The winning architects, along with the owners and the Masonry Institute-member mason contractors involved in building these projects, were honored at the third annual Masonry Awards Banquet, held January 28, 1978, at the Detroit Plaza. All received handsome cast bronze plaques known as "M Awards."

The Masonry Institute and the Michigan Society of Architects, which cooperated in the program, join in saluting the winners for their outstanding designs. Out of 58 projects entered by MSA-member firms, these 6 were selected for the Honor Awards by a jury of Atlanta, Georgia, architects chaired by James H. Finch, FAIA.

Future issues of this Newsletter will take a closer look at these winning projects. And we're pleased to announce that this awards program will be continued on the same basis in 1978.

THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

As I begin my year as President of the Michigan Society of Architects, a Region of the American Institute of Architects, comprising the Detroit, Flint, Grand Valley, Huron Valley, Mid-Michigan, Northern Michigan, Saginaw Valley, and Western Michigan Chapters, I would like to present to you my program and the committees I have appointed for 1978 to implement that program. Of course much of our work this year will be a continuation of previous sound programs but some will be in a new direction, a proper direction, both to the public and the profession.

Our major emphasis will be on professional competence just as national AIA. Our continuing education program for Architects is as before a standard part of this thrust but we also want to help our intern Architects take advantage of the new AIA Intern Development Program package as they prepare for their State Board Exams; work more closely with our State Board of Registration; reevaluate the Architectural course offerings of our colleges and universities; spread the High School Architectural drafting program and competition all over the State; get Architect volunteers into our elementary and secondary schools statewide with awareness "courses"; provide Architects with easily delivered package programs on design and energy for presentation to local and statewide civic organizations; and provide increased individual member services, as we are able, especially to the small practitioner, the Associates, and Architects in Government and Industry.

Our vigorous thrust on Government Affairs begun the last couple of years by Past President Paul Bowers, AIA, will have a high priority and will expand in scope and influence as we combine our efforts with those of other design professionals experiencing similar concerns.

MSA publications efforts have been waning the last several years, so we are going to work on a new, multi-track communications endeavor that should revive this important arm of our society.

A couple of other groups I feel we should be nearer to are the Building Officials of our State and the Great Lakes Basin Commission. We will try to do some things this year in their direction.

In order to tap the resources of our "elder statesmen", I have instituted a Committee of Past Presidents and Regional Directors to work on special projects.

Naturally we will continue our Membership Program, Ethics, Honor Awards, Annual Convention and Mid-Summer Conference, R/UDAT, and Beaubien House restoration.

With the help of the Board and Staff I have appointed the following Committees:

I do hope that each of our MSA members will consider these committees, and if you are interested in the work of any of them, call me or the Director of the Committee Chairman so that you may have the opportunity to participate in this volunteer effort on behalf of our profession. Or if you have other areas of interest not covered, please bring them up so they may be considered. Once we get "everybody in the act", we can do a lot for ourselves and society.

LEGISLATIVE

NEW PROFESSIONAL FEE SCHEDULE AND STATE
CONTRACT HAVE BEEN APPROVED BY THE STATE
AD BOARD AND SHOULD BE EFFECTIVE IMMEDIATELY.
★ ★ ★ ★ ★

LEGISLATIVE UPDATE

Fee Schedule

Improving the architects' fee schedule for state construction, our major project for this year, has proven even more difficult than we had thought. Literally hundreds of hours have been consumed in meetings and negotiations with the Division of Management and Budget, with the Joint Committee on Capital Outlay, and with research conducted by the MSA and DMB. The compromise reached, although still under fire from some members of JCOC, is scheduled for final approval by the State Administrative Board at its next meeting January 3. Budget Director Gerald Miller, who has been very helpful throughout this entire process, has taken a toughout this entire process, has taken a tough position against any further changes and is committed to a recommendation that the Administrative Board adopt the schedule as is. Consulting engineers would also be beneficiaries of this improved fee schedule.

Recodification

A special committee of the legislature, chaired by Representative Gary Owen, is at work on a plan to codify the statutes which regulate the some 38 professionals under jurisdiction of the Department of Licensing and Regulation. We are holding a series of meetings with key persons on the committee and in L&R to make sure that in any such recodification the interests of the design professionals are protected. As a result of our input into these discussions, and at our request, the Committee, by late January will have developed a general outline of the proposed legislation so we can clear up any remaining problems before the bill is formally drafted.

S.B. 111

This bill, which would amend the statute of limitations for architects and engineers by making it less restrictive, is under attack by the Michigan Bar Association, which wants to extend the limitations to one year after a defect has been discovered "or should have been discovered". We were responding to a Supreme Court decision in another state which found a similar statute to be too restrictive. The Bar Association is responding to a Supreme Court decision (involving the medical profession) which says, in effect, that a person cannot be deprived of a right that he doesn't know he has.

The question now is whether to stay with our present statute, which has not been challenged in the Michigan Supreme Court, or run the risk of an MBA amendment that might leave us worse off than we are at present. This is a policy decision that we will seek in January from a combined meeting of architects and engineers. We will also be exploring other alternatives.

MSA/CEC

Through the leadership of Paul Bowers, AIA, and others, the Michigan Society of Architects and the Consulting Engineers Council have now joined forces in the legislative efforts. Because we will now be representing both groups, and additional PAC fund money will be available, the joint legislative effort can be more effective and problems of the design professionals can be brought into even sharper focus. There will be some differences, but for the most part, objectives of the two groups are similar. The combination will result in cost savings, which will benefit both entities.

THE PRESIDENT'S CORNER

THIRD THURSDAYS AT BEAUBIEN HOUSE

It is a great pleasure to write all of you about our new Third Thursdays at the Beaubien House Open House Series. One of our chief chapter goals for 1978 is to rekindle the sense of comradery with our peers which we've somehow lost through the past decade. A "beneficent" chapter requires dialogue among its members to generate creative directions, avoid complacency, and continually heighten its profile and strengthen its capabilities within society.

We foresee Third Thursdays at the Beaubien House as the stage for this dialogue and fellowship. They are a new opportunity to meet informally with the staff and board, to present your thoughts on current professional issues (such as contracting, advertising, recertification, etc.) and to weigh current chapter programs and goals.

As the pattern strengthens, we will invite prominent persons from the press, the council and the arts. You'll be able to discuss the progress of our city with Louis Cook, Irma Henderson and others, the impact of our profession with Lilian Jackson Braun, the response to art with Noguchi, the possibilities are immeasurable.

Of course, the usual libations will be on hand to insure the appropriate climate, and of course we'll pass the hat for the privilege.

This all depends, naturally on the enthusiasm and consistency of your response. Our common values early are in herein 'esprit de corps' which I'm sure, lies just below the facade! To paraphrase Adlai Stevenson, "we all wear the seamless garment of love for profession". Third Thursdays are an opportunity to keep each other, to broaden our awareness, and to enjoy our professional organization.

I look forward to seeing you at Third Thursdays, beginning at 5:00 p.m.

Ted E. Kurz, AIA
President, Detroit Chapter, AIA

HOUSE ACCOUNT

Guess we missed a December report on our nice old house - too busy with the frozen pipe in the garage, the stopped up water closet on the third floor, and the ice on the front step to do much about reflecting on the past few months, however, we have had very few troubles with the old girl considering she is 127 years old this year (c. 1851).

The House Committee is working along on a good schedule, somewhat bent due to outside commitments, but showing signs of progress nonetheless. We have an offer from our friend Fred Blackwood of Beaver Tile Distributors for enough tile for our foyer, the asphalt is a little tacky as well as chipped. Fred and the House Committee will do a little research as to the type and color suitable for our establishment and in it goes.

Christmas started when we put the fresh boxwood wreaths on the front doors and trimmed our tree with popcorn and candy canes. (The cookies never made it to the tree.) Some of our neighbors stopped by for a little Christmas refreshment the night of the first 'big storm' and as one said, 'the possibility of impending disaster' made for a homogenous gathering.

As an outgrowth of these informal gatherings Ted Kurz, Detroit Chapter president for 1978, has instituted a series of what he calls "Third Thursdays". Nothing more than an opportunity for members to stop at the house for a little refreshment and conversation with whomever happens to wander in. All MSA are most welcome, and if you are traveling in from around the state we will be pleased to arrange hotel reservations if you need them, or suggest a good spot for dinner in Detroit. Ted will have some visiting firemen from time to time, hopefully we will have time to get the crowd in the Newsletter as to who and when but if not, just take a chance and y'all come.

Hideo Fujii's snow shovels have been put to good use the past few weeks, but the 1978 Burpee seed catalog has the place of honor on the coffee table.

LETTERS

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Gentlemen:

As a practicing architect in the state of Michigan, I have been an active member in the AIA for several years.

Recently, however, I find myself practicing within the confines of a large corporation in which such membership is not necessary nor is it encouraged.

Having questioned the merits of belonging to the AIA for some time, and considering my current employment, I find it difficult to rationalize my membership or, more specifically, the dues expenditure.

It is my understanding that once having achieved a corporate membership level other reduced levels of membership are not available. Therefore, I submit my resignation as a corporate member of the American Institute of Architects effective January 1, 1978. (Present dues paid through December 31, 1977).

Very truly yours,

Douglas L. Falzon
