ARCHITECTS DESIGNS FOR FURNITURE

Jill Lever. "Using the exceptional resources of the Royal Institute of British Architects' drawings collection, Lever has chosen examples of renderings of English architects' designs for furniture and interiors. With a careful and analytical eye, she has tied together people, ideas and works." —Design Book Review. "The carefully selected and beautifully reproduced drawings range from the late 16th century to the 1930s, with emphasis on the 19th century. Recommended." —Choice, American Library Assoc. 144 pages. 170 illus., 20 in color. Hardcover 0442-9. $25.00. Paperback: 0443-7. $15.00

A CENTURY OF CHAIR DESIGN

Frank Russell, Philippe Garner, John Read. "This international survey traces the development of chair design during the period 1850 to 1950 as seen in the work of over 60 craftsmen, designers and architects, including Aalto, Breuer, Bugatti, Corbusier, Guimard, Hoffmann, Mackintosh and Wright." —Progressive Architecture. "A handsome, beautifully produced book with intelligent text and good photographs. Recommended." —Choice, American Library Assoc. 160 pages. Over 300 illus., 8 color pages. 0232-9. $37.50

CHICAGO ARCHITECTS' DESIGN: A Century of Architectural Drawings from the Art Institute of Chicago

John Zukowsky, Pauline Saliga, Rebecca Rubin. First handbook to the collection of architectural drawings at the Art Institute, representing more than 80 architects or firms from 1870 to the present. "A fine didactic catalog, thoughtfully conceived so as to function both as a resource on Chicago architectural history—thanks to substantial, well-researched essays—and as a study of the evolution of architectural drawing over the past 150 years. For college and university libraries." —Choice. 174 pages. 208 illus., 8 in color. 0466-6. Paper: $25.00

COOP HIMMELBLAU Architecture Is Now: Projects 1968-1982

Compiled by the Himmelblau Group. Founded in 1968 in Vienna, this group of architects first became widely known for their presentation of aggressive and powerful alternatives to current urban design at the exhibition, "Wiener Supersommer." They are also known for designing the Reiss Bar (Vienna, 1977) and the Lieder Bar Rote Engel (Vienna, 1981), but most of their projects are conceptual and not meant to be built. Influenced by Hans Hollein, their interest in architecture is aesthetic and philosophical rather than technological. 200 pages. 180 illus. 0515-8. Paperback: $20.00

DESIGN SINCE 1945

Edited by Kathryn B. Hiesinger and George H. Marcus. A comprehensive survey of the postwar design of consumer household products, illustrating over 500 examples of furniture, lighting, ceramics, glass, metalwork, plastics, appliances and textiles, with essays by leading international designers who shaped design history. "The design reference handbook of the decade." —New York Times. "Shows the effect of design on daily life and the effect of changing technology on design." —Time Magazine. "Highly recommended." —Library Journal. 240 pages. 560 illus., 60 in color. 0519-0. $40.00

FOLLIES: Architecture for the Late Twentieth Century Landscape

Edited and with an Introduction by B. J. Archer. Essay by Anthony Vidler. "The garden folly is the ultimate architectural luxury: unnecessary, unreasonable, and devoid of any function except to give delight. Now (this catalog of) a fascinating exhibition of nineteen new follies makes it seem that a revival of this minor art is underway." —House and Garden. Participants included such internationally famous architects as Agrest & Gandelsonas, Batey & Mack, Barnes, Bofill, Gehry, Graves, Isozaki, Rudolph and Rykwert. 112 pages. 120 illus., 20 in color. 0519-7. Paperback: $19.95.

INTERIOR DESIGN: The New Freedom

Barbaralee Diamonstein. "Interviews with 13 practicing designers, including Warren Platner, Mario Buatta, John Saladino, Joseph Paul D'Urso, Angelo Donghia, Robert Stern and the Vignellis. Offers rare insights into their private motivations and goals." —Design Book Review. "Reading these interviews is like attending a well-orchestrated dinner party: the mix is admirable and everyone has something to say." —American Society of Interior Designers. "Recommended." —Library Journal. 192 pages. 118 illus., 38 in color. 0445-3. $35.00

WALLPAPER: A History

Françoise Teynac, Pierre Nolot, Jean-Denis Vivien. "Approaches its subject as a social history, a general survey from the 17th century to the present. The well-written text touches succinctly on the important ideas and artistic figures of each period. The technical information is excellent and the ample photos of good quality. Bibliography is excellent. Recommended for both academic and public library collections." —Choice. "A good general history." —Design Book Review. "An invaluable guide to an underrated art form. Highly recommended." —Library Journal. 252 pages. 465 illus., 173 in color. 0434-8. $50.00

McKIM, MEAD & WHITE

A R C H I T E C T S

L E L A N D M . R O T H

During its existence the firm of McKim, Mead & White received over 945 commissions for private houses, public buildings, industrial towns and housing. Renowned in its own time, the architecture of McKim, Mead & White fell into disfavor with the advent of International Modernism, but now the aims and aesthetics of McKim, Mead & White buildings are again receiving the attention and consideration they deserve.

This comprehensive study of the lives and works of the three partners of the firm—Charles Follen McKim (1847-1909), William Rutherford Mead (1846-1928), and Stanford White (1853-1906)—concentrates on the many and varied buildings they were responsible for throughout the United States from early individual designs of the 1870s, through the deaths of White and McKim and the continuing work of successor partners, up to Mead's retirement in 1919. They shaped for their generation and the next the character of urban architecture in this country, and they pioneered the concept of the large architectural office to deal with complex urban design problems. Many of the works of McKim, Mead & White across the country are now designated landmarks. Some notable examples are the Villard Houses, Columbia University, and the University Club, all in New York; the Boston Public Library; Rhode Island State Capitol; the Chicago World Exposition; and the University of Virginia.

Leland M. Roth combines biographical detail with a critical study and assessment of the architects' principal commissions—in the context of the times, in relation to the work of their peers, and in the urban environment they did so much to shape.
