1978 M AWARDS

HOBBS + BLACK ASSOCIATES HONORED FOR McDONALD'S RESTAURANT MASONRY DESIGN

The two-story McDonald's Restaurant in downtown Ann Arbor has earned for Hobbs + Black Associates, Inc., Ann Arbor, a 1978 "M Award" for excellence of masonry design. The restaurant, located at 337 Maynard within a block of the University of Michigan's central campus, was designed in brick to complement the many historically - and architecturally - significant buildings that surround it. "The owner's commitment to respond to the historical needs of the area is evidenced by the extensive use of brick for interior and exterior walls, for courtyard walls, and as a paving element," said Richard Black, AIA, the project architect.

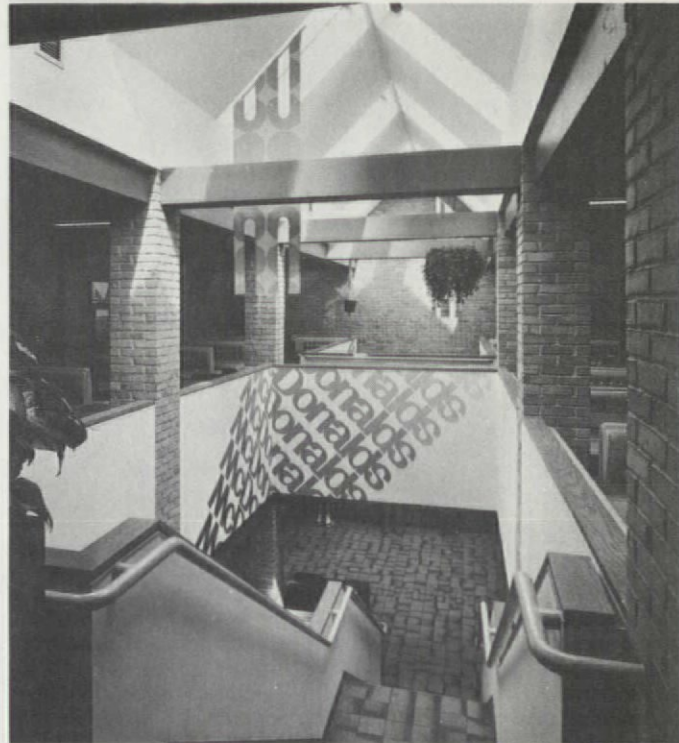

The exterior loadbearing walls are 4-inch brick, a 2-inch grouted cavity, and 4-inch brick. Steel columns used to support the center of the building are also clad in brick. Soldier coursing is used to enhance the courtyard wall, the stained glass second floor window and the roof peak above it, and other window areas (which utilize bronze tinted glass in bronze aluminum frames). The building was completed in 1976.

In all, four architects and their projects were honored in this fourth annual "M Awards" program, sponsored by the Masonry Institute of Michigan in cooperation with the Michigan Society of Architects. They were selected by a jury of Minneapolis architects, co-chaired by David J. Bennett, AIA, and Edward Frennette, AIA.

The entry box for the 1979 program will open soon. Watch your mail for the official rules and entry form.

JURY COMMENTS

"....a sensitive integration of geometry, scale and material....creates a transition from street to building which is an invitation to enter and explore....a quantum leap in the improvement of the architectural design of fast-food restaurants and their integration into surrounding neighborhoods."

MESSAGE FROM YOUR POLITICAL ACTION COMMITTEE FOR DESIGN PROFESSIONALS IN MICHIGAN (PAC/DPM)

An excellent opportunity exists for Michigan design professionals to establish rapport with elected officials. It can be done through the Political Action Committee for Design Professionals in Michigan (PAC/DPM).

PAC/DPM is an organization that will make political contributions to selected candidates, both incumbents and other hopefuls. Assistance will be based on the candidate's worthiness to serve the people, including design professionals. Our judgement will be keyed to the help incumbents gave us in the past, their general political philosophies as they affect the concerns of design professionals, and in accordance with our opinion of their political effectiveness as elected officials.

THROUGH PAC/DPM, politicians will know the design profession is a UNITED GROUP, UNAFRAID TO STAND UP AND BE COUNTED PUBLICLY. Voting membership is $100 or more. Non-voting membership is any contribution less than $100. All contributions are tax deductible.

MAIL YOU PERSONAL check to PAC/DPM TODAY payable to PAC/DPM; send to 553 E. Jefferson, Detroit, Michigan 48226. For more information call 313/965-4100.

Special Coordinators have been assigned to work with the MSA Intern Development Program (IDP) at the University of Detroit and Lawrence Institute of Technology, according to Detroit Chapter IDP Chairman, Joe Fleshner.

Bruno Leon, FAIA, School of Architecture Dean for the University of Detroit, has appointed Stan Fleischaker to serve as special IDP Coordinator for the school. Karl H. Greimel, School of Architecture Dean for Lawrence Institute of Technology, announced the appointment of Kenneth Livingston to serve as special IDP Coordinator for LIT.

"These special IDP Coordinators," Fleshner explained, "will be at the schools on a day-to-day basis allowing them to be of tremendous help to students with IDP matters. The Coordinators will be liaisons between the schools and the IDP Committee. They will promote IDP awareness on the campuses, provide information about the IDP Program, and answer questions."

Fleshner stated that IDP is interested in getting to students in school to show them that there is another way to approach registration - and that way is the IDP way. Anyone interested in finding out more about IDP in Michigan should contact MSA IDP Chairman, Art Nelson, 517/753-3401.

PROGRESS REPORT:

ARCHITECTS IN INDUSTRY, GOVERNMENT & EDUCATION

by R. F. Fearon, Chairman

MSA President Gene Terrill has asked that I establish a new committee at the state level for the MSA that deals specifically with the concerns of architects employed in industry, education and government.

To date, I have contacted Al Durkee and asked him to provide me with some insight into the concerns of the architects employed in government. Al is well underway in taking steps to define their concerns - and from his efforts I am sure we will be able to develop a viable program.

Karl Greimel, Dean of the College of Architecture at LIT, has also been contacted. Karl has agreed to give this matter some thought - and to discuss it with members of his staff. I also have a call into Bob Metcalf, Dean of the School of Architecture at U of M.

As regards architects employed within industry - as you know, I have been active at both the local and national level serving as Chairman of the local chapter's committee on Architects in Industry and as Chairman of the same national committee. There are several ideas that I have from that involvement that I will be able to offer as potential programs.

While this is only a small beginning, I sincerely hope it is a step in the right direction for what could become a significant role within the profession for architects employed in other than traditional roles.

DETROIT CHAPTER PLANS "CELEBRATION '79"; BEAUX ARTS BALL, SPECIAL EVENTS IN SEPTEMBER

The Detroit Chapter will be staging "Celebration '79" September 8-22 with special events and displays throughout the period - highlighted by a Beaux Arts Costume Ball September 15 in the Fort Street Manufacturers Bank Building, designed by McKim, Mead and White. The purpose of the program is to make the public more aware of good architecture through a series of planned activities.

The ten-member Celebration '79 Committee has been meeting since March to develop an array of significant activities. The cooperation of the architectural community and other DC committees has been enormous. Many activities are still in planning stage and will be announced in the MSA BULLETIN, MSA Calendar, and through special mailings.

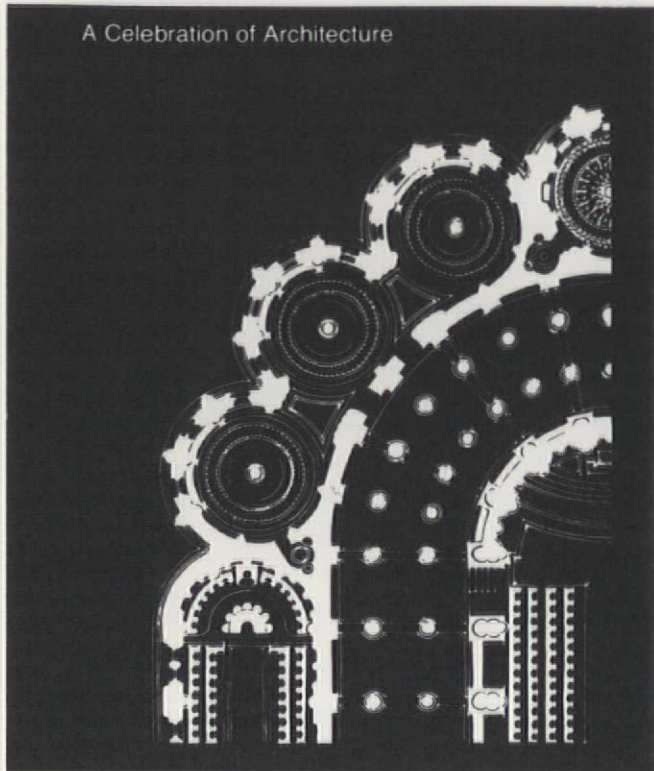

As part of the Celebration '79 LIT will sponsor a Tuesday Noon Lecture and a Thursday Evening Lecture. U of D, Cranbrook, Center for Creative Studies, and LIT have all pledged full cooperation during the Celebration. The DC Exhibits Committee plans to display past DC Honor Award buildings in three prominent locations. The display will be changed each week during September. The second annual Architects House Tour will be a Celebration high point, as will an Architects Sunday Tour, and an Architects Office Open House. Of course, the real celebration comes with the gala Beaux Arts Costume Ball September 15.

There will be more. Your special thoughts on how to "Celebrate Architecture" are invited. Contact Bob Greager, Chairman - Celebration '79 Committee, c/o Rossen/Neumann Associates, 19675 W. Ten Mile, Southfield, MI 48705, telephone 352-2520.

. HOUSING THE FAMILY (17.50).

The problem in housing the family is one of housing all their activities and the equipment which those activities demand. This book, edited from material originally commissioned for the authoritative series of Design Bulletins, deals with all aspects of the design problem, from the placing of houses, garages and play areas on a site to the detailed layout of each room in the house. (264 p)

. THE GLASS HOUSE by John Hix (22.50).

The glasshouse - or greenhouse, in American usage - evolved in the seventeenth century to protect gardeners' exotic plants from the rigors of the northern winter. This book traces the development of man's skill in creating and controlling an artificial climate from the period of Hans Sloane and Carl Linnaeus to the present and beyond. The period of greatest advance in this field was the nineteenth century, and Hix discusses the ingenious constructions made initially for private individuals and botanical societies, and toward the mid-century, with mass production of components, the fashioning of modular constructions such as the Crystal Palace and many vast and cheaply built International Exhibition halls in Europe and America. (208 p)

. INTERIORS 3RD BOOK OF OFFICES by John Pile (24.95).

This definitive, practical sourcebook documents, in both pictures and text, the most recent and relevant developments in current office planning and design in America today. Any questions you may have about office landscaping and open planning are answered, and all types of office spaces - from reception areas through the general offices to the private office and the executive floor - are fully illustrated. (208 p)

. VANS by Terry Cook (9.95).

A few years ago it was a disgrace to have the lowly van parked in the suburban driveway. Now it's a status symbol. Here is a book that is truly entertaining and educational. It is written by a "vanner" who provides lucid testimonials to the fun and values in "vanning". Many interesting color photographs highlight a down-to-earth text. (164 p)

. VICTORIAN AND EDWARDIAN THEATRES: AN ARCHITECTURAL AND SOCIAL SURVEY by Victor Glasstone (17.50).

Theatre design, a fascinating and highly specialized architectural form, reached a high point in Great Britain in the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries. In this richly illustrated volume, Victor Glasstone displays the theatres, opera houses, and music halls of the age and shows how the lavish Victorian-Edwardian style of theatre architecture evolved, flourished, and finally declined. (136 pages)

. STARTING AND MANAGING YOUR OWN ENGINEERING PRACTICE by John Kuecken (12.95).

This is the first all-inclusive handbook written specifically for the engineering professional who wants to establish a successful private practice. Drawing on his years of practical experience, John Kuecken gives you a no-nonsense approach that will help you anticipate potential problems, minimize your risks and maximize your chances for success. (175 pages)

. MANAGEMENT: TASKS, RESPONSIBILITIES, PRACTICES by Peter F. Drucker (18.95).

Peter Drucker is well-known for his writing about business and management. This book is a study of management as an organized body of knowledge. It not only deals with the techniques of effective management but looks at management from the outside and studies its tasks and requirements. The emphasis is on the accomplishments and results that are needed, including all areas of concern that managers will have to deal with. (839 pages)

. PIONEER CHURCHES by Harold Kalman (27.50).

Fashioned from logs with crude tools or built to exacting architectural standards, the pioneer churches of North America offer a unique perspective on the history of the continent's expansion. With each new wave of settlement, the men and women who pushed forward the frontiers of civilization expressed their now vanished lifestyles, their cultures, their crafts, their anxieties, motivations, and ideals in buildings that served as a focus for community and a centre for devotion. Examples of these churches are preserved in this striking and authoritative volume. (192 pages)

. FOR PEDESTRIANS ONLY: PLANNING, DESIGN, AND MANAGEMENT OF TRAFFIC-FREE ZONES by Roberto Brambilla and Gianni Longo (24.95).

Creating appealing urban spaces that invite people to stroll, shop, or sit is a concept at least as old as the hanging gardens of Babylon. But structuring city centers that also eliminate all the noise, pollution, and turmoil of today's traffic is a relatively recent concern. This appraisal of traffic-free zoning in 20 European and North American cities provides, for the first time, a comprehensive study of that complex process. By summarizing and analyzing what has been achieved, the book offers architects, professionals in urban planning and design, municipal authorities, and community leaders a resource to guide future efforts to make cities more habitable for people. (208 pages)

. RUNNING AN OFFICE FOR FUN AND PROFIT by Rosslyn F. Foote (15.00).

This is a basic how-to book for that 75 percent of the profession that has been pretty much overlooked: the small practitioner. The author states, "I believe that the most important goal in professional life should be to enjoy what you're doing. The only way you can do so is to plan the financial side of your practice and get yourself organized." This book plainly shows ways to get yourself organized. (116 pages)
