ARCHITECTURE YOU LOVE

USModernist Radio goes to Palm Springs each February for the incredibly popular Modernism Week. It's a fascinating array of sunshine, architecture, lectures, parties, tours, exhibits, and you can even order martinis for breakfast. Yes, you can do that anywhere but you'll feel glamorous in Palm Springs.

USModernist Radio's George Smart was there with keynote speakers and other special guests who make Modernism Week a blast.

Annalisa Capurro flies in every year from Sydney, Australia, where she is an interior designer, educator, architectural

CONNECT-IONS 81.2

A 3-day architectural workshop
May 18-20, 2018
to re-imagine 81.2 acres in Raleigh, NC

DAY 1
Opening Lectures
CAM Raleigh . 5:30-8pm

An evening of inspiring talks from five New York planners, architects and landscape architects responsible for monumental urban design projects across the globe. These talks are open to the public and are designed to inspire those who live, work, and play in Raleigh, to be bold and forward-thinking in the development of this growing metropolis.

open to the public

DAY 2
Design Workshop
Citrix . 8:30am-6:30pm

A day-long architectural workshop with teams of architects from North Carolina, exploring future possibilities for the sites where Central Prison and The Governor Morehead School are located, on 81.2 acres north of Dix Park. Consideration will be given to Raleigh's economy, connectivity, and design – for the good of its people and its environment.

design professionals

DAY 3
Ideas Presentation
NCSU Burns Auditorium
12:30- 3:30pm

A presentation and discussion of workshop results, including team visions for the sites and connections to neighboring properties and beyond. Invited guests will include the design community, civic officials, developers, property owners and the public – especially young professionals making Raleigh their home. The goal is for resulting conversations to continue after the presentations.
