

Today's News - April 22, 2003

Here's to Earth Day. – Here's to saving the Baghdad Museum. – Canadian architects getting greener. – Making New Urbanism saleable to doubtful developers and a suspicious public. – Sensible sprawl for Michigan. – N.Y. Governor wants downtown reconstruction on a fast track. – Downtown businesses want transit hubs. – Gehry and Libeskind mix it up with University of Toronto architecture students. – High ranking for Cal Poly. – University of Kansas students build green. – Dorms go high-end as marketing tools. – Scottish architectural "wonder" of the 1960s in ruins. – New life for 60s California tower? – Big business in redoing the 80s. – "Rowhouse" not necessarily a bad word in housing.

To subscribe to the free daily newsletter click here

Earth Day 2003 Calendar through April 30 \(U.S.\)- EnviroLink

Help Save the Baghdad Museum: looking for architects with experience in 3D or 4D architectural modeling and GIS- Iraq National Museum

Greening design: Canadian architects are getting ecological – but it's not fast enough for some- Globe and Mail (Canada)

Op-Ed: Market-Oriented New Urbanism: ...would do well distance itself from the smart growth agenda of restrictive land-use controls- PLANetizen

Sensible sprawl is mission for state panel- Detroit Free Press

Pataki Wants Downtown Rebuilt Fast: will lay out an aggressive schedule for construction in the first phase of the rebuilding effort- New York Times

Downtown execs want transit hubs, link to airports: priorities for top executives at 25 of the largest companies downtown, according to a new survey- Crain's New York

Kibitzing design gurus big hit on campus: Two architectural superstars spend a memorable day reviewing work by awed students. By Lisa Rochon - Frank Gehry, Daniel Libeskind- Globe and Mail (Canada)

Cal Poly grads rise to top of architecture field: The university's architecture program is ranked second only to Harvard, and its graduates have helped create landmarks- San Luis Obispo Tribune

Studio 804: University of Kansas architecture students build and learn in hands-on program: "This year has to do more with sustainability than ever before."- Kansas City Star

Graduate Degree Dorms: Dreary dorms of old are transitioning to high-end residences...as marketing tools that can help attract new students and build stronger ties with future alumni- First Source

[Temple to ruined dreams: St. Peter's College went from architectural wonder to vandalised shell within four decades, yet it has been praised as one of the greatest buildings in Britain. - Gillespie, Kidd and Coia \[image\]](#)- The Scotsman (UK)

[Historic Tower May Become Housing: Transamerica Center Tower, a lonely \[William Pereira\] landmark of chic 1960s office architecture...developers may convert...as part of a large-scale revitalization effort near Staples Center](#)- Los Angeles Times

Architects to benefit from 1980s redo's: Property repositioning is becoming a hot category for Gensler and other Metroplex architecture firms- Dallas Business Journal

The Much-Maligned Rowhouse Offers Several Advantages Over a Detached Home. By Roger K. Lewis- Washington Post

[Designing the High Line: Competition insights about - and hopes for - one of Manhattan's most unique urban environments. \[images\]](#)- ArchNewsNow

WTC Proposals: Who's Saying What Worldwide \(updated 04/18/03\)- ArchNewsNow

- The Architect's Studio: Michael Jantzen - Virtual Reality Interface

- GAD architects: BMW Expedition Center/Parkorman, Istanbul, Turkey

- Kim Utzon: Henry Dunker Culture Centre, Helsingborg, Sweden

- Book: Big and Green: Toward Sustainable Architecture in the 21st Century By David Gissen

Note: Pages will open in a new browser window.
External news links are not endorsed by ArchNewsNow.com.
Free registration may be required on some sites.
Some sites may expire after a few days.

Yesterday's News