PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

By Curtis W. Fentress, AIA

1993 has been a better year for architecture in Colorado and in most other parts of the United States and AIA membership has been increasing as well. We now have 1,075 members in Colorado. The results of a survey recently taken by AIA and another one taken by the Professional Marketing Services Journal ("PMSJ") seem to indicate that, except for the "hard-hit Pacific region," revenues are increasing for most firms. Jim Cramer, Hon. AIA and AIA National's vice president/CEO said "Given the important role of architects in the early process of building, this bodes well for the near future of the construction industry in some regions of the country." (AIA Colorado will be happy to give copies of one or both of these survey results).

My thanks to all of the many people who gave their time and commitment to the 1993 AIA Colorado Design Conference. The conference was a great success with 500 people registered and Ron Mason, AIA (the 1993 Design Conference Chairman) should be very pleased at that. The support of the New College of Architecture and Planning at both University of Colorado campuses and the Producer's Council of Colorado was very much appreciated. Due to the efforts of Dean Dwayne Nuzum, AIA, the faculty and students, we had many student entries to the Call for Creative and Visionary Projects and many students signed up to attend the conference itself. The Producer's Council generously picked up lodging costs for C.U. students.

Also, many firms made it possible for their employees to participate in this year's Design Conference by paying their registration fees. AIA Colorado thanks these firms for this support of their employees and of the conference itself. I look forward to returning to the Broadmoor on December 9 and 10, 1994 for next year's Design Conference.

Thank you for letting me serve as your President in 1993. My hat goes off to John Rogers, FAIA, the 1994 AIA Colorado President, and to all those who will serve on a board of directors or a committee in 1994.

CHAPTER REPORTS

AIA Denver

Membership meetings in Denver for 1994 are as follows: February 28th, March 28th; April 25th, July 25th summer social, September 26th, October 24th, November 21st and December 12th. Events being planned at this time are the 1994 lecture series, house tour and breakfast seminars. Firm visits are being coordinated at this time. If your firm is interested in a visit by representatives from AIA Denver, please call 303/892-1188.

Colorado North Chapter

The North Chapter celebrated its annual Design Awards Presentation and Banquet on November 12 at the Boulderado Hotel in Boulder. After dinner, Dr. Christian Hageseth spoke on the art and psychology of maintaining a positive attitude in the work place (he emphasized good humor). The 1993 North Chapter Board of Directors was recognized by President George Brelig, AIA and the 1994 Board was recognized by President-elect Tom Beck. (See the listing of the 1994 Colorado North Chapter Board of Directors later on in this newsletter.) A highlight of the evening was the presentation of the Design Awards by Rich vonLuhrt, FAIA. Three projects were recognized as follows:

- | | |
|-------------|--|
| Merit Award | The Fox Hollow Golf Clubhouse,
John Williams and Associates, Denver, Colorado |
| Merit Award | The Oakridge Office building in Fort Collins, Colorado,
The Neenan Company, Fort Collins, Colorado |
| Honor Award | The Boulder Country House
Kristen Lewis and Associates, Boulder, Colorado |

The evening's final event was the distribution of door prizes by Peter Heinz, AIA. A good time was had by all.

Colorado South Chapter

The Annual Dinner Festival was held on Saturday, December 11, 1993 at the Sangre De Cristo Conference and Arts Center in Pueblo. An exhibit of Art by Architects was on display, as well as the Electronic Tour of Colorado Architecture. The 1994 Board of Directors were introduced and are listed in this newsletter. Charles L.T. Smith, AIA presented the following Design Awards.

- | | |
|--------------------|---|
| Design Honor Award | Woodland Park Middle School,
LKA Partners, Inc./Architects, Colorado Springs, Colorado |
| Honorable Mention | Downtown Action Plan for Colorado Springs, Colorado
Nakata/Wallace Architects, P.C., Colorado Springs, Colorado |
| Honorable Mention | Federal Correctional Complex in Florence, Colorado
LKA Partners/Lescher and Mahoney DLR Group-Architects Colorado Springs, Colorado |
| Honorable Mention | Federal Correctional Complex in Florence, Colorado
Nakata/Wallace Architects, P.C., Colorado Springs, Colorado |

The Design Awards jury, from Scottsdale, Arizona, included Vernon D. Swaback, AIA and Virginia Senior, AIA. Lamar Kelsey, FAIA helped to coordinate the jury, but did not participate in the decision-making process. Chuck Smith notes "This was an unusually hard-working jury. Each submittal was given more than the usual amount of consideration...due to the jury's belief that each project represented the best efforts of its architect and merited thorough examination."

Colorado West Chapter

The West Chapter has had an excellent year with over ten percent growth in membership to over 175 members. Our geographical area is very large, from the Continental Divide west to the Utah border and from the New Mexico line north to Wyoming.

In order to try and serve our membership we have moved our monthly executive Committee meetings around the chapter with a 10x10 (ten slides by ten professionals) presentation at each meeting.

We have also held two general membership meetings on environmental issues and sustainable architecture—in Montrose in the spring and in the fall at Vail. Spring and fall seem to work best for chapter activities where much of our work is in recreational communities. We also encourage our members to attend the annual State Design Conference. Over thirty members attended from the West Chapter this December.

Our annual awards banquet is held in late January or early February. We try to have a jury with members who are from an area that is similar to ours and who handle projects of similar scale. This year's awards banquet will be in Glenwood Springs on the evening of Saturday, February 5th at the Hotel Colorado. Don McLaughlin, AIA of Montana will chair the jury for the second year in a row.

We added another of our membership to the College of Fellows. Congratulations go to Jim Morter, FAIA of Vail.

In October we hosted a reception for the National Board which held one of its meetings in Aspen. We have also displayed the 1993 AIA Calendar Photograph Exhibit in Aspen and Steamboat Springs. This exhibit will move to Grand Junction and then Colorado Springs in 1994.

We look forward to another great year with our new board.

The Daily Journal printed a special edition highlighting all AIA Colorado and Western Region Award winners. Call AIA Colorado for your copy.

DOING BUSINESS IN COLORADO

Mark your calendars now to attend the Fourth Annual "Doing Business in Colorado" Seminar on Thursday, March 3, 1994. Last year, over 150 design professionals benefited from the seminar which is presented by Hall & Evans, in cooperation with AIA Colorado and CECC. The program is free for all members of both organizations.

The afternoon seminar will be held once again at the Holiday Inn located at I-225 and Parker Road, and it plans to feature a detailed discussion of up-to-date information on a wide range of business and professional issues.

Registration materials and more specific information about the seminar topics will be provided in the February newsletter, but mark your calendars now so you and the members of your firm do not miss this excellent educational opportunity.

YOUNG ARCHITECT'S FORUM UPDATE

By Michael D. Mowry

On Saturday, October 16th, the Young Architect's Form of Denver hosted its first annual CMU charette on the 16th Street Mall in downtown Denver. This design-build event was a three and one-half hour back-breaking competition that concluded with the evaluation of the constructions by our distinguished judges. Special thanks go out to Valley Block of Loveland, Colorado for the generous donation of the CMUs used.

There were five teams of five to eight members each. The competition progressed through several identifiable stages: experimentation and exploration of the material's properties, along with possible patterns and combinations; formulation of a scheme (this stage consumed a vast majority of some teams' efforts); execution of a chosen scheme (can also be construed as the 'let's do something!' solution); and refinement (complete dismantling to reposition the bottom block).

Kelly Vigil of the Brick Institute of America, Robert Lengold, a kinetic artist, and Jeff Newstader, a masonry instructor served as the judges. They chose the team of Chris Stumm; Julia Johnston, Associate AIA; Ewk Kuon; Christie Kim, Student Affiliate; and Linda Purcell as the First Place Team. The first place team was awarded the $100 grand prize. An all-student team from CU Denver received the $50 second prize. This event was exciting and challenging to the imagination. Plenty of precariously balanced CMUs and liberal audience participation from passersby provided for a unique and varied learning experience seldom found anywhere but in the Young Architect's Forum!

1994 VISION FOR AIA COLORADO

(from a speech delivered at the Design Conference Dinner on December 4, 1993 at The Broadmoor)

By John B. Rogers, FAIA, 1994 President

Thank you Curt. Yours and Ron Mason's conference has been a great way to complete 1993 on a high note of design. I believe AIA can continue its current successful programs and can assist its members in improving the results of their practice and in strengthening their impact on their communities.

Therefore, I would like to focus 1994 on "THE ARCHITECT," and ensure that AIA Colorado, in cooperation with all four local Chapters, assists in identifying and implementing the opportunities for all of us to increase our visibility in our communities, to increase the effectiveness of our practice, and to enjoy the fruits of these improvements.

I attended the AIA National Board meeting in Aspen in October and, as a result of a direct appeal to Bill Chapin, FAIA (1994 AIA National President), AIA Colorado has obtained 1,200 AIA pins and 200 Associate pins at a very reduced cost. Each Design Conference registrant has received his or her pin with the compliments of AIA Colorado, along with a mandate to use it to their own advantage and to the advantage of the profession.

Personally, I have found that not a week goes by but that someone, some place, asks about my pin, and of course I take that opportunity to identify myself as an architect, and to promote architecture. Together, if each of us has one conversation with one new person, once a week in 1994, a total of 55,900 new people will know an architect and have an opportunity to increase their appreciation of architecture. At the same time, each architect will have made 52 new friends.

In order to improve the effectiveness of AIA (in addition to the current services which are available at the Chapter, State and National levels in 1994), AIA will assist in increasing our impact, involvement and usefulness in our communities by increasing our visibility. We can add to each Architect's effectiveness in the business relationships in his or her practice by utilizing our current opportunity to provide business seminars through the College of Business at the University of Colorado at Denver. AIA Colorado's first experimental business seminar, held in October, was a great success. Michael Barber, AIA is the Task Force Leader and he is planning at least four more seminars for 1994.

In addition, since AIA represents the profession in Colorado, it is appropriate to enlist all Colorado Architects in this endeavor, and to encourage their membership and participation in their local Chapters. We will make it clear that AIA membership is necessary to maximize successful architectural practice at all levels.

VIEW

Architectural design ideas are equivalent to intellectual property and should be presented as such. Software design, for example, lasts six to twelve months, while architecturally designed buildings outlast their designers.

VALUE

We should recognize the value of our design capabilities and be compensated accordingly, not as labor, but as an intellectual investment.

Therefore, I would like to propose a 10% growth for AIA Architects next year, which would include:

1. 107 new AIA members in Colorado.
2. A growth of the AIA Architects' visibility by increasing their participation in various community activities by 10%.
3. A 10% growth in practice management skills and in our clients' understanding of the value of design.
4. A 10% growth in recognition of AIA Architects' contributions to our communities and the built environment, through recognition of the Architect when projects are published, in lieu of "artist rendering."
5. Finally, a 10% growth in the participation of AIA members in AIA activities in their Chapters.

The October issue of Memo (AIA National's Newsletter) contained the following paragraph which should be of great interest to you.

WE ARE NUMBER ONE

"In a survey conducted in the North Carolina Counties of Wake, Durham, and Johnston, some 500 people told WPTR-AM radio that Architects, out of all professionals, demonstrate the highest level of integrity and are the most trusted to 'act responsibly in the public's best interest.'

Of 35 professions, Architects were first, followed, in rank order, by certified public accountants, engineers, teachers, clergy, doctors and nurses. The police ranked 12th and the news media ranked 18th. Lawyers placed 35th, narrowly edging out politicians and used car sales people for last place."

As architects, we should use our energies to build on this platform of positive public perception, while other professions are still trying to improve their public image.

Thank you for your attention and participation. Let's take stock at next year's conference (scheduled for the Broadmoor on December 9 and 10, 1994) and see how much we have improved our visibility, resulting in increased stature and income.

1993 AIA COLORADO DESIGN AWARD WINNERS

The Colorado Chapter of the American Institute of Architects presented its 1993 Design Awards to close the annual Design Conference at the Broadmoor. It is important to note that the success of any construction project depends upon the coordinated efforts of many teams of professionals. AIA Colorado recognizes the contribution of architectural firms on the following projects and has presented to them Design Awards. AIA Colorado thanks all those who submitted their projects for consideration. Participating on the Design Awards Jury were Christopher Carvell, AIA, Dwayne Nuzum, AIA, James Stewart Polshek, AIA of New York and Douglas Darden.

Bristol Hall at Colorado Mountain College in Steamboat Springs is a multi-purpose center consolidating administrative, recreational and instructional facilities. Anderson Mason Dale of Denver, Colorado designed the project.

The Executive Marketing Demonstration Center for Storage Technology Corporation in Louisville, Colorado has been created in the center of an existing computer factory. Its purpose is to be able to accommodate two separate groups at the same time who arrive for day-long strategic planning sessions or production demonstrations. Hoover Berg Desmond of Denver, Colorado were the architects for this project.

Harvard Gulch Recreation Center has been expanded for the Department of Parks and recreation of the City and County of Denver. Michael Brendle Architects, P.C., of Denver, Colorado designed this project.

Riverwalk Performing Arts Center in Breckenridge, Colorado was commissioned by the town of Breckenridge to create a public amphitheater, library and office building for support staff. Anderson Mason Dale was the architectural firm for this project.

The Ross Cherry Creek Branch Library was remodeled and expanded for the City and County of Denver to blend into the unique urban fabric of the area. The architectural firm for this project was Michael Brendle Architects, P.C.

Curt Fentress, AIA presented three more awards at Saturday night's dinner. Richard L. Crowther, FAIA was named AIA Colorado's 1993 Architect of the Year. Harry Teague Architects received the honor of AIA Colorado's 1993 Firm of the Year. The Aspen Community Plan put together by the citizens in Pitkin County was noted for its Contribution to the Built Environment.

1994 BOARD OF DIRECTORS

Curt Fentress, AIA, as one of his last duties as 1993 President of AIA Colorado, asked all of the 1994 Board members present at the Design Awards Dinner to stand. Curt said "Take a hard look at who your representatives are for next year and if you have reason, please call on them for assistance in 1994." In the same spirit, we hope that you take a moment to look at the following names of AIA members. Each one has volunteered their time and energy to serve the AIA on the 1994 Board of Directors at the state or local chapter level.

1994 AIA COLORADO MONTHLY STATUS REPORT

In order to establish a basis to measure our progress in 1994, the following survey form has been prepared which addresses the five ways in which AIA Colorado hopes to grow by 10% in 1994.

1. Non-member architects you know that AIA should contact about membership in the American Institute of Architects?

2. Your current participation in other organizations: community, church, profit and non-profit boards, commissions, etc.

3. Circle your level of compensation for 1993 from professional architectural activities:

Less than	$20,000	$50,000 to $60,000
$20,000 to	$30,000	$60,000 to $70,000
$30,000 to	$40,000	$70,000 to $100,000
$40,000 to	$50,000	More than $100,000

4. How many times in 1993 have you, your firm, or a firm project been given recognition in any publication? Which publication? (Please attach copies if you would like.)

5. How much have you been able to participate in AIA activities at the local, state, regional or national levels? Which events have you attended or how have you participated?

To help keep a record of progress in the above areas, my Chapter is _____.

And, I participate as a: Regular AIA member
 Associate AIA member
 Student member
 Professional Affiliate member

Please return this survey to AIA Colorado by FAX at 303/831-8833 or mail to 1459 Pennsylvania St./Carriage House/Denver, CO 80203.

CALL FOR NOMINATIONS and/or ENTRIES

The University of Kansas is seeking a Dean for its School of Architecture and Urban Design. This position is available July 1, 1994. Screening will begin January 4, 1994, with applications accepted until the position is filled. Nominations are welcome. Applications must include resume, a statement of interest, along with the names, addresses and telephone numbers of three references who may be contacted. Applications or nominations should be sent to: Professor Kent Spreckelmeyer/Office of Academic Affairs/132 Strong Hall/University of Kansas/Lawrence, KS 66045-1515/ (913)864-5126.

AIA and The American Society for Hospital Engineering (ASHE) of the American Hospital Association (AHA) are joint sponsors of a Graduate Fellowship in health facility planning and design open to those who are enrolled or scheduled to be enrolled in a Master of Architecture program. This includes students without a previous professional degree in architecture. For an application, please contact Marietta B. Gaden, AHA/AIA Fellowship Coordinator at 312/280-6409. Deadline for all fellowship applications to be postmarked, without exception, is Saturday, January 15, 1994.

The AIA Justice Facilities Professional Interest Area (PIA) and The American Correctional Association invite all registered architects (all registered architects are eligible) to submit projects they feel represent the state-of-the-art in justice facility design for inclusion in the Justice Facilities Review, 1994/1995. January 31, 1993 is the deadline for entry forms and fees to be received at AIA National Headquarters. Call 202/626-7437 for more information and entry forms.

The Richard Morris Hunt Fellowship is co-sponsored by the Friends of Vieilles Maisons Francaises, Inc. and The American Architectural Foundation and provides a state-of-the-art immersion in the latest preservation techniques and practices. Fellowship begins in the late spring of 1994 and offers a $15,000 stipend to an AIA member who is pursuing a career in historic preservation. Each candidate should provide a brief personal and professional biography, a resume of professional and project experience, a statement of interest and goals, as well as evidence of related professional work (slides, sketches, papers and photographs). Proficiency in conversational French is required as are three letters of recommendation. Materials are to be sent to Mary Felber, 1735 New York Avenue, NW, Washington, DC 20006, 202/626-7511. Deadline for receipt of all materials is February 4, 1994.

AIAS and Graphisoft announce a new competition for AIAS members and interns only which addresses the technological changes in architecture by requiring all submissions to be in electronic format. Every aspect to the competition will be presented in electronic format. This competition will focus on the border condition between the U.S. and Mexico and specifically on a new border town being planned to accommodate free trade between these two countries. For an abstract, please contact AIAS c/o Graphisoft/AIAS Competition Abstract, 1735 New York Ave., NW, Washington, D.C. 20006 or call AIAS at 202/626-7472. Registration deadline is April 15, 1994.

CARRIAGE HOUSE NEWS

New AIA Contracts! Remember AIA Colorado members receive a 20% discount on all AIA Contract purchases, including the following:

NEW A105/A205 is a combination document entitled "Standard Form of Agreement Between Owner and Contractor for A Small Project and General Conditions of the Contract for Construction of A Small Project." $3.30 each. AIA Colorado has this in stock.

NEW B155 entitled "Standard Form of Agreement Between Owner and Architect for a Small Project." $1.80 each. AIA Colorado has this in stock.

G602 entitled "Request for Proposal - Geotechnical Services" has been revised and retails at $2.00 each.

AIA National's Document Delivery Department will be shut down for approximately one month from December 15, 1993 until January 15, 1994. Please wait to replenish your inventory until February 1, 1994. We have done our best to anticipate your immediate needs.

Please review your 1994 AIA Colorado membership invoice. We are preparing the 1994 Membership Directory and we want to be sure everything is correct. Deadline for your changes is Friday January 7, 1994. When you send in your dues payment this year, please also send in your 1994 Client Referral Form. We would like to send some work your way.

The Government Affairs Committee has a very SPECIAL request. Please take the time to write in your Colorado State Representative and Senator information on the return portion of your invoice. It is important for you to know who represents you at the Colorado State Legislature. We hope that you will share this information with us.

AIA Interns please note: Your membership title is once again "Associate AIA" for 1994.
