AS ARCHITECTS WE HAVE A RESPONSIBILITY. It is imperative that we become more involved and effective in shaping a healthy future for the Rocky Mountain West. With social and physical deterioration of the heavily populated areas of the East and West coasts, people are moving to the last best place, exerting enormous pressure on unprepared communities in the Rocky Mountains.

We can continue with business as usual, repeat mistakes, and witness the demise of our beloved landscape and cities. Or we can use the impending development as a last opportunity to try to get it right. Architects can lead the way to healthy communities, in harmony with their surroundings, with sustainable economies, and build with a renewed sense of beauty and place.

This is no easy task. The '96 AIA Colorado Conference at the Aspen Meadows, Aspen, Colorado, will present a broad spectrum of writers, planners, developers, politicians, and others who have had some experience in this process to help us define new roles and strategies.

We will begin with an amusing, if sobering, account of the history that has shaped the West thus far and an unflinching look at where these policies appear to be heading. We will then hear from some people that seem to be moving in a positive direction, and finally learn how we can approach these goals during interactive sessions.

Presenters Will Include

Charles Wilkinson, Moses Lasky Professor, University of Colorado School of Law; author, Crossing the Next Meridian, The Eagle Bird

Albert Bartlett, Ph.D., Physicist, University of Colorado; author, Are There Physical Limits to Growth?

Ed Marston, Publisher, High Country News; author, The Dynamic Environment, Western Water Made Simple, Reopening the Western Frontier.

Honorable Daniel Kemmis, Mayor of Missoula, Montana; author, The Good City and The Good Life, Community and the Politics of Place.

Peter Calthorp, Planner of many new western communities; author, The New Urbanism

Jonathan Rose, President, Affordable Housing Inc.; developer of affordable housing and innovative communities across the country.

Michael Kinsley, Senior Research Associate of the Economic Renewal Department at the Rocky Mountain Institute.

Tyler Norris, Kellogg Fellow; Community Planning Facilitator.

Honorable John Bennett, Mayor of Aspen, Colorado, 1991-present

Books by the speakers will be available at the conference.

MEMBER INFORMATION AND CHAPTER REPORTS

CHAPTER REPORTS

AIA Colorado South Chapter

On July 9, the AIA Colorado South Chapter and the Kennedy Center Imagination Celebration presented The Green Architecture of Frank Lloyd Wright. Included were a wide screen slide presentation and lecture by J. Spencer Lake, AIA. The program at the East Library was attended by approximately 30 people.

The reception for Colorado South Associates and Interns originally scheduled for Tuesday, July 9 at the Hillside Community Center will be rescheduled. Guest speakers will be Steve Frey, Associate AIA, AIA Colorado Associate Director, and Margaret Gilbert, AIA, secretary of the Colorado State Board of Examiners of Architects. This will be a great opportunity to learn about the Architectural Registration Exam, the Intern Development Program and NCARB. As soon as plans are definite, members will be notified of the new date and time.

We are in the midst of preparation for South Chapter's exhibit at piazza! AIA in August. All South Chapter members are encouraged to participate.

The South Chapter is planning a just-for-fun outing to the Sky Sox baseball game on August 29. All members and their guests are invited.

Denver Chapter

Denver's Golf Tournament occurs on August 19 at Hiwan Country Club. Sign up early because in the past all of the available playing slots have been sold (up to 144 players can be accommodated). Hiwan County Club in Evergreen is a beautiful course. Call AIA Denver at 303/446-2266 to get a registration form faxed to you.

Architecture Week starts on September 23 and culminates on September 28 with the Annual Awards Gala. Architecture Week promises to be an exciting week, and the awards program instituted last year by Frank Ooms, AIA, and shared this year by Steve Newman, AIA, promises to be an outstanding evening during which the best of Colorado Architecture will be honored. It is a great evening to see what your colleagues are doing in the profession and it's a fun social event as well.

During July, Peter Orleans, AIA, Denver's President-Elect for 1996 and next year's President, has been busily working with a committee to select the nominees for the election for next year's officers and directors for AIA Denver. If you are interested, please contact Peter at 303/321-0548 or Ned White, AIA at 303/758-8877.

AIA Colorado North Chapter

The July Board meeting was held July 9, 1996 in Lyons, Colorado at Meadow Park. The main event at this meeting was the Board members family picnic. Fortunately we had reserved the shelter so we were mostly unaffected by the torrential rains. The business conducted related to the nominations for the WMR/ AIA awards and the election of George Watt, Associate AIA as chair of the Environmental Committee to replace Scott Rodwin, Associate AIA. There was no general membership meeting in July.

August 13 will be our next Board meeting in Loveland, Colorado. The meeting will be from 3:00 PM to 5:00 PM. Our guests will be Dennis Humphries, AIA and Joe Jackson, Associate AIA. The Location will be announced later.

The membership activity for August will be our Summerfest. It will be held August 2 at Legacy Ridge Golf Club. Golf starts at 1:00 PM. There will be an attitude adjustment period at 5:30, and dinner will be served at 7:00 PM. The awards from the AIA Colorado exhibit "North Chapter Presents" will be presented.

AIA Colorado West Chapter

Greetings from Carbondale, Colorado!

The Wild West—That is what they call us on the "beltway" in Washington, D.C. We are the Wild West, and this is an "Executive Summary" of the important events that you have an opportunity to become involved with in the second half of this year.

- Please note that all CWC Board Meetings are open to all the men and women of the Colorado West. Call me at 970/963-0567 if you have not received a calendar update.
- Consider attending the 1996 AIA Colorado Design Conference/Western Mountain Region Conference in Aspen from October 10 through October 13. The focus will be the Leadership architects must provide in Building the New West.

AIA COLORADO COMMITTEE ON THE ENVIRONMENT

A Report

by Scott Rodwin, Associate AIA, Chair

On Thursday, July 17, the Colorado Committee on the Environment held its last Green Parti (at least for a while). It was hosted by the Boulder Chapter of the Home Builder's Association (HBA) and was a great conclusion to this twelve part year-long program. Over 55 builders, architects, developers, interior designers, engineers, consultants and product suppliers gathered for a barbeque and presentation. The event was held at an eco-house under construction by Wonderland Enterprises. The slide presentation, made by Wonderland's President, Jim Leach and the HBA's Energy and Environment Chair, David Johnson, featured several homes and developments constructed under the HBA's Green Builder Program Guidelines. While Green Architecture is still in its infancy, designers and major builders (like McStain Enterprises - Boulder County's largest developer) are expanding the market and the technology by leaps and bounds.

The Green Partis have been a terrific experience. Each one was different: some small, some large, featuring commercial, institutional and residential projects of varying scales; hosted in architectural offices, stores, and partially completed houses. Some host firms considered themselves to be very environmentally conscious, while others were just beginning to explore this field. The one thing all the host firms had in common was the outstanding effort they put into presenting their projects and hosting. Thank you to the following firms for generously opening their offices to their peers and enriching the architectural community by sharing their ideas: OZ Architecture, Denver and Boulder, Barrett Steele, Hoover Berg Desmond, Downing Thorpe & James, Barker Rinker Seacat and Associates, Anderson Mason Dale, Jim Logan and the Patagonia Store, Midyette Seieroe Hartronft, Gensler, EDAW, the Boulder HBA and Wonderland.

In other news:

In July, *piazza!*AIA showcased a Green Architecture exhibit. Thanks to all of the firms who submitted work.

On August 27, from 7:00-9:00 PM, an interdisciplinary Green Architecture Forum will be held at the Denver Botanic Gardens

(organized by the AIA Colorado Committee on the Environment). Open to the public, the cost is $14 at the door ($12 for AIA members). Titled "Connections - the Integration of Building and Landscape," it will feature presentations by Richard Crowther, FAIA, David Barrett, AIA, Katherine Metz (Feng Shui) and Robert Howard (landscape architect). ♦

AIAS ANNOUNCES NATIONAL HONOR AWARDS

The American Institute of Architecture Students is proud to recognize outstanding achievements by AIAS chapters, students, and educators, and to promote excellence in the advancement of architectural education. The Denver Chapter is proud to be the recipient of two awards: the National Chapter Honor Award and the National Chapter President Honor Award. This November, during FORUM 96 in Washington DC, the AIAS will host an awards gala, recognizing all of the outstanding individuals and chapters that have made the AIAS strong during this past year.

The three member jury included: Yvette Acevedo from the Washington Alexandria Center; Julie DeStefano from Anne Arundel Community College; and Scott Welch from the University of Maryland. Following its twelve year tradition, the AIAS awarded the following honors this year:

Chapter Honor Award	Honor Citations
University of Colorado at Denver	Lina Grigaitis at Tak Louie Illinois Institute of Technology
Chapter President Honor Award Dean Albright University of Colorado at Denver	Diane Beckley Miller Virginia Tech
Educator Honor Award James G. Fausett Southern College of Technology	Robin Keen Lawrence Tech
Special Accomplishment Honor Award Virginia Tech Treehouse Project	AIAS at Texas A & M University AIAS at Anne Arundel Community College

Symposium on the Built Environment "PARTNERING FOR A SUSTAINABLE FUTURE"

The Institute for the Built Environment (IBE) at Colorado State University will host its inaugural symposium on the Built Environment September 27-29, 1996, in Estes Park, Colorado. Co-sponsoring this exciting event is the National Park Service, in conjunction with Rocky Mountain National Park. The symposium will bring together professionals from the various disciplines that plan, design, construct, use, and evaluate built environments. The focus of the symposium is to foster and build interdisciplinary relationships within an interactive educational forum to create sustainable built environments.

The symposium planning team is composed of representatives of the various disciplines of the built environment and proposes to:

- ◆ bring in significant international or national keynote speakers for each day of the conference,
- ◆ provide workshops, case studies and panel discussions to provide attendees with the "tools" they need to practice partnering and sustainable concepts in their own disciplines,
- ◆ provide the participants the opportunity to implement these "tools" prior to returning to their own practices.

Documentation of the symposium, including keynote speaker, case studies, and the "hands-on" workshops will be disseminated via a summary video. An in-depth analysis of the symposium will be published via the IBE home page on the world-wide web, IBE research reports, and journal articles.

For a registration form or more information contact Brenda Carilile at 970/491-2721.

Answers to CES questions you didn't know how to ask

In June, 15 participants attended the first AIA/CES Institute at Snowmass. Everyone, including the three outstanding facilitators, indicated that it was successful. This Institute provided a unique opportunity for AIA firm providers, external providers and AIA components (chapters) to interact and share ideas and experiences about the CES program.

By the end of the 2-1/2 day workshop the group developed nine goals for the continued improvement of AIA/CES and identified strategies for achieving each goal.

As an architect who is required to take continuing education to remain an AIA member in good standing, do I care about the goals of this Institute?

The CES program is in a position to enhance public perception of the value of architecture and architects. AIA can do this by running a national ad campaign showing the value of CES; by creating local programs for architects to interface with community development organizations or by awarding AIA firms whose members exceed minimum CES requirements in order to show their clients they are "keeping up" or are ahead of the industry standards.

More goals and strategies will follow in future columns. Look for increased access to video programs to get your learning units.

In the meantime don't forget to call one of the numbers listed below if you have any questions.

DENVER FOUNDATION FOR ARCHITECTURE WALKING TOURS

The Denver Foundation for Architecture is conducting architecture walking tours of the Lower Downtown Historic district and the Golden Triangle Neighborhood this summer and early fall. Remaining tours of Lower Downtown are scheduled for Saturday mornings: August 10, August 24, September 7 and September 21. These tours start at 10:00 at the AIA offices at 1526 15th Street.

Golden Triangle Neighborhood tours are also scheduled for Saturday mornings on the following dates: August 31 and September 28. These tours start at 10:00 AM at the sculpture between the Denver Art Museum and the new Denver Public Library on Acoma Plaza, West 13th Avenue and Acoma.

Please join either of these tours for a wonderful look at the architecture that has shaped these areas. Tours cost $5.00 for adults and $3.00 for students and children (children under 8 are free). For additional information call 303/779-9193.

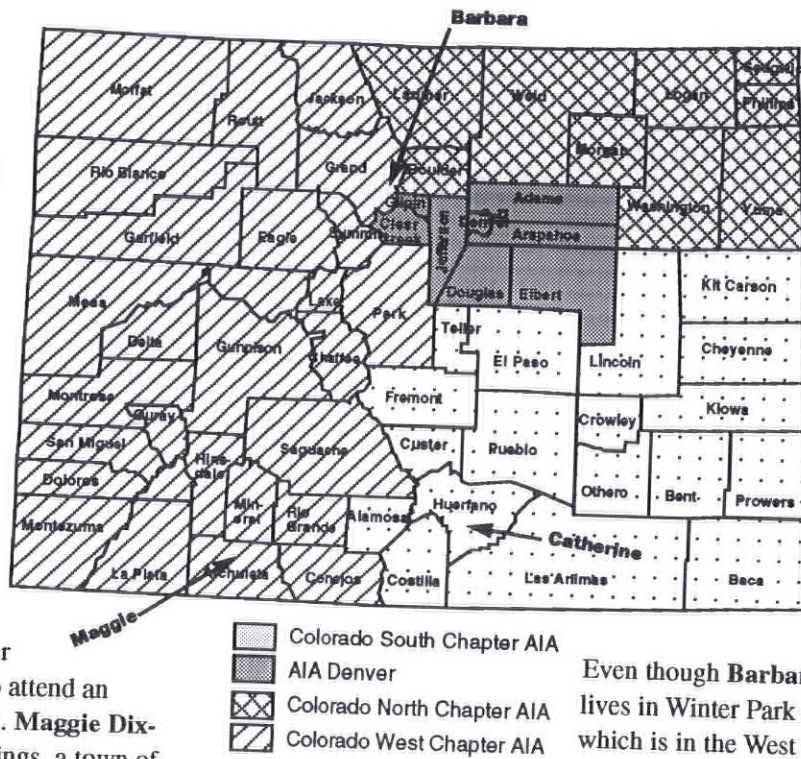

The Denver Foundation for Architecture is a not-for-profit, volunteer based organization dedicated to enhancing the public's appreciation of architecture and the built environment.

AIA COLORADO MEMBERS ARE IN EVERY CORNER

Have you ever wondered how your chapter is broken down geographically? This diagram shows you how the chapters are chartered by county.

When you selected a chapter to belong to, most likely you either lived or worked in the area you selected. However, this diagram is interesting because it shows the geographic challenges that some chapters face.

For instance, some members of the West chapter have to travel many miles to attend an interesting program or event. Maggie Dix-Caruso, AIA of Pagosa Springs, a town of 1200, says that ongoing educational programs are often difficult to get to. As she explains it, "architects in small town environments don't have the time or resources to get to the larger cities where programs are typically held." Another problem that she has encountered is the lack of education of the public as to what architects can do. "One person actually called me and asked if I do drawings of buildings," says Maggie. "It's also difficult working alone, because you do need feedback from your peers." Although the town boasts seven architects, the biggest competition in their town is from non-professionals.

"You find yourself competing with people with a hammer, a pencil and one year of high school drafting!" says Maggie.

Most of Maggie's concerns are also those of Catherine Cramer, AIA of La Veta, a town of 800-1,000. Her biggest problem is the lack of communication with her peers. A member of the Colorado South Chapter, the closest location for meetings is Colorado Springs, which is a 5-hour round trip for her.

Even though Barbara Mueller, Associate AIA lives in Winter Park (located in Grand County, which is in the West Chapter Region), she chose to join the Denver Chapter, because Denver is only an hour drive from Winter Park. The closest town to her for West Chapter meetings is Vail, which is a two hour drive!

Although we do face some geographical challenges in Colorado, most of our members are able to attend at least some meetings each year. The West Chapter, for example, move their meetings around from town to town. And, and any Coloradoan will tell you, our geographic diversity is one of the things that makes Colorado such a special place to live and work. ♦

"ART BY ARCHITECTS" CALL FOR SUBMISSIONS

We are seeking works of art for the "Art by Architects" silent art auction, to be held during the AIA Colorado/Western Mountain Region Design Conference in Aspen, October 10-13. Sponsored by the AIA Colorado Education Fund, the proceeds of the auction will benefit the scholarship activities of Colorado's AIA chapters.

The donated pieces can be sketches, drawings, paintings, sculptures, or any other signed work. The works will be on display in the Adelson Gallery at the Aspen Institute throughout the duration of the conference. Please don't miss this opportunity to contribute to this worthy event, benefiting talented future architects through scholarships.

If you are interested in participating, please call AIA Colorado, 303/446-2266 (800/628-5598) for submittal information.

INTRODUCING CAMP AIA AT DESIGN CONFERENCE

Registrants for the AIA Colorado/Western Mountain Region Design Conference are encouraged to bring your families to Aspen, October 10-13. In addition to the area's incredible recreational activities, the school-age children of the conference participants can register for "Camp AIA." This interactive, hands-on 2-day session will utilize programs designed by architects to teach children about architecture. Camp attendees will have the opportunity to do research, create designs, and build models all within the beautiful environment of the Aspen Meadows Institute, the headquarters for the Design Conference. Through the generosity of Lego Systems, there will also be 35,000 Lego pieces on hand to meet the imaginations of the participants. Camp registration is $45 per day, and includes lunch, instruction and supplies. Call AIA Colorado at 303/446-2266 for more information.

- 10 x 10 Events - These slide presentations occur during the summer months in a variety of Colorado West towns. The last one was in Telluride on Friday, July 19 at the Telluride Elks Lodge with a 6:00 PM reception, and a 7:00 PM slide presentation entitled "The Nature of Things."
- Continuing Education System - Lifelong professional learning is necessary for success in our profession. We all need 36 learning units by December, 1997. For more information, contact Steve Mancouche, Associate AIA, The Committee on Education, at 970/925-4755.
- The "Competition" - Winners of this first time event will be displayed at piazza!AIA. Call me at 970/963-0567 for more information.

So that's it. I look forward to seeing you at these events. Ron Robertson, AIA, President, Colorado West Chapter AIA

Recognized worldwide for their contextual regional designs of the Denver International Airport, the new Seoul International Airport, the National Museum of Wildlife Art, and the Clark County Government Center, the attention that C. W. Fentress J. H. Bradburn's work has attracted in recent years has given rise to the publication of the first book on the firm's projects. This volume presents 30 major projects with lavish color photographs, plans, sketches and renderings. Fentress Bradburn Architects is the first book about the firm and the first to feature DIA. Fentress Bradburn Architects is available at the offices of AIA Colorado.

STATEWIDE FIRM PROFILE DIRECTORY IS PLANNED

As part of the restructuring to unify the AIA in Colorado, we are moving toward one single 1996-97 Statewide Firm Profile/Membership Directory, instead of separate publications by each of the local chapters. Our goal is to develop an easily accessible source of association and industry information for our members as well as the public at large.

The new format will accomplish a number of tasks by including:

- Firm Profiles, listed by city within each local chapter
- A Membership Directory, listing each member alphabetically with address and phone number
- A complete listing of resources available from the AIA and your staff, along with important phone numbers, contacts and other information
- A directory of advertisers, consultants and suppliers
- A calendar of major AIA events during the year
- Honor Award winners and information
- Continuing Education (AIA/CES) requirements and program providers
- Architectural Education information and resources
- Committee listings and opportunities for all chapters
- A listing of members of the State Board of Examiners of Architects

We are also planning a broad distribution of the publication — while each member firm will receive a free copy, we will also be mailing copies at no charge to the procurers of architectural services, such as state/municipal agencies and school districts.

- A directory of the Boards of Directors of all chapters in Colorado
- A user's guide to architectural services

Since this is obviously a very labor-intensive project, in order to accomplish the publication economically, AIA Colorado is entering into an out-source contract with a publishing house which will in turn launch an advertising campaign to raise the revenue necessary to print three thousand copies of the publication free of charge to AIA Colorado. They will also be responsible for collecting the information for the firm profile section of the publication. Firms can expect to receive calls starting in August, soliciting the profile information, as well as seeking interest in the possibility of your firm advertising in the publication. Please keep in mind that submitting the information for the profile is free; however, you may choose to advertise separately from your profile listing, which would involve a cost. It is anticipated that the primary pool of advertisers will be vendors and suppliers to the profession.

We are targeting a March 1997 delivery of the directory, so we ask that you cooperate with the deadlines necessary to meet this goal. We are also planning a broad distribution of the publication — while each member firm will receive a free copy, we will also be mailing copies at no charge to the procurers of architectural services, such as state/municipal agencies and school districts. Additional copies will also be available for sale to the public through the AIA Colorado office.

If you have any questions, ideas or concerns, please call Joe Jackson, Associate AIA at 303/446-2266 or 800/628-5598.

Few projects sail to completion without some problem along the way. Unless a contract clearly spells out duties and responsibilities, you risk sinking into a dispute that can cost time and money.

Using an original AIA contract document helps keep your project afloat.

AIA Colorado offers nearly 100 documents to cover most every situation. Call us today and keep your next project on course.

Who Built That Great
MODEL

????? and WHY????

"Architecture and the Model"
an exhibition

The architectural model is the most accessible form of communication about design ideas and intent to the public. It has a long history of deep exploration and expression, dating back thousands of years. It seems we've always been making "models" of our ideas, to reveal what drawings cannot show. The three dimensional qualities of form, space and materiality of the model presents a "reality" of sorts prying at the imagination and experience.

It is the intent of this exhibition to celebrate the act of making and exploration what takes place in modeling architectural ideas through a variety of means. We are looking for models exemplary of the very best our profession has to offer both in the quality of the design and craft of the model. What is an architectural "Model" in today's practice setting? What are its pitfalls and values? As part of this exhibition, we would like to educate the public, so we are interested in the process of model-making necessary to communicate the vitality of this means of representation.

Who is Eligible: AIA member firms, AIA members, Associate AIA Members, Student Affiliates

What: Any model, (2 maximum per firm or individual)
3" x 3" to 60" x 30", process, finished, schematic, with base, pedestal and cover.

(This is an exhibit only, not a competition)
