Built About 1670 For the Famed Captain Eaton

FAMED Cap'n. Horatio Eaton built this Connecticut house about 1670. A decade ago it came into the possession of one who planned to demolish it as soon as his dream house on the hill was designed and built. Meanwhile he restored the old one somewhat and moved in.

He found in this sturdy old house a tranquillity. A simple comfort such as he had never known. To exercise his hobby of growing things under glass he built a greenhouse, about 18' x 40', utilizing an ancient tool house for the workroom, and linking it up with the pergola.

Needless to add that the new house on the hill has never been built. And never will be.

It will soon be four score years since Lord & Burnham Co. first started building glass gardens.
