LEADING THE WAY

In 2007, industry leaders partnered with South Dakota State University to study the feasibility of establishing the state's first professional architecture program. Two years later, the South Dakota Board of Regents approved SDSU's request.

Four firms and one individual have already made commitments as "founding" members, providing financial support to launch this new and transformational program. The first department head has been hired and the first students will enroll in the program in September. South Dakota State University thanks the industry leaders (Architecture Incorporated, TSP Inc., Perspective and Koch Hazard Architects and 1958 alumnus Jerry Lohr) for their foresight, leadership and investment.

Additional industry partners are still being sought to support the Architecture Department. Contact the SDSU Foundation at (888) 747-7378 or info@sdsufoundation.org to learn how you can become a "founding" member or "benefactor" of SDSU architecture.

Representing the founders of the new architecture program at SDSU are: Elizabeth Squyer of Architecture Incorporated; Larry Crane of Perspective, Inc.; Jerry Lohr '58, president of J. Lohr Properties and J. Lohr Winery; Sean Ervin of TSP; and Jeff Hazard of Koch Hazard Architects.
