The George Matsumoto Prize 2016

Every year, McConnell Studios hosts the world's hottest architecture awards (the temperature inside their warehouse in July is 90+ degrees). But with the wildly creative art, the music, the huge portable AC unit, and most important, the beer, everyone was super cool. The 2016 George Matsumoto Prize featured 16 amazing houses from the mountains to the sea in North Carolina. An international jury chose their top three, and the public voted on their three favorites online. Thanks to all the architects, homeowners, jurors, and all of you who voted! The Matsumoto Prize encourages new Modernist architecture in North Carolina. This year the Prize was given with support from the McAdams Foundation. Here are the winners, also covered in ARCHITECT magazine:

MOD
One of the country's finest selections of modernist jewelry.
Hamilton Hill

Are you a Wikipedia enthusiast? Does wiki-editing make your blood run linquistically hot? Have you ever edited at two in the morning? Then you may be the perfect volunteer to help NCMH expand some of our architecture archives to Wikipedia. It takes about an hour a week, at your own pace, at your own computer. If interested, reply with a Wikipedia page you've contributed to. Thanks!
