Which Paint for the Job?

It's an important question. Particularly when you consider the effort and expense involved in painting a house. Most folks buy on price or color or brand. Far too few make the most essential consideration:

Which paint is best for the surface to be protected?

Take masonry, for instance. You could use the most expensive paint in the most attractive color by the most reputable manufacturer and have it fail prematurely. That's because of alkalies and moisture present in all masonry which can destroy conventional paint in a few short months.

Masonry surfaces require a special paint—one of proved resistance to alkalies, moisture and weather—one based on PLIOLITE S-5—the synthetic rubber resin. Almost ten years' use has fully proved easy-applying, fast-drying paints made with PLIOLITE S-5 last up to 20 times longer on all types of masonry. See your dealer for details. Or write for the free booklet, "Paint Magic," to: Goodyear, Chemical Division, Dept. E-9446, Akron 16, Ohio.

and twice as practical

Scenes like this can be beautifully framed by R·O·W removable windows. And whether you have scenic surroundings or not—R·O·W lift-out windows make cleaning or painting (inside the house) an easier job. They allow you to choose between ventilation or full weather protection.

R·O·W windows are quality-constructed of fine wood to blend with residential surroundings. Wood looks warmer and it is warmer. Unlike metal, wood is a natural insulator—resists transfer of heat or cold—serves to eliminate condensation. R·O·W windows are now improved by LIF-T-LOX balance to operate with finger pressure.

The pitchfork was a gift from an admirer and Edie's built a reputation as a hostess around it—she places the tines bottoms-up across the grate in her fire-place and grills five-pound sirloins on it.

The big red hat is a badge that has become her trademark (she's gone through dozens of 'em). Among manufacturers of major appliances, coast to coast, she is known as "the lady in the red hat." This bright flash of color turns up one week in Chicago, the next in Cincinnati, in Louisville, Dallas, Los Angeles, on the triphammer travel schedule she keeps, searching for news in home appliances and management. Her testing laboratories in New York see a constant procession of appliances, in and out, to be thoroughly work-tested before they're shown to you.

This season how would you like to make your flowers bloom by the hundreds weeks ahead of your neighborsincrease the growing power of undernourished shrubs, trees, hedges, vegetables? Grow a richer, thicker, greener lawn in just 7 days with just 1 sprinkle from a watering can?-OR just one automatic feeding with the amazing "can't fail"-"can't burn" RX-15 miracle mixer?

Now YOU can turn your garden into the showplace of the community with hundreds of colorful, flaming blossoms -not five years from now-not next year-but this season even if right now you don't have a seed in the groundeven if your soil is undernourished.

Now YOU can amaze the so-called experts in your neighborhood with a rich, thick carpet of lawn-and you won't even have to dirty your hands digging messy, evilsmelling fertilizers into the soil.

If You've Had Trouble Growing a Dream Garden and Lawn Perhaps Here's a Reason

If flowers won't grow for you-no matter how hard you try-in case after case it's been proven that your soil is to blame. Science tells us that almost 90% of all garden soils are deficient in at least one of the vital minerals a plant needs to bloom and flourish. And if you starve a plant of even one of these lifegiving soil minerals you won't get many flowers no matter how much sun and water you give it-no matter how many hours you slave in your garden.

Sprinkle with RX-15, Save Hours of Extra Digging!

In 1951 scientists at one of America's leading plant experiment stations tested new types of concentrated plant foods that could be dissolved in ordinary tap water, and when sprinkled on lawn or plants could go to work in minutes. No more extra drudgery, no more unnecessary digging. This water soluble plant food was proven so fast-acting that it is absorbed by roots and reaches into leaves, stems, and tissues in as little as 60

Thousands of Flowers for Only a Few Minutes Extra Work!

And now do you realize what RX-15 means to you? It means that today you can go out with a sprinkling can and in a few minutes start to shoot new life into your garden. Revitalize your whole undernourished lawn . . . give it results you never dreamed possible in 7 days.

It means that, whether you're an ex-pert gardener or the greenest beginner now with normal garden care you can grow masses of beautiful roses, dahlias, phlox, gladiolus and chrysanthemums in your garden this season with a sprinkling of RX-15 once or twice a month. It means that no matter how starved your soil may be now, with a few applications of RX-15, you can grow a thick, green lawn the very first time you tryand it will only cost you pennies to apply it! It means that you can grow hundreds of flowers in your window boxes-grow hundreds of flowers this season from plants you already have in your garden, from seeds you can still put in the ground.

And because RX-15 instantly feeds plants 10 life-giving soil minerals they need for healthy bloom, it means that merely sprinkling with RX-15 can make starved undernourished lawns, trees, shrubs, houseplants start to spring back to new life rapidly!

Lower inside temperatures 8 to 15 degrees — make air conditioners, fans more effective

Once summer heat gets inside your home, it takes more equipment, more money to reduce room temperatures. Air conditioning units work harder at greater expense . . . fans just circulate the hot air . . . and window blinds, while eliminating sun glare, allow sun heat to come on through.

Canvas awnings keep this heat outside your home. By screening out 75% of the sun's rays, rooms stay much cooler . . . draperies, rugs and other interior fabrics keep fresh and unfaded. Order your canvas awnings now and enjoy cool summer living. Call your local awning dealer listed in the yellow pages of your phone book. He'll design awnings, in your choice of color and fabric, that will make your home more comfortable and more attractive.

Here's the new Hit in Hardtops

Even before its first showing by Buick dealers just a short time ago, this new kind of automobile was generating plenty of public excitement.

Now that it is in full production—and on display—and already in the hands of many eager buyers—the 4-Door Riviera by Buick is the biggest thrill in a whole line of thrillers.

It's no wonder—when you consider that this is the car so many folks have been asking for.

A true hardtop, with the sleek and racy look of a sporty Convertible — plus the steel-roofed safety of stout metal overhead—plus the complete absence of center door posts above the window line to give you a completely unobstructed view at both sides . . .

And a true Sedan at the same time—with separate doors to the rear compartment—with the full convenience of Sedan entry and exit—and with rear-compartment legroom and headroom as extra-generous as a Buick-size family Sedan.

It's the last word in automobiles, this big and beautiful 4-Door Riviera—and a buy on every count.

For it's coming off the line in the low-priced Buick Special Series, and in the high-horsepower-per-dollar Buick Century Series.

So you get this beauty at easy-to-take prices—with great new V8 power—with traditional Buick room and comfort and ride stability—and with the spectacular thrills and gas-saving economy of Variable Pitch Dynaflow.*

See your Buick dealer this week about the new hit in hard-tops—the car that's setting a whole new trend for the industry to follow.

MAHLER: Symphony No. 1, played by the Philharmonic Symphony under Bruno Walter

COLUMBIA SL 218, one 12-inch LP

More than I ordinarily admit, a symphony by Gustav Mahler not only interests, but fascinates me completely. In toto, that is. Mahler isn't exactly the ideal of all my dreams. With the exception of one or two of his works-The Song of the Earth, in particular-I find his music only sporadically appealing despite his considerable orchestral technique, his vaulting imagination, his deep humility. But in this performance, I seem to be won over. Probably, it is the profound sincerity and Mahlerian devotion of Mr. Walter that accomplishes this, for nowhere in this rendering is there a fall from such graces. Thus, with the zeal of the true believer, his vast command of the orchestra, and the beauty and drama that pervade the music, Mr. Walter permits this amateur Philistine (myself) an insight into matters he had not heretofore perceived. And thankful he is. In this rosy state of discovery-or is it awakening?-your reporter can only praise where once he frowned.

BRAHMS: Violin Concerto in D. Op. 77, played by Gioconda De Vito and the Philharmonia Orchestra, Rudolf Schwarz, conductor LHMV—5, one 12-inch LP

Here is still another violinist to join quite a galaxy in the recording of this concerto. Connecting Miss De Vito with a galaxy, of course, implies she is in stellar company. She belongs there,

If there were no such thing as installment credit, the lowest priced car on the market today might cost a stellar $7,500; and the average electric refrigerator, a necessity at $150, might be a $2,000 luxury! Of course, it's mass production that makes $2,000 cars and $150 refrigerators possible—but if they had to be paid for all at once, not enough people could purchase such things as automobiles, washers, and TV. Mass production needs the support of mass distribution. For that reason, economists agree, mass production and installment credit are twin pillars of prosperity. So if your prospects are sound, and you want to raise your standard of living, don't hesitate to take advantage of this system that has helped to make ours the most prosperous nation in the world. It was designed as a method of paying, on a pay-asyou-use basis, for what you can afford—not a means of obtaining a product you cannot actually afford to own.

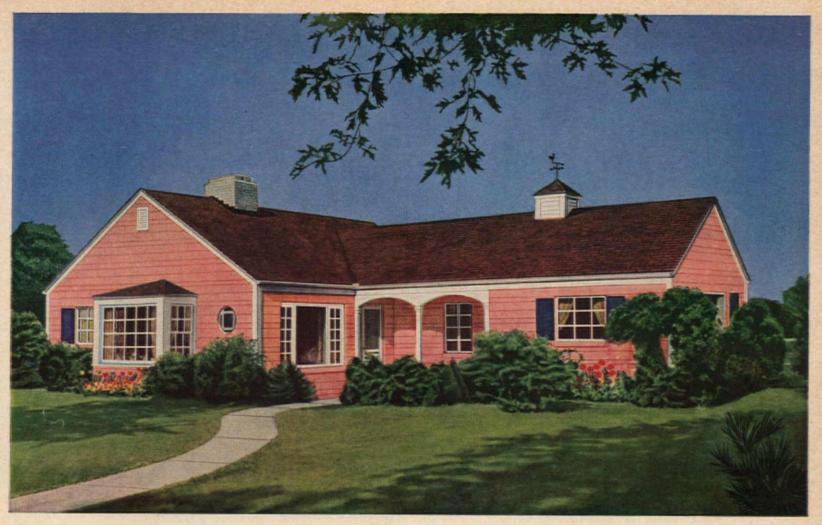

INSTALLMENT CREDIT HAS ADVANTACES in addition to making it possible to pay as you earn. One is the fact that monthly payments on durable goods represent a form of what economists call "forced savings" since such items do have resale value, and since the funds that go into their purchase in small monthly sums might otherwise disappear on unimportant day-to-day expenditures where budgets are not strict. Another advantage is the fact, particularly true of household appliances, that dealers are apt to be especially conscientious about servicing equipment with which they might be "stuck" should repossession be necessary.

who uses installment credit? According to a Federal Reserve Board survey, the most frequent users are families in the middle and higher income brackets. All but the very highest income groups buy some things "on time," and relatively few families in the lowest income groups use this method to acquire things beyond their real means. The survey also showed that the hard core of credit buyers, young couples with children, account for 9/10 of installment purchases, and Dun's Review, a financial publication, reported that consumer credit users are concentrated among young families earning $3,000 to $7,500 a year.

It has been reliably estimated that some 65% of Americans buy their automobiles, TV sets, washers, and other major appliances and furniture in this way. If they could not have been paid for in installments, however, it is doubtful if even a fifth of the people who own them could have been in a position to do so. For example, the automobile industry sold 181,000 cars in 1910. Shortly thereafter, sales credit companies began to appear, and by 1920, some 1,905,560 cars were sold. A number of factors

CONCRETE HOUSE

The house you plan to build or buy can be the pride of the neighborhood—a house of outstanding beauty with an air of permanence about it—if it's built with concrete masonry. For variety, lasting charm and high style, concrete masonry, you'll find, is in a class by itself among quality construction materials.

The few examples of patterns and textures illustrated here suggest how concrete masonry can achieve unique and attractive effects, according to your personal taste.

Yes, a concrete masonry house offers you more in beauty and charm. And it offers you far more in lifelong comfort and enjoyment, protection and economy. The whole story is told in a free color booklet; it is distributed only in the U. S. and Canada.

HOW TO GET A CONCRETE HOUSE . . . and what will it cost?

Call a local concrete masonry manufacturer for the names of architects, builders and lending agencies who have had concrete house experience. The architect of your choice knows local conditions and costs, can show you how you can build your new house economically with concrete masonry walls, concrete floors and a firesafe roof.

Leave It to the LADIES

(Ladybugs, that is)

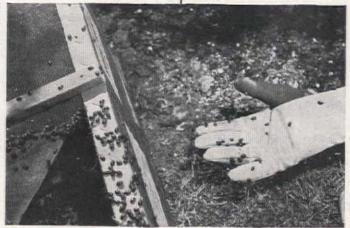

JAMES JOSEPH

Iot in my refrigerator, you don't," my wife exploded. "But, Margie," I pleaded, "the carton is screened; and anyway the critters are sound asleep, hibernating." You see, she's a sweet girl, as ardent a weed-puller and pestfighter as I am; but when it comes to stowing 30,000 ladybugs in the family refrigerator—well, you know how women are.

Fortunately, she relented, making it possible for us to fit an increasingly popular farm pest-control innovation into our own small garden. For two years now we have been fighting bugs with bugs—ladybugs—as is being done commercially in western and southern orchards and fields of milo, alfalfa, cotton, and other crops. Follow our lead and your garden, like ours, will be freer of pests and, probably, more colorful and productive.

Ladybugs, as any well-informed leaf worm, onion thrips, apple mite, red spider, aphis, or mealy bug knows, are ladies in name only. Actually, they are gluttons for soft-bodied insects, their eggs and larvae, and will seek them out not only o'er stem and foliage, but along secluded root systems and other by-ways not easily reached by sprays or dusts. And rain doesn't wash them off; it just freshens them up and whets (!) their appetites. I'm not saying that we are sold on all organic gardening methods, of which this is one. We simply saw what 30,000 ladybugs did in our garden—and liked it. Once or twice we backed them up with small applications of lime-sulfur or arsenical sprays, which didn't seem to bother them any.

Only since someone devised a screened carton small enough to go under a refrigerator's lower shelf have these insect Amazons become a tool for the small gardener; one he can buy by mail chilled to dormancy. Keep them that way (at 36 to 50° F.) until they are needed to repel an CONTINUED ON PAGE 137 were involved. A major one was that people who could not afford to pay for a car all at once, could afford to pay for it over a period of time.

Why it's a boon to young families. Dr. Thomas W. Rogers, executive vice-president of the American Finance Conference, points out that establishing a home today means a heavier initial investment than most couples can afford outright. However, buying on a credit plan will often solve their financial problems.

How much installment credit can you really afford? There are limits to its wonders, of course, and determining how much credit one can handle is of extreme importance. Dr. Rogers points out that the sales credit purchaser has two prime considerations: 1) the total amount of debt in relation to total assets and income; 2) the amount of monthly payments required in relation to monthly income.

The following factors, too, are taken into account by any sales credit company before credit is granted.

- · Current family income
- · Stability of employment
- · Period in the life history of the family or individual
- · Age of head of family and outlook for increased earnings

- Current level of accumulated assets
- · Willingness to sacrifice one form of spending for another
- · Desire to save more in the form of goods, rather than money

Percentage figures of the average family's monthly expenditures give a maximum and minimum which, Dr. Rogers points out, can be used as safe guidance in working out a budget.

These figures are as follows: 20-35% of the monthly payments are spent on rent or home purchases, including taxes and maintenance. Food and other household operating expenses consume 25-35% of the budget; clothing and related items, 5-10%; purchase of durable goods such as automobiles, furniture, and appliances, 10-25%; while insurance, savings, and contingency funds are allocated 5-15%.

To be safe, most families should not exceed these maximum percentages, except under very special circumstances, and if the maximum is spent for some categories, obviously

but YOU don't have to be married to washday!

For now you can have a fabulous new WASHER that automatically turns into a DRYER!

Your new world can be a world without washdays

... where clean, sweet, dry clothes appear as if by magic. (All you do is set the dials.)

... where the laundry does itself while you shop or play ... even while you sleep.

Just tell your dealer you want the Bendix Duomatic Washer-Dryer, All-In-One. The first—the only machine—that can automatically wash your clothes, then completely dry them.

More than a washer... more than a dryer... it's BOTH-in-one

Turn the dials on this magical machine and you really turn your back on washday. The Bendix Duo-matic washes, rinses and completely dries in one continuous operation—then safely stores your clean, dry clothes until you're ready to fold them away.

Yet, this one machine can be a washer only—a dryer only—or a wonderful, wonderful combination of both. You'll use it for every kind of washing and drying job—even fluffing pillows, for instance. But we should warn you—your neighbors will be as fascinated with your new Duomatic as you are. (We know of one woman who threatened to charge admission.)

Clothes are lifted and tumbled 50 times every minute

You may know, from sad experience, that ordinary washers can "machine" the life out of clothes.

Not the Duomatic. It gently lifts and surges them deep down into wash water—exposing every part of every garment to hundreds of jets of hot, sudsy water each minute.

Clothes are tumble-rinsed with this same action...3 times...then lifted out of the water as it drains away. Clean clothes can't pick up so much as a soap bubble.

No wonder atomic tests, by an independent research laboratory, prove the Bendix Duomatic washes three-ways cleaner than leading automatics.

Happy facts about saving hot water

Your dealer can show you that the Duomatic uses far less hot water per washing...well under the average for other automatic washers.

And ... in the Duomatic, hot water doesn't cool off, as it invariably does in ordinary washers. A built-in heater ... a Bendix exclusive ... keeps wash water hot and hard working.

No other machine dries clothes with such loving care

After your clothes are washed and rinsed, the Bendix Duomatic automatically turns itself into a dryer.

Bendix drying is so gentle...with safe, low temperatures...leading manufacturers advise it even for Fabulous Fabrics like Orlon, Nylon, Dacron. There is no possibility of scorching...or of baked-in wrinkles.

Saves space, too!

Take out your tape measure and you'll find the Duomatic takes little more space than "just a washer" . . . and much less space than separate washing and drying units. And because it's now available in both gas and electric models, there's a Duomatic for every home.

Life really is a honeymoon when you choose the Duomatic. Why don't you talk it over with your husband—and your Bendix Dealer—soon.

Do you want a separate washer or dryer?

The new Bendix Tumble-Action Washer washes just like the Duomatic does. Same superior cleansing action...same rinses. Bendix Tumble-Action is also the only washer with the Tip-Top Laundry Guide. Closed, it hides the dials, gives you extra work surface. Open, it reveals convenient, up-front controls and a complete laundry guide.

And the new Bendix Fluff 'N' Tumble Dryers dry like the Duomatic does... gently with safe low temperatures and a high flow of clean warm air. What's more, they're very low priced . . . as little as $158.88!

Thrifty Bendix Tumble-Action uses less water...so, of course, it uses less detergent, too!

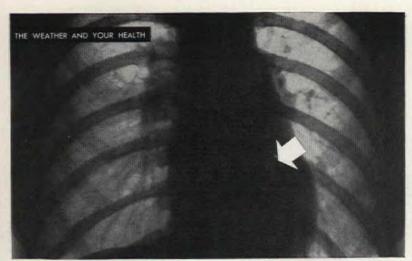

Bendix prescribes ALL, the modern "controlled suds" detergent, for best washing results. ALL never chokes up your washer with suds that slow down washing action. That's why a free box of ALL is packed in every new Bendix washer.

the amounts spent in other categories must be reduced to maintain a balanced budget (since the maximums add up to 120%).

Dr. Rogers advises the typical

Dr. Rogers advises the typical "middle income" family to be prepared to pay ½ of the purchase price down, on an item such as a new automobile, and to pay the balance in not more than 24 monthly installments.

What credit costs you. There are various forms of financing, but the two that account for about 92% of all financing done today are financing through banks and sales credit companies. Of these, sales credit companies handle the majority of business.

Rates for credit have been and continue to be competitive. While 14 states have regulations covering financing, in some cases, they only cover the financing of motor vehicles. Only seven states set finance charges so that, in general, the fee you will be charged will depend on the competitive situation in your area.

A casual guide as to what you might be expected to pay, however, can be taken from the maximums set by those states. On motor vehicles, for example, the charge is 6% per year on the principal balance on new cars, 9% on one- and two-year-old cars, and 12% on all older cars.

Do not expect interest rates for any form of financing to be very low. If you are offered rates that seem extremely low, investigate them very carefully, since it costs financing institutions money to finance the purchase of your car or new furniture.

The smart finance company has a heart. Remember that the sales credit company loses money when it is forced, by the customer's failure to pay, to take back merchandise. If such merchandise can be sold again, it must be for a much lower price. For this reason, as well as their desire to help their customers, sales credit companies will do their best to straighten out problems of delinquent customers, rather than to repossess merchandise. They, like any other business, would much rather work it out to your advantage. They're in business to help people live better and they'll do everything they can to see that you do.

THE AMERICAN HOME Marker Photographs by F. M. Demarest

ORNAMENTAL STICK-ON HARDWARE is easier to put on than a postage stamp-you don't have to lick it! Just press into place, and these fool-the-eye black plastic pieces look like expensive Early American wrought-iron hardware on cupboard or cabinet doors. 2 pkgs. (one shown) decorate 4 hinges and 2 door pulls, 98¢ ppd. Merrill Ann Creations, 102AH Warren St., NYC 7.

QUACK HAPPY FIND. Meet the fairest fowl ever dished up, the Bobbing Duck. We picture him filled with big, fat gumdrops. His 51/2' removable, black metal bowl could also hold popcorn, candy, or even plants. His shiny brass frame is a masterpiece of whimsical understatement, dotted with a beady eye. 7" tall. $2.25 ppd. Greenhall, Dept. A, 1133 Broadway, N. Y. 10, N. Y.

ANTIQUE MAPS OF ANCIENT TIMES reproduced faithfully in delicately tinted color on creamy parchmentcolored paper are perfect for framing. They show the world as it was known to early mariners-from 1576 to 1750, when adventure was the keynote of the high seas. Dad would love these hung in his den. 20 x 18". Set of 6, $3.98. Ppd. Damar, 722 Damar Bldg., Newark 5, N. J.

CRYSTAL CLEAR reason for gifting a bride-to-be, your neighbor on her birthday, a friend with an anniversary. A pretty serving set for mayonnaise, cottage cheese, or sauces, looks twice its price. Matching 41/2" bowl and plate are hand-cut with laurel wreath design. Dainty sauce spoon is silver-plated. Complete, $1.95 ppd. Castle of Gifts, 3001 Wilmington Rd., New Castle, Pa.

BARNYARD BABIES are three cutie pies for your knickknack shelf. Darling little just-hatched chicks tumble out of a basket, frolic in the kittens' bowl, or in a flutter of excitement discover Mr. Frog. Made of porcelain bisque in delicately tinted colors, each little group is about 2" high. Three-piece set, $2.50 ppd. Seth & Jed, Dept. AH, New Marlborough, Massachusetts.

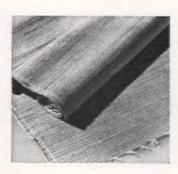

FROM ENGLAND something we bet the bride won't get several of, in fact you probably need one yourself. A handsome square Pickle Jar of pressed glass in a silver-plated stand with a pickle fork hanging on the side, a little glass "drip jar" beneath it. It also makes a wonderful server for cucumbers, olives, or cherries. $5.95 ppd. Lee Wynne. Dept. AH. 5446 Diamond St., Phila. 31, Pa.

LOVE IS THE REASON the girls seem prettier, the boys seem wittier, and Spring is such a special time of year. Bet half the anniversaries you remember are in the next few months. You'll ring a bell for remembrance with a 4" blue-and-white wedding bell planter hand-painted with the couple's names and their special date. $1.95 ppd. Stratton Snow, Dept. A3, Delray Beach, Florida.

A WHITE WEDDING would make such a perfect background for these candlesticks, they have been christened Bridal Lights. Laden with cherubs and finely detailed leaves and berries, they'd surely rival a wedding cake. But they would be just as charming a note of grace in any setting. Chalk-white bisque, 8" tall. $9.95 pair. Ppd. Jenifer House. Dept. AH, Great Barrington, Mass.

IMPORTED GRASS MATS. Spring cleaning time-let in the sunshine, bring out the chintz slipcovers, fill a bowl with golden daffodils, and by all means roll up the heavy carpets and cover your floors with cool-looking grass mats. These are each a big 3 by 6 feet, closely stitched for long wear, and only $1.25 ppd. Miles Kimball Co., Dept. AH, 126 Bond St., Oshkosh, Wisc.

GOOD THINGS TO COME. Summer and picnics, beach parties, car trips, and ball games. Carry a supply of cokes or icy beer in a gay plaid bag insulated to keep beverages cold or hot. Or fill it with frankfurters or hamburger to cook. Of vinyl, 8 x  $8\frac{1}{2}$ ", and  $5\frac{1}{2}$ " deep. Choose red or green plaid trimmed with your initials. \$2.95 ppd. Crown Craft, Dept. AMERICAN HOME, since many women come into our place with copies of the magazine, asking us to copy this davenport or that chair. I am very proud of the Welsh dresser my husband made from your Pattern 1163. He made it in our basement, and couldn't get it up the steps—so he had to take it apart, and reassemble it again upstairs! Using the same pattern, he made cornice boards for our dining and front rooms. Now, with my Grandmother's walnut chairs, our dining room is so lovely!

-Mrs. John Chellis

AMERICAN HOME

think our new house is even prettier than the one in March, 1954! (Plan Number 28, that is.) Our furniture is, for the most part, antique, which we think suits the architecture of the house. Our builder and contractor, Mr. E. C. Lawrence, is also very pleased. The lot is on the Ashtabula Country Club Allotment Addition No. 1, and we can see the golf course from our sun deck. We thank you for making available to your subscribers this very fine service. I have used your painting designs and like them, but Plan 28 is terrific!—Mrs. C. Eugene English

How to make your home more beautiful

by ISABELLE SHAVER

5 ways to add loveliness to every room with easy-to-clean floors by Kentile, Inc.

YES, KENTILE, INC. offers you a full range of today's smartest home fashion colors in each of five guaranteed resilient floors. See them illustrated on the opposite page; read about them below.

1 Let's start with Kentile, the asphalt tile of enduring beauty, and America's favorite low-cost floor. Clear-through colors are guaranteed not to wear off, yet Kentile compares in price to the least expensive coated floors. Beautiful enough for living rooms, styrene-fortified Kentile is ideal for basement playrooms. In addition to the popular marbleized Kentile illustrated, be sure to ask your dealer to show you gay new Kentile Carnival with multicolor mottling and exciting new Kentile Corktone...the asphalt tile that looks like luxury cork.

2 Next, let's consider KenFlex Vinyl Asbestos Tile. Perfect for any room from basement to attic, it's greaseproof, stainproof, moistureproof ...a blend of shining vinyl and sturdy asbestos fibers. Crisp, clear colors go tile-deep; never wear off. KenFlex defies grease, dirt and wear... seldom needs scrubbing...cleans with damp moppings.

3 KenFlor is a new low-cost vinyl guaranteed tile flooring that never needs waxing! It's "Beauty Smooth," flexible, and a miracle of weightless strength. Pure shining vinyl is bonded to a resilient comfort cushion ... ideal over old and new wood floors. Hot, spattering grease or stains can't harm its wipe-clean beauty. Counter tops come by-the-yard to match.

4 KenRubber tile is the "Cushioned Beauty" floor preferred in America's fine homes, with qualities unequalled in other floors, even those costing dollars more. You can see its finer quality in brilliant tile-deep colors and mirror-smooth pre-waxed surface. You can feel it in each tile's buoyant "coiled-steel-spring" resilience.

5 Beautiful Kencork floors and walls are the decorator's choice for practical luxury. These burnished pre-waxed pure cork tiles wear for 50 years or more with only occasional waxings for care! Natural nuttoned random shades blend with every decorating color, period and style; cost less than wall to wall broadloom.

Each wonderful floor is guaranteed; comes in 9" x 9" tiles you can install yourself. (Approximate prices on opposite page.) Or, your Kentile, Inc. Dealer will install your floor. Find his name and address listed under Floors in your Classified Telephone Directory.

Cleveland's Pet

uckier than most boys and girls, who must borrow library books to become acquainted with animals and nature, Cleveland's children can make this acquaintance firsthand. They borrow the animals themselves from a "pet library" which has a lively assortment of raccoons, turtles, owls, guinea pigs, hamsters, a crocodile-and a shelf of de-scented skunks! All the children need do is to sign a library card. After keeping Oliver Cromwell, the owl, or Virginia, the hamster, for a week, the borrower, providing he returns it in good form and spirits, may take out another animal. There's a ten cent per day fine, of course, for extension of time.

Fortunate, too, are the parents. The library not only brings nature closer to youngsters, but joins whole families in a community project which teaches parent-child relationships as well. "Imagine a turtle teaching you anything!" one father remarked. "Well, I couldn't, until my boy brought one home. Bud and I got down on the floor to find out about a turtle's character and we learned some things about each other."

The animal library is sponsored by the Lake Erie Junior Museum, an organization of nature-loving boys, girls, and parents; with headquarters in the Dover-by-the-Lake Public Library in suburban Bay Village. The library brings nature to children having little opportunity to explore it in their urban surroundings, but perhaps the most satisfying purpose is to lend animals to children who, for reasons of health, cannot get outdoors.

Pets are delivered in gaily painted miniature circus wagons, built by the fathers and transported by mothers to schools, hospitals, libraries, and other institutions where there are children. Helping, too, are junior curators, teen-agers who are appointed to their coveted posts after studying and passing two nature courses. Besides delivering the pets, they coach borrowers on their care. ## MAY BE LONGER THAN YOUR LIVING ROOM

When you're building or remodeling
a garage, a "basic" garage may be adequate, but not economical. Extra space in the garage, relatively inexpensive to build, can meet the crying need for a workshop and for more storage for outdoor gear, rolling stock, etc.

STANLEY H. BRAMS

Vour car is constantly becoming a more important part of your life in this day of suburban living, and the home of your car—its garage—deserves more attention than ever before. Right now is a logical time to give it some thought, and to follow your thinking with action. Why now? Because there are good indications from Detroit that motor cars will not keep growing larger, as they have during the past two decades. So you can plan to build a new garage, or to alter your present one, with good assurance that your ideas about ample space, use, and efficiency won't need revising in the near future. This holds whether you plan for a "basic" garage used only for housing your cars, or follow our tip and build big to assign many additional duties to the garage.

Many car owners learn how cars are enlarging when their new models begin to eat up formerly free space at the sides and rear of the garage—or even overhang the door sill! Today's average car is about three inches longer than it was even five or six years ago, and a couple of inches wider. More popular-priced cars have grown some seven inches longer since the war, and many luxury models have lengthened by as much as twenty inches. You might as well think in terms of living with the new dimensions.

What's a "basic" garage? Let's have a fast look at the fundamentals. Dimensions of average cars are some help—but remember that you're likely to want to do better than average someday. Today's largest cars are approximately 20' x 7', and, just for the record, the averages are close to 18' x 6½', and the popular-priced makes scale just under 17½' x 6½'. You'll want to allow ample space fore, aft, and sideways, so a "basic" garage should measure at least 20' x 11' for an average car, and should lengthen to 24' if you're planning for a larger car now or later on. A double garage should be 19' or 20' wide.

But hold on! All you have at that point is enough space in which to store your car in comfort. In these days when larger families call for space, space, space, it's short-sighted economy to stop there, because, foot for foot, garage space costs less than house space to build. Think of your new garage as a utility center. It makes a convenient storage area for garden tools, hose, bikes, screens, storm windows, and so on. Properly planned and equipped with a window, it's a perfect spot for Dad's do-it-yourself workshop and, if connected with the house, it's an ideal "mud room"

"please give" us more of the Cobles..." AH Readers

Just yesterday I picked up my January American Home, and right on page 29 ("We Pay a Call on the Cobles") is what we have been looking for. I have literally worn out the too-few descriptive pages, and I'm nearly bursting with curiosity.

Our dream home is quite distant, but, oh the plans! Our lot is quite woodsy with much cedar, oak, dogwood, and you-name-it. We have looked at so many homes, but this seems to be just it. To me it is genuine and absolute simplicity. No ultra-modern for us!

So, along with our three fine growing sons, we now have a stronger goal to hope and save for. Thank you so much for such a lovely home.

-- IRMA AND DAVID SNYDER

Oh, how I enjoyed the Cobles' home. Please give us more of them. I believe that is what most of us readers and lookers like.

-RAE PALMER

The comments in our neighborhood were anything but kind. . . . Surely you could have suggested the removal of the butter churn, the sad iron, etc. from the living room, as well as closing the old "cake safe" (pie cupboard) doors. Such a collection of kitchen junk. . . . Mrs. Coble deserves better than this, her home was nice. But you didn't help her.

There is no "law" against having a white painted flat iron as a decoration. What is against it is its incongruity. A flat iron belongs in a kitchen, not a living room.

—MARJORIE ADAMS
Each to his own whimsy—ED.

Both my husband and I enjoyed very much your article, "We Pay a Call on the Cobles." Early American décor with pine and cherry woods is our cup of tea, and we were able to pick up many ideas. We have a problem corner in our kitchen, and the wall lamp pictured is just what we need to brighten it up.

—JEAN W. LUCAS

I have just about dog-eared my January copy. . . . We have been having a wonderful time redecorating our home in Early American furnishings. With four very active children in mind, we chose Empire Rock maple furniture and are building the accessories ourselves. I truly understand how Jackie Coble feels about making curtains, and have been busy for many months doing the same thing myself.

We loved the Coble home. One of our remaining projects is building a hi-fi cabinet Along with radio, television, and recording, we play our electric guitafrom the system. Ed Coble's hi-fi cabinet is just the type we are looking for.

Many, many thanks for your many wonderful ideas that I have found to be applicable to our own home.

-LILLIAN R. ARNOLD

The Cobles' is truly my idea of what I hope my home will be one day. I have tried for many years to find a braided rug like the one of their living-room floor.

-MRS. BLANCHE ADLER

I like the shade of blue the Coble of Greensboro, N.C., have used o their living and dining rooms. . . I also have a collection of blue willow are and the same plates Mrs. Cob is displaying in her pie cupboard, an want the walls to harmonize with the dishes. —MRS. FLOYD R. MELVIN Highly efficient Heatrim panels are the only "radiation" this modern heating system needs. Copper tubes with aluminum fins encircle the cold, outside walls of your home with uniform warmth even on the coldest days.

Baseboard panels replace old, bulky radiators, carry hot water heating from room to room, and give complete decorating freedom. For an average 6-room house, Heatrim panels cost as little as $2.06 a week, plus installation.

NEW AMERICAN-STANDARD BASEBOARD HEATING SYSTEM provides greater comfort . . . cleaner heat with decorating freedom

The modern, American-Standard way to heat a home is with good-looking baseboard panels that provide a blanket of warmth around the cold exterior of the house. American-Standard Heatrim panels carry the clean comfort of hot water heating to every room. And they never carry dirt from room to room to smudge walls or to soil expensive draperies. Because these baseboard panels replace bulky radiators, they give you complete freedom in decorating and in arranging furniture.

At the heart of the new American-Standard heating system is a completely automatic, long-lasting, corrosion-resistant, cast-iron boiler. Its air-tight construction prevents any escape of dirt or odor. Its efficiency means full comfort at a very low cost.

JIM BROADSTREET

A New Tyne our

We furnished our whole living room with furniture we made from this relic of a piano. The only expenses were for cushions, fabrics, lamp parts, and finishes. So help me!

No, your eyes are not deceiving you. That's exactly what I did. Our old upright piano is now reincarnated into seven major pieces of furniture: a sofa having a shaped extension with an attached flexible lamp; a chair to match; a coffee table; utility bench; game table; and two chairs. Besides these, a magazine stand, a table lamp, a tray, and a chessboard were contrived from the last remaining fragments. The piano was walnut-veneered gumwood, having other hardwoods in the inner construction. Where practical, I used the veneer for surfaces, and the rest are enameled black. Practically all necessary hardware was salvaged. I don't deny that reducing the piano to usable material was a job—but not so disagreeable that I haven't bought and dismantled another for future use! I plan to make an ivory-topped table with the keys, cutting and cementing them to a plywood base. As for the black keys, those bits of ebony are priceless for tray handles, sliding door bars, etc.

P.S. In case you noticed the red felt guards on the bottoms of the lamp and chessboard, don't think I cheated—the soft pedal apparatus yielded a choice piece of thick red felt!! MAGAZINE STAND: Legs are dowel rods which connected pedals with the action. The top was built from the keyboard cover, with care given to matching grains

FINISH for walnut veneer surfaces: three coats clear sealer; three coats thinned, one coat regular spar varnish. Other surfaces are sealed, then enameled

21" EXTENSION of sofa platform is cut from veneered lower panel; 24" length of 1½" pipe is built right into it to support the lamps

CHAIR is made principally from one of the two pieces which formed the top of piano. Cushions and bolsters are 8" thick, with extra-heavy cushion units for durability and comfort

of an Old Piano

UTILITY BENCH was last large piece built, and it is made entirely from leftovers. Consists of 11 slabs dadoed into end boards. There are four different woods in the bench

TABLE LAMP: This is made from the veneered pieces which were at either end of the keyboard

SOFA: Base is large unfinished board which was beneath the keys, with odd pieces added for right width. Has shaped extension at right end to support flexible lamps—see lower left picture > coffee Table top made from two piano sides, jointed and glued. Legs of all pieces are made from upright posts in back of piano—blocks 3½" square and 12" high. Table is 50" x 24"

CHESSBOARD is  $16\frac{1}{2}$ " square, and made from the only remaining full piece of sounding board. Has band of the veneered walnut came table and chairs: Table top cut from sounding board, holes and rough areas filled and sanded. Chair seats cut from other top piece and rest of lower panel. Curved backs from shaped pieces behind keyboard cover; uprights from pedal board. Seats recessed for slipcovered foam rubber pads

Take a Split-Level Development House

Add One Good Decorator and These Color Ingredients

and You Have a Recipe for a 2-Story Room

wen if it solved no special problem, Decorator Bertha Schaefer's skillful blending of good ingredients here would make a lovely, livable room—practical, fresh, and in elegant good taste. But it does solve a problem, the challenging one of the "two-story living room." The words call to mind lofty chambers, invitingly spaciousthe kind of room most of us want. But the very things that make it desirable offer real posers when it comes to decorating. First, there's usually a roof pitch to cope with-if not well handled, that ceiling can seem to zoom down ominously instead of remaining up where it belongs. Then, that vast high wall can devour all your pictures, and still have a hungry look. Furniture may seem to huddle uncomfortably under a towering ceiling-yet it's just plain silly to resort to tricks to "cut" that wonderful height! Here in the living room of a model home in Morton Village, Long Island, Miss Schaefer, with knowing use of color, took every advantage of a two-story wall and a sharply descending roof by dividing floor, walls, and ceiling

For information about the furnishings of this room see "Where Credit Is Due," page 154

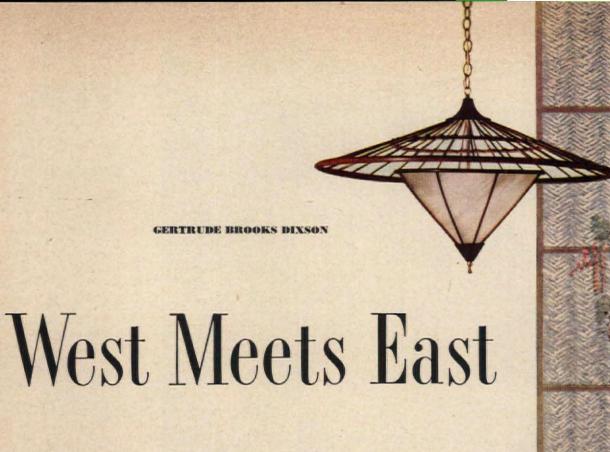

MARY E. MONZE

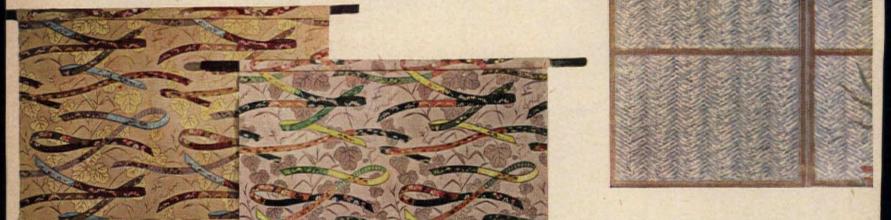

The fine art of "furnishing" a tall wall: In olden days, vast baronial halls were hung with tapestries. Here, a modern needlework abstraction by Mariska Karasz does the trick. Its white background, plus the white fixtures that light it, build a bridge between ceiling and wall. Tall lamps with white shades are beautifully proportioned to room in size and in color

DECORATOR: BERTHA SCHAEFER, A.I.D. ARCHITECT: RUDOLPH A. MATERN, A.I.A. BUILDER: EMIL MORTON

A fine way to lift a low wall: White wall areas, plus all-white mesh curtains, flow right into the ceiling. Dining area is separated from living room by free-form sofa and different wall treatment—but wall "paper" is the same printed linen used to drape tall living room window into two principal color areas-one blues and green-yellows. By spreading the floor with a soft green carpet, and continuing its tones up the high wall, she related that wall to the floor-without cutting its imposing expanse. By using white on ceiling, window wall, fireplace wall. and in the background of the print, she minimized the roof pitch and brought the ceiling "into" the room. White lamp shades and accessories echo the ceiling; the large-scale printed fabric bridges light areas and dark ones; the mosaic tile capitalizes upon the slope of the fireplace wall making it graceful rather than awkward. A play of texture from sleek to rough makes a restrained palette an exciting one, and the aristocratic contemporary furniture, artfully tapered and sculptured, and used with generous accents of black and brass, is arranged for companionable comfort.

In home fashions, the strongest new trend is the reflection of Far Eastern design-blending functionalism, beauty of line, and gentle embellishment-just what our designers have been looking for!

Inspired by the Far East: Simulated rattan, black lacquer, copper tips. Concessions to the West: spring-filled cushions, Formica table top. Shallow shade on lamp simulates rice paper; fiber rug has the look of floor matting. Furniture, Heywood-Wakefield—chair, $50; table, $30. Lamp, Westwood Industries, $28. Rug, Deltox "Delwood Estate," $25 for 9' x 12'. All fabrics, Riverdale, $2.30 per yard of late have made headlines as a result of their study of Far Eastern fabrics and furniture. Especially in Japan, where materials and space for living are limited, simplicity and economy have become philosophical-and poetical-concepts. There, and in some other Oriental countries, household furnishings have been marked by simplicity without starkness, by a skillful drawing out of line and color to achieve a dramatic-but not overpowering-effect. Their makers have taken a direct approach to the functional aspect of things to be lived with, but have tempered it with suave gentility.

Just such a blending of function with simple beauty is apparently what our own designers have been groping for to enrich modern American objects. The Far Eastern influence first appeared a few years back in very costly things. Then, tentatively offered last autumn at popular prices, it has met with such ready acceptance that it is the most important single influence in new home furnishings. To show its scope, we used fabrics from Riverdale, and assembled furniture, wall coverings, and accessories in the same spirit.

But West has met Far Eastern design without parroting it. None of the objects we show-and none of the countless others availableare offered as "authentic" reproductions. We have adapted and incorporated specific motifs and some general principles-without changing the basic forms to which we ourselves are accustomed. Inspiration for the fabrics shown scroll-fashion on the opposite page came from a series of exquisite old Japanese silks-the charming or traditional fabrics and furnishings. Hanging lamp, Tropical Sun, $50. Chest, Drexel, $140. Four "Fuji Flower" wallpaper panels, James Seeman, $48. Fabrics, Riverdale, $2.30 per yard symbols on the ribbon-like swirls are taken directly from the original, as are the symbols on the fabric used to cover the chair. But from there on, Western ideas take over-the ribbons are superimposed on a leaf and bamboo ground; motifs on the chair covering are arranged in a manner recalling Provincial, so dear to American hearts.

The wallpaper in the center illustration is compatible with the fabrics-and as usable in our homes as the Japanese shoji screen Americans have so whole-heartedly welcomed. With it, you can work out a variety of arrangements to fit any wall, for it comes in four panels, 28 inches wide and 10 feet long, with designs positioned at varying heights, and there's also a companion paper with background, but no motif-use four panels, five, ten, or even one alone.

Rattan and black lacquer, pewter, and brass used as ferrules, tips, or drawer pulls of great character are synonymous with Far Eastern furniture in the Western mind. The pieces on the opposite page embody these elements, but the forms have been varied to meet our own ideas of comfort and the dimensions of our American rooms. The chest above strongly recalls elegant Chinese Chippendale, the product of an earlier impact of Oriental design on the West. But it has an economy of line that clearly defines it as our own contemporary-as does its combination of two woods, mahogany and pecan, and its ever-so-gentle brown finish.

COME OFF THAT PINK CLOUD ABOUT WHAT A POOL REALLY

Some professional labor—reinforced concrete block 20' x40'—COST

Entirely built by a contractor — experimental reinforced brick

masonry—21'x55'—COST

Kidding aside, what does a home swimming pool really cost—$6,000? $3,326? Maybe only $225? The answer, of course, depends upon the type of construction, the size, the filtration requirements, and the amount of labor you yourself contribute. The design of your pool, your soil, and your climate also affect the price. But more than anything else, costs depend upon whether you want an honest-to-goodness pool that will be a permanent improvement to your property—or an enjoyable toy that may not. We asked you to come off that pink cloud because we'd like to discuss not the cheapest, but the best types of pools—the soundly built kind that will give years of trouble-free service, that won't crack the first winter

(or the fourth), that won't need costly repairs or extensive annual maintenance. And we mean man-sized pools. A "splashing" pool, where youngsters can live it up and invite their elders in for a cooling "dunk," is a fine thing to have in your back yard—but to give a real swim to a six-footer, a pool should measure at least 16' x 20'.

Let's begin by talking costs on pools completely installed by professionals. For the most part they come high for a good reason quite apart from the high cost of labor—their strength. When you build your own completely, you get your data and build it strong enough—you hope! The gamble may be well worth your while, as it

Here are three pools—one completely contracted, one partially contracted, one owner-built.

You can build your own pool if you know what you're getting into, what compromises you must make was for the Charles Smiths whose small $290.39 owner-built pool, shown at above right, has given them great pleasure and weathered five Boston winters.

But a contractor can't afford to take any chances, so he's apt to overbuild—not so much for the sake of additional profits, as to protect his reputation and guarantees. He knows the hazards better than do most well-informed amateurs, and he can't afford to risk having a $4,000 or $6,000 pool leak or otherwise prove less than completely satisfactory. So he makes it stronger than necessary, and perhaps better than necessary in other ways. And all this costs time and money which is paid for by you.

One good way to save on a professionally built pool is to move to a climate where it never freezes. This eliminates about 20% on pool costs, because pools not exposed to frozen ground or frost require much less rugged construction than northern jobs. A more reasonable way to save is to decide against diving, for when a perfect diver hits the water, he transmits a large amount of energy and, therefore, strain to the bottom of the pool, so conscientious contractors insist upon special reinforcements.

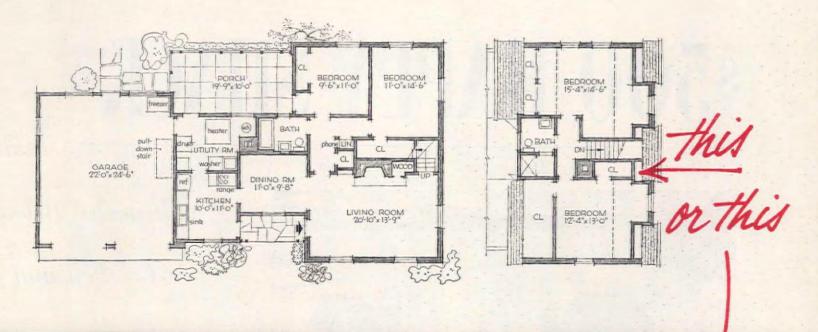

Pools installed by contractors fall into three general construction types—steel, reinforced concrete, and concrete formed by the Gunite process. They cost from about $2,000 to $5,000 for CONTINUED ON PAGE 140

DORIS BRIAN

When it comes to planning a new home, what family's dream-house requirements don't seem to veer off every which way? Making them jibe is part of the rich, rewarding game, so if She envisions Traditional and He, Contemporary; if She demands one-story ease, while He wants the economy of building—and heating—second-floor bedrooms; if She sighs for a separate dining room while He's "keeping it compact" (but fitting in a workshop, somehow), then hear this: We've never seen a better house for letting you have your cake and eat it, so we're repeating Blueprint House #25, first published in October, 1953. Up-to-the-minute, but with the warm and welcoming look of Georgian architecture, beautifully detailed, it's a two-story, one-story house with a brick-veneer and wood-siding exterior that lets you change your mind about color, for it lends itself to traditional red and white—or to an infinite variety of new and fresh combinations.

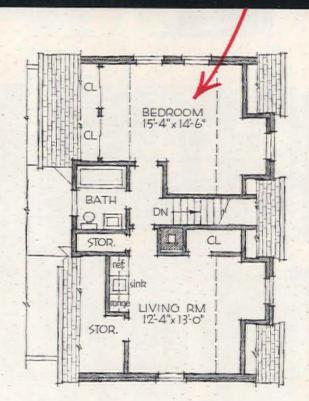

As to the one-story vs. two-story question (becoming a hot one of late), this house gives you the best of several worlds. For the 633 square feet upstairs, we've blueprinted two alternatives; you can have a couple of family bedrooms and bath—or a completely separate apartment, with kitchenette and a private entry from the street. But the 1,240 square feet of downstairs living space is a complete house in itself, with a good living room, a separate dining room, kitchen, utility room, two bedrooms and bath, big screened porch. Attached to it, the honey of a double garage is light and spacious enough to house a workshop, and more than meets the space requirements of the new, long cars (see page 38). The Claude C. Fletchers of Cincinnati, for whom Architect R. B. Brandt designed the house as we originally published it, were interested primarily in building, Happy Shack was conceived, designed, and built to take the place of a tent. Let me explain:

My hunting and fishing partner, Don Johnson, is captain of the Minnesota and Ontario Paper Company houseboat, the Mando, and I am the owner and operator of Sportsmen's Service, a business which caters to tor of Sportsmen's Service, a business which caters to the fishermen who come to Northern Minnesota and Ontario to fish. Needless to say, our work is very confining in the summer months, but in the fall and winter the story is entirely different.

After the tourists are gone, we spend several weeks hunting, and with the coming of the ice in November, we start fishing. Because the weather on our ice-fishing trips sometimes is quite rugged, we always pitched a tent for shelter. Sometimes we would only stay out one day, and other times we would sleep out on the ice overnight. At times, I must admit, it wasn't too comfortable, especially when the thermometer would dip to 25° or 30° below zero.

It was on one of these trips that we found an especially good walleyed pike hole, just off a beautiful small island which is entirely covered with white pine. The fishing was so good here that we made several return trips. Most often we would stay overnight, and our families and friends would join us the next day.

Things never can stand still! Here's a house that looks charmingly old, yet offers all the ease and luxury expected today....

It's Nice Living-Wherever You Live

MARTHA B. DARBYSHIRE

It looks charmingly old, but it doesn't miss a good modern trick—and both facts mark our cover house, the home of the I. C. Gordeans of Beverly Hills, as typical of the architectural philosophy of Gerard Colcord. When it comes to authentic detail, the traditional houses he designs are letter-perfect. But he adds an extra dimension that allows for self-expression. The pattern he drafts fits to-day's pace. It's on-beat. Theoretically, he is all for traditional design . . . likes it better than any other because it calls up the "home image," because it's family album stuff. But Mr. Colcord has news for pre-history! Without any apology to the past, such houses as this one wholly subscribe to modern notions: broad glazed areas, dressing rooms, swimming pool—plus a plan that faces living areas toward the view at the rear. Right from the start, it radiates appeal, looks like "home." And right up front, modern ideas begin: the half-circle drive for off-street parking; the geranium ground cover that makes a blanket of bloom and needs little care.

Outside and in, the success of this house bespeaks good teamwork between Architect Colcord, Landscape Designer Raymond Page, and the decorators, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Lansing who, Mr. Colcord says, "fleshened up" the house, adding meat to its fine architectural bones. The Lansings were in on the project from the beginning, so that every piece of furniture, every last curtain, every accessory was ready when the house was complete—and in place for the housewarming party the Gordeans were able to give the very day they moved into their new home!

And speaking of teamwork, even the Gordeans' friends cooperated—by consulting the decorators about house gifts. As a result, such objects are really put to good use—for example, the Doulton rooster tureen in the family room shown on this page and the cover. How perfectly it fits the spirit of this genial, graceful, warm room where, in the words of its mistress, "Peace sticks to you like burrs!" Wood paneled, and furnished with Early American pieces, it has everything from an enormous fireplace to an enormous view of distant mountains. But if the family room is for casual comfort, music, some family meals —for quiet moods and gay ones, the more elegant living room you see above is also one that invites you to tarry. In here, the Gordeans requested "dignified comfort," for to them, and to their college-age daughter, Marie, entertaining is a major part of the pleasure of having a home—living room, family room, and formal dining room are put to constant good use. With its tasteful details, excellent paintings, and rich color scheme, this is the kind of living room that glows gently by day, and makes a radiant background for guests by evening. Simple, but good, reproduction furniture from the Gordeans' former home was mixed with fine antiques, and thoughtfully arranged for good conversation.

ll of us who have had a wedding in the family ranks know all too well that it is not an unmixed pleasure. The specter of heavy expenses is always there, however sensibly we manage it. Can you think of a better way to save a goodly sum than being your own caterer? All this loveliness, all the drama you see here-it's all within your power to have and to give-by giving of yourself. Nothing here is beyond your skill. Nothing here is impractical for you to plan and execute. You can appear at the church as serene and as happy as ever the bride's or the groom's mother should be. In that all-too-brief finale, amidst the toasts and well-wishes of family and friends, you will be blessed and honored for the hospitality of your home, the greatness of your heart in having wrought with your own hands so beautiful a memory for the bride and groom to go away with.

Certainly there is no need to exhort you on the importance of absolute perfection on this day of days! We have shown you that a home kitchen can provide perfection. Rather, I ask that you lend an ear to sweet persuasion, for I would convince you that you really should do it yourself, even if no monetary reason enters in. You can make of it a far more memorable occasion than the most expert, the most fashionable caterer

Juss and Fume to your heart's content—but face it! There just is no getting around the fact that the way to your family's heart is through your oven. If you really want them to purr like kittens-just appear in the dining room with a heaping, steaming basket of hot biscuits. Their approval and admiration of your most elaborate labors of love, of your hours glamorous entree or dessert, are as nothing furor you can cause by a measly few minutes ve olde hot biscuits. Ever take notice of how many restaurants make themselves a terrific reputation based solely upon one hot bread specialty? And what they can do, can't we gals do better?? And while we're at it, let's really ply our ovens with goodies with a big last spurt before summer comes and the

are an assortment of recipes for you to try Rhubarb-Plus Pie is a very interesting combination of fruits, all "baked in a pie" and coming forth from your oven tempting to see, smell, and eat. Now what more can you ask from a pie?

Corn-Stuffed Pork Chops are a nice new variation of a great old favorite. We all know how good corn is served with pork, so now here it is cooked along with-in a bread stuffing. Tender, moist, and filling, this can easily become a family favorite -and one you, the cook, will do well to promote because it's so simple to prepare. One Stop Chops is another pork chop recipe I am very fond of. Such one-dish meals are a great boon to us wives. Too, this is one you fix and pop in the oven for an hour. There are plenty of days when that hour comes in mighty handy days when no matter how quickly fixed a meal may be, it just will not work out with your schedule to have it last minute. So remember this for just such a time.

For that aforementioned hot bread, try Sticky Buns. If you like them REALLY sticky, as we do, double up on the sugar mixture, and use it with a heavy hand. I recommend serving this just before announcing some rash purchase to your husband! And lastly, those cute Lollipop Cookies are just a skewer stuck into a cookie before baking. Dress them up as faces too, if you want to-but however you do it-do it! They're wonderful tasting, and the gimmick makes them taste even better.

QUICK NEW KIND OF HOT BREAD -EASY-MIXED WITHOUT SHORTENING!

Really New Way to make a hot bread! You actually make your dough without shortening. Then you dip in butter and bake.

Quick and easy as biscuits, Butter Dips taste like rolls! Rich and buttery, they're goldencrusted top and bottom, yet soft and tender on the sides. For variety add 1/2 cup grated cheese or 1/4 cup minced chives to dry ingredients. Or sprinkle paprika, or garlic salt or cinnamon and sugar on before baking.

This "Kitchen-tested" recipe was specially created for Gold Medal Flour. So you'll bake Butter Dips better-just as you'll bake everything better-with this famous all-purpose flour. Try Gold Medal for Butter Dips and you'll want to bake everything with it! For Gold Medal Flour is milled for dependability by the world's largest flour millers.

REAL BUTTER!

BUTTER DIPS

1/3 cup butter (for pan) 2 1/4 cups sifted GOLD MEDAL Flour

1 tbsp. sugar

Heat oven to 450° (hot). Melt butter in oven in oblong pan, 13x91/2 x2". Remove pan from oven just as soon as butter is melted.

Sift Gold Medal and other dry ingredients into bowl. Add milk. Stir slowly with fork until dough just clings together (about 30 strokes). Turn out on well-floured board.

*3 1/2 tsp. baking powder

*1 1/2 tsp. salt

1 cup milk

Knead lightly about 10 times. Roll out 1/2" thick into rectangle, 12x8". Cut dough in half lengthwise, then crosswise into 16 strips.

Dip each strip on both sides in melted butter. Place close together in two rows. Bake 15 to 20 minutes until golden brown. Serve piping hot. Makes 32 Butter Dips.

*If you use GOLD MEDAL Self-Rising Flour, omit baking powder and salt.

in your town. The bride's cake-have you ever seen a more beautiful one? We have used a traditional pound cake recipe, but if a white fruit cake is your family's traditional bride's cake, by all means use it. The important thing is a truly fine cake within, as well as a lovely thing to look upon. Have you ever seen professional hors d'oeuvres half so tempting as ours? What's more, my lady, they taste every whit as good as they look-and like the cake, pre-planned, pre-done before the great day. Rich and delicious the creamed chicken you yourself have made, and needing only reheating . . . patty shells from your baker . . . green peas to accompany your chicken. Is anything more to be desired at the wedding breakfast or luncheon for the bridal party? Traditional, yes-and who wants to be "different" or exotic on this occasion? But in one respect, quite different is this repast-the food is superb, our recipe a far cry from the usual tepid production we all know so well as a caterer's idea of creamed-chicken-inpatty-shell. Look again, please, at our beautiful food and tell me why, with the know-how we give you, in recipe and finished product, you should not have the pleasure of creating it yourself, should not share a little of the glory of this day for having contributed beauty and happiness. You can do it, and I hope we have inspired you enough to want to do it. For you and yours, only the best, now and forever!

Those of you not planning a wedding, no need to feel slighted, you know. Creamed chicken—our kind—is still one of the best luncheon dishes in the world and worth the calories—our kind! And who can't use more unusual hors d'oeuvres ideas? These, Ma'am, are unusual and something else that's special about them, too: they are "breadless"—and isn't that a comforting thought to leave you with? Until next month then, Cheers!

It's so nice to have people pleased with you. Most especially when they tell you so. Mrs. Donald G. Lane, of Devon, Pennsylvania, writes:

"I am so pleased with Jean Austin for managing to get hold of the recipe for Chicken Caneloni Cherio! It's worth a whole year's subscription just to have that recipe. I used to eat at Cherio's years ago, and have looked ever since for a recipe similar to their spécialité de la maison. I love it done with lobster, too.

"Please be good enough to send me the recipes for the Béchamel and Hollandaise sauces, so I can start to work immediately reproducing one of my favorite New York memories."

spirits soar to new heights with spring in the air, and flowers bursting into a galaxy of colors. So...let's be gay and entertain a bit lavishly, with a flair!

A CROWN ROAST OF LAMB, dressed up in fancy paper "booties" will glorify that special dinner on May Day-or any other day. Choose pink or blue "booties" for a party touch. To keep the budget under control, it's a good idea to remove the ground trimmings that the butcher usually puts in the center of the roast, and save to make lamb patties or a loaf for another meal later in the week. Sautéed mushrooms, spiked with fresh lemon juice and a bit of minced onion and parsley give a savory flavor as a filler. Save some chopped parsley to sprinkle over the top of the mushrooms. If you do not care for mushrooms, fill the center with buttered cauliflower buds, small onions, or peas. Surround the roast with parsleyed or pan-roasted potatoes. Mint sauce, too, of course!

FRUIT ADDED TO CHICKEN SALAD sparks a luncheon this time of the year. Orange sections (minus the membranes), pine-apple and pear cubes, coarsely chopped walnut meats, ripe olives—added to your chicken salad—make a tasty, flavor combination. Serve chilled on chicory or lettuce, and decorate with orange sections arranged in the shape of a flower, circled with large ripe olives. Make a-plenty, as this is an appetite tempter.

STUFFED ENDIVE is a pleasing change as an appetizer or salad. Combine cottage cheese with chopped chives, and season to taste. If too thick for spreading...add a

You look at your white nylons—and suddenly realize that they aren't really white. They're pinkish, or yellowed, or grey. Call it old fashioned, but you like your whites white! Should you bleach them? Well, there are some bleaches recommended for nylons, and we'll tell you about them below. But keeping white nylons white involves matters other than bleaching.

When White Is Pink... You wouldn't expect those old coral towels to fade. Why, they've been washed right in with cotton sheets before. But this time, they turned your white nylon slip a blushing pink. Red printing on a matchbook cover, forgotten in some pocket, or the red trim on a blouse collar may give off enough color in the wash water to make once-white synthetics look embarrassingly pink. These wonderful man-made fabrics love color. They seem to latch onto every particle of color floating around in the wash or rinse water. And they're terribly reluctant to give it up.

To avoid dying white nylons (and that's what it is—they actually become slightly dyed), always wash them in an all-white load of laundry. And, if possible, a load which is not too dirty. They don't need to be handlaundered; they stand up well under machine washing. But they do need the all-white load treatment.

To whiten pinkish nylons, use a household dye remover. Follow the directions for synthetics on the package.

When White Is Yellow...

Nylons tend to yellow with age; but intense heat or hard water and soap scum will give a yellow cast long before age will. Experts have concluded that synthetics stay white longer if they are washed with detergent. Exception; rubberized garments, such as nylon girdles, need mild soap laundering; it's kinder to rubber than detergents.

When White Is Gray . . . The family's nylons look as gray as rain clouds at a church picnic. You've just washed them, but they certainly don't look clean. New powdered chlorine bleaches are safe for nylons, orlons, and dacrons. Chlorine attacks dirt vigorously, so these synthetics should not be left in the bleach solution too long. Perborate bleaches, on the other hand, are slow workers in warm water—for more effective bleaching the temperature must be higher than the hands can stand.

Keeping white nylons white is an every-time-you-wash proposition. A new liquid detergent especially designed for this job is now on the market. It's so much easier to keep 'em white than to whiten synthetics once they're too far gone.

DRY NYLONS
DOUBLE-QUICK

Your frilly nylon blouse would be perfect to wear to the party—if it were clean. Rinse it, wring it, and blot the excess moisture by wrapping in a terry towel. When you unwrap it, give it a shake to remove the wrinkles. Then dry it in a breeze in front of your electric hair dryer or your air conditioner.

fere they are, right out of the bag-a whole passel of kitchen newsmakers we spotted at recent manufacturers' markets! To land them quickly as possible, we "shot" them on the spot, moving our cameras right into the booths where your dealers (and editors) first saw them. There are exciting innovations-fold-away cooking units, in-the-wall, waist-high refrigerators are out of the dream stage and into the stores. There's excitement in things made easier to use; and excitement, too, in items not brand-new, but used in fresh and better ways. But COLOR is the news that hits you square between the eyes. And not just colored walls! Colored cabinets, steel and wood, now abound; colored ranges, refrigerators, and other appliances-custom-made luxuries only yesterdayare now "standard," priced for Mrs. Everybody. Pale colors, strong colors, plenty of pink-a decorator's dream of color choices, not just a few. And you needn't keep the same color forever, for new apply-them-yourself paints are good enough to be recommended by one manufacturer of steel cabinets (don't try them on your range-they won't stand for that much heat!). Wood tones are also still Big-and look better than ever with colored appliances.

FRICIDAIRE'S new, wonderfully stackable dishwasher can take even a whole load of glassware, and the center water spout reaches every nook and cranny. Remove the top rack entirely, and Pull 'em down when you need 'em; flip 'em up when you're finished. No danger of turning them up while they're on, for cut-offs take care of that contingency.

If you want extra stools, small pieces (about 36" x 16") will do the job. A bargain in anybody's pocketbook.

Where you use them around the house is up to you—that terrace where you want a game-playing or snack-eating setup; any room in that country "shack;" the semi-furnished room that needs something in the way of furniture; kids' rooms; T-Viewing rooms; even the kitchen. Anyplace you want to keep the costs way down and style high. The painting is where you use your imagination. Run riot with color, sing our combinations—or your using our combinations—or your own one-, two-, or three-tone effects. (If you want a sleek painted surface, that sheet of plywood should be birch rather than fir.)

Pictured in the foreground, a disassembled stool to show how easy they are to put together—just four wood screws. They're just as easy to take apart if you want to store them in a small space.

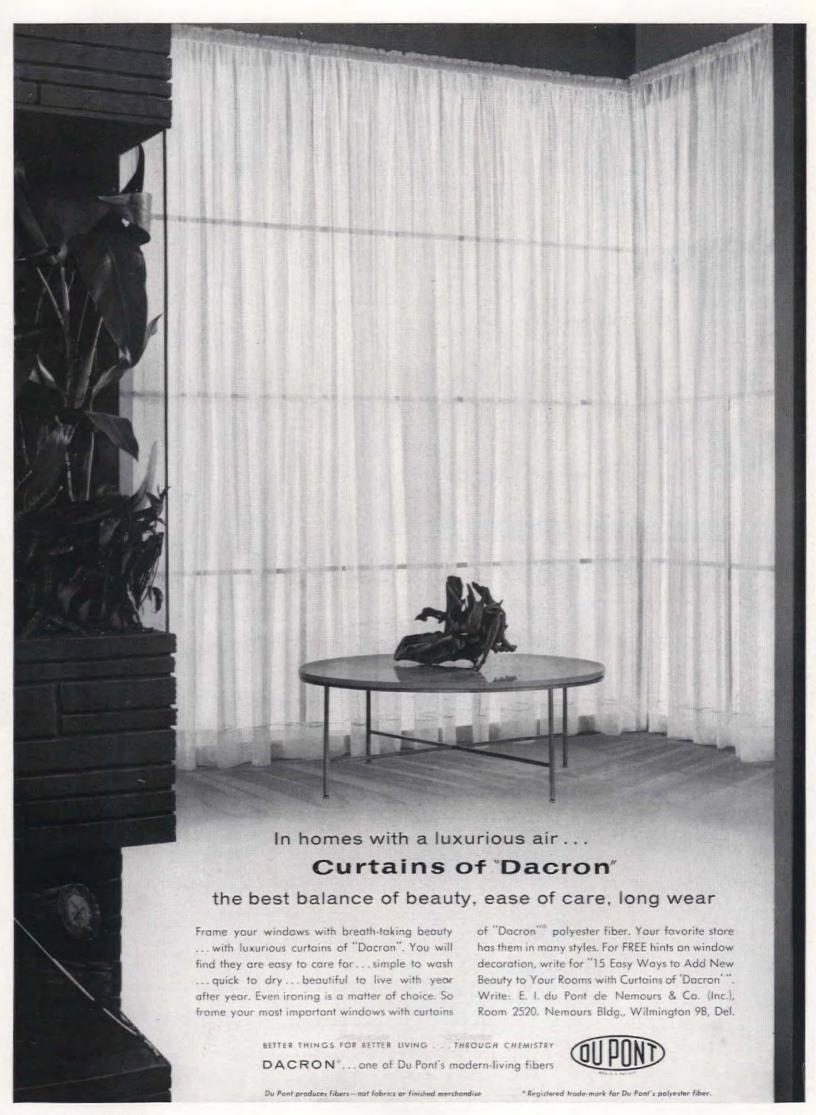

Fitting all of these pieces onto one sheet of plywood is the trick, and we have a pattern to show you how. Pattern 2070, 50¢.

A CHAIR

AN EASY WAY TO HELP AN

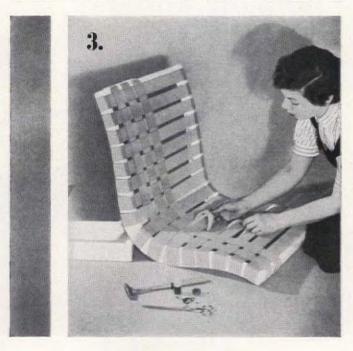

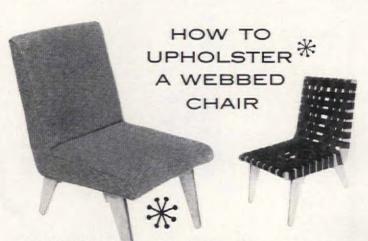

- When the old webbing starts to sag and tear, it's time to give your chair a lift. Take off the old strips, saving the pieces to use as a cutting guide for new webbing. (We used plastic, but the same procedure applies for cloth.) Remove arms. Sand frames and arms lightly. Apply a coat of thin white shellac, four parts alcohol to one part shellac. Dry overnight, sand lightly. Apply two coats paint, allowing 24 hours drying time between each.
- Cut new strips carefully, using cloth webbing as patterns. 2. Cut new strips carefully, using cross.

  Allow half an inch extra at each end of every plastic strip for turn-in reinforcement for tacking. Tack on all horizontal strips as shown in picture #2, starting at top of back and working down toward seat edge. Tack each piece down on both sides before adding next strip. Keep strips very taut.
- Now tack on vertical strips, one at a transfer top of back first. Then weave over one horizontal strip, top of back first. Then weave over one horizontal strip, Now tack on vertical strips, one at a time. Fasten firmly at under the next, over and under, etc., as shown in picture #3. Then tack down under seat edge. Repeat procedure until all strips are secured. Bolt arms back into place. If upholstery tacks have been used, paint the heads to match plastic webbing. Paint bolt heads the color of frame. Plastic reconditioning is easy to do, easy to clean, and very easy on the eyes.

Made by makers of famous PELLA CASEMENT and MULTIPLE-PURPOSE WINDOWS

TWIN, BUT INDEPENDENT UNITS (right) provide heat in winter, cooling in summer, and air conditioning the year round. So compact and clean, they can be installed in a sliding-door closet in your living room. Furnace runs on gas or oil. General Electric.

COMPACT, DEPENDENT COOLING UNIT (below) fits atop small, compatible oil or gas furnace in closet or utility room. It utilizes heater's blower and filter, has aircooled condenser (installed elsewhere), needs no water, water pipes, nor drains. Both cooler and furnace, Chrysler Airtemp.

FOR USE WITH SMALL-PIPE FORCED-WARM-AIR SYSTEM, twin gas- or oil-fired furnace and cooling units at far left are Coleman Blend-Air. TWIN FURNACE AND TWO-STAGE COOLER (left) designed so only one of two refrigerating units need operate. Matching furnace is gas-fired. This all-season system needs just a flip of a damper to change from winter heating to summer cooling. Lennox.

If you think that central air conditioning is only for new homes or fat incomes, here's good news. And moreover, the equipment we show, good in old houses and new ones alike, is so attractive and compact it need not be relegated to basements or utility rooms. If more convenient, the coolers (and heaters with which they sometimes are paired) can stand in the open in a kitchen or game room—or be hidden in a living-room closet.

If your old heating system is of the right type and design, installing well-engineered, year-round air conditioning is neither complicated nor expensive. If you have forced-warm-air heating, existing ducts can often be used. If you have wet heat, a ductless summer cooling system may be the easiest to install, though you have other choices. And if you like to do things yourself, the makers of some medium-sized coolers endorse such procedure. But if your old heating system has begun to give at the seams, a complete new system may be the best bet.

Of course, to get the most from the operation of any air conditioner, your home must be well insulated, large glass areas should be shaded, windows and doors should be tight, and there should be a kitchen exhaust fan to remove warm, moist air.

An Old House An Old House Can Have Built-In Air Conditioning

SELF-CONTAINED COOLING UNIT (left) has own blower, comes in 2, 3, or 5 horsepower capacity. Provides air circulation when cooling is not needed, and is designed to remove excess humidity without over-cooling. Sunbeam, American Standard.

FLOOR-TYPE CENTRAL COOLING UNIT (above) will handle a compact house. Requires no ducts nor plumbing. Air-intake unit goes under it. The installation is simple enough for an enterprising do-it-yourselfer. Sizes are 2 and 3 horsepower. General Air Condition Corporation.

for the feminine touch; recessed bookshelves; a desk for study; cozy chairs for young girls' gab sessions; and a built-in sofabed where a chum can be put overnight.

The Master had his say in furnishing the master bedroom above. He made it clear that strong, dark colors on walls depress him, and for that reason, walls in both living room and master bedroom are light. To create textural interest in the absence of much color, burlap was applied to the plaster, then washed with color—"sweet-butter" yellow in the living room, pale pink in here.

In his bedroom, suggested the Master, "simplicity, and an airy, summery look." The result is fresh and cool as a Singapore Sling—white woodwork; pinky-beige carpet; quilted white spreads; Swiss-embroidered white batiste curtains; a fireplace decked in pink tile; mint green shutters to play back one tone of the pink, red, and green print on easy chair and love seat. Here again, good reproductions the Gordeans already owned were combined with such perfect-for-the-spot antiques as the bachelor chest and the old coaching table lowered to coffee table height. Finishing flourishes include a pair of old French portraits and family photographs in old frames with pink wallpaper mats.

Like the family room, the master bedroom opens upon the covered veranda at the rear of the house where all principal rooms are faced to take advantage of a stunning view of mountains and lake. Out of doors, without leaving that view for a second, you can enjoy the shelter of the veranda, lounge in the sun, snack at the umbrella table, or take a dip in the unusual pool designed to catch the spirit of the Old Swimming Hole. Like the house, the pool attests to Architect Colcord's flair for perfect detail and excellent craftsmanship—its unconventional shape and careful landscaping make it look "natural" in its setting, and even the supports of ladder and diving board are cement, carefully molded and stained to simulate wood.

Sewing Room

erhaps it's a part of our do-it-yourself enthusiasm, or maybe it's just an outcropping of the eternal feminine in a new-old guise, but women by the millions are turning to home sewing, the high-style kind, and finding therein the sort of satisfaction smart women derive from modern gourmet cooking. The problem is that serious sewing requires an adequate workshop, and few houses have "spare" rooms these days. If you've been wondering how such space can be provided, study this magic wall, only 18 inches deep, that Mrs. Orlo Bagley of Cottage Grove, Oregon, built into her utility room. The smooth surface of drawers and cabinets that meet the eye when this sewing "room" is not in use, would be perfectly at home in a living room-but release a hidden lock, and a center panel drops down to become a cutting table supported by a brace hidden in a cabinet. There are spool drawers and pigeonholes for findings, a pattern file, and a flock of small drawers. One cabinet houses the sewing machine; another, a dress form; and top cabinets extending the length of the wall could provide space for fabrics as well as linens. blankets, and other household storage.

HOW TO USE A DRILL

To get the most out of your drill press, you should not only use it correctly, but use it, too, for jobs other than drilling holes. Accessories add great versatility

A "must" accessory is the drill press vise shown at the right. It bolts to the drill table, holds the work firmly in position, and ensures accurate work. Use "V" block to hold round stock as shown

It's important that you operate the drill at the correct speed for each accessory. Instruction book lists correct speeds. Shift belt on pulleys for right speed

To drill end of long piece, swing drill press head out over floor and clamp work to side of bench. Special wood bits cut faster and cleaner in wood Use adjustable boring tool shown to drill large holes in wood. Drill a small pilot hole first to guide drill. Clamp work securely and operate drill at low speed

A plug cutter is simply a hollow drill to cut out plugs to hide and cover screw heads. You can use it to cut small dowels by cutting into wood lengthwise

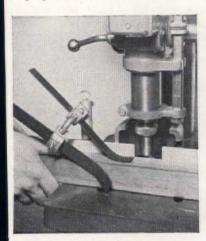

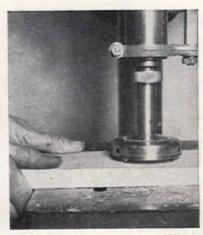

Mortising attachment cuts square holes used for good wood joints. Special fence has hold-down to hold work firmly on table. Depth gauge controls depth of cut Routing cutters allow you to do grooving, dovetailing, rabbeting, dadoing, inlaying, etc. Correct bit is lowered into work, locked in place, and work fed under bit

Shaping cutters allow you to cut molded edges. A special fence and spring hold-downs complete the rig. Always feed work from left to right, against cutters

Drill Press

Flat sander operates like the planer. For a satin-smooth finish, feed work through without any stops from beginning to end. Use spindle adapter for sanding, shaping, grinding, routing, buffing, and planing

Use sanding drums of different sizes for edge sanding. Use medium speed, and feed work into turning drum. For small work, use small dowel coated with glue and dipped in abrasive grit

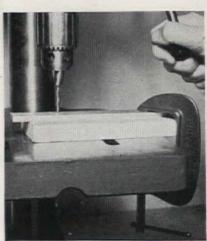

Wire brush can be used to remove rust from tools, cloth buffing wheels to polish metals and plastics, and you can use a cup-grinding wheel for sharpening tools and knives

When working with short lengths of material, make sure material is held firmly in place. Use "C" clamps if you don't have a vise. To avoid marring drill table, use a wood block under work, and set depth of stroke so drill stops short of table

A special paint-mixing attachment is also available. To use it, lower mixer to bottom of can, lock spindle in this position, and operate drill press at low speed. Hold can to avoid spilling paint. Then move can around so mixer gets into the corners

I've Been Promoted!

TERRY PELTIER

Champagne, anyone? A wilted potato chip, perhaps? Do join me. It's a celebration—I've just been told that I've been promoted!

Now don't go leaping to conclusions; I don't have to worry about paying more income tax because I've been upped to a higher wage bracket. There's no increase in money. It seems, on this job level, there's some difficulty in getting more money but I've earned a new title. And I'm pleased as punch for the recognition of my efforts.

Yes, I'm very happy. I've only had this job ten years. No, never any vacation or time off. And fortunately, I'm a healthy individual so I haven't been absent because of illness. Twice I was away from my post to be hospitalized, but that was in the line of duty. This is not a forty-hour, five-day-a-week job, but that's all right. I've enjoyed every minute of it.

It's true the duties have increased, and there are more little things to take care of. No, there's never been anyone else to help. This is strictly a one-girl office. As the "Gal Friday," I've done all the correspondence, made the appointments, scheduled activities, managed personnel and payroll, and handled the accounts receivable and accounts payable departments. My books always balanced out all right and my boss has been grateful. In fact, I don't think that I could have done all this for anyone else.

My official duties call for more than the usual secretarial or office routines. Why, I've even helped my boss pack for trips, acted as his hostess, taken care of him and his two children, and lately even taken his car to be serviced. I've at times been plumber, housekeeper, electrician, nurse, gardener, painter, laundress, window-washer, cook, teacher, and general handyman.

But I'm proud as can be! Today my boss told me that I've done such a good job over the years, in addition to being his wife, I was now his administrative assistant!

Today's Trend is to AIRTEMP

the home air conditioning system

by Chrysler

that cools in summer-heats in winter

Air on a mountain top doesn't need conditioning. But it's a far cry from fresh, pure mountain air to the air most of us breathe and live in.

Thousands of families who live in homes with Airtemp central air conditioning wonder how they ever got along without it. It's a completely new and wonderful experience to live all year 'round in clean, filtered air that's always the right temperature, always the proper humidity.

Nobody needs to tell you that on a hot, muggy day there's too much moisture in the air. An Airtemp system removes gallons of water from the air it brings into your home on a hot day. It filters out dust and pollen, soot and dirt—and bacteria, too. And cools the clean, filtered air to whatever temperature your Airtemp thermostat dictates—and you set the thermostat.

Why should air be conditioned in winter? Because it's even dirtier then. More soot, more coal smoke, more pollution. And often it is unhealthfully dry. An Airtemp system warms the filtered air and adds just the right amount of moisture for living comfort and healthful breathing. And it operates automatically. Just about all you do is flick a switch between seasons.

You have seen, in a house without air conditioning, how dust and dirt collects on furniture, in draperies, on walls. This is deposited there by air—the same air you and your family breathe. You've never seen a home stay as clean and fresh-looking as an Airtemp home where only filtered, fresh air is circulated.

No other system of air conditioning is as flexible as Airtemp. There is an "exactly right" system for any size house, old or new, in any climate. And if you've a water shortage problem, the new Airtemp waterless system is one of the most efficient advances in modern air conditioning. Why don't you invite your nearby Chrysler Airtemp Dealer—he's listed in the phone book—to come over and discuss Airtemp year 'round air conditioning in your home?

Ired of picnic tables with wobbly legs that threaten to balk when you tackle that barbecued steak? Then build this one that's really sturdy enough to "take it." The secret is the permanent pedestal of brick to which a stout wood top is well anchored. During the winter, only the top need be stored. But don't worry about that pedestal sitting there idly. It has other jobs to do, for when it isn't supporting the table top, it makes an attractive base for a bird bath or sun dial.

Common brick and mortar make this square pedestal. To hold the table top and bird bath, install a threaded metal rod into the top of the base while the mortar is still wet (to hold the table top on firmly, use a nut). For table top and benches, we suggest thick redwood, cypress, or stout pine boards. The simple benches we show are easy to build, sturdy, and convenient to carry about.

Protect the wood surfaces with a coat of boiled linseed oil mixed with turpentine or spar varnish. Before storing them for the winter, cleanse them thoroughly.

An added attraction here is the removable "lighting fixture"—a tray of wood that screws on to the central metal rod. It bears candleholders at either end—but be sure that you protect them with hurricane globes for safety when breezes blow.

probably be sufficient to do four chairs but, not wanting to be caught short with the fourth chair half finished, I took three cans with the understanding that I might return one if it were not used. This investment was $5.85.

With the impatience of a two-yearold filly at the post, I took my stance 12 inches from the surface of the first chair to be painted, pressed the release valve on the paint can, and out came a beautiful blue mist. For a few seconds all was well-until a "variable" wind reversed the spray first in my direction, and then far beyond the bounds of the newspaper. Not to be discouraged by a little wind, I waited for a lull and started again. This turned into a game of matching wits with the wind. Meantime. I moved closer to my target, thus producing unwanted rivulets and tiny volcanos. By moving away from my target. I was not only spraying the whole wide world, but the early spring grass was rapidly becoming bluegrass.

It was obvious upon reaching the third chair that sparring with the wind was a losing game. The three cans of paint by now had been consumed—and one chair still to go! Back to the paint store I went for a quart of blue enamel and a new brush—additional expense, $3.

As though life by now wasn't difficult enough, a truant rain cloud appeared in an otherwise sunny sky and a shower made it necessary to hurriedly carry the tacky chairs indoors to the cellar. Once again the stage was set with newspapers for another painting bout.

Having carried the last chair to the cellar, feeling like a frustrated handyman, and looking disheveled, forlorn, and spattered with paint, I was attracted by a familiar and ohso-gay voice calling through the screen door—an old friend who "just dropped in." I was caught—no time for lipstick or powder—powder, what am I saying? What I really needed was a good going over with turpentine. Well, we just laughed at my dilemma and, praise be, the visit was short.

Back to the cellar. Paint dry, but

Next morning I would run up the covers on the sewing machine in jigtime, and by noon all would be well. But the Fates were still against me. The sewing machine balked. Tension trouble-thread snarled under the shuttle. Having an aching right arm from the previous day's work, I was secretly pleased that my project was necessarily stopped for the day.

Your New Car

and freezer room. Think about costs for a minute. Nowadays, house space costs anywhere from $12 to $18 per square foot. But if you add a generous four feet to each dimension of a 20' x 11' basic garage, you get an additional 140 square feet for a great deal less than house space would cost to build. So the moral is: enlarge your garage to house facilities that needn't crowd the far more expensive space inside your home.

In much new housing, the one-car garage has been replaced by the oneand-a-half car garage. But in these days of two-car families, the two-anda-half car garage makes equally good sense. The added space can be at the side or at the rear. If it's at the rear, it's wise to partition it off lest your car roll forward some fine day, and dent Junior's wagon-or scratch its own fender.

No need for your garage to look like Fibber McGee's closet! Use the walls, not the floor, for house and vard equipment. Hooks can hold garden tools, large and small-they'll look neater, be easier to latch on to. and use less space that way than if they're on the floor. Be careful, however, not to hang them where they may scrape against your car as you drive it into the garage.

Hooks, screwed to the rafters or supporting members of the ceiling can keep children's wheeled toys and sleds out of the way out of seasonsuspend them upside down, from rope strung between the wheels.

You can go farther with your garage—as far as the spirit moves you. If there's space and inclination, build cupboards for polishing cloths, waxes, chains, and other things for your car, as well as spare tools and other small items.

If your garage has attic space, you can reach it by means of a ladder which folds into the ceiling. Another, more readily available, way to use every cubic foot to best advantage is by means of a balcony of sorts built in the otherwise wasted area dows, screens, an old trunk or two,

above the car's hood. Many a home owner has almost magically created a storage area in this way. Such a balcony is actually an oversized shelf, about three feet deep, located about five feet off the floor. It can extend the full width of the back of the garage. It's not too hard to construct garage), add cross members, a framework, and planks. On such a king-size shelf you can stack storm win-

-just put up supporting posts at the sides (and at the center of a double and have room to spare for all sorts of miscellany.

A postscript about one such installation-a wrinkle for anyone with a shallow garage that compels precision parking to permit the door to close behind that fine new long car: one owner located a target line on the edge of the "balcony" over the hood space. When he drives in, he pulls forward until that target is lined up perfectly with his radiator ornament. That's where he stops, with his front bumper nuzzling the rear wall of the garage, but not trying to push through.

If you do not have an above-hood storage area, you can locate a point on the rear wall of the garage, lined up with some forward part of the car diagonally to the right of the driver's point of vision. To do so, drive the car until a helper tells you that you're in perfect position. Then sight over the radiator ornament, or right fender crown, or whatever point of reference you choose. Your helper will be standing in front, at the right of the car, with a piece of chalk or crayon. You can direct him where to make a mark precisely in line with your reference point. Then paint the mark-or, better yet, use a vertical strip of pressure-sensitive tape that can be readily moved if your next model has different dimensions.

native azaleas. In eastern United States there are 20 kindsmore deciduous species than in all the rest of the world. Abroad, they are regarded as among the finest ornaments of horticulture. Here, at home, they are almost unknown-and not because they are hard to grow or have such limited decorative value that they appeal mainly to botanists. Almost all are hardy and of easy culture, and most of them provide colorful displays scarcely matched by any other shrub. Fortunately, they are gradually becoming available from a few appreciative nurseries.

···AZALEAS

Botanically, American azaleas are deciduous rhododendrons, and are so called in most catalogues. Of our 20 native species, five are prime favorites with specialists. One of the most appealing is a white variety, album, of Rhododendron vaseyi. Its abundant large blossoms have a glistening purity which makes them more attractive in gardens than the nondescript pink flowers of the type species; jauntily held, they give the plant an airy grace, as light and carefree as a cloud come to earth. Blooming in early May, it forms an ideal background for trilliums, wild phlox, violets, etc. Hardy even at 25° below zero, it will in time grow to about 15 feet in height.

The beloved Rhodora of New England (R. canadense) is another early blooming species with a rarer white variety which blooms and combines well with the white R. vaseyi, but grows to a convenient height of about two feet. Fully hardy, it is

A NEW FACE Sets a NEW PACE

It's both a pleasant room and a pleasant idea-this "kitchen-garden room" that started life as a back porch. Now transformed, it gives the William Scott Kings of West Los Angeles the family room and garden room everyone wants-and it improved their whole home by opening their living room and dining room to their beloved garden. Working along with a good carpenter, Mr. King did the transforming. They added eight feet to the porch, cut back the roof and extended it at a more gradual slope, installed glazed walls, added a barbecue, fireplace, and turned a former window into a doorway to their kitchen. To enlarge the space visually, Decorators Bob Anderson and Brian Barlow used furniture with little bulk (their own design) and kept to a black and white colorscheme with a few splashes of orange, sharp green, and lemon—the adjacent garden supplies the rest of the "color." Now Mrs. King, who loves to cook, and Mr. King, who loves to garden, have a madeto-order background where the outdoors, brought indoors, adds a new pace to their lives and makes their informal entertaining better than ever.

appreciated for the contrast of its blue-green leaves. A cup and a half of sulphur scattered over a square yard around it will ensure its welfare by making the soil definitely acid. as necessary for this white azalea. The Rhodora is especially effective planted in masses. Its delicate, distinctively modeled flowers, though not large, are produced freely and make a brave show; they have won the praise of poets and the affection of growers.

There seem to be so few good dwarf shrubs for use in foundation plantings and wherever low stature is desirable. why overlook the four native azaleas that grow tidily to not more than five feet? One is R. atlanticum which spreads by underground runners to form handsome clumps hardly more than 18" tall. Its blossoms, borne profusely in late May in white and shades of pink, have the fragrance of oriental lilies, are of good size and make an impressive display. Plants of the northern strains are hardier than those from the Carolina lowlands and should therefore be sought for use in cold regions.

he Flame Azalea (R. calendulaceum) is probably the best known of the natives because of the way it lights up garden or landscape with its radiant rainbows of pink, red, orange, and gold in late May or early June. It has two little-known relatives of superb flowering quality which bloom much later where their contribution is especially welcome. First comes R. bakeri, with spectacular orangecolored flowers about July 1. Hardy to 25° below zero, it becomes about ten feet tall when mature and is an undisputed star. Later, from July into August, when few other woody plants bloom, R. prunifolium illuminates the garden with a blaze of scarlet unique in its vividness. Growing to a height of ten feet or more, it is less hardy than the other four, but grows well as far north as central Pennsylvania. It has received the Award of Merit of the Royal Horticultural Society of England-a signal honor for a shrub almost unknown in its native land.

The native azaleas want a porous, acid soil containing abundant humus. When planting them, it is wise to discard the subsoil and spread the roots in a mixture of equal parts topsoil and peat moss. In partial shade, the flowers last longer, but less than half a day of sunlight will mean fewer of them. Best to buy are nursery-grown plants either propagated from seed, or collected in the wild, cut back, and grown into shapely specimens. If they are taken directly from wilderness to garden, prune them back to several inches from the ground or they will not attain the vigor and beauty for which they are so admired abroad.

rape-myrtle, a beautiful shrub or tree when covered with its feathery blooms of pink, orchid, red, purple, or snowy white, is far more adaptable than most people realize. Long beloved in the South and admired there by visitors, it is more and more appearing in northern gardens, too. Thirty years ago, L. H. Bailey wrote, "In the North the root may survive if well protected, and strong shoots will arise that give bloom the same year." Yet only now are northern nurservmen putting that knowledge to good use, advertising crape-myrtle in their catalogues, and suggesting that it be treated as an herbaceous perennial-that is, cut to the ground in fall and well mulched. The vigorous shoots, that spring up as warm weather comes, start to branch out while less than two feet tall and soon take on the characteristic spreading form, making low fountains of color. In my Louisiana garden, plants self-sow, many volunteers coming up around the large specimens; these I take up and plant in rows, and what exquisite new shades I get on some of them!

Called botanically Lagerstroemia indica because it was introduced from India where it had grown for centuries, crape-myrtle is native to China. Like many old things, it is tough and persistent; plants live on around southern home sites whence all buildings have vanished, surviv

are quality tested

The outward appearance of flower and vegetable seeds tells nothing about their inner quality.

That's why, in an average year, we make over 13,000 trial plantings of Ferry's Seeds. Then we check the resulting vegetables for trueness to type, yield, color and taste... and the flowers for size, number and fragrance of blooms.

The net result is that you get the highest possible quality when you buy Ferry's Seeds. Choose from the Ferry's Seeds display at your dealer's.

Crape-myrtle

Pink, mostly seen in old gardens, seems to be its natural color, but recently "watermelon red" has become popular and, occasionally, purples and whites are grown. A fleshpink form found in an old Louisiana garden and propagated, has gradually become rather widespread. With huge, heavy, drooping flower heads, it is breath-takingly graceful and lovely. A delicate orchid form with similar "weeping" habit runs it a close second. For a delightful shaded walk (where the plants are hardy) keep the smooth, creamy-tan trunk and larger branches pruned free of twigs so their curving grace can be fully appreciated. In a few years, the branches will meet overhead forming a canopy of color in summer. Later, the foliage takes on flame tints; then, in winter, even when the leaves are shed, the branch structure forms a lovely

Crape-myrtle is not particular as to soil and will flower in sun or semi-shade, though in the North full sun would probably be advisable. Severe pruning to shrub form and prompt removal of faded flowers will produce more, larger, better masses of bloom. Gardeners trying it will, I think, agree that crape-myrtle is truly the queen of the summer garden.

CUCURBIT GROWING

A HOBBY FOR GARDENERS

William Will's "King" cucumbers and Uncle Dan's watermelons challenge all comers

ong popular in Europe, the English Frame or Forcing Telegraph cucumber is little known and grown in this country, save In estate greenhouses. Yet it is the "king of cucumbers," extraordinarily tender and delicious, almost seedless when at its best for salad or pickling, and handsome, with a "bloom" (like that on grapes) when well grown and carefully handled. While it does best on a trellis or wires in a moist, 65° greenhouse and is not an easy outdoor garden crop, nevertheless it can be grown rewardingly in a coldframe by the following simple method that I developed after several years of experimenting.

In May, dig a hole 18" across and 10" deep in the center of a coldframe, mounding the soil evenly around it. Put in 8" of decaved manure or, lacking that, sods laid upside down and "fortified" with some good fertilizer. In the center, stand a 6" clay flower pot and, while holding it in place, pull the soil around it until it is buried half its depth. After danger of frost is over, press into the soil around the pot, a few inches away from it, six or eight seeds. (They are justifiably more expensive than those of ordinary kinds, perhaps $1 a dozen.) Water with a gentle spray and put the sash on the frame; but remove it for a while

MARBLE IRIS GARDENS BOX 387B GRANDVIEW, WASHINGTON every clear day, putting it back in the afternoon. When the seedlings appear, apply water with a dipper around them for a fortnight or so; thereafter, whenever necessary to prevent the soil from drying out, fill the flower pot so the water can seep out to the spreading roots. A little soluble fertilizer in the water every two weeks will speed growth and, later, prolong the bearing season. When the plants are three inches high, pull out all but the largest three. Dust weekly with a rotenone dust.

Being by nature climbers, the plants will grow up for 10" or so, then bend of their own weight and start to spread; when they do, guide them to point outward like spokes in a wheel. When they are 18" long-but no sooner-vou can take the sash off for the season. This is a crucial point; unless kept warm while small, the plants will not start to run, Later on, you can carefully cut off a few of the big leaves; this lets the sunlight in to dry the pollen and also makes it easier for the bees that visit the flowers and effect pollination and fruit formation. Start harvesting when the fruits are a foot long, but don't pick all at once; left on the vine they remain usable for a long time. If you want to save seed, put a shingle under the first one to develop, with a sign, "Don't picksave for seed." Before frost it should be about two feet long, and yield 24 or more seeds.—WILLIAM WILL

Our Uncle Dan could, I suppose, have become a family problem. Some men do, left alone at 75. But he is a real asset to our household, and one reason is his hobby—watermelon growing. Not that it's an unusual one here in the South; the secret is the way he does it. It's Uncle Dan's goal; it gives him a zest for living; puts him in a class by himself. He aims for the season's first red-ripe melon in our community—and he hasn't missed yet. Sometimes he beats his nearest competitor by weeks.

How? By seed selection, soil preparation, drainage, feeding, cultivation (even in winter to kill weed seeds), irrigation and, especially, an early start by sowing seed indoors. Several weeks before time to plant outside, he cuts milk cartons in half, puts a few holes in the bottom, and fills them with a mixture of half well-rotted manure and half garden soil rubbed through a coarse sieve. In each he plants, one inch deep, six seeds. His portable patch flourishes in the east kitchen window until danger of frost is past. (He keeps careful temperature records and checks radio forecasts regularly.) Come plantingout day, he cuts the bottoms off the "pots," leaving the plants undisturbed and protected against cutworms. Then water, weed control, proper feeding (that's his secret)—and, before anyone but he expects it, the first whopper of the season (like the 50-pounder shown above) is ready, with many more to follow.—JULIA COLLIER

as the formal, stately beauty of some tulip plantings you have seen intimidated you and made you feel that tulips weren't for you and your little garden where you want informality and intimacy? Then take another look at tulips, as they are being increasingly used to gain lovely effects—in small clumps, odd nooks and corners, alone or combined with other spring flowers. Look especially at the newer kinds, as well as some of the older but less common varieties that are all too frequently ignored when broad, uniform color masses are the objective.

You will be surprised by the many variations from the traditional "goblet-shaped" flower form. And by the many ways in which they can be used to create charming effects outdoors, and also delightfully different flower arrangements within. Look for the lily-flowered type with slender, pointed petals, such as the pink Marietta at the top of the upper picture; and for shaggy, rampant "Parrots," like Texas Gold, just below it. Both types open wide to saucerlike form and remarkable dimensions. Consider the new peony-flowered doubles, like snowy Mt. Tacoma shown in the center picture; and the very early species tulips, whose short-stemmed blooms look like waterlilies lying on the ground. And don't forget that every year sees new varieties in the standard Darwin, Breeder, and Cottage or May-flowering classes; one of the last is the handsome red Spring Song seen here as it would look to an admiring hoptoad.

How to Make a Compost Bin for $200

CHESTER TAYLOR

7ith two bundles of ordinary building lath and a pound of small nails, you can, in a couple of hours, make a folding compost bin 4' x 2' x 4' high that will suffice for the average small garden, and that can be stored in small space when not in use. Make two sides, each of 17 lath spaced one lath apart and nailed to three horizontal crosspieces made of two lath for added strength. For the ends, make the double crosspieces half a lath long, and for the uprights, use nine lath. Set up the four parts in an inconspicuous but convenient place, and wire or tie the corners at top, middle, and bottom. (Strong cord will hold the bin together but permit you to fold it flat for storage; the pieces separately.) In it put vegetable refuse of all kinds, spreading on every ten-inch layer an inch or so of manure or soil, plus a dusting of ground limestone. Wet down occasionally if the rains don't do it. After a couple of months, dump, refill, leave until "composted."

IDEA: SCREEN THE SOIL

A piece of wire screening can bring several benefits to potted plants. Firm it down over the soil, and it will reduce the force of the water from your garden hose, and so expedite watering and prevent the soil from being washed away. In addition, it will discourage growth of weeds.-c. c. CHUVAX places as the Sunbeam School for Crippled Children, where the happiness they put into other eyes bounces back to light up their own.

An imaginative, hard-working mother of two boys, Mrs. Elberta Wagner Fleming, is the director who "sparks" the museum. It is run by a board of trustees, headed by Dr. Bruno Gebhard, director of the Cleveland Health Museum, and is supported by memberships and contributions. Mrs. Fleming, whose husband is an industrial engineer, had studied entymology and conservation at Ohio State University Graduate School, and had specialized in scientific illustration. While doing research in New York, she was inspired by the Brooklyn Children's Museum, and returned to Cleveland enthused about fitting a do-and-learn program to her own community.

Now, as a hobby, she and Mr. Fleming spend their time and talents making nature attractive for others. The Flemings often lodge museum pets in their own basement, and visitors are amazed to see the glasspaneled beehive young Alex and Dave keep in their bedroom.

HANDY HOLSTER FOR PRUNERS

Whenever you are working around the garden, it's well to keep a pair of pruning shears handy, wherever you go. So hang that toy six-gun holster, outgrown or discarded by Junior (or otherwise obtained by some diplomatic and mutually satisfactory arrangement), on your belt over your right or left hip, depending on whether you are right-or left-handed. Then you won't mislay the shears and you, too, will be "quick on the draw."

about these things," Mrs. Fleming states. "Parents' aversion to bugs and frisky little creatures can stifle a child's curiosity, a curiosity that might lead to medicine or science. Certainly it can develop appreciation of the adventures in nature.

"Sometimes I think our museum is educating more parents than children," says Mrs. Fleming. She watches mothers reconcile themselves to handling small, harmless snakes, just so their children will not develop unnecessary fears. One father, who had demanded the immediate eviction of a guinea pig, was found, a few nights later, monopolizing and petting the animal while his son stood by empty-handed but pleased.

Although professional guidance is valuable, it is far from essential, if a community decides to establish a junior museum. Most needed are a dozen or so co-operative adults who are willing to give it as much time as they would to a club or lodge.

"The children can bring in enough animals from vacation trips and country weekends to start a museum," assures Mrs. Fleming. "How to tend them can be picked up readily from books." If permanent quarters are lacking, the "library" can be housed in first one and then another family basement. Once the project is in business, it will quickly attract a swarm of eager, young would-be naturalists, including older children to serve as junior curators.

Nature programs often fail to hold interest because they are nothing more than busy work, Mrs. Fleming believes, "But a lending museum gives the children an activity into which they can put their hearts as well as their hands,"

Ladybugs

invasion by aphids or other succulent plant pests. Then sow a few handfuls among flowers or vegetables and they will quickly thaw out and start to work. Best of all, they are "selective," preying only on plant enemies and rarely, if ever, bothering beneficial insects; and, while "doing what comes naturally," they also serve as pollinators of the plants they protect.

n the far west at high elevations, they gather in vast swarms to hibernate. This makes it possible to collect, store, and sell them-at from $3.50 to $5 per "garden package" of some 30,000. I would say that $15 worth would take care of an average growing season in a small garden, allowing for those that unavoidably get blown or migrate to other gardens (and who minds spreading beneficial things like ladybugs?). By comparison, my May to September bill for insecticides used to run about $30.

Incidentally, some kinds-particularly the species you are likely to get when you buy, which is called the "convergent ladybug" (Hippodamia convergens)-tend to roam less widely than others. A female (for, paradoxically, the name "ladybug" is applied without prejudice to both sexes) will lay, on the underside of a leaf, some 700 eggs which, in a few days, hatch out ugly little six-legged larvae resembling miniature alligators. These promptly adopt the hunting and eating habits of their parents until, after about 20 days, when 1/4" long, they attach themselves to a leaf, shrink into mummylike pupae, and "rest" for a week or so before emerging as adult ladybugs ready to start a new cycle.

When aphids, etc. appear on your plants, hie you to the refrigerator, get a few handfuls of the sleepy ladies, and sling them around with a slow, sweeping motion, the way you'd sow grass seed, working them into the mulch or loose soil around the plant roots. Best time to do it is before sunup or after sundown while it's cool, and just after or before sprinkling the area; after a good sleep, the ladies are thirsty—you'd be so yourself. Just one caution: Prolonged cold (below 36°) tends to act like an overdose of sleeping pills -fatally. So don't store ladybugs in the freezer unit.)

Lanking for Something?

We had a typical problem: Our house is one of those built-after-the-war jobs—too small, and with a combined living-dining room that was good for neither. What to do? Should we sell at a loss, pay high for a new home—or build an addition? Because we love our grounds and are sentimentally attached to the house, and because the children refused to leave neighborhood friends, we built the addition—this practical, pine-paneled room that adds spaciousness to our entire house. We believe that it comes close to being an ideal family room for the average young American couple. It's a large dining and "take it easy" room off the kitchen and the living room that's a real living room now. (In the picture directly below, you can see how a former kitchen window became a pass-through.)

What did it cost? Other couples who think they can't afford the added rooms they dream of might take a tip from us. We decided to make ourselves afford it—by cutting out extras, staying at home, and saving $50 each month. The $3,000 we saved in five years paid for the new room, and other improvements to our home.

Your heating system is a "sitting duct" for adding G-E cooling

You'll experience a new kind of living when you add a G-E summer cooling unit to your present heating system. "Scorchers" won't bother you any more, for you'll sleep cool, wake and work refreshed and find new pep and energy on summer's hottest days.

If you have a forced warm air heating system, it's usually easy and inexpensive to add G-E cooling, for it costs as little as $30 per month on a three-year FHA or local bank loan (after a small down payment). You use the same duct system for cooling that you use for heating—and that means you live cool in every room.

But regardless of what type of heating system you have, you will find G-E cooling is less expensive than you think.

Your local G-E Home Heating & Cooling dealer will give you the facts—without any obligation. For your convenience, you'll find his name listed in the Yellow Pages of your phone directory.

Pool Costs

a 16' x 30' job; and filtering systems, where they are desired, may run to an additional $1,000 to $1,500. Professional costs may also be affected by the number of pools being built in your neighborhood—the more, the cheaper, of course.

STEEL POOLS are made of heavy-gauge steel welded at the pool site to eliminate any chance of leaks. The steel is coated with long-lasting enamel which provides a smooth and easily cleaned surface. The cost of such a pool, 16' x 30', complete with excavation, installation, landscaping—all without a finger lifted on your part—will be in the neighborhood of $3,800.

POURED CONCRETE is probably the most popular type of pool construction, and while the per-cubic-foot cost is high for small pools, it decreases rapidly as the size of the pool increases. This is because the wooden forms needed for its construction are expensive to set up with paid labor. But it costs little more to set up the forms for a comparatively long and deep pool than for a smaller and shallower one. So if you have your eye on a really big pool, poured concrete is competitive with other materials in price. Aside from painting the inside with waterproof paint for decorative effect, a good poured concrete pool shouldn't require much in the way of maintenance. In the 16' x 30' size, it will set you back $4,000 to

HOW REINFORCED BRICK MASONRY POOL CONSTRUCTION WORKS:

Here's how the brick pool illustrated on page 50 looked while building was going on. Footings and bottom are poured concrete, with steel reinforcing rods set into the footings. Two walls of standard brick are then laid with a cavity between, the cavity later filled with concrete. No expensive forms are needed, and the brick can be laid by any skilled bricklayer even if he is unfamiliar with pool construction. All labor costs for this 21' x 55' pool came to $1,366

$6,000 fully built and landscaped. You can get a good reinforced concrete pool for less, however. If soil conditions are just right, it is possible to pour a pool without using forms: a trench is dug, and the sides of the trench serve as forms. With this method, it is often possible to build a 16' x 30' pool for less than $3,000. Still another money-saving method, which costs about the same as the one just mentioned, is to use precast reinforced concrete panels, cast and cured at a central plant.

THE GUNITE PROCESS is another type of concrete construction. Here metal wire mesh is put down, then coated with concrete sprayed on under pressure with a special pump and hose. Somewhat less expensive than reinforced concrete, since no forms are required, it is also desirable for irregularly shaped pools, since the wire can be easily shaped. On the other hand, the cost per cubic foot remains about the same regardless of the pool size. Pools made by the Gunite process cost from $3,000 to $4,000 for the 16' x 30' size.

"FREE-FORM" CONSTRUCTION is a very inexpensive method of building concrete pools in parts of the country where you don't get freezing weather. Here a saucer-shaped excavation is made, and the concrete is trowled directly on the earth-no forms, no wire-mesh reinforcing. But it hasn't been around long enough for us to know how well it will stand up. Old pros are skeptical.

one, measuring a big 21' x 55' was completely installed professionally for $3,632 including a filtering system. An almost identical pool, without filtering system, was built by the same contractor for $2,600-and a 16' x 30' size would cost considerably less. It was designed and built for the Orton Borens of Pleasant Garden, North Carolina, by E. H. Roberts, a Raleigh contractor who worked from a design developed by the Brick & Tile Service, Inc., and the details on page 140 show how it works. No forms are required, no special equipment is needed to build it, and the cost of the actual materials is low (the brick in this case came to only $926). Another advantage is that the brick requires no finishing of any sort, either at the time of construction or as annual upkeep.

FAMILY-PROJECT POOL—WITH SOME PROFESSIONAL HELP

The Hilmar Muellers of Hamilton Square, New Jersey, got themselves the dandy 20' x 40' pool shown on page 50 for a cash outlay of $1,000.80, part of which went to pay professionals for pouring the floor. They did the rest of the work themselves, and to hear them tell it, the building of it was almost as much fun as the using. The Mueller's two daughters coralled their beaux, young Bobby Mueller rounded up his Cub group, and Mother and Father worked along as well as masterminding. "We loved doing it together," Mrs. Mueller reports. "Lots of fun, and many pic-nics." The volunteers have enjoyed the fruits of their labors as well as the labor itself, for last summer the Mueller pool was used by 175 different people. The brick trim was added later, and the Muellers now intend to add a barbecue-fireplace and another terrace.

Did the Muellers have any special qualifications for pool building? Yes, they did. For one thing, Mr. Mueller owns and operates a machine shop, a fact which suited him for the project temperamentally, and also put at his disposal all the machinery and tools needed for the pool piping. Also, states his wife: "My husband is a very energetic person and hard work doesn't frighten him. When we first bought our home and saw the acre of lawn, my husband remarked, 'We should build a swimming pool here to cut down on the grass mowing.' How that remark backfired!"

As to construction method, the Muellers used concrete masonry block with reinforcing rods to make a 12-inch cement wall, and the pool has, to date, survived a few winters with no leaks nor cracks. Pool contractors, in general, don't believe that concrete block is as durable as poured concrete, steel, or Gunite. But it is an excellent do-it-yourself material because you can build a bit at a time, and knock off when you please. With poured concrete, when the time for pouring comes you have umpteen yards of concrete on your hands, and you just have to go on pouring until the job is finished. Concrete block is not a satisfactory material for pool floors, so the Muellers have a poured concrete floorpoured by professionals.

THE SMITHS BUILT IT THEMSELVES

Back in May, 1953, we first published the full story of the ownerbuilt poured-concrete pool our own Charlie Smith (he's the A.H. representative up in Boston) made for himself, his wife, and their young brood. At that time, Charlie wrote: "After reading innumerable articles and talking to people who had built pools of all sizes, we had moments of hesitation, partly because of the economic aspect, party because of all it involves in community relationships. Perhaps you have had the same desire, only finally to develop cold feet and give up the idea. Well, in our case, the 'ayes' won out, and we want to say that our pool is the best thing we've ever done; our best investment since the basic one of buying our home. . . . The reward comes for everyone concerned-pool pleasure, under strict, but simple and sensible rules." That pleasure is still going strong-big returns for $290.39 though Charlie wishes it were larger. To save on the excavating and prevent debris from getting into the pool, walls extend 18 inches above ground level.

A red-nosed Fokker slowly spun to earth

AT 4:30 P. M., on October 30, 1918, a lone Spad biplane, marked with the symbol of the "Hat-in-the-Ring" Squadron, hawked down through the quiet skies over Grande Pré. Seconds later, a burst of its guns smashed into a low-flying Fokker and sent the German plane swirling to earth.

Captain Eddie Rickenbacker had downed his last enemy plane of the war, setting a combat record never equaled: 26 victories in 7 months. It made him the American ace of aces.

Earlier, his mother had written, "fly slowly and close to the ground"; but it was advice that Eddie Rickenbacker has never been able to take. His courage, ingenuity and drive are typical of America's greatest asset.

Happy Shack

Everyone who came had two things in common: they all would admire the beautiful island; and they all would complain about how small and cold the tent was! From these two facts a spark was kindled! "I wonder if the island could be bought?" Of course, if it could, I would just make a down payment and maybe, in years to come, build a cabin there.

That line of reasoning, and the small, cold tent sold the idea to Mrs. Judy, so one Monday morning, at 9 A.M., found me at Register of Deeds

Office to find out the name of the owner. Much to my surprise, I found that the island

MATERIALS LIST FOR THE HAPPY SHACK BUILDING 6 storm sash at special price of $6 each Miscellaneous materials Material for door, 1 window. screens, interior shelving, belonged to a widow who was perfectly willing to sell it for the sum for which her husband had bought it from the government 20 years earlier! We had nothing to lose, so shortly one of the prettiest spots in this North Country belonged to us.

Now that we owned the land, the little cold tent, and the period of waiting until we could afford to build a cabin both became almost unbearable. For this reason, we started to collect magazines, books, and folders which gave plans and specifications of beautiful cabins located on properties almost as beautiful as ours. All of these cabins, however, had one thing in common: they were just too expensive for us. We are just like several other million families in the United States. We own our own home in town, and need, and can afford, an inexpensive hideaway-but certainly not one of the de luxe cabins shown in most present day magazines and plan books.

ather than wait until we could afford an expensive cabin, we started to play with the idea of designing our own, strictly on an economy basis. To start with, we listed our wants and found them quite simple. All we desired was a small, one-room cabin, warm enough to use in winter and yet cool in the summer. We further felt that the plan should be adequate to sleep four people, but accommodate six or eight for meals and as a warming shelter.

With these ideas to work on, I started sketching, and finally made a scale model out of an outboard motor carton. But no matter how I figured, the expenses always exceeded our budgetuntil I conceived the idea of just a large box 12' x 20' x 8', with a sloping lid (all of the slope is in the lid itself). This cut the expenses down by more than 25%, and made it much easier to build, for all work was square, all studs the same length, and the ceiling joist would be the rafters, holding the insulation board ceiling on the lower side, and the roof sheathing on the top.

With these ideas in mind, I went to see our lumber dealer and was amazed to find that all materials, if we used storm sash for windows and made our own door, could be purchased for slightly less than $500. This was the best news we had received since buying the island. In addition to this good news, he gave us more. The plans were so simple, they would gladly cut all materials to length for us, and diagonally cut the 2 x 10's for the rafters.

"FOR RUNNING WATER RUN TO THE LAKE"

It took only one evening for us to decide that this was the kind of a cabin we wanted-and could afford. So the next morning I called the lumber yard and told them to start work fabricating the material, and Happy Shack really started to become a reality.

All this was in January, our coldest month which often times averages 20 below zero. Needless to say, this presented us with many problems. The two most important were, first, getting the lumber to the island which is located two miles from the mainland and the closest road; and second, building in below-zero weather, for the cabin had to be finished before spring, when our busy season started again.

The problem of transportation was solved in two ways. We watched ice and snow conditions carefully, and when they were right, we hauled the dimension materials with a car and trailer. Before we got the windows, door, and roofing over, however, the snow became too deep for driving—so we pulled some of the stuff over with a snow sled; the rest, we pulled on a sled by hand.

As for the construction in belowzero weather, that did not present as much of a problem as we thought it would. We pitched THE TENT close to the work, put a stove in it, kept the nails hot, kept mittens on our hammer hands, and kept on working. The most rugged day we had was the day we framed the roof-and that was 27° below zero with a strong northwest wind blowing. We kept the nails hot, however, and by using parkas, we did not suffer too much. Pre-cutting all the materials and the fact that units four feet wide would fit everywhere, helped a great deal. In other words, the assembly was just nailing.

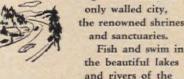

After the roof was framed, and the subfloor and sides were up, we moved in a portable L.P. gas stove. From then on, it was easy—for no matter what the weather, we could work in comfort. We protected the roof sheathing with asphalt paper until a suitable warm day in April, and then applied granulated roofing.

Perhaps a fitting summary would be to list the things we like about Happy Shack, why we like them, and why, if we build again, we will use the same construction. Also, in all fairness we should list all the mistakes that have made themselves evident.

- 1. We especially like the weather-proof composition sheathing we used, and would use it, or other material of similar specifications, again because: (a) The structural strength made one treatment sufficient. (b) The insulation value is such that the cabin is usable in extreme winter weather as well as in summer. (c) By using the same sheathing for the subfloor under the flooring, we found our cabin to be absolutely vermin-, termite-, and mildew-proof. (d) We found the one treatment at $128 per M. to be most economical.
- 2. We especially like the wide eaves, because: (a) They protect the sheathing from the weather so that other protection such as siding or paint, will not be necessary for several years. (b) The wide eaves provide an excellent storage place for such items as L.P. gas tanks, outboard motors, wood piles, etc.

Happy Shack

(c) The cabin itself is protected from driving rain, which so often causes damage to buildings with narrow eaves.

3. The use of storm sash, hinged from the sill on the inside, was an economy measure which we thought we would replace, but now we are finding them quite satisfactory. The way they are hinged and protected by the wide eaves, it never rains in when the windows are open in the summer months. In the winter, outside storm sash are used.

4. The flat roof: We especially like the flat, or semi-flat roof on our Happy Shack. Frankly, we were quite skeptical, for so many of the old-timers who know nothing but pitched roofs advised against it. They said that a flat roof simply would not hold the excessive snow load of our country. They also said that the roof would leak in the summer. On both counts they were wrong, for to our surprise, the snow does not pile up on our flat roof since the wind blows it off. The roof has never leaked a drop, and seems to be standing up very nicely.

5. Another convenience we like very much, although not exactly a part of the building, is the L.P. gas. We have trouble-free fuel for cooking, refrigeration, and lights, for approximately $18 a year!

Our dislikes are very much in the minority, in fact there is only one thing that we would do differently if we build again. This one thing is that we would build slightly larger. Perhaps 14' x 24', so that we could have more guests and so have more fun in our Happy Shack.

Ironstone

Like so many fine examples of the potter's art, it originated in 18thcentury England. Credit for popularizing the ware and the name goes to Charles James Mason, an enterprising potter of the Stokes-on-Trent region who first produced it in 1797. But in 1800, John and William Turner patented a similar ware they called Turner's Patent Stone. During the first years of the 19th century, Wedgwood, Spode, and other factories made products rather like it.

Finally, in 1813, Mason received a patent for Ironstone, a name derived perhaps from the ground slag that is one of its components-and wonderfully descriptive of its durable properties. It "caught on" and became enormously popular in England and Continental Europethanks to its name, its sturdiness, its comparatively low price-and to Mason's flair for promoting it. If you'd like to know how writers described such items in early 19thcentury England, here is a quotation from a magazine of that period: "By virtue of grace of line and tasteful relief, it is eminently fitted for families of highest rank. It is much used in the houses of nobility and the upper classes and is deserving to be in every home of taste." !!!

Some early Ironstone was very elaborate - and some was far from beautiful. But the Ironstone that has continued to please the eye through the years is characterized by the beloved simple classical shapes and the splendid bluish-white glazes, sometimes enriched by low relief.

Along with Mason and his successors, other manufacturers in England made similar ware, and it was also made in 19th-century America, principally in the neighborhood of East Liverpool, Ohio. Some British firms called their product Ironstone, some Royal Ironstone China, or Stone China, and sometimes stamped it with the name of the producer, and even the Royal Arms of England. In this country it was known by such names as "stone china," "opaque china," "white granite." But because some patterns became traditional, because new factories often acquired old molds, and because many factories "pirated" it despite Mason's patent, it is often difficult to date old pieces, or even to tell in which country they were made.

The examples of modern Ironstone shown on page 52 among some antiques, are reproductions, faithful both in shape and general appearance. True ovenware, they are fired at higher temperatures than old Ironstone, and it will not discolor.

To tell which pieces we illustrate are old and which new, see the answers on page 147.

No problem to build, they render service in a multitude of different ways. For instance, saddle the two horses with a plank between them, and you have a strong platform to stand on when painting. With their extensions in place and a flush door (or several planks) on top, you have a spare dining table for indoor or outside use. And don't forget that they're also gaited as regular carpenter's sawhorses. When not in use, the horses can be conveniently stacked on top of each other and stabled in a closet. Lower-grade lumber for these will cost as little as two dollars.

"Work Horses"

To build horses, you'll need about 22 feet of 2 x 4; 11 feet of 1 x 4 stock; and 56 wood screws, 1½" No. 8. Cut as shown at right. Draw lines 17" from each end on opposite faces of 40" 2 x 4's. Join these lines with diagonal across edges, and saw on this line to make tapered cut at leg's tops. Then cut legs 18½" long, making bottom cut at right angles to tapered cut so that legs will sit squarely on the ground

In our February issue, the word "technicolor" was used, as it often is by Americans, as a generic adjective. We have been advised by the Technicolor Motion Picture Corporation that this attractive word, coined by them, is their registered trademark, and may be correctly applied only to products of their company. ### Good Victuals

Not so happy with Jean Austin was Mrs. Paul R. Schnaitter, of Madison, Indiana. In fact, quite bitter was Mrs. Schnaitter. It seems she did my Hazelnut Torte, and in her own words "It was a complete flop. Only my gallant husband said it was good . . felt like sending you a bill for the pan, specially bought for this, and the materials used." Well, if she was in a high dudgeon, think how I felt! This, an old stand-by, made just as I told it, these many years, and always a joy! We scanned the recipe, thinking there must have been a typographical error. Nope-recipe just as it should be. Desperate, we cooked it again, then and there. Light and beautiful as ever, the mystery deepened-until we got a letter from Mrs. Adam Kochanski, who lives in Washington, D. C. "Good" said she, but "wondering whether it was just right. When we said 'mashed potatoes' did we mean potatoes merely boiled and mashed, or mashed with the usual salt, butter, and warm milk"? The clue we needed! We did mean "potatoes merely boiled and mashed"-not prepared as a table vegetable. Sorry we were not more specific, but we just plumb forgot that our readers did not know that any recipe calling for "mashed potatoes" means just that. Salt, butter, and milk cause over-wetness and naturally prevent proper rising. All tortes will fall a bit when coolingbut tortes are essentially light butter cakes and rise to a nice plump height without the aid of baking powder. Thank you, Jean Kochanski-and with your inquiring mind and determination to achieve perfection, I'll bet you're already the best torte maker in our Capital today!

For a separate rental apartment, alternative plan shuts staircase off from downstairs living room, provides attractive second entry and vestibule at side of house. Thus landlord and tenant can both have complete privacy in a neighborhood zone for two-story dwellings, a gracious one-story home for a small family. And because theirs was a corner lot, the side and rear façades are handsome as the front.

But this is much more than a onestory home for a two-story neighborhood! If your family runs to four youngsters or so, the older ones can sleep upstairs while parents and infants use the downstairs bedrooms-a factor that cuts down on stair-climbs for Mama and still gives you the advantages of the cheaper per-foot cost of second-floor bedrooms. With or without the kitchenette and separate entry, grandparents or married children could have fine quarters upstairs.

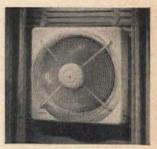

In some neighborhoods, that upstairs apartment could bring in a good income and cut your own costs way down-but before you count on it, check with your local building authorities about two-family house requirements in your zone.

Hot as it gets, Nancy's house stays nice and cool! Her daddy didn't just buy the biggest fan for the least money. He noticed that stores, hotels, and restaurants (which make every dollar count) use Robbins & Myers Fans. The reason-every R & M fan is built to deliver greater cooling power than most fans of equal (and often greater) size. Blades, frame, grille and motor are designed as a unit, for maximum efficiency. Once you've relaxed in the coolness of an R & M fan, you'll agree -nothing can compare.

Shown above is the R & M Attic Fan. As illustrated, it cools your whole house! Easily installed in your attic, it drives out pent-up daytime heat, quietly pulling cool night air through every room. Fan guaranteed 5 years; motor and shutter, 1 year. Four sizes, from $137.60, including automatic ceiling shutter.

R & M Window Fans . . . the low-cost way to breeze-condition your home or apartment! Ex-hausts hot air; draws in fresh. Reverses electrically. Two speeds, intake and exhaust. Install with a screwdriver. Guar-anteed 5 years. 18", $59.95; 22", $79.95. Casement model with twin 12" fans, $78.05.

How to make a Strawberry Barrel

LADDIE ZACK

Needed: A stout, sound barrel, any kind or size, that will hold soil; four or five 1" holes bored in bottom for drainage; square 2" or 3" holes cut in sides to take plants, arranged in staggered rows or haphazard, but at least 8" apart each way. To make them, drill small holes outlining each square (right)

Then punch out centers with hammer (left). Be sure that staves and bottom are well nailed to hoops. Paint the barrel and, while it dries, get a piece of 4" stovepipe as long as barrel is high

With a spike, punch holes along its length (after filling it with sand to avoid denting it). Set barrel on firm base, put 3" of gravel in bottom, stand pipe in center, and support it while you . . .

Fill in around it with good, rich topsoil not packed down. Finally, place strawberry plant in each square hole with roots deep in soil and leaves and crown outside. (Or, better, when filling barrel, set a plant whenever soil level gets to one of the holes.) Water well, and thereafter as needed

PUT IN A MODERN SEPTIC TANK SYSTEM! USE ORANGEBURG® PERFORATED

Saves you trouble and money, because it's easy to install the lightweight 8-footlengths. Easy to join the snap couplings which hold pipe in line and keep out back fill. Even spacing of perforations assure uniform seepage. Orangeburg

Perforated Pipe is longlasting – gives years of service. Use Orangeburg Root-Proof Pipe for house sewers, lines from downspouts, storm drains, ...other non-pressure outside lines. Write Dept. AH-55 for more facts.

ven if you're a "good gardener" and compost your leaves and other vegetable refuse, there's always rubbish that is best disposed of by burning. But how, and where? Certainly not in the furnace (especially if oil-fired), or on exposed piles near the house which become messy and smelly and also kill the grass under and around them and damage trees overhead. Not in the fireplace (if you have one) or an old ash can where the contents get rain-soaked and unburnable. Wire containers are handy, but they, too, are open to the weather and need a permanent site if they are not to scar the yard . . . Hopeless, you think? By no meansif you make use of the mobile, enclosed, scientifically designed "Blitz-burner" pictured here. Mounted on steel-disc, rubber-tired wheels so it can be loaded wherever the rubblish is; equipped with a removable handle that doubles as poker and cover-lifter; made of electric-welded steel; with double row of draft holes to give longer usability between emptyings; a mixing combustion chamber; and smoke-consuming dome; it can be used safely and conveniently anywhere, moved while burning, and left alone with impunity. As a bonus, remove dome, replace upside down, set in grill unit (optional at $4.95), and you have a convenient, efficient, good-looking barbecue for terrace or picnic area. Size over-all, 20" x 36". Price without grill, $29.95.

Ten Months-After Hours

ere is proof that fortitude and love of home are not exclusive virtues of our forefathers. To be sure, the young Gordons never walked five miles through the snow to school or learned their lessons by flickering firelight. But don't think they took an easy way out when they decided the only way they could afford a home was to build it with their own hands. It was not only smart financially, but enlightening professionally, for Robert F. Gordon is going to be an architect, and is the son of Architect Kenneth Gordon, in whose office he worked eight hours a day during the entire ten months it took him to build his house after hours.

Gordon, and his wife Janice, had bought a lot, 108' x 185', in an out-of-the-way area of Altadena, California. Then he set to work clearing brush to prepare the building site. He lured a few husky young friends to help him dig footings and pour the concrete slab, while Janice furnished beer and sandwiches. Because his brother is a contractor, Gordon had some help from him on carpentry labor, but it was definitely a family affair. The only paid work was the plumbing, the chimney, a small amount of plastering, and the surfacing of the roof. Robert even did all the electrical work himself with advice from an expert in that field who helped him connect up the system. But the construction of the house, the laying of the asphalt tile, the building of the casework, the setting of windows and plate glass, the great bulk of the work he did alone. Janice and her sister wielded the paintbrushes.

The house itself is a simple one, with an excellent floor plan (see page 160) giving circulation to the bedroom wing on one side of the entrance, to the kitchen on the other. The livingdining area is opposite the front door, out of traffic lanes, but has sliding doors opening to the paved terrace (a door leads from the study to the other outdoor living spot). With straightforward modern approach, the structure of the house is exposed, with no attempt to conceal the skeleton. Gordon used I x 12 rough redwood for the exterior-Janice painted the trim and fascia a soft green. Throughout, all ceilings are resawn 2 x 8's, tongue-and-grooved with a V joint and finished with one spray coat of seashore-gray stain which gives the Douglas fir a pleasantly grayed tone. Gordon kept accurate records and feels that the house cost 40 per cent less than it would have, had he not built it almost entirely by his own efforts. Who says the young generation hasn't got what it takes?

Well-planned kitchen has unusually good storage with swing-out cases under drainboard, under breakfast bar and end wall for canned goods, with bins below holding sugar, flour, and bread. Sliding cases along counter top hold glasses and dishes. Added light enters kitchen from large glass area of living room

WALDEN, one 12-inch LP

From time to time the more adventurous souls among song recitalists have included a piece or two from the treasury of George and Ira Gershwin. As reported in the descriptive notes accompanying this disc, two of the earliest to do so were Eva Gauthier and Marguerite D'Alvarez. no common singers they. To them, the large popularity of the Gershwin songs in no way interfered with their intrinsic worth, which, of course, it should not do. Nor, for that matter, did these two eminent ladies attempt to prove by this pioneering bend of theirs that Gershwin songs belonged by nature among the much higher art lyrics of Brahms, Schubert, Richard Strauss, Debussy, Faure, et al. But the songs did—and still do—possess art qualities, as well as a distinctive American "feel." And certainly their charm is hardly to be dismissed.

The items contained in this collection of ten pieces are among the best, though, possibly, less widely circulated of the Gershwin output.

MENDELSSOHN: A Midsummer Night's Dream, performed by the Philharmonic Orchestra under Paul Kletzki, with soprano soloists Adrienne Cole and Eileen McLoughlin, and chorus

ANGEL 35146, one 12-inch LP

All the gossamer lightness Shakespeare's comedy is captured by Felix Mendelssohn in his incidental music. He wrote the Overture to the score when he was a mere 17 years of age. Another 17 years later he composed the other sections that we know so well now. Some commentators, apropos this time lapse, discover a more mature Mendelssohn in the later music. True or not, that is always an easy thing to do. Not always, however, is it true-and specifically not so in Mendelssohn's case. In respect of which, note the sentiments of the late Herbert F. Peyser:

HERE'S WHY . . . Anacin is like a doctor's prescription. That is, Anacin contains not just one but a combination of medically proved active ingredients. No other product gives faster, longer-lasting relief from pain of headache, neuralgia, neuritis than Anacin tablets. Buy Anacin® today!

The Modern

"There was really no relation between Mendelssohn's years and the creations of his adolescence. In point of fact, his creative mastery at the age of 16 and 17 is maturity arrived before its time. That preternatural development, as remarkable in its way as Mozart's, is the true answer to the problem why the later creations of Mendelssohn show relatively so little advancement over the early ones." In any case, the various participants make a gay, fresh, engaging job of interpreting this charming music.

KODALY: Psalmus Hungaricus, Op. 13, performed by the London Philharmonic Choir and Orchestra with William McAlpine, tenor, under the baton of Georg Solti LONDON LL 1020, one 12-inch LP

This is one of the great choral works to come out of Hungary. It is not noted for its frequent appearance in concert programs-and the more's the pity-though it has earned for itself a lasting place, I think, in the-shall we say?-off-and-on repertory. Its musical structure has been highly praised for its concentration, and the folk quality of the invention is another of the work's endearing aspects. The music is set to the text by the 16th-century poet

Michael Veg of the 55th psalm, which it honors by the straight-forward manner of the writing. In this performance the Psalmus Hungaricus comes through affectingly, thanks to the dedicated efforts of all concerned.

BEETHOVEN: Symphonies No. 5, in C minor, and No. 8, in F Major, played by William Steinberg and the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra CAPITOL P8292, one 12-inch LP

An excellent orchestra under a top-drawer conductor here. Since his arrival here in 1938, Mr. Steinberg has known a continuous round of praise for his sterling interpretations of the great masters In the Fifth Symphony-the "V for Victory Symphony," as you may recall-he is all that you would expect from him. The music glows under his ministrations. which are tender and sensitive as can be, while expressing its fullest power. In the No. 8, no less sensitive, he captures the good humor and fun that Beethoven occasionally per-mitted himself to release. And the sound, definitely worth mentioning in this report, is simply superb. Full Dimensional Sound is Capitol's own way of saying "high fidelity," and so since it is high fidelity, it is as good a way as any.

"Sorry-you'll have to wait-this is the day of the week I put Drano in all the drains."

A sink's best friend is Drano-when it comes to getting rid of dangerous sewer germs that lurk in every drain. Those germs breed in muck that liquid disinfectants can't budge. But Drano's churning, boiling action dissolves the muck, keeps drains germ-free and free-running. Make one day a week Drano day. Put Drano in every drain for about a penny a drain. Won't harm septic tanks. Makes them work even better. Get Drano at your grocery, drug or hardware store. Also available in Canada.

There's nothing like Drano . . . to keep drains free-running and sanitary!

HOW TO Make a Mortar Lamp

• For a handsome, inexpensive lamp, double up a pair of wooden mortars, add a threaded rod with nut, a light fixture, wire, plug, shade, and felt scrap. Threaded rod should be ½ inch longer than height of both mortars. Drill a hole, large enough for threaded rod, through base of both mortars. Drill a recess, sized to fit the nut which secures the rod, in base of one mortar, and in same mortar, drill a second hole through its side and near base for wire outlet. Screw on fixture, run wire through rod and out the side. Attach plug. Glue felt on bottom.

VICEIDOR 8 WAYS TO

Rubber-base adhesive—best for fastening to smooth surfaces like metal, tile, glass; is ready to use from tube. Glues most materials, needn't be clamped, but it won't stand heat, or extreme stress

Plastic resin—good for furniture making, veneering. It won't stain, is water resistant, light in color. For best results: clamp; mix fresh each time. Don't use on oily woods, and don't use at temperatures under 70° F.

Liquid animal glue—for household repair and carpentry, makes light colored joint, will hold poorly fitted joints. It resists heat and mold, but not dampness. Apply it directly from container

Cellulose—for toy making, repairing bric-a-brac, plastics, and crockery, is water-resistant, transparent, and ready to use from tube. It dries too quickly for convenient use on large areas

The face on the living room floor

Maybe you get down on the floor to play with the kids. Or because someone beat you to the couch. Or just because you like that relaxing, flat-on-the-rug feeling. Whatever the reason, Regulaire makes it nice for you. Regulaire,* found only in Perfection furnaces, licks cold-floor problems.

Ordinary furnaces have old-fashioned on-again, off-again operation that lets warm air go to the ceiling, causes cold, drafty floors and makes for chilly intervals. But Regulaire assures a smooth flow of warmth that keeps all the rooms at the same comfort level from floor to ceiling all the time. With Regulaire, floors can't get cold.

GLUE IT RIGHT

Casein—for cabinet work, heavy duty repairs, and for gluing oily woods, can be used at low temperatures, but is not completely waterproof. Will stain oak or acid woods. Mix fresh for each use

Liquid solder—for cementing metal, wood, or glass, is ready to use from tube, dries quickly, but leaves a noticeable metallic joint. It holds less well on wood than do other types of adhesive

Resorcinol—for boats, outdoor furniture, other joints exposed to water or dampness, makes a very dark-colored joint. Use only at temperatures above 70° F., and mix catalyst and powder for each use

Polyvinyl—for light woodwork, gluing fabric to paper or wood, bookbinding, light household tasks, is non-staining, ready to use at any temperature, light colored, but not moistureproof

Air Conditioning

WATER CHILLER connected into forced-hot-water system provides summer cooling through console type or chilled water convectors. System, Bell and Gossett COOLING UNIT, designed to be added to existing warmair heating systems. System uses existing warm-air ducts. By Frigidaire

If you have forced-warm-air heat: Most modern forced-warm-air heating systems are winter air conditioners. The addition of summer cooling is a simple matter if existing ducts are able to handle the cooling load. Many recently built homes have oversized ducts in anticipation of summer cooling, for, as a general rule, larger ducts are needed for cooling than for heating. With older homes, it may be necessary to modify the ductwork as well as the location of registers to add efficient summer cooling. Most of the systems illustrated on pages 102 and 103 are of the forced-warm-air type.

If your house is heated by forced hot water, the simplest but not necessarily the most efficient way to add summer cooling is to install window units or console room coolers. However, central systems are available—and to use them, you needn't replace your existing boiler. If you have forced hot water heat, you can install special remote convectors that provide heat in winter and cooling in summer (you'll also need a water chiller connected into the boiler). Another type of summer cooling, new this year, employs a special baseboard panel, chiller, and blower to furnish central cooling through the pipes and baseboard panels that provide hot water heat in winter.

If you have steam heat, room units are again the simplest answer. But there is a water chiller that utilizes a central cooling unit and overhead ducts to cool an entire house, and there are other systems that can operate on limited ducts.

t's a snap to turn almost any box or container into a window box or planter by the simple expedient of inserting a waterproof liner, cut to fit the original's shape and size. For material, you can use copper-clad building paper (as we did), thin aluminum, heavy waterproof paper, or plastic-coated waterproof paper.

Take careful inside measurements of the box to be lined (as shown in Figure 1) for length (A), width (B), and depth (C). To find the amount of material needed, add the inside length of the box (A) to twice the depth (C) for over-all length. Inside width (B) plus twice the depth (C) gives over-all width. Cut a rectangle of the lining material to conform to these measurements.

Next, draw lines on the material as shown in Figure 2. With the waterproof side facing up, fold material upward to make creases along both horizontal and vertical lines. Then crease corners along diagonal lines as shown. Fold corners out, and then back, parallel to ends of the liner as shown in Figure 3.

Place the liner in the box. The pressure of the dirt will hold the flexible sides against the box or, if the box is to house potted plants, use a few tacks at the top, in order to hold the liner in place.

"Yippee! Look what came in our new One Minute Automatic!"

Here's why TIDE belongs in your precious automatic!

The makers of One Minute—in fact, the makers of 25 automatics—recommend Tide. Their machines are designed for full-action suds like TIDE'S!

Tide is made to give you the best possible performance... the cleanest possible washes in them. In these top-loading automatics, nothing else will wash as clean as Tide, yet is so mild... no washday soap, no other detergent known, and that includes the sudsless products. In fact...

TIDE washes cleaner than any leading sudsless product—costs only ½ as much to use!

If you, like the majority of automatic-washer owners, have one of the wonderful top-loading automatics, don't think you must use a costly sudsless product. Tide will get your wash cleaner than any leading sudsless product, at half the cost. Any wonder more women use Tide in automatics than any other washing product? Use Tide in your automatic!

The new ONE MINUTE Automatic Washer with Aquamatic Balance!

It's at your dealer's now. Let him tell you how One Minute's famous Aquamatic Balance makes off-center loads self-balancing ... how One Minute also assures thorough rinsing—it spray-rinses before and after the deep power rinse.

This wonderful new One Minute Automatic comes with a free box of Tide right in it . . . just as so many other fine automatic washers do. The makers of 25 AUTOMATIC WASHERS RECOMMEND Tide!

In these automatics, no other washday product known-

(with or without suds)

WILL WASH AS CLEAN

AS TIDE - yet is so mild!
