I AM AIA LAS VEGAS MEMBER SPOTLIGHT

I Am A Member Of The American Institute Of Architects (AIA) Because... of relationships. I moved to Las Vegas in 2004, fresh out of college, not knowing a single person except for my parents. I never anticipated staying here long term, but after 18 years, this is home. The people here are my extended family. I've been fortunate enough to have worked with so many amazing architects, contractors, and clients, and those relationships are why I do what I do. I'm thankful for the family of architects I'm surrounded by and grateful we have the AIA to foster such relationships.

I grew up in southwest Missouri with a big backyard and a trampoline, eating tomatoes off the vine, playing every sport I possibly could. I graduated from the same high school as Brad Pitt (yes, I still tell people that), ran off to architecture school in Kansas, and forever became a Jayhawk. Rock Chalk Jayhawk, go KU! Made friends for life (you three know who you are). Was raised by two incredible parents who taught me that hard work can come in the form of picking up rocks in the yard or helping those in need after a disaster. And I have a brother and sister who are always there for me, despite still being annoyed by their little sister.

I'm a mother to the most amazing boys, Hendrix, and Edison. They keep me on my toes but gave me a purpose I never knew I needed. I'm a partner to Jeremy, who continually supports me in my career and my life and encourages me to take leaps when I'm fearful. I made the stupid mistake of getting two husky-poodles a month ago, but it was the best stupid mistake I could have made—thanks, Coco and Daisy.

I'm an artist, a marathon runner, and a plant lover, and my guilty pleasure is HGTV and home remodeling. You can take a girl out of the Midwest, but you can't take the Midwest out of the girl, so you know I'll be bringing a casserole to our next office event.

What is the most important thing you've learned? In life ... that you can never hug someone too tight or say I love you enough and that you should truly listen even if it isn't what you want to hear. In architecture ... that I'm not alone when I have to google something architecture related, even after 23 years in the field.

What is your favorite piece of architecture? Why? I don't have a favorite piece of architecture per se but more of a favorite architectural experience to share. I was fortunate enough to travel to Asia for 10 weeks in 2008 (thank you Knit, formerly SH for letting me take a sabbatical at age 27). We spent four weeks traveling mostly through the Rajasthan region, but we also saw a lot of the north, where we eventually crossed over into Nepal. During our four weeks in India, one of our first stops was in Agra to see the Taj Mahal. It was during monsoon season, and it was hot and damp. I was also experiencing a little culture shock and didn't know what to expect. But when we stepped into the garden area and I saw the white marble mausoleum, it brought tears to my eyes. The only way I can describe it is that it felt like we were inside a snow globe that separated us from the rest of the world. It was breathtakingly beautiful, and the scale—the scale—reminded me how small we truly are.

Where will you be in 20 years? Retired, living in the Pacific Northwest, riding bikes through Stanley Park with Jeremy, watching my kids grow into the amazing adults I know they will become

What do you believe needs to be the next area of innovation in our profession? I wouldn't say innovation so much as implementation because the technology is already there. But I believe that prefab construction is the future of architecture and our built environment. It's a hard shift and a hard sell because of a "we have always done it this way" culture, and it's not as cost effective as conventional construction. But as architects, we're responsible for our planet, and we have an obligation to adapt and seek out methods and materials that support the changing needs of our world.

Welcome to Spring 2022! The first order of business is to extend a special thank you to the Women in Architecture committee for planning and executing our first in-person event last month. The Women in Architecture's social event was held at the AIA Office and was well attended.

It's hard to believe we are starting the second quarter of 2022. As spring brings a sense of new beginnings, what better time to turn up our networking skills as a part of the Business of Architecture. We invite the young and not so young, the beginners and the experts, to show off your networking skills. So, load up on business cards, practice your golf swing, and get ready for the month of April.

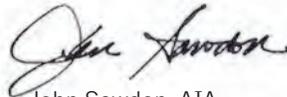

As we move into spring, your social calendars should be filing up. Make sure to mark your calendars for our First, First Friday event sponsored by Coverings on April 1, 2022. This is no "April Fools." Come and enjoy Art Houz's hospitality and their mouthwatering American classics with an urban twist. The social event starts at 5:30 pm. If you haven't been able to visit the Art Houz before, it is located at 814 S. 3rd Street in downtown Las Vegas. Great news to add to it; they do have parking inside their garage.

The Chapter's 48th Annual Golf Tournament is ten days later, on April 11, 2022. Dust off your equipment and polish your shoes. Bragging rights are again up for grabs as we navigate the world-famous TPC Summerlin, home of the PGA Tour's Shriners Children Open. FYI, we will be one of the last groups to play this course. Starting April 15, 2022, the course will close for a significant renovation of greens and fairways, with completion scheduled for late September 2022.

We will close out our spring fling with an Allied Member Social on April 19, 2022. This event will be sponsored by Grand Canyon Development and hosted at their office. In addition to the networking aspect, the Allied Member Committee is partnering with ACE Mentorship and Noah's Animal House, helping make a positive impact on the community. The event will take place at 6841 S. Eastern Ave, Suite 103, Las Vegas 89119. We need all AIA members to come out and show support for Allied Members. They play a critical role in supporting the activities and goals of the Chapter, in addition to supporting the overall, Business of Architecture. What better way to improve and build your professional network than supporting our Allied Members?

I look forward to seeing you all this month!

Regards,

The Allied Membership Committee is hosting a networking event with Grand Canyon Development Partners on April 19 from 4-6pm. We are teaming up with two local non-profit organizations for this event, Noah's Animal House, and Nevada - ACE Mentor Program of America.

Noah's Animal House is a full-service boarding facility which provides safety and shelter for the pets of domestic violence victims. They have protected over 1,900 pets for more than 100,000 boarding nights for the women and children at The Shade Tree. In support of Noah's Animal House, we are asking that attendees bring an item with them to donate.

Items (new or used) in need include pet food, treats, leashes, collars, toys, and cleaning supplies.

Nevada - ACE Mentor Program of America's mission is to engage, excite, and enlighten high school students to pursue careers in architecture, engineering, and construction through mentoring and continued support for their advancement into the industry. We are excited to have students enrolled in the ACE program be in attendance. Be sure to say hello and share your industry knowledge with them.

Come socialize with fellow industry associates and our non-profit organizations! We look forward to seeing you all there!

Our committee had another busy month meeting and communicating with high school students. I had the opportunity to visit with the "Viking Scholars" at Valley High School to get feedback on their bus tour of four building sites in downtown Las Vegas. I was flooded with thank you cards from the students expressing their thankfulness for organizing this tour and how much they appreciated visiting each building. They would enjoy doing this again and hopefully more time at the World Market Center. They enjoyed each building and were impressed with the details and the stories behind the design. I've included some of the cards in this newsletter. The committee members enjoyed this activity as well and will plan on more of these in the future.

The remaining part of March included three very successful Career Fairs at high schools in the valley. The fairs were planned and organized by Coronado High School, Canyon Springs High School and Las Vegas High School. Each was held inside a gymnasium space and lasted between four to six hours. Approximately 2400 students at each school attended these fairs and came in groups so that the fair never was empty and never packed with students. These were primarily focused to Senior and Junior students but our booth also attracted numerous sophomores. It was a terrific forum in which to meet and share information of their potential architectural career path.

I want to thank our volunteers that were able to set up and attend these long sessions with me. Stacey Hatfield (NSBAIDRD), Ashley Stone (UNLV Student Recruitment Specialist) and Christian Nelson (director of architecture from MOSER architecture studio). We added Ashley for these three fairs which provided a more dynamic and fact filled booth. She provided an excellent link from being a high school student to the possibility of becoming a college student at UNLV. We had a good time and enjoyed having a chance to work together at these events.

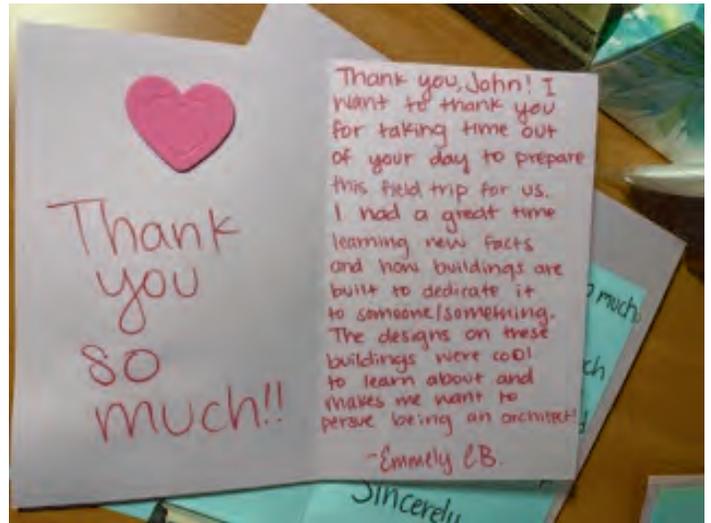

There are a couple of high schools that have tentatively scheduled fairs in April. I have contacted them to verify if these will actually be held.

The AIA 2030 Commitment sets ambitious achievable targets for carbon reduction –leveraging your influence in the design process. By signing on you gain access to the best practices and comparative tools to track your performance.

- ARCHITECTS HAVE THE POWER TO CREATE A SUSTAINABLE FUTURE

The 2030 Commitment enables firms of all sizes to advance energy-efficient and resilient design approaches while elevating their practice, boosting their profile and saving money for clients.

- SAVE ENERGY, SAVE MONEY

A typical 2,500 square-foot single-family home in Mobile, Alabama designed to perform 70% better than the 2030 baseline would yield the following approximate annual savings.

- 22.6 MWh less energy
- $2,050 in energy cost
- 9 metric tons of CO₂e reduction

- BUILDINGS GENERATE NEARLY 40% OF ANNUAL GREENHOUSE GAS EMISSIONS.

- DESIGN PRACTICES HAVE THE GREATEST IMPACT ON BUILDING ENERGY USE

REJECTED PERMITS APPLICATION

AFTER HIS DEPARTMENT WAS DE-FUNDED,
BOB FOUND HIS TRUE CALLING IN LIFE WITH THE BUILDING DEPARTMENT AS A PLANS
EXAMINER, OR AS HE LIKES TO CALL IT, A "CORRECTIONS OFFICER"

Some people swear that the hardest part of a construction project is getting the building permit. Maybe it's because of guys like Bob?

All joking aside, it's been my experience over a long engineering career that most plans examiners are sharp, honest, hard-working folks who are just doing their best in a very important, often thankless job. Here's to them.

BWAF RELEASES NEW PODCAST EPISODE OF 'NEW ANGLE: VOICE,' ON FLORENCE KNOLL BASSETT

'New Angle: Voice,' the engaging, in-depth podcast created by the Beverly Willis Architecture Foundation and hosted by Cynthia Phifer Kracauer, AIA, released its newest episode on March 15th.

Diving into the life and architectural work of the inspiring female architect Florence Knoll Bassett, this is the fifth episode in a series where each installment features the lifework of a particular, notable woman in the field. Previous episodes of New Angle: Voice have covered the lives, struggles, and achievements of several women of great importance, including the likes of Julia Morgan, Natalie de Blois, Helen Fong, and the esteemed Norma Sklarek. With a career that demonstrates incredible perseverance and ingenuity, Florence Knoll's legacy is also one to be remembered.

Born in Saginaw, Michigan in May 1917, Florence Knoll Bassett was educated at Cranbrook Academy of Art, Columbia University School of Architecture, and the Architectural Association of London, among other institutions. She is remembered for innovative contributions to many different aspects of the design world, particularly her work in interior design and the creation of the "open-plan work station," a concept which freed office workers from the dark and gloomy cubicle.

With many awards and honors including the Good Design Award from MoMA and the AIA Gold Medal for Industrial Design, as well as many major projects including work with the Rockefeller Family Offices and General Motors, Knoll's legacy is extensive and impressive, and hers is certainly a name worth knowing.

Announcing the 2022 U.S. Wood Design Award Winners

From a public library in DC to the first mass timber hotel in Texas to a ferry terminal in Washington, this year's winning projects showcase wood's flexibility on scales small and large. Beyond the technical innovations achieved in these buildings, they are simply beautiful to look at. They inspire tenants, passersby, and the industry at large – while demonstrating how the design and construction community is responding to the need for more sustainable construction.

CITIZEN ARCHITECT OF THE MONTH

OUR VERY OWN MONICA GRESSER, AIA

"I was supposed to do this. I'm uncomfortable with things." For Monica Gresser, advocacy is a calling. To improve the lives of her fellow Las Vegas residents, she uses every tool at her disposal. Her hands have framed houses with the National Association of Women in Construction and with Habitat for Humanity. With AIA and citizen architects from around the country, she has used her voice to educate policymakers and stakeholders about the different approaches cities are taking to address homelessness and to alleviate the affordable housing shortage plaguing the country. At home in Las Vegas, Gresser connects nonprofits, residents, and government officials through community outreach events, canvassing projects, workshops, and personal guidance. In particular, she uses her knowledge and energy to spur action to make improvements in neighborhoods where residents face housing instability and systemic injustice

Monica Gresser, AIA, is the founder of BRAZENarchitecture, a Las Vegas firm that helps clients transform their ideas into bold, sustainable places and spaces for nonprofit, public, education, and commercial projects. She currently is a member of the AIA Las Vegas Justice Equity, Diversity & Inclusion Committee, and co-chair of AIA's Women in Architecture Committee and AIA's Affordable Housing Committee. Since 2019, Gresser has been a member of the Clark County Community Development Advisory Committee. She also is former chair of Las Vegas' Joint Housing Working Group and board member of the Southern Nevada Continuum of Care Board. A graduate of the University of Houston and Le Centre d'Étude d'Architecture et d'Urbanisme in Saintes, France. Gresser is the recipient of multiple industry and community service awards, including AIA Nevada's first-ever Citizen Architect Award and a U.S. Green Building Council Leadership Award. She is a registered architect in Nevada, Arizona, Utah, and North Carolina.

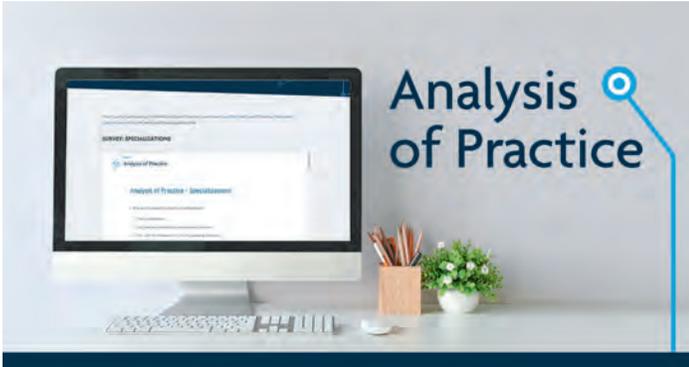

When Monica Gresser launched BRAZENarchitecture in 2011, she was eager "to do her own thing" but also wanted to create a firm whose mission was to contribute to the well-being of the residents in her adopted hometown of Las Vegas.

SHAPE THE FUTURE OF ARCHITECTURE PARTICIPATE IN NCARB'S ANALYSIS OF PRACTICE

Help determine what the path to licensure will look like in the future by participating in NCARB's Analysis of Practice! A profession-wide study, the Analysis of Practice will explore how architects are currently practicing, how their work intersects with other design professionals, and how that practice is likely to shift in the years ahead.

The Analysis of Practice is your once-in-a-decade opportunity to influence what's next for the profession, and we need your help to decide how to improve architecture for everyone.

Make Your Voice Heard >

How can I participate?

By filling out our brief online form, you will have the opportunity to participate in critical research via ongoing mini-surveys and the profession-wide survey—expected to launch in April.

Why participate?

By participating, you can help ensure that NCARB's programs are as forward-thinking as possible and help guarantee that health, safety, and welfare standards match the needs of the public, the profession, and future generations of architects. The previous study even led to a restructuring of the Architectural Experience Program® (AXP®) and Architect Registration Examination® (ARE®)!

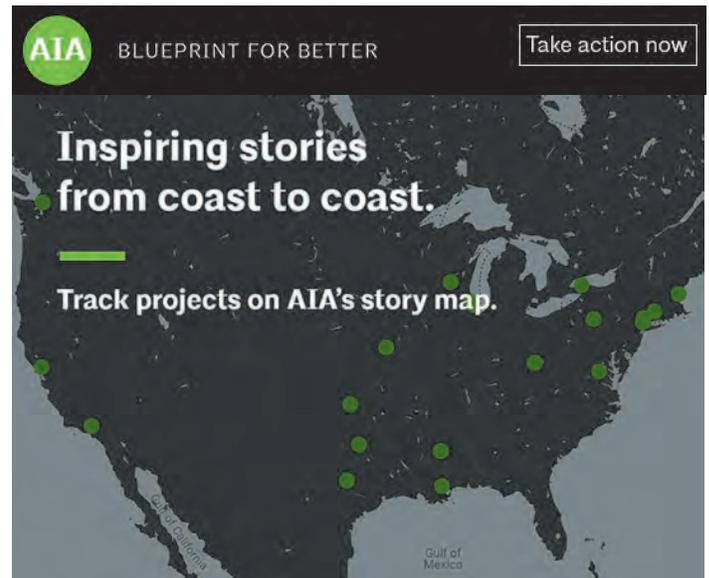

Who can participate?

To ensure the study's accuracy, the Analysis of Practice needs input from as many individuals as possible—including architects and licensure candidates, as well as related professionals working alongside architects (landscape designers, engineers, etc.). If you know someone who might want to participate, we encourage you to share the sign-up form with them!

By sharing your insights in NCARB's Analysis of Practice, you are helping to create a more forward-thinking future for the field of architecture. Learn more at analysisofpractice.com.
