliance dates, highlights of ADA Title II (state and local government) and Title III (public accommodation), disability terminology, tips on interviewing disabled employees, and ways to manage the liability risks of complying with the ADA. The manual also provides 1990 IRS information and forms on tax credits for removal of barriers and contact information for key government agencies that provide ADA information.

Cost: $29.50 for members, $39.50 for non-members

ADA Accessibility Kit:

This kit contains a copy of the 1990 ADA Law, Title III Regulations and Guidelines (ADAAG), a list of ADA compliance dates, highlights of Title II and Title III, and an information sheet on job accommodations. It also contains information regarding the AIA education programs on ADA.

Cost: $12.95 for members, $18.95 for non-members.

ADA Compliance Guidebook:

A checklist for your building: The AIA Special Edition for the ADA Compliance Guidebook was developed by The Building Owners and Managers Association (BOMA) International to assist building owners, managers, and their architects to comply with the American with Disabilities Act, Title III regulations and to address accessibility to buildings. The checklist references specific sections of the ADA guidelines, names the area to study, discusses the requirements, and provides an area to sketch or make notes. It also includes an overview of the ADA and discusses special points of interest in the ADA to architects including alterations to historic properties, disproportionate costs, barrier removal, good faith efforts, and tax deductions.

Cost: $30.00 for members, $40.00 for non-members.

BUILDING CONSTRUCTION ILLUSTRATED

By Francine D. K. Ghing, Ching Design Associates

The Second Edition of this classic manual on residential and light construction techniques has been fully updated and expanded, making it an even more useful reference for architects and building contractors. In response to numerous requests by readers, this edition includes increased coverage of concrete materials and methods, plus the latest data on concrete, steel, and glazing technology, energy efficiency in buildings, moisture and thermal protection, natural lighting, and masonry.

Price: $23.75 Members, Non-Members $25.00.

Raising the Roof, Opening Doors: Living Environments for People with AIDS

Housing for people with AIDS (Acquired Immunodeficiency Syndrome) is a rapidly emerging issue in urban centers around the nation. The number of people infected with HIV is currently in the thousands, in every major city. The special needs of those living with AIDS requires housing design that is accessible, adaptable and affordable. In response to the magnitude of the crisis, the City of Boston Public Facilities Department and the Boston Society of Architects are challenging design firms, individuals, students, and artists throughout the nation to a design and ideas competition. To architects, this means an opportunity to create innovative housing design tailored to the needs of people living with HIV and AIDS. To those with other design skills it is a chance to express your ideas in the most creative possible way about this very critical issue.

The architectural category of the competition will feature two facets - the rehabilitation of an existing building, and the new construction of additional housing on an adjoining lot. The ideas category will be open to a broad range of entries -- interior and urban design, poetry, photography, and furniture design are just several of the suggested media. The competition will be formally announced at the AIA convention during a seminar focused on design issues related to housing for people with AIDS. Entries will be judged and awarded at the Boston Society of Architects BUILD BOSTON Convention in November. Please direct all questions to Tim Smith, Boston Public Facilities Department, 10th Floor, Boston, MA, (617) 635-0331.

EXCELLENCE IN MANAGEMENT

These have been challenging times for A/E/P firms and Professional Services Management Association (PSMA) wants to know about your firm's successful management navigation during the past 36 months. Five top awards will be given for management excellence in finance, human services, marketing, production/operations, and general management. Firms will be eligible for awards if they practice in a professional service area but they do not have to be members of PSMA. All awards will be given to firms, not to individuals, though special recognition will be granted to individuals for their specific contributions. Call (704) 521-8890 for Entry Forms and submission requirements.

ARCHITECTS ON DISPLAY AT ALPHAGALLERY

On Thursday, April 16, Art by Architects opened at AlphaGallery. The show running from April 16-25 featured the works of about 42 talented architect/artists. 64 works, in a wide range of media, were chosen from 165 submittals.

"We were thrilled and surprised by the number of submittals we had and by the diversity and quality of all of them," says Hillary DePolo of AlphaGallery. "We had entries from all over the state including Colorado Springs, Vail, Aspen, and from as far away as Durango. The architects were a congenial group and were well received by the art community."

Members participating in the show included: Chris Carvell, AIA, Silver Print; Jam Wong, AIA, Oil; Stan Andrews, AIA, Oil; Donald Strauch, AIA, Photography; Daniel O'Brien, AIA, Watercolor; Donald Forst, AIA, Oil; Clayton Conger, AIA, Oil; Kevin Scott, AIA, Mixed Media; Seth Rosenman, AIA, Photography; and Patrick Soran, AIA, Photography.

A portion of the proceeds from the show were donated to the AIA Colorado Educational Fund which presented its annual Scholarship Awards on April 24.

Hagman Yaw Architects, Ltd., would like to commemorate Mr. Tim Hagman, AIA, for excellence in design and 23 years of service in the practice of architecture. His Partners: Mr. John Cottle, AIA; Mr. Doug Graybeal, AIA; Mr. Mark Henthorn, AIA; and Mr. Larry Yaw, AIA, offer a new generation of service through Cottle Graybeal Yaw Architects. Tim will continue to collaborate with the firm as he pursues private and scholarly interests.

Hansen Lind Meyer, Inc., was recently awarded a new facility master plan and subsequent renovation/addition projects at Sequoia Hospital in Redwood City, California.

The proposed initial $30-40 million construction program will be based on an updated Facility Master Plan and will include a cardiovascular center, a 96-bed cardiovascular inpatient tower, ambulatory care center, and a decked parking structure. Sequoia Hospital is a licensed 315-bed general acute care facility.

Four University of Colorado at Boulder faculty members have been honored with 1992 SOAR Teaching Recognition Awards, the highest student-generated award for excellence in teaching. Among the recipients was Mark Gelernter, associate professor of environmental design and ex-officio board member of AIA Colorado. The annual awards are given by the Student Organization for Alumni Relations. The grants are funded by the Directors Club and the Parents Association of the CU-Boulder Alumni Association. Winners were nominated by undergraduate students and selected on the basis of questionnaires distributed by SOAR members to each nominee's students.

Denver Chapter

The Denver Chapter is continuing with their membership drive by visiting local firms. Thus far, new memberships have been approved for 8 individuals.

The first ARE seminar was held on April 11 with approximately 40 people attending. The first seminar was on the mechanical section. The last event of the Spring Lecture Series was held, with a panel discussion addressing the issue of "Monumentality in the City." The panel was moderated by former Denver Mayor Federico Pena. Art by Architects, co-sponsored by AlphaGallery, AIA Colorado and AIA Denver, was held at AlphaGallery.

Coming up: Construction, co-sponsored by SAA Denver, will be held Saturday, May 9 at Union Station.

North Chapter

The membership drive has begun. The membership chair will be contacting all non-AIA member architects and interns in the North Chapter area, to invite them to the 10 x 10 program scheduled in May.

"ARCHIMEDIA" was presented on April 25 in a round table discussion. The panelists included: Mary Chandler, Staff Writer, Rocky Mountain News; Mindy Pantiel, Editor, Metropolitan Home Magazine; Karen Mitchell, Staff Writer, Boulder Daily Camera; Terri Jones, Marketing Specialist, TJ Public Relations; Maureen McIntyre, Editor, Solar Today Magazine; Tom Feliu, Producer, "A House for all Seasons" - Video; and David Barrett, AIA, Moderator.

The May Program Meeting, "ANNUAL 10 x 10 PROGRAM," is set for May 20 to coincide with the end of the membership drive. The location will be the Lincoln Center in Ft. Collins.

The North Chapter co-sponsored the last of three ADA video teleconferences with CSU in Ft. Collins and CU Boulder.

Colorado South Chapter

Representatives of the Colorado South Chapter attended the first meeting of the Pikes Peak Architecture Club, AIAS on April 6 and discussed: advantages of student membership in the AIA; requirements for licensing of architects; and potential jobs and opportunities for the AIA and AIAS to work together.

On May 4, members of the board will be meeting with Lou Wynn to discuss a proposal by her to promote educational programs in junior high schools on architecture. An educational committee will probably be assembled to work with Lou, perhaps to obtain a grant for her proposal.

A community steering committee was formed to investigate the possibility of a convention center and/or sports arena in Colorado Springs, and the South Chapter has offered assistance.

1992 Centennial Year Design Conference "Man in Harmony With Nature" October 9-11, 1992 Snowmass, Colorado

Editor's Note: The Design Conference is only six months away! The following is the first of a series of articles about the conference. This one focuses on the hotel and offers suggestions as to how you will get there.

In 1992, the Design Conference takes you to the Snowmass/Aspen area in the heart of the Rocky Mountains. Snowmass is a beautiful drive from Denver -- over Independence Pass through Aspen or on I-70 to Glenwood Springs. AIA Colorado has negotiated great rates at the Silvertree Hotel. However, room space is limited for the best rates. Sign up early to be sure you get the rate you are looking for. Rates are as follows:

Silvertree Hotel : 1-800-525-9402/ FAX 1-303-923-5192
(All rooms have two queen beds) Condos:
Standard $55.00 2 bedroom Terrace House - $130
Deluxe 70.00 2 bedroom Interlude, located above the Conf. Ctr. - $148
Premier 85.00 3 bedroom Sonneblick, also above the Conf. Ctr. - $170

* 10 % Discount for three nights stay
~~Rehearsal Lodge (2 queen beds) $2240 per night~~

The Silvertree Hotel in Snowmass will be the headquarters for this year's conference. Conveniently located, our hotel is thirty steps away (exactly -- we measured!) from the Snowmass Conference Center and is close to Snowmass shops and restaurants. Everything is within walking distance: lodging, meeting space, shops and restaurants.

How to Get There:

By Air: Both Continental and United fly to Aspen. To get a special rate on airfare (5% off Super Saver and 45% off Coach fares) you need to make your reservations with Snowmass Resort. Call 1-800-332-3245.

We are considering ground transportation ways to take you from Denver up to Aspen.

Colorado's Task Force on Education was awarded the Distinguished Professional Award by the University of Colorado Boulder, School of Environmental Design at their awards reception. This annual award is presented to professional individuals for their service in the enhancement of architectural education.

This is the first time this award has been given to an organization. The Education Task Force has been an influence on the education of architects in the State of Colorado for the past five years, and has played a strong role of encouragement of the reunification process of Boulder and Denver architectural programs.

CHECK SET Consultants

Quality Control for the Construction Industry

Richard C. Wallace, AIA

Avoid Surprises!!

CHECK SET Review is an Inter-disciplinary Plan Review intended to find inconsistencies between the various portions of the construction documents (Architectural, Civil, Structural, Mechanical, Plumbing, Electrical, and Specifications) enabling the responsible designer to make the changes on paper rather than in the field at an additional cost to the project.

- Fewer Change Orders
- Commitment to a Quality Project
- Third party review by professional with 20 years experience
- Closer Bids
- Fewer problems during construction
- Helps to keep projects on schedule and within budget
