Introduction

Welcome

The 2002-2003 AIA Colorado Firm Profile & Membership Directory is a very valuable resource for architects and design professionals. The information about AIA Colorado, our member firms and local chapter membership lists is current.

You may also stay in touch with AIA Colorado throughout the year via our website, www.aiacolorado.org to get the latest information on upcoming programs and events, governmental affairs, the AIA Colorado Classifieds and much more.

Last year, Colorado hosted a highly successful national convention in Denver for some 18000 architects, allied professionals, guests and the public. This year in April, we opened with a new event called the Knowledge Summit. William LeMessurier, world renown engineer and Kent Larson from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology Media Laboratory brought exciting and important new knowledge to Colorado architects. The event included an EXPO displaying a wide range of products and case studies of specific buildings involving technical innovation and new systems. Coupled with the Summit, the Young Architects Awards Gala introduced many talented members from the rising generation of future architects. Special awards were given from the Architectural Education Foundation, AIA Colorado by past presidents of AIA and the permanent trustee, Robert K. Fuller.

On November 8 and 9, our annual AIA Colorado Design Conference will be held in Vail, Colorado. The theme, Chaos/Purpose, will seek to break new ground in exploring design. AIA Colorado embraces change and innovation and works to bring forth the best ideas and tools for success in firms and communities. AIA Colorado's professional staff is ready to assist you with information and ideas for your involvement. Call them at 303 446-2266 at any time with questions, concerns or areas of interest. I hope you find this Directory as useful as I have.

What Do Architects Do?

You have a vision of what you want. Now you need to make that vision a reality. Here's how architects can assist you:

Architects See the Big Picture

Architects are specially educated to assist you in defining what you want to build, present options you might never have considered, and help you get the most for your valuable investment. They don't just design four walls and a roof — they create total environments, both interiors and exteriors, that are functional and exciting places in which to work and live.

Architects Solve Problems Creatively

Architects are trained problem solvers. Need more room for your growing family? Architects can show you how to enlarge your home so you won't have to move. Have a limited budget? Architects can also propose ways to get more for your investment than you imagined possible.

Architects Help You Get the Most from Your Construction Dollar

Architects can reduce building costs, decrease your home's energy needs, and increase its future resale value through good design.

Architects Make Your Life Easier

Building is a long process that is often messy and disruptive, particularly if you're living in the space while it's under construction. Your architect represents you! Your architect looks out for your interests and smoothes the process, helps find qualified construction contractors, and visits the worksite to help protect you against work that's not according to plan.

Speak with an architect who is a member of The American Institute of Architects (AIA) at the earliest stage of the design process. Use the 2002/2003 Firm Profile and Directory to reach all the AIA members located in Colorado. Another resource available to you is an architectural database that contains the names of our member firms. You can find this by visiting our website at www.aiacolorado.org.

Why an AIA Architect?

Like doctors and lawyers, architects are licensed professionals. The title "Architect" may be used only by an individual who possesses a state license to practice architecture. They are the only professionals in the construction industry who are ethically bound to represent you, the building owner.

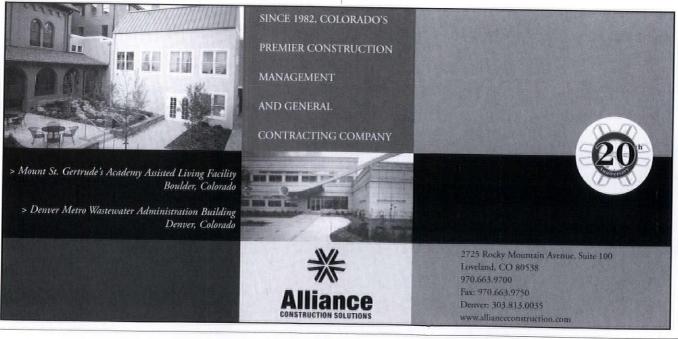

Professional qualifications generally include:

- College degree from an accredited school of architecture, requiring five or more years of professional studies
- Three years of internship under the supervision of licensed architects
- Passage of a rigorous five-day examination

Only those professionals who have fulfilled these requirements, or other requirements as stipulated by each individual state, may legally call themselves architects and practice architecture in the jurisdiction granting the license. Individuals may be registered, or licensed, in more than one state by means of reciprocal licensing agreements among the states.

Get the Real Thing - Look for "AIA"

Look for the AIA initials after the name of any architect you consider for your project. AIA architects remain current with professional standards through continuing education and subscribe to a code of ethics and professional conduct that assure clients, the public and colleagues of their dedication to high standards in professional practice.

The articles that can be accessed here cover topics related to finding and working with an architect, and managing your project and the design process. Time spent here will pay off in improved results for your project.

The Colorado Chapter of The American Institute of Architects

AIA Colorado represents architects and others statewide and unifies the four local chapters of The American Institute of Architects within Colorado. AIA Colorado seeks to:

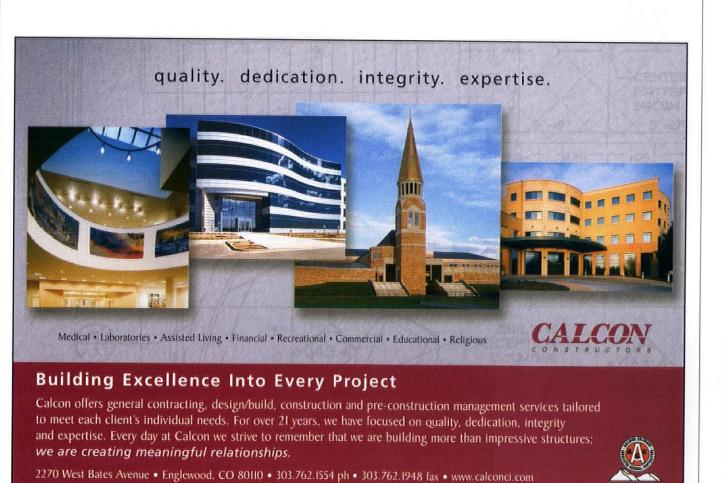

- Unite the architects of the state of Colorado in fellowship.
- Promote the aesthetic, scientific, and business practice of architecture.
- Advance architectural standards of continuing education, training and practice.
- Build relationships among clients, the construction industry and architects.

AIA Colorado believes that an important purpose of architecture is to create a vision that improves the built environment. This vision is vital to the advancement of the living standards of our communities and provides a service of ever-increasing value to society.

AIA Colorado provides architect referrals, lobbies the Colorado legislature, offers architectural employment information and sells AIA contracts and publications. The organization also hosts an annual conference, usually between October and December and provides support to all the chapters within the state. AIA Colorado is a professional organization for the design profession and are classified as "not-for-profit."

History of AIA Colorado

The Colorado Association of Architects was organized in 1890 and the elected officers were: Robert S. Roeschlaub, President; Harold W. Baerresen, Vice President; Eugene R. Rice, Secretary; and Frank E. Edbrooke, Treasurer. The same men were re-elected to office at the Second Annual Meeting held December 21, 1891. The main topic of discussion at that event was submitting an application for a charter as a chapter of The American Institute of Architects. The charter was received April 4, 1892 and included the states of Colorado, Wyoming and the territory of New Mexico. It wasn't until 1947 that each state had its own chapter.

During the 120-day Colorado legislative session, the Legislative Affairs subcommittee meets weekly to review and discuss potential legislation that could affect the profession of architecture. Because AIA National sponsors key legislation infrequently, the state component contract lobbyist, Jerry Johnson, Hon, AIA/C, assists AIA Colorado in the monitoring process, as well as providing on-site lobbying at the Capitol.

Intern Development Program

State Coordinator: Andrea Nicholl, Assoc. AIA

The Intern Development Program (IDP) continues to gain momentum in Colorado. The IDP Coordinator and AIA Colorado staff sent out more than 200 packets last year. The Coordinator provides programs at CU Boulder and CU Denver, as well as firms interested in the merits of the IDP program. The Coordinator also nominates firms for the AIA/NCARB IDP Firm of the Year award.

Nominating Committee

Chairman: William Tracy, AIA BAM!

This committee is composed of at least five AIA Colorado architects, selected on the basis of one representative from each AIA Colorado chapter (appointed each year at the July meeting of the Board of Directors) and chaired by the current President-Elect. The Nominating Committee recommends at least two nominees to run for each officer's position on the AIA Colorado Board of Directors.

Membership

Chair: John Williams, AIA John Williams Architecture, P.C.

Successful and continuous membership expansion efforts are essential to ensure that the AIA truly represents the profession. Recruit a friend — invite them to a meeting or chapter activity and get them involved in AIA Colorado.

The History of the Architectural Education Foundation, AIA Colorado

by Kenneth R. Fuller, FAIA emeritus (1913-1998)

Since the first $600 scholarship was presented in 1961, the Architectural Education Foundation, AIA Colorado has awarded more than $700,000 in scholarships, grants and other awards to over two hundred students, architects and teachers. The 2001 awards program totaled $35,000 from income received through investments, donations, & memorials. This figure is more than 10 times the amount of the original Trust Fund in 1934.

The Architectural Education Foundation, AIA Colorado was born out of the devotion of five men to the practice of architecture. On January 23, 1934, Robert K. Fuller, FAIA, announced on behalf of himself and four other men, the creation of a special Trust Fund: "to advance the interest of the profession of architecture in the State of Colorado."

This was the realization of ten years of commitment by Robert Fuller, FAIA, William E. Fisher, FAIA, George H. Williamson, FAIA, William Bowman, AIA and Fred Montjoy, AIA. Their dream was "to provide an instrument whereby, someday, sufficient income would be realized to be able to award scholarships, grants, prizes, etc. to the betterment of the profession" ("quotes" are from the original articles of incorporation.) The first aim of the Trust Fund was quite modest: the assets were to be "held intact and allowed to grow" until the principal was large enough to ensure a "Good annual return therefrom."

On December 18, 1944, the Trust Fund was transferred to the Colorado Chapter, AIA. Robert K. Fuller was designated its Permanent Trustee. On February 16, 1961, the Fund was incorporated as a separate tax free, non-profit corporation. Its broad purpose, as reported in the December 1961 issue of the Colorado Chapter, AIA newsletter, "The Addenda," was (and remains today) "to advance education in architecture by granting scholarships, prizes and financial aid to deserving students in architecture and to teachers or architects interested in research projects directly related and of value to the architectural profession."

In 1961 the Colorado Chapter, AIA awarded James E. Koentop, a fifth-year architectural engineering student at the University of Colorado, the William E. Fisher Memorial Scholarship. This was the first scholarship awarded by the Educational Fund, Colorado Chapter, AIA. It had taken 27 years for the five founders' original dream to come true.

Robert K. Fuller, FAIA died in 1966, and the Colorado Chapter, AIA asked his son Kenneth R. Fuller, FAIA, to assume the position of Permanent Member of the Board of Trustees, which he fulfilled until his death in 1998. Upon Kenneth's death, his son, Robert K. Fuller, II AIA was appointed Permanent Trustee. The Board of Trustees of the Architectural Education Foundation, AIA Colorado, by the Articles of Incorporation, consists of the following officers: Elizabeth Wright Ingraham, FAIA President; William B. Tracy, AIA Vice President; Robert K. Fuller II, AIA, Secretary/Treasurer; John J. Williams, AIA, Trustee; Joseph M. Jackson, Assoc. AIA, Trustee.

AIA Continuing Education Requirements for Membership

What is AIA/CES?

CES is a Continuing Education System developed by the AIA which emphasizes learning and maintains records of AIA-member learning units (LUs). Continuing education is a requirement for AIA architect membership and enables the architects to stay current, master new knowledge and skill, plan for the future and responsibly meet the role society entrusts to a professional. In doing so, AIA/CES has the potential to be a primary force in improving and vitalizing the profession of architecture.

How does it work?

As members you can earn credit (Learning Units, or LUs) in two ways:

- A. Participating in programs offered by chapters, firms and other registered providers. In this case, there's no paperwork at all for you to deal with. This generally does not include committee meetings.
- B. Self-directed personal learning activities which are studies of matters relying principally on the architect's initiative as a method of gaining knowledge to improve professional skills. These can include seminars, college courses, conference presentations, video and audio tapes and computer-based education software. A self report form is filled out and used to record your learning units on a transcript. You may complete your self report forms electronically at www.aiaonline.com, or request a hard copy of the form to be faxed to you from AIA Colorado.

What is a Learning Unit Hour (LU Hour)?

AIA records continuing education credit in Learning Unit hours (LUs). On LU is equal to one education program contact hour. The AIA Board of Directors approved this educational model January 1, 2000.

How many Learning Units do I need?

All active AIA members must successfully complete 18 LU/hours per year (including eight learning units are to be earned in the area of health, safety and welfare) to fulfill the CES requirement for membership renewal. This will be retroactively affect 1999 and 2000 records.

- A member who fails to meet the annual requirement will be given nine months to earn the deficient LUs and meet the current annual requirement of 18 LUs.
- A member who exceeds the annual requirement in a given year may carry up to 18 LUs (including eight hours of HSW) into the next year. Members' CES carryover credits allow only as many hours as needed to fulfill the annual requirement.

Where are the CES records kept?

Transcript service and record keeping is provided by the College of Continuing Education at the University of Oklahoma. Self report forms need to be sent by the member directly to: University of Oklahoma, AIA/CES, Room B4, 1700 Asp Avenue, Norman, OK 73072. You may choose to complete your self report forms electronically, through www.aiaonline.com. A transcript will be mailed each October, free of charge, to all members with CES activities during the calendar year. Additional transcripts are $10 each. Transcripts can be accessed on AIA Online by using your member number. You should keep a record of your LUs for two years.

What Other Ways Can the Internet and AIAOnline Help with CES?

Members and AIA/CES Registered Providers can now access AIA/CES through the AIAOnline professional information continuing education page. You will find the following offering on AIAOnline:

CES Transcripts: All members can review their up-to-date transcripts at any time.

State Mandatory Continuing Education (MCE) Requirements: Find current information about state MCE requirements and regular updates about continuing education issues. Click on the map for an update status report of the states. Links connect to the home page of licensing boards in states that require MCE.

AIA eClassroom: Take advantage of this exciting way to take a course over the Internet. Additional information can be found about other educational self-study products and distance educational programs.

CES Questions (FAQs): A quick resource fo rhte most upto-date frequently asked questions.

Provider Information – A list of all currently approved CES registered providers and thew 2000 winners of the AIA/CES Award for Excellence.

CES Forms: Location of the AIA/CES template self reporting forms for members. CES providers may advertise and register their programs through easy online templates. Other CES provider forms and the application for the CES Providers Award for Excellence may be downloaded.

Is there a list of CES events available for AIA Colorado members?

AIA Colorado and each local chapter have events and programs throughout the year that qualify for Learning Units. AIA Colorado's monthly newsletter, the Colorado Architect, includes announcements of CES events throughout the state, as does our web site at www.aiacolorado.org.

If you would like more information about AIA/CES please contact AIA Colorado, 303.446.2266 or 800.628.5598, extention 17 or go to www.aiacolorado.org for event and program information.

AIA Colorado Design Awards

AIA Colorado Design Awards

The purpose of the AIA Colorado Design Awards is to increase the awareness of outstanding services provided by architects and emphasize their role in shaping the built environment through design excellence.

2001 Jury included these talented and well respected architects: James Cutler, FAIA Ed Weinstein, FAIA Bruce Anderson, AIA Rysia Suchecka, AIA

Honor Award:

Evans Community Complex City of Evans, Roth + Sheppard Architects

The multi-use public facility is designed to promote the progressive image of the community and establish a sense of identity and place with the micro and macro concept. The solution involves the juxtaposition of assimilated, pre-engineered building components and agrarian building typologies in an effort to maximize construction efficiencies and reinforce the rural and historical precedents.

Merit Award:

Room & Board Roth + Sheppard Architects

The existing pre-cast concrete, double "T" construction presented many challenges in developing ideas of introducing light to the otherwise dark and dismal 1970's structure. With budget and structure being the driving force, an innovative approach to materials and finishes was necessary. The two columns were seen as anchors to the overall site, which allowed the "linking" element to become more transparent. The two columns clad in stone at one end and zinc flat lock shingles at the other, kept the existing structure intact. The center section replaced the existing concrete panels with steel and glass that allows for ample display area at a pedestrian level.

Merit Award:

Historic Rolling Stock Museum Silver Plume, Colorado, Root Rosenman Architects

This small building, only 136 feet long by 36 feet wide, is organized in a linear manner with two sets of tracks. The tracks bend towards each other near the entry to open the views of the cars, and to animate the exhibit as visitors move through it. The form of the building takes its clues from indigenous mining and railroad buildings of the region, to evoke the character of these structures without direct replication. The interior space is formed of gabled steel trusses, with galvanized steel studs supporting the exterior metal cladding.

AIA Colorado Design Awards

Merit Award:

bCandid Offices Doris Sung Studio

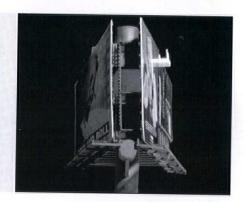

bCandid, a company providing secured discussion group technology in Boulder wanted to keep their employees by providing a place that all could identify with and ultimately hate to leave. A look that represented their young, energetic, and aggressive character and an image that was multi-dimensional as well as "multi-media" was critical to them. We decided that the main design elements must affect the workplace and not the public face. With virtually no construction budget and two weeks to complete the project, we were able to put together a very unique and memorable installation.

Citation Award:

Billboard House Office of Metropolitan Design

The idea of habitable space within the confines of an advertisement billboard brings to mind several notions about the rituals of seclusion and the narratives between architecture, landscape, applied use and alternative atmospheres. The billboard stands in a secluded landscape and is seen in and of itself as solitary figure. By its own nature, the billboard is less a natural setting for living and therefore gives itself much more readily to the contemplative setting of de-familiarization. Although the billboard does not "defamiliarize" the spaces and events that take place within, it does nevertheless, de-familiarize our normal behavior and call to attention our own need to abstract what might other wise be 'natural' activities.

Citation Award:

16th Street Center David Owen Tryba Architects

Strongly influenced by the character of nearby historic buildings, yet boldly modern in use of materials, articulation and the program, the 16th Street Center was designed to relate in scale and proportion to its neighbors. With the Joslins Building, the new structure creates a gateway to the central section of the 16th Street Mall.

Citation Award:

Architect's Studio Cottle Graybeal Yaw Architects, Ltd.

An architectural firm, designing its office on a western small town "main street," set three main objectives:

- 1: Provide creative employees with a creative work place
- 2: Use environmentally friendly design and products
- 3: Design compatibility between town's western vernacular and firm's contemporary preference

AIA Colorado Design Awards

Citation Award:

UMB Bank RNL Design

The site for the UMB Bank branch at the corner of 7th Avenue and Colorado Boulevard marks the end of a transition from dense commercial strip to high end residential. The south edge of the site is a tree lined residential parkway while the east edge fronts a six-lane road with vehicular activity.

Citation Award:

Bartlit, Beck, Herman, Palenchar & Scott BURKETTDESIGN, INC.

The design concept for this office was to create a muscular and powerful space that clearly reflects the image of the occupying firm. The use of materials that collect and diffuse the day-light throughout the office reinforce visual adjacencies between manager and assistant, and capitalize on Colorado's most vitalizing natural resource: light. Paramount to the design are the generous corridors, which culminate at the forum. They are designed specifically to capture and accommodate the quick pace and energy produced by information transfer and gathering. The forum anchors the plan, and with closed doors, is a private war room with state-of-the-art audio/video conferencing capabilities fused with a comfortable environment.

AIA Colorado Special Awards

Recognizing individuals and organizations for their outstanding leadership, innovation and contribution to the architectural community, the Colorado chapter of The American Institute of Architects (AIA) presented its 2001 Special awards to RNL Design, Larry Yaw, FAIA, RNL Design, Mickey Zeppelin and Lockheed Martin Littleton property (formerly Johns Mansville Corporate Headquarters).

Larry Yaw, FAIA

2001 Architect of the Year

Backed by 30 years of prodigious body of work and his influence over the quality of design in Colorado and the western mountain states, Larry's philosophy of "regional modernism" and place-making has resulted in a fresh regional vernacular balanced between the unexpected and the familiar but always grounded by abstraction to the forms and materials of rural settlement. Although his design work is clearly rendered in modernist terms, expressed in both native and tectonic materials, his beginning point at all scales of work is always "to connect people to place and to each other."

Telluride Residence (on the cover)

To provide a sense of protection and intimacy on a treeless site, this house uses its own form to conceal, and then reveal, expansive vistas. A key view is dramatically revealed in the living room. A palette of natural materials – stone, wood and steel – and well-proportioned volumes provide a comfortable, elegant retreat.

2001 Firm of the Year

Founded in 1956, RNL Design is a second-generation firm in Denver with design offices in Los Angeles and Phoenix. With more than 200 employees, RNL is acknowledged for its contribution to the profession by setting an example in design, leadership professional practice and community service.

The Cable Center (on the cover)

The $32-million educational museum features state-of-the art technology to illustrate the cable and telecommunications industry's global impact. The building consists of four quadrants with one carved out ... the "missing quadrant" is a monumental glazed atrium, the Center's lobby and principal public space.

Mickey Zeppelin

Mickey Zeppelin is recognized for his outstanding accomplishments by a non-architect in Colorado and for demonstrating exemplary achievements in contributing to the quality of the built environment. He currently president-elect of the Golden Triangle Neighborhood Association.

Lockheed Martin Littleton property (formerly Johns Mansville Corporate Headquarters)

AIA Colorado Twenty-Five Year Award

To recognize a project completed 25 to 35 years ago (between 1966-1976) and continues to function in its original capacity, Lockheed Martin Littleton property (formerly Johns Mansville Corporate Headquarters) is acknowledged for its enduring quality in architectural design. The Mexico City jury:

Enrique Norten, Honorary FAIA, Jury Chairperson of Taller de Enrique Norten Arquitectos S.C. Ten Arquitectos, Mr. Bernardo Gomez-Pimienta, Architecto, Isaac Broid, Architecto and Francisco Serrano, FAIA.

Honor Award

Incheon International Airport, Terminal Complex Fentress Bradburn Architects

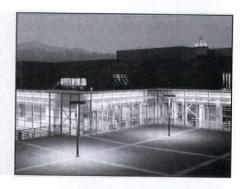

The design concept was conceived to enhance the role of architecture in a future filled with technology. It was important that the terminal and concourses make the process of using the airport as enjoyable and comfortable as possible. An inviting and user-friendly environment was created through the use of warm colors, accommodating spatial layouts and appropriate lighting. The location of spaces such as restrooms, gate entrances and retail, is reinforced by consistency of design and finished material, helping passengers easily comprehend the building and navigate themselves through various zones.

Honor Award:

University of Colorado at Colorado Springs, University Center Expansion
H + L Architecture

The University Center Expansion project designed to create a new "social center" for students, faculty and staff on a growing Colorado Springs campus within the University of Colorado system. It replaces a disjointed, multilevel facility that was housed in two buildings with no defining relationships or a common entry. The primary goal of this student funded University Center was to create an expanded facility that not only provided additional square footage for specific programs and activities.

Merit Award:

MediaOne Jacksonville BURKETTDESIGN, INC.

Utilizing an existing 100,000 square foot battery storage warehouse immediately adjacent to a swamp with a 20 bay truck dock to build a Call Center, we wanted to take advantage of the inherent qualities of a warehouse space: (1) 24' high bays, generous column spacing, large contiguous floor plate and limited openings 2) take advantage of the nearby and heavily wooded swamp area 3) use the limited number of openings to our best advantage 4) create an intimately scaled personal work environment.

AIA Denver Design Awards

Merit Award:

Room & Board Roth + Sheppard Architects

The existing pre-cast concrete, double "T" construction presented many challenges in developing ideas of introducing light to the otherwise dark and dismal 1970's structure. With budget and structure being the driving force, and innovative approach to materials and finishes was necessary. The two columns were seen as anchors to the overall site, which allowed the "linking" element to become more transparent. The two columns clad in stone at one end and zinc flat lock shingles at the other, kept the existing structure intact. The center section replaced the existing concrete panels with steel and glass that allows for ample display area at a pedestrian level.

Merit Award:

South Shanghai Riverfront Master Plan Gensler

The South Shanghai Riverfront Master Plan is a prime 1.2 km residential and commercial area in south Shanghai, featuring approximately 2 km of frontage directly on the Huangpu River. As the main north/south axis of Shanghai, the Huangpu River has major economic, historic, and aesthetic significance. The plan for the South Huangpu River site makes the relationship of river and land parcel paramount. Building massing, size, and siting are all carefully calibrated to make the river an integral part of the cityscape, both at the river's edge and inland.

Merit Award:

Architects' Studio at the Fisher Mansion David Owen Tryba Architects

The historic Fisher Mansion has become the home for the architects' own design studio. The project, a juxtaposition of Beaux Arts and modern design, dramatically illustrates one of the firm's core skills: the blending of old and new in successful compositions that respect and enhance the historic fabric of a site while exploring progressive, modernist strategies to promote its evolution.

AIA Denver Design Awards

Merit Award:

Regional Transportation Commission and Regional Flood Control District Headquarters Fentress Bradburn Architects

In reinforcing the tradition of nature-inspired architecture, the design of this building is derived from the desert, which is an important part of the region's context. The building presents itself in natural sandstone to complement the natural landforms of the region and the other buildings within the Government campus. The mass of the buildings is designed around the courtyard concept with the main building entry from the south side, shaded by high building masses on the east and the west side of the canyon.

Citation Award:

Mesch Residence, Denver, Colorado Brett Miller, Miller DesignWorks

"International Style." Although this house existed with few modifications since its construction in 1936, the changed urban context and the house's outdated program had rendered it awkward, both inside and out. While a developer might have realized financial gain by demolishing the house and reconstructing this prominent lot, the owner and architect of this project were committed to preserving the residences historical character, while restructuring its site and function.

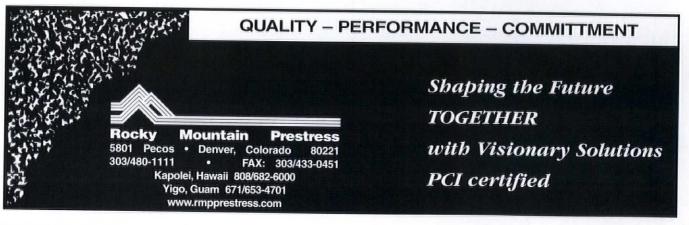

Citation Award:

Colorado State University Environmental Learning Center J. Michael Brendle, FAIA

The multi-functional Environmental Learning Center (ELC) lies at the heart of a 1000-acre nature area. While serving as a visitor orientation center for Ft. Collins, the Center is also located on Interstate 25, the primary northern entry route to Colorado. Additionally, the ELC is the regional headquarters of the State of Colorado Division of Parks and Outdoor Recreation. This facility includes interpretive displays, offices, flexible exterior and interior classrooms, labs, and a bookstore. Adjacent to the center is an amphitheater and various interpretive natural areas with displays.

AIA Denver Design Awards

Citation Award:

Bartlit, Beck, Herman, Palenchar & Scott BURKETTDESIGN, INC.

The design concept for this office was to create a open and powerful space that clearly reflected the image of the occupying firm. The use of materials that collect and diffuse the daylight throughout the office reinforce visual ajacencies between manager and assistant, and the capitalize on Colorado's most vitalizing natural resource: light. Paramount to the design are the generous corridors, which culminate at the Forum. They are designed specifically to capture and accommodate the quick pace and energy produced by information transfer and gathering.

Citation Award:

1335 Elati Studio Jam Wong, AIA

The aim of this undertaking was to take a plain vanilla, rectangular, box-like building, located in a rapidly changing urban setting and transform the interior into a welcoming, contemporary urban studio.

AIA Colorado North Design Awards

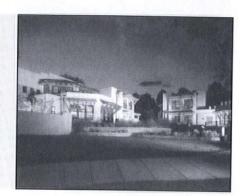

AIA Colorado North Design Awards

Guest jurors, Bruno Pfister, principal of McKinnell and Wood, Julie Jones, principal of Sullivan Studio both of Boston, Massachusetts and Mark Neilson of Brookline-based CYMA2, judged more than twenty submitted projects from AIA Colorado North in categories that included Commercial/Industrial, Residential, Historic Renovation and Small Projects.

Honor Award:

Fountain Valley School of Colorado, Penrose Hall + New Dorm Barrett Studio Architects

As part of the campus-wide renovation, the architect was asked to design a new building to house students displaced by construction. Designed as a vanguard, the school's new policy, the "New Dormitory" was to extend the architectural language of the campus without disrupting historical continuity. Three student/faculty houses surround a sculpted south facing courtyard filled with native plantings. A central two-level commons in each house provides a bright, daylit space for students to study or relax. The sun-shading trellises "saddlebag" exit porticos, warm colors and natural materials give this dormitory the feel of a southwestern home.

Honor Award:

Boulder County Recycling Center Edge Architecture

In 1995, Boulder County citizens voted to approve a new tax to divert half their solid waste to recycling. The construction of the Boulder County Recycling Center is a big step toward realizing that goal. The new facility celebrates the complex relationship between nature and industry. The 20-acre site features beautiful wetlands and mountain vistas juxtaposed against rail lines and a power plant. A simple industrial aesthetic marks all aspects of the design. Exposed structure and systems reveal their functions. A public drop-off area, a processing center, offices, and a public education center come together in this unique center that both teaches about and manages the process of recycling.

Honor Award:

Sunnyside Family Housing of Louisville, Colorado Edge Architecture

This project, designed for the Louisville Housing Authority, maintains the rural feel of the surrounding neighborhood while creating a mid-density affordable housing community.

AIA Colorado North Design Awards

Merit Award:

Westlands Park Treehouse in Greenwood Village, CO Aller-Lingle Architects, PC

The treehouse play structure was built into a low-lying storm drainage area that is kept as a natural area. Cast-in-place concrete piers support the entire structure in order to minimize the footprint and damage to the native area. Material selections for the treehouse and other park structures were made to compliment the park's context. Steel and concrete columns and steel railings reflect the contemporary style of Greenwood Village while the wood beams and posts reflect the natural aspects of the park.

Merit Award:

Japango Sushi Restaurant in Boulder, Colorado Joint Venture: Scott Rodwin Architecture/Okura Interior Design and Feng Shui

Japango Sushi restaurant is a 2200 remodel in an historic building on the Pearl St. Mall in Boulder. The project presented a number of challenges, one of which was the existing bottle-shaped geometry with a 70' long, 5' wide approach to the restaurant. This daunting 'tunnel effect' was solved through the use of full height mirrors along one wall. Feng Shui was integral to the design and each of the elements found in nature are represented in the space. This project was collaboration between Rodwin Architecture and Eiko Okura Interior Design and Feng Shui.

Merit Award:

Fall River Visitor Center, Rocky Mountain National Park in Estes Park, Colorado Roger M. Thorp, AIA, Thorp Associates, P.C., Architects and Planners

The Fall River Visitor Center is a landmark public-private partnership just outside the Rocky Mountain National Park boundaries, on Highway 34 west of Estes Park. Proposed as the first private-public partnership for a National Park Service facility, the Center encountered numerous hurdles throughout its lengthy preliminary design and approval process. Once approved through the county planning process, the project was put on hold for nearly five years awaiting federal legislative initiatives allowing Park Service personnel to be employed and work full time in a facility outside the National Park.

Citation Award:

Platte Valley High School in Kersey, Colorado RB + B Architects, Inc.

The new Platte Valley High School represents a new century and an exciting future for the community of Kersey. Providing a total educational experience for the students and partnering with the local residents, goals are achieved in this facility. The spacious building offers the students and local residents a source of pride with its high technology Media Center, spacious physical education facilities, and state of the art cafeteria. Classrooms are placed on two levels, grouped around technology spaces and staff work areas. Light from clerestories is introduced in the main corridor to spread out into a colorful thoroughfare in which 500 students pass daily.

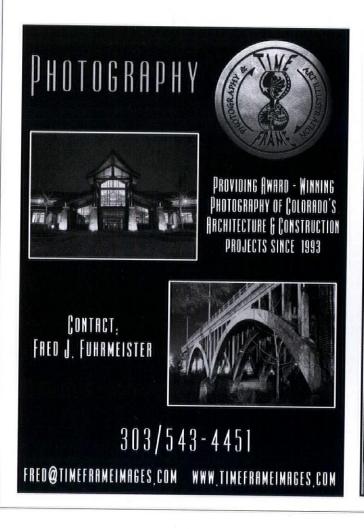

AIA Colorado North Design Awards

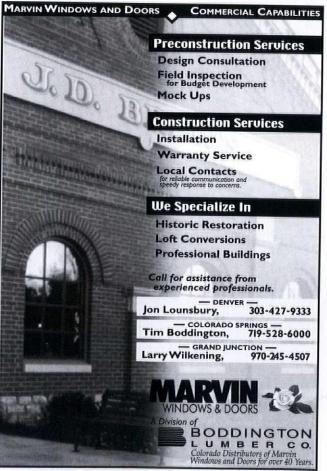

Citation Award:

City of Fort Collins Office Building OZ Architecture

The new City of Fort Collins Office Building is an important component of the Calthorpe Associates Downtown Civic Center Master Plan. The design intent was to create a timeless urban building, contemporary in function but with historical roots, and familiar civic elements. Multiple entry points into the building have been established based on the downtown Civic Master plan and the best functional use. Determining the primary pedestrian entry point was an interesting challenge. A clear, well-defined main entry is vital to the project's success. Pedestrians generally access the site from the LaPorte and Mason Street intersection (coming from the Justice Center and parking garage from the south.) However, customer parking on the northern end of the site is also very important, and its relationship to the Office Building's main entry is also significant. The final analysis of the program determined that the entry should be located at the halfway point – equidistant from both ends.

Honor Award

Bethel College Residence Hall CSNA Architect

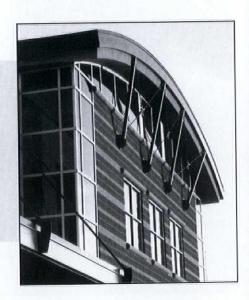

Bethel College is a private liberal arts college located in central Kansas. The new 32,000 SF residence hall is the 'home away from home for ninety-six students. The design elements call back to the Collegiate Gothic Style, which became the campus 'standard' when it was founded in 1887. The arrangement of student rooms emphasizes an extended family relationship. Residential rooms allow for one pair of students to share a common bath/shower core, with another pair of students, creating a suite. Four suites then share a common 'Living room'.

Honor Award

University Center at Chaparral H+L/LKA - A Joint Venture

The University Center at Chaparral (aka Douglas County Learning Center) is founded on unique partnership concepts, and opened for students in the spring of 2000. The two-level, 20,000 sq.ft. "satellite" campus facility serves non-traditional students pursuing a wide variety of continuing education and degree programs — geared towards residents of southeast Denver. Geared towards future trends in education, lecture and laboratory spaces support laptop computer use by faculty during presentations simultaneously with students compiling information regarding course studies. The choice of building materials emulates the programs involved. Sleek curtain wall systems are grounded by the use of split-face concrete masonry units and precast lintels and sills — just as technology is grounded by the basics of education.

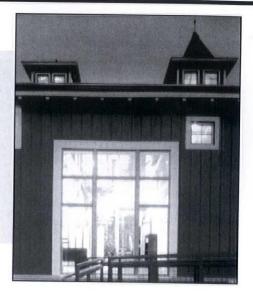

2001 Award Recipients

AIA Colorado South Design Awards

Merit Award

Netcher Barn Office of Metropolitan Design

The relocation, renovation and conversion of the 1873 post and beam barn into a high-tech office building. The original family barn was built in Ohio, in full use as a barn, until the day it was dismantled, and moved to Palmer Lake, Colorado. Using clues from the original barn, the architectural details are crafted, but not fussed over. The materials are substantial, durable, common and utilitarian. New office space is provided not only in the main floor of the barn, but the hay lofts were also converted into office space, as well as in the newly created, re-cycled cut stone garden level basement.

Merit Award

Jenkins Middle School LKA Partners Incorporated

Jenkins Middle School was master-planned for joint use of a 70-acre site with a future high school. Through careful planning, the Architect developed a design that finds each facility it's own identity while allowing for shared use of major athletic and parking features. Keeping with the transitional nature of the Middle School model, this 852-student school was designed to accommodate students in smaller, personal and identifiable settings. The school design utilizes a southwestern palette of colors and textures, and provides stunning views of the Pikes Peak, The Front Range and rolling Black Forest terrain. As one moves through the building, outside views are constantly available.

Honorable Mention Award

Broadmoor Pool and Lakeside Hotel CSNA Architects

Phase one of a two – phased complete renovation of the 1918 Broadmoor Hotel was completed in the Spring of 2001. In Phase One, a new zero-entry, infinity edge pool and pool complex was constructed concurrently with the new Lakeside Hotel, and replaces an ourdated facility constructed in the 1950's, demolished in order to provide a broad, lakeside function terrace. Paramount to the project, was an overwhelming concern that the European-style elegance and flair of the original hotel be complemented if not matched in new construction. The thematic character of the hotel campus has been preserved, with painstaking attention to a character and quality of detail not often seen in commercial and residential construction.

AIA Colorado West Design Awards

AIA Colorado West Design Awards

Each year, local chapter members submit projects and compete for Honor, Merit and Citation awards. Guest juror, Stanley Tigerman, FAIA, principal at Tigerman McCurry Architects in Chicago, Illinois, judged more than forty submitted projects from the AIA Colorado West Chapter in categories that included Commercial/Industrial, Residential over $1 million, Residential Economy, Details-Interior or Exterior and Open Category.

Award Winners

Honor Award:

Mintz Residence Cottle Graybeal Yaw Architects, Ltd.

The site is situated on a high (9000-ft.) alpine finger ridge, which commands views to Beaver Creek Resort, opposite, and beyond to the 14,000-ft. peaks of the Colorado Rockies. Characterized by the Aspen groves between small pine wild flower and sage meadows, the site slopes gently to the south.

Honor Award:

Snyder Affordable Housing, Aspen, Colorado Lipkin Warner Design & Planning and Heidi Hoffmann, H3 Architects

The Snyder housing project is a 31,000 square foot development located on a 3.2-acre property. Encompassing sixteen townhouses with four parking structures, two of which are located on a basement level, the property is naturally separated by growth trees to the east and south and wetlands to the western half of the property. A small .83 acre-plateau located in the northeast corner of the property was the only location that met the community and design team requirements.

Honor Award:

Bailey Residence, Carbondale, Colorado Studio B Architects

The Bailey Residence explores the extension of aesthetic boundaries within traditional and restrictive design guidelines. The flat, open and grassy site is located in a new golf course community in the Crystal River Valley of western Colorado. Expansive views, dominated by Mt. Sopris to the South, generated a diagram that takes advantage of the site's natural features and it anticipates the inevitable future development of neighboring lots.

Honor Award:

House Project, Aspen, Colorado Studio B Architects

Edge and transition define this visible site bounded on three sides by public streets. The neighborhood, lacking a readily identifiable context, offers many opportunities for the creative exploration of ideas. The client requested a solution that would respond to the site conditions, deliver privacy and result in architecture that is inventive. The site has existing, mature trees that must remain and a historic cottage that must be salvaged and transformed into an employee-housing unit, and topographical changes that must be accommodated.

2001 Award Recipients

AIA Colorado West Design Awards

Honor Award:

Guest House Willis Pember Architects, Inc.

Guest House attempts to resolve an iconic house form and scale with the contemporary requirement of capturing expansive vistas. The Miesian ideal of landscape view as wallpaper is embraced and filtered through the issues of solar orientation, glass shading and the realities of thermopane manufactured glass sizes.

Citation Award:

Colorado Homestead Charles Cunniffe Architects

The project consists of a main house, guest cottage, a detached nanny's quarters, and a deed restricted employee- housing unit. The entire program is organized around and interacts with a privatized courtyard, either in access or view. As a collection of simple, flat and shed-roofed volumes, the project established a clear identity of its own and creates an appropriate environment for the restored cottage. A palette of finished materials, durable and requiring minimal maintenance, are composed in calculated and sober exterior elevations. The interiors are to be clean, devoid of frivolous detailing and will accentuate the owner's art and furniture collection.

Citation Award:

Harman Residence Harry Teague Architects

The architect chose to develop this romantic and spiritual notion suggested by the site and build the new structure on a "found" ruin of an ancient and sacred place. An implied mythology grew out of the site. Naturally, the setting would humble any human being. Any new structure would have to perform strenuously to provide the needed shelter in both a physical and emotional sense. Technically, physical comfort is readily achievable through contemporary materials and methods of building. The spiritual, aesthetic and emotional comfort required of a home however, necessitates the alchemy of responsibility, art and understanding.

Citation Award:

A Private Residence in Beaver Creek, Colorado Morter Architects

Because this is the second home that this architect has designed for this family of five, the architect was able to create a very personal home, blending the family's long-time interest in Shaker communities with simple, hand-made, sometimes unexpected agrarian forms and images.

Citation Award:

7th & Main Affordable Housing Projec Studio B Architect

7th and Main is a mixed-use building consisting of eleven living units and a "corner store" element woven into the main level of the complex. The highly visible corner site offered an opportunity for the architecture to identify the primary entrance into the city. Located on the edge of Aspen's original townsite, an architecture conscious of addressing this gateway was informed by the historic precedent of Aspen's beginning as a mining town.

National Council of Architectural Registration Boards (NCARB)

1735 New York Avenue NW, Suite 700 Washington, DC 20006 202/783-6500 202/783-0290 (fax) www.ncarb.org

The National Council of Architectural Registration Boards (NCARB) was established in 1920 to help member boards:

Carry out their duties

Foster the enactment of uniform architectural laws

Develop examinations and establish standards for certification requirements in education and training

To perfect their procedures for verifying the qualifications of applicants and determining their eligibility for certification

Establish and maintain reciprocal registration between states having registration laws

The NCARB is a non-profit corporation with all legally constituted boards of architecture in the United States as members, including the Colorado Board of Examiners of Architects.

To be eligible for NCARB certification, architects must submit satisfactory evidence that they comply with the standard for education, training, examination and character and have been registered by a member board.

The NCARB will, upon request of an individual architect, secure, authenticate and record factual data of the applicant's education, training, practice and character. This record will be forwarded to any state board upon request of the applicant.

Certification shall be given to an applicant holding a council record verifying that the applicant has complied with the council's standards of education, training, practice and character; and that the applicant has passed an examination conforming to the council's standards of content, extent and length of time.

Certification by the NCARB is recommendation to all registration authorities that registration be granted to the holder without further examination. Most board members accept NCARB certification as conclusive evidence of an architect's eligibility of registration. It is, however, not a national registration.

Complete information on compiling a council record and obtaining council certification can be obtained from:
