The Secret of Getting Your Building Costs Down...

When you need a bid on a Mechanical Air Handling, Ventilating, or Air Conditioning System, go directly to the source that can give you the most competitive price and service – your SMACNA Air Handling Contractor.

With a SMACNA CONTRACTOR, you eliminate the third party markups and deal directly with those experienced, educated and capable of producing and installing an air handling system.

Separate Air Handling
Bids

- SMACNA CONTRACTORS customize the air handling system for your specific requirements.
- SMACNA CONTRACTORS provide shop drawings so other mechanical trades can properly install their work.
- SMACNA CONTRACTORS coordinate the assignment of other mechanical services without jeopardizing your control over separate bids.
- SMACNA CONTRACTORS are leaders in the field, continuously researching for better and more efficient ways to offer Mechanical Air Handling services.

SMACNA CONTRACTORS believe it is our responsibility to give our customers our most competitive price, performance, quality and efficiency. If that's what you need, give us a call.

Imagine A Home Filled With Windows That Outperform Your Client's Expectations.

Imagine A Home With Hurd.

Today, homeowners are buying windows and patio doors for a lot of reasons. Not just one or two. You know yourself, your clients are interested in more than just aesthetics and energy savings. They're also interested in design options, noise reduction, protection from ultraviolet rays, craftsmanship, durability and overall comfort.

What they're asking for are windows that give them the best overall performance over the long haul.

They're asking for Hurd.

For years, Hurd windows and patio doors have consistently exceeded the overall performance expectations smart homeowners demand in a window.

For instance, the Hurd InSol-8® window insulates to R8*—one of the highest R-values of any residential window. It also shuts out up to 95% of outside noise, making Hurd one of the quietest residential windows available.

The Hurd Sunbelter 66™ window with Heat Mirror™ blocks invisible solar heat 50% better than ordinary single-pane windows without using tints, blinds or shades to block the view. And Heat Mirror blocks over 99% of the sun's harmful UV rays, the leading cause of fading.

When you add up all the numbers, only Hurd gives your clients the total performance they're looking for today. It's that simple.

To find out more about how we can help you offer your clients windows and patio doors that deliver the best in total performance, call 1-800-2BE-HURD. And just imagine what you can do with Hurd windows.

Take advantage of our Hurd Window expertise and factory direct pricing.

When You're Serious About Windows.™

*Calculations based on center of glass values for Hurd InSol-8 windows with Superglass System with Heat Mirror Film. Total unit R value is 5.5 for commercial units; 4.6 for residential size units. All data were collected using the standard ASHRAE 1989 calculation method and standard winter conditions of 0/70/15. Calculations made using LBL Window 3.1 and 4.0 Computer Modeling Software. Master The Project With Master Tools.

Anyone involved in designing, engineering, and building lasting structures knows the value of using the right tools. You can save time and expense by eliminating mistakes and inaccuracies and facilitating the smooth progress of the job. As a design professional, you know how important that is. Now, the AIA offers you a selection of powerful tools to help you make the successful transition from original idea to satisfied client. Used individually, or as part of an integrated system, Master Systems can help you master any project.

MASTER Outline Specifications Helps You Build a Great Working Relationship.

MASTER Outline Specifications helps you build consensus with your client in the early phases of the project. It helps you and your client agree on the budget, scope, products, and materials before beginning the time-consuming process of preparing the specifications.

MASTER SheetSpec™ Saves Time on Small Projects.

Communicate decisions to builders for small residential, interior, and tenant fit-out projects by using MASTER SheetSpec to make specifications on the drawings.

MASTERSPEC® and MASTERSPEC Q&A™ Produce Accurate Specifications Every Time.

Whether you prefer an edit-by-deletion system or an interactive system, these Master Systems tools can help you achieve the highest quality specs in the least amount of time. Both are backed with toll-free technical support. MASTERSPEC is the foremost "edit by deletion" guide specification system. It is organized according to CSI MasterFormat® divisions and includes more than 450 sections. MASTERSPEC Q&A, developed from MASTERSPEC data, is an interactive knowledge-based system on CD-ROM. MASTERSPEC Q&A asks you questions about your project, guides you with tutorials, and produces exact specifications based on your answers.

MASTERKEY Simplifies Your Working Drawings.

MASTERKEY/ConDoc® for CAD is a unique software package, available for both AutoCAD and MicroStation, that organizes, formats, and simplifies construction documents. The keynote system, based on CSI MasterFormat links your drawings with the specifications.

Two Support Tools Enhance the Process.

MASTERWORKS™, a complete set of WordPerfect 5.1 macros, performs a variety of editing, report generation, and printing functions to facilitate specification production. And MASTERSPELL™, a series of supplemental dictionaries, is specially designed to spell-check project specifications.

Find out more about how AIA Master Systems' master tools can help you master your next project. Use the coupon or call us toll-free at 800-424-5080 (In Utah, call 801-521-9162) to request a free information kit.

medex[®] and medite II

Concerned about indoor air quality?

Medex and Medite II are created using a formaldehyde free*, patented process. Architects – do your clients a favor – specify Medite II or Medex for use in homes, offices, medical facilities, museums or any other public spaces you are designing.

Have a moisture sensitive application?

Medex exterior grade MDF, when properly sealed, is engineered to perform well in moisture-sensitive applications – such as counter tops, base boards, window sills, interior door/window mouldings and others.

Medite is the world leader in MDF manufacturing technology.

Medite II and Medex represent a revolutionary achievement. Medite Corporation is the only MDF producer in North America that has successfully developed the formaldehyde free manufacturing process that produces these two specialty MDF products.

Specialty MDF's from the MDF Specialist ... MEDITE!!!

This issue of PLACE Magazine brings you a new expanded version of the AIA Michigan Directory. It serves both architect and client users. We have included the necessary information you need to get in touch with the best architects and design firms that the state has to offer. Because we know that not everyone opens this directory with a name already in hand, we continue to feature PLACEMAKER, our ready reference guide to architect and design service selection.

Also inside, you will find the 1994 state design award winners featured, as well as a listing of those outstanding architects and friends of architecture whose contribution to the profession and the built environment have been honored by AIA Michigan. Please read these articles on architect selection and continuing education for the state's architects. We would like to hear your comments on both topics.

We compiled this directory while simultaneously thinking on the past and looking ahead to the future. Some wonderful work has been done, so please enjoy it! Even better work is yet to come, so be a part of it! Use this issue as it was intended - as a tool to help improve and enhance the built environment. We can't think of a better way to help you achieve this goal.

We would like to add a special thank you to the talented architects who wrote articles and participated in this directory issue and particularly to the AIA Michigan staff who skillfully assembled and edited this issue. Your good work is much appreciated. ▼

FOCUS

Graham Dickens, AIA
AIA Michigan President

We are only five years away from the next millennium. It is an appropriate time to reexamine what it will mean to be an architect in the year 2000 AD. How can AIA Michigan help to fulfill the pledge implied in PA 299; to protect the health, safety, and welfare of the community.

Our focus has changed over the last few years. We have concentrated much of our efforts in two areas: (1) the advancement of the living standards of our people and, (2) increasing our service to society.

Significant time and financial resources have been directed towards key pieces of legislation that will serve to protect the public by insuring enforcement of the laws related to the practice of architecture. Enforcement of the law insures that our buildings are designed by people who have been adequately trained and examined for competence.

In addition to this effort, in 1995 AIA Michigan has undertaken a significant reevaluation of its own operations. Some of this work is ongoing and will be for several years. Rather than accept the status quo, we have embarked on several key initiatives. These include; programmatic budgeting, standardized accounting procedures, staff training programs, revising the focus of the convention and evaluating ways to reduce costs.

At the same time, we have kept our involvement in design. The design retreat this year was the most successful ever as far as attendance is concerned. The Honor Awards and Recognition Program still highlights the best in our profession.

Our primary focus must always be our customers. Communication with our clients is critical to our professional success. The initiatives outlined above will increase the professionalism of our members and our ability to provide service to our customers.

The key to the successful completion of any project requires a team that can work together to provide a level of service to our customers that exceeds their needs. This edition of the AIA Michigan Handbook is dedicated to that goal. It is to be used by both professionals and consumers who are seeking an architect for their buildings.

I have appreciated the opportunity to serve as President in 1995. I look forward to the continued growth and strength of the organization and ultimately to livable well designed communities that support the aspirations of their inhabitants. ▼

WHY AIA?

AIA Michigan stands behind architects with a wide range of programs to support their practices and careers. AIA members benefit from services that keep them informed, watch over their professional interests, work to increase appreciation of the architects role with the public and clients, and gives them the tools needed to heighten their efficiency and effectiveness.

AIA MICHIGAN MISSION

The purpose of AIA Michigan is to organize and unite its members to continuously improve the profession and to enhance their positions as leaders of the building team and designers of the built environment. This Mission is achieved by means of:

Public Affairs Advocacy through the development and dissemination of policies that enhance the natural and built environment; and by influencing legislation and regulatory policies that impact the effectiveness of the profession.

Education of the public to the aesthetic and scientific value of the profession; education of members to a higher standard of practice; and education of students to the ever-changing needs of the profession.

Fellowship through activities that promote interaction among the members and allied professionals.

Public Affairs Advocacy

As the collective voice of the architectural profession in the state, AIA Michigan makes sure that the concerns and interests of the state's architects are heard by key decision makers in Lansing and in the areas where they work and live. The firms profit from AIA Michigan's diligent monitoring of all regulatory matters affecting the profession.

Government Affairs – AIA Michigan redirected its focus dramatically during 1993 and made this its number one priority. Dues dollars are at work through this committee and its legislative counsel in Lansing to produce positive results for the profession.

Professional Licensure – In an effort to protect the public from unlicensed practitioners bills have been introduced and passed on the House floor to strictly enforce the licensing laws and to prosecute violators. This is an ongoing priority.

Legislative Affairs – Ongoing activities include the monitoring of legislative issues for interior designers, landscape architects, homebuilders, and school construction.

Minute person Program – Every member has been added to a data base by home address and congressional district, providing immediate access for crucial legislative alerts.

Qualifications Based Selection (QBS) – A bill to promote and preserve a method for selection of architects for public projects based upon quality has been written and introduced.

Professional Practice – Unlicensed activity is monitored when notified by members.

Communications – AIA Michigan has a video designed to raise the public's awareness of the value of hiring licensed architects. "Architectural Update" is available to legislators and community organizations for sale at $9.95 plus shipping and handling. A companion brochure, "Architectural Update," was produced in 1994. A public opinion survey of public users of architectural services was conducted state wide this fall by the communications consultants.

Architects' Political Action Committee (APAC) – Monies are raised separate from dues dollars to disburse campaign funds to legislative candidates.

Education

AIA Michigan boosts the public's awareness and appreciation of the unique services and contributions that architects provide, enhancing their visibility and stature among both clients and the community.

EXPO 96 – AIA Michigan joins with several organizations to sponsor the largest building industry show of its kind in the state at the Silverdome in February. More than 11,000 visitors took advantage of exhibits and products at the 1995 show.

Design Conference – Architects present their work in a relaxed, informal setting at Torch Lake each Fall. Camaraderie, young architects and affordable prices take a front seat.

Continuing Education – National AIA will make this mandatory in 1997. The long range goal for Michigan is to introduce legislation to make enforcement of it a reality in order to maintain an architectural license.

Intern Development Program (IDP) – AIA Michigan coordinates chapter activities and works with national AIA and the National Council of Architects Registration Boards (NCARB) on this mandatory program.

PROVIDING PROFESSIONAL INFORMATION

AIA Michigan provides information and tools to its members to make them more efficient and competitive in the marketplace. Membership assures access to an array of professional resources and technical materials at the lowest costs available.

Mid-Summer Conference – This family-oriented conference celebrated its 52nd year on Mackinac Island in August. A major fundraiser, architects are joined by engineers, contractors and vendors for an AIA Michigan business meeting and fellowship.

Honor Awards – This program promotes Michigan architects by raising the public's awareness of design excellence.

Recognitions – The achievements of individual members are recognized through the AIA Michigan Gold Medal, the Hastings Award, the President's Award, and Young Architect, as well as Honorary Affiliate memberships.

Receptions – Two receptions are typically hosted each year at the Beaubien House, one in May to honor newly elected members to the College of Fellows and the Holiday Open House in December.

SERVICES

Documents/Books – AIA Michigan is a full-service distributor of contract documents, available at special prices.

BOCA Library – A resource library of building codes is retained in the Beaubien House through the AIA Detroit Building Codes and Regulations Committee.

PROFILE – The AIA Profile Directory of architectural firms and architects nationwide is available for use at the Beaubien House.

Job Referral – AIA Michigan keeps resumes on file and publishes want ads in the newsletter for architects seeking job opportunities.

Architect Referral – Firms and individuals calling AIA Michigan in search of an architect are handled on an individual basis. PLACEMAKERS is sent to them as a resource for licensed architects.

Insurance – In Michigan, special group rates on homeowners and auto insurance are available through Michigan Benefit Plans, Inc., and a cellular savings program is offered through Cellnet Cellular. We have information on the AIA Benefit Trust and professional liability insurance as well.

Automobile Lease or Purchase – Car leasing or purchasing is another cost saving plan that was introduced this year.

AIA Michigan BULLETIN – The newsletter is a vehicle for internal communication and is mailed to all members.

PLACE – The official magazine of AIA Michigan is distributed quarterly to architects and clients. PLACEMAKERS, a directory of architectural firms, is included in a special issue along with a Membership Directory.

REMEMBER . . .

Members of The American Institute of Architects are entitled to use "AIA" after their names. This designation is recognized throughout the world. ▼

The AIA Chooses to Maintain a Higher Standard

by Steve Whitney, AIA
1995 AIA Michigan
Continuing Education Coordinator

WHAT IS AIA/CES?

CES is a continuing education system developed by the AIA to record professional learning as a mandatory requirement of architect membership.

BACKGROUND

It began with members realizing that continuing professional development has become and will continue to be a significant issue for all design professionals. In 1990, the AIA board directed the Lifelong Learning Task Force to:

"begin a review to help AIA members keep current and perform responsibly, master new concepts for career options, prepare for business changes and the future, maintain professional freshness and awareness, enhance professional knowledge and skills, and to meet the trust that society gives architects in their individual and business responsibilities."

At the 1991 AIA national convention, a resolution was adopted, resulting in the program being refined and shaped over the next three years, including a pilot program involving AIA members, chapters and firms. In 1992, delegate members to the convention voted to change the bylaws to require continuing education for membership. In September 1994, the AIA board approved the final recommendations of the Lifelong Learning Committee based upon the pilot program's results and directed that the mandatory Continuing Education System (AIA/CES) for membership began in January 1995.

AIA/CES MAKES SENSE

There are several very good reasons why this AIA/CES initiative makes sense, as follows:

It improves the value of AIA membership

It increases participation by members in local chapter activities

It coordinates and is compatible with the continuing education programs in other associations and with state licensing boards

It generates much higher quality continuing education programs with increased access and affordability for AIA members.

Perhaps the most important conclusion of the pilot program was that there is no reason why an AIA member could not meet 100 percent of the annual requirements implied by attending chapter and/or firm programs for continuing education throughout the year. However, it differs from other continuing education programs in two important ways:

AIA/CES is based on the latest findings on how adults learn -specifically architects. It is primarily self-directed, and recognizes learning with or without the help of formal educational resources.

AIA/CES is qualitatively based, not quantitative. It recognizes three learning levels - passive, interactive, and interactive with feedback.

WHAT ABOUT CES IN MICHIGAN

Accessible and affordable are the keys to AIA/CES success. Programs like the highly successful AIA Michigan and Michigan Department of Public Health sponsored annual Health Facilities Planning Seminar (now in its 29th year) are an excellent way for architects to satisfy the AIA/CES requirements, of receiving extraordinarily valuable information for daily practice, and meeting client representatives at the same time, all for a very affordable cost. AIA Michigan is modeling other programs on this success to provide a wide variety of continuing education opportunities.

Many sources, in addition to local chapter and firms, are looking to provide these opportunities as well. They include universities, institutions, other nonprofit associations, and various retail providers of architectural continuing education.

The AIA Continuing Education System (CES) is dedicated to creating a strong profession and identifying AIA members as architects who seek the highest level of knowledge and achievement. We believe that this is the best way to assure continuation of the trust that society gives architects.

Michigan Architectural Foundation

Leslie D. Tincknell, AIA
President
Michigan Architectural Foundation

MISSION STATEMENT

The purpose of the Michigan Architectural Foundation, in support of AIA Michigan, is to carry on educational, scientific and charitable activities that advance the quality of architecture and allied arts. To that end the mission of the Foundation is to give financial support and assistance to programs that:

- Stimulate public awareness of the aesthetic and scientific value of architecture
- Advance the science and art of planning and building through research and education
- Unite the public, the profession, and the construction industry in a common effort to insure the quality of life through an improved natural and built environment
- Promote the preservation of historic sites and buildings

The Foundation actively solicits funds and is seeking support from members of the profession, allied arts, the construction industries and all those who see their lives affected by architecture and the environment. ▼

This year the Michigan Architectural Foundation continues to expand its activities and programs in accordance with its mission statement. Our support of PLACE magazine is in keeping with "Increasing Public Awareness of Architecture" and "Promoting a High-Quality Built Environment". Since its inception, the editors of the magazine have maintained the high quality that is a goal of AIA Michigan and the Michigan Architectural Foundation.

We salute the efforts of the editorial committee and staff as well as the AIA Michigan Board, members, and firms who have contributed to the success of the publication.

The Foundation will continue to provide the quality of effort required to benefit architecture, architects, the public and the building industry.

Government Affairs

In 1915, F. Gordon Pickell and Emil Lorch mobilized the architectural community into sustained action to pass the first architects' licensing bill. The reasons that prompted the licensing of the profession in 1915 are just as valid today. Architects design buildings where people live, work and play. These buildings must be structurally sound; meet stringent fire, exiting and other life safety codes; be environmentally comfortable and safe; and function in a way that does not impact upon people's safety and well being.

Once again, the profession is being assaulted by unlicensed practitioners. There are a lot of people who wish to design structures without benefit of specific education or training. While the registration law is still in place, the problem now is the almost total lack of enforcement of the law by state officials. Budget cuts are the oft cited reason.

The traditional reluctance of architects to get involved in government affairs was overcome in 1993. The board of directors of AIA Michigan gave the Government Affairs Committee priority status. Now there is over 100 AIA members working in several committees to monitor and effect bills that concern architects.

This powerful committee is attacking this and other public affairs issues on four fronts:

1. Professional Practice Task Force –

This group, working directly with local chapters, seeks to develop a close relationship with code officials and the State Board of Licensing.

2. Professional Licensing Task Force –

Here the focus is on enforcement of the licensing law. The committee sought an Attorney General's opinion of P.A. #400 of 1994. The AG's interpretation asserts that both associations and individuals have the right to seek injunctive relief from unauthorized practice. Attorney William Perrone of Dykema Gossett is the advisor to this committee.

3. Legislative Task Force – This task force is charged with the responsibility for coordinating AIA Michigan's legislative efforts with the Architects/Engineers Legislative Committee (AELC). They review and react to all legislation that could have an effect on the design profession. Dennis Cawthorne, Esq. and James Cavanagh, Esq. are the legislative counselors.

4. Communication Task Force – Credibility in Lansing depends upon a public that is architecturally literate. It requires broad support from the electorate. The public relations firm, Lovio-George, Inc., provides assistance and advice in this area.

Quick response is imperative in the legislative arena. The Minute Person Program connects AIA members to legislators. It features a data base of members that can pinpoint architects in all state senate and representative districts. Legislators offices can be bombarded with reactions to specific pieces of legislation in a matter of minutes. In addition, the Architects Political Action Committee (APAC) seeks personal donations from architects to support candidates who understand the importance of well planned and well designed structures to the well being of the residents of Michigan.

The long range plan to protect PA #299 and thus the health and safety of Michigan people is a politically astute architect joined with an architecturally aware citizen. A public that appreciates and respects the services that a licensed architect provides is the best defense against unscrupulous or unlicensed designers. ▼

AIA Michigan Gold Medalists

James B. Shane, AIA

The Gold Medal is awarded to recognize an individual architect who has clearly demonstrated distinguished leadership in any phase of the profession over an extended period of time. The award is made in recognition of notable contributions to the AIA and outstanding achievement in one or more areas of professional endeavor. No more than one award will be granted in one year.

This is the highest award AIA Michigan can bestow on one of its members.

James B. Shane, AIA is the 1994 honoree for the AIA Gold Medal. Shane was recognized for a career dedicated to improving the public's awareness of architecture. He worked in Detroit and Florida before settling in Big Rapids, Michigan. He earned his Bachelor of Architecture Degree at Notre Dame and later earned a Master's Degree in Education from the University of Michigan. He was head of the construction department within the College of Technology at Ferris State College for 18 years.

Shane is a stalwart in AIA Grand Valley. He has held all three leadership offices in the chapter and in AIA Michigan. He was president in 1986. A major effort that year was to bring the fund raising phase of the Beaubien House project to a successful close.

He is an active member of the PLACE MAGAZINE editorial board and is President of the Michigan Architectural Foundation. He has a private practice in Big Rapids. ▼

College of Fellows

Sharon Sutton, FAIA
AIA Huron Valley

Phillip Lundwall, FAIA
AIA Grand Valley

The College of Fellows is a national and international society of approximately 1,900 fellows. Sharon Sutton, FAIA from AIA Huron Valley and Phillip Lundwall, FAIA out of AIA Grand Valley are the most recent members elected to the College.

Doctor Sutton is professor of architecture and urban planning at the University of Michigan where she coordinates the Urban Network, an award winning program in urban design for youth. She is widely published in the scholarly and popular press, and has written a book, Weaving a Tapestry of Resistance. She is a widely exhibited artist and has her bachelor's degree in music and a doctorate in psychology.

Phillip Lundwall is director of design and vice president of Progressive Architecture Engineering Planning. His Master of Architecture degree is from the University of Michigan. He has fourteen local and state design awards to his credit. He is a trustee for the Michigan Architectural Foundation. He is an active critic and mentor, frequently lecturing and serving on art and design juries. ▼

Thomas J. Lucas, FAIA

Robert F. Hastings Award

Created in 1978 to honor the late Robert F. Hastings, FAIA, first recipient of the Institute's Kemper Award. It is given in recognition of distinguished and significant service to the profession. The recipient shall have demonstrated widely recognized contributions to the betterment of the quality of the urban environment. The recipient shall be a recognized leader in the community. Current members of the board are not eligible. The Hastings Award may be given posthumously.

Thomas J. Lucas, FAIA was chosen as the recipient of the Robert F. Hastings Award largely because of his work for AIA Michigan's Government Affairs Committee. He has chaired the committee from its inception in 1991. As a result of his dedication and tireless efforts, the Government Affairs Committee is one of the most important activities for keeping architecture alive as a profession.

He worked for Eero Saarinen early in his career, was president of TMP from 1974-86, retired, then formed The Argos Group as a subsidary of Barton-Malow the same year. He now is a consultant to other design professionals. ▼

AIA Michigan Firm Award

This award was first given in 1991. It is made to an AIA-MI firm that has consistently produced distinguished architecture for a period of at least 10 years. The jury's focus is on the quality of the firm's architecture and not on the principals of the firm. The Architecture Firm Award recipient will automatically be nominated to the National Design Committee Architectural Firm Award. ▼

Robert Beckley, FAIA

President's Award - AIA Michigan

The President's Award began in 1992. It was created to honor architects in the education and corporate field who have made exceptional contributions to the profession in academia or business.

Robert Beckley, FAIA received this award in 1994. He is Dean of the College of Architecture and Urban Planning at the University of Michigan. He has been involved in architectural education for over 30 years. He has been building a relationship between the architectural schools and the profession that will lead to better prepared interns and architects who recognize the need to keep up with the latest technological advances. ▼

Arthur F. Smith, AIA

AIA Michigan Young Architect of the Year

This award, created in 1991, recognizes proficiency and exceptional accomplishments in, and contributions to the profession by a member of AIA Michigan for a minimum of three years who is 40 years old or younger during the calendar year of the award. The Young Architect of the Year must show dedication to the ideals of AIA-MI and service to the community.

Arthur F. Smith, AIA is the 1994 Young Architect. Smith typifies the young practitioner who is committed to his profession through design, to the community of professionals through the AIA and to students through his efforts at Lawrence Technological University.

In 1991 he formed his own firm, Arthur F. Smith Architects. He has chaired the Design Awards portion of the AIA Honor Award program for AIA Michigan and AIA Detroit. ▼

AIA Michigan Honorary Affiliate Members

Kathryn Bishop Eckert

Honorary affiliate membership in AIA Michigan may be awarded to a person who is not otherwise eligible for AIA Michigan membership but who has given distinguished service to the profession of architecture or the allied arts and sciences.

Two Honorary Affiliate Memberships were granted in 1994. Dr. Kathryn Bishop Eckert is the Historic Preservation Officer for the State of Michigan. She continues to be an advocate for quality architecture, old and new. She has worked tirelessly to preserve Michigan's architectural heritage. The sandstone architecture of the Lake Superior region is her special interest. She is a member of the board of directors of the Society of Architectural Historians; a Trustee for the Friends of the Capitol; on the editorial board of the Buildings of the United States and author of the first volume, The Buildings of Michigan. She has a Master of Art History and her Ph.D. in American Studies from Michigan State University.

Tony Castle is with the Sherk Company in Detroit and a board member of the Sheet Metal & Air Conditioning Contractors National Association (SMACNA-Metro Detroit Chapter). For twenty years SMACNA and AIA Michigan sponsored an annual Drafting Competition. SMACNA is a consistent advertiser in Place Magazine, sponsors receptions at the Mid-Summer Conference and was the main sponsor for the 1994 Honor Awards Program. ▼

BUILDING AWARD

"A highly-articulated plan and well thought out details take an every day building type to award status," the American Institute of Architects jury.

Lansing Ophthalmology Regional Eye Care Center

East Lansing, Michigan

Owner: L.O. Partnership

Architect: Eckert/Wordell Architects
Kalamazoo, Michigan

The use of the building as an ophthalmology office is expressed in a series of circular shapes which symbolize the eye. This ocular shape is most prevalent as an opening in the front wall of the covered entry, providing a distinctive and recognizable identity. A combination of small-scaled examination pods consisting of exam rooms, testing, patient education, and sub-waiting areas are arranged along a vaulted circulation corridor. The vaulted reception room provides a focal point for the facility which affords views of the natural exterior setting. The 12 acre site integrates with the building through the use of a green roof, glazed accent bricks and green tinted glass, as well as a symbolic tree column in the center of the reception room.

BUILDING AWARD

"A transitional yet contemporary piece emerged from the design challenge," the American Institute of Architects jury.

Ypsilanti Transit Center

Ypsilanti, Michigan

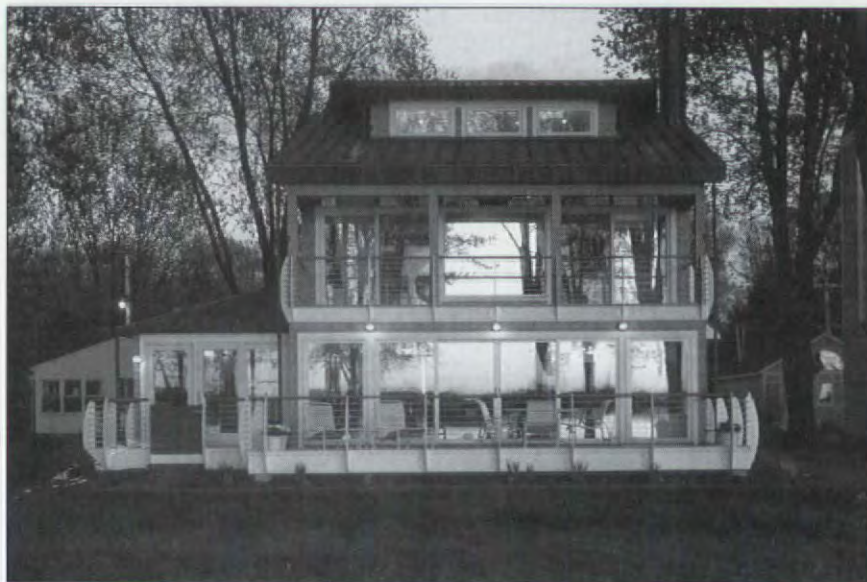

Owner: Ann Arbor Transportation Authority

Architect: Quinn Evans / Architects
Ann Arbor, Michigan

The site selected was located in the downtown historic district and adjacent to a residential historic district. As a result, the building design was subjected to review by the local historic district commission, the Bureau of Michigan History, and the National Advisory Council. A transitional yet contemporary piece emerged from the design challenge. The one-story building was placed close to the corner, in line with the setback of the immediate historic homes; the materials of the two elevations facing toward these homes responds to their scale and massing. The side of the building facing toward the downtown commercial area features a freestanding canopied outdoor waiting area that runs along the bus parking bays. The building elevation on this side is glass and stepped to maximize viewing by patrons and staff. The facility's color palette is also a strong design feature...burgundy in the window wall frames and blue in the metal roof, neon accent and anterior furniture.

BUILDING AWARD

"The owners' desire for modern furnishings and high tech electronics was satisfied while preserving the fit of the home into a lake district resort," the American Institute of Architects jury.

Brostoff/Brown Residence

Dexter, Michigan

Owner: George Brostoff & Connie Brown

Architect: Kenneth Neumann / Joel Smith and Associates
Southfield, Michigan

After beginning work with minimal plans produced by a boat builder, the owner retained the architect after the main roof was modified by an added dormer. The owners' desire for the interiors to express their interests in modern furnishings and high tech electronics while preserving the fit into the resort community was the challenge faced by the architect. Attempting to bridge the differences between aesthetics by use of natural wood (maple, birds-eye maple and burbinga inside; cedar outside) and soft color, the architect left the impact for furniture and rugs. Special attention was given to expanding glass to the lake side, creating a more important entry sequence, and a new system of railings inside and out that are lighter in appearance so as not to violate the meadow-like backyard.

BUILDING AWARD

"This building sets an attainable new standard for service buildings; it raises architectural morale!" the American Institute of Architects jury.

Muskegon Service Center

Muskegon, Michigan

Owner: Michigan Consolidated Gas Company

Architect: Nordstrom Samson Associates

Dearborn, Michigan

Located in a heavily-wooded 5.8 acre industrial park site, this new service center replaces an undersized, 60-year old group of buildings located in Muskegon's central business district. MichCon challenged the architects to design a new group of buildings within a "campus" environment. In the past, main service center buildings were designed first, with accessory buildings added as necessary, usually with uncomplementary materials, compromised circulation patterns, and with materials and equipment stored around the perimeter of the site in an unorganized manner. The use of consistent, economical building materials and massing throughout the different structures unify the site. A master plan for circulation was created to accommodate the variety of traffic patterns. The volumes of high and low bays were integrated with a transitional element...a circulation spine. A one-story open concept between the service and administrative areas was provided, and large glass areas were used between functions. The comprehensive landscape plan made use of native plantings to complement the building and the existing oak woodlands in the industrial park.

BUILDING AWARD

"Its modest exterior, like its original 1930's design, does not overwhelm the neighborhood to which it belongs," the American Institute of Architects jury.

Focus: HOPE Center for Advanced Technologies

Detroit, Michigan

Owner: Focus: HOPE

Architect: Smith, Hinchman & Grylls Associates, Inc.
Detroit, Michigan

Initially built around 1930, this is a rehabilitation of an existing industrial facility typical of that era – inspired by the desire for daylighting within the manufacturing plant. Its modest exterior, like its original design, does not overwhelm the neighborhood to which it belongs. Its interior, however, dramatically presents the inspiring and futuristic world of advanced technology. The architect's concept transformed the old urban factory and attached 3-story office building into a state-of-the-art, computer-integrated manufacturing facility. The functionality of the people became a key design concept, one which gives it a very unique character for an industrial facility. Receiving funding from federal, state, local and private resources as well as opening its doors to distinguished guests such as President Clinton and his Cabinet Secretaries, the National Center has become a unique demonstration project emphasizing a new national training program.

BUILDING AWARD

*"This is a house that has taken its clues from the existing fabric of the city and has been bold enough to point toward the future,"
the American Institute of Architects jury.*

The Steel House

Oakland County, Michigan

Owner: Private

Architect: Arthur F. Smith Architects
Southfield, Michigan

The challenge was to build a striking contemporary home for a young bachelor which would symbolize his achievements in the steel and commodities markets. The tiny, corner site exists in a transitional neighborhood where older bungalows coexist with new "bigfoot" residences, prompting controversy and zoning revisions within the city. The house was developed into a simple rectangular box. It is "sliced" vertically by a steel wall that separates public and private functions at the first floor. A rotated square "house form" rises from within the rectangular house, encompassing the master bedroom/loft.

INTERIOR AWARD

"A limited set of well-defined elements was used to convert insensitive existing spaces into a rich learning environment," the American Institute of Architects jury.

Law School Classroom Renovation

Ann Arbor, Michigan

Owner: The University of Michigan

Architect: Quinn Evans / Architects
Ann Arbor, Michigan

The original main law school classroom building was constructed at the end of the development of the law school complex. The onset of the Depression resulted in an interior treatment not up to the quality and character of the rest of the buildings built in English Gothic style. This was further diminished by insensitive remodelings during the 50s. The architect's approach was to address planning for a major building system upgrade, including functional requirements, through the introduction of architectural changes, details, materials, colors, finishes, light fixtures and special systems. Emulating the richness and warmth found elsewhere in the complex, the changes included comprehensive treatment to important classroom spaces and a Moot Courtroom where extensive video taping placed additional requirements on lighting, materials and finishes. New ornamental plaster, decorative millwork, and custom-designed lighting fixtures are a part of the ceiling design to accommodate dramatic changes required for concealing new air conditioning ductwork.

*"A very creative use of common building materials,"
the American Institute of Architects jury.*

Shelter

Detroit, Michigan

Owner: 431 East Historic Saint Andrews Hall, Inc.

Architect: Victor Saroki & Associates Architects PC
Birmingham, Michigan

"Shelter" is one of the hottest alternative nightclubs in town and the starting point for many of the newest members of the music industry. It is located in the basement of historic St. Andrew's Hall near Greektown. Its mission is to clarify new ways to care for the planet. Furnishings allude to the strata of the earth's surface, and forms and shapes are reminiscent of bubbles and waves of water. Spaces are linked with translucent fabric trees and sunflowers cut from metal plate and hanging throughout the original wooden ceiling joists. Copper rods, sheet metal and steel blend with votive candles...motifs are arranged to focus on the central media lobby where a giant symbol of the sun suggests warmth. A caring for planet earth, to which the club and its patrons are dedicated, is displayed in support of that theme.

LOW BUDGET / SMALL PROJECT AWARD

"Excellent design on a very tight budget; scale, proportions and details are all there," the American Institute of Architects jury.

Dinosaur Hill Nature Preserve

Rochester, Michigan

Owner: City of Rochester

Architect: Roy G. French Associates, Inc.
Rochester, Michigan

Working within the limits of a small budget, the architect capitalized on natural themes and the surrounding preserve to create this instructional facility. The most challenging aspect of the project was how to maximize the amount of additional space while minimizing the total cost. An existing portable classroom was utilized and combined with a substantial addition to accommodate nature displays, retail, informal lectures and programs, storage space, and entrance to the Nature Preserve. Steep-pitched cathedral ceilings with exposed wood trusses give visitors a subtle hint of the building's own structure. The design solution incorporated the surrounding woods with extensive glass exposure.

25 YEAR AWARD

The Twenty-five Year Award is given for distinguished projects designed by an AIA member that have been used for at least 25 years for the same purpose for which they were designed.

The American Institute of Architects jury commented in 1973: "This is an attractive and economical complex, humane in its concern for the way in which retired people live."

Public Housing for the Elderly Wayne, Michigan

Owner: City of Wayne

Architect: William Kessler & Associates, Inc.
Detroit, Michigan

Completed in 1969 for the U.S. Public Housing Administration, this small elderly housing project is composed of 40 dwelling units of 495 sf each. The one-bedroom units were grouped to provide intimate, enclosed courtyards where the occupants could easily maintain gardens. Such a site arrangement provides the elderly with a close proximity to one another, conveying a greater sense of security and interdependence through sight contact. Windows were designed close to the floor, enabling tenants to easily see the ground and their garden handiwork. The recipient of awards from AIA Detroit (1971), AIA Michigan (1970), U.S. Dept. of Housing and Urban Development (1970), and the Award for Architectural Excellence – Architectural Record Magazine (1970). This project received the highest award the American architectural profession can bestow. The American Institute of Architects jury commented in 1973: "It is most satisfying in its domestic scale and its relation to the land. The approach is the correct one in solving the vast social and economic problems of the elderly. The obvious satisfaction of the tenants is perhaps the project's greatest endorsement."

25 YEAR AWARD

The Twenty-five Year Award is given for distinguished projects designed by an AIA member that have been used for at least 25 years for the same purpose for which they were designed.

*"The building remains an impressive beacon
to the downtown area."*

First Federal of Michigan Detroit, Michigan

Owner: First Federal of Michigan

Architect: Smith, Hinchman & Grylls Associates, Inc.
Detroit, Michigan

Situated in the heart of downtown, flanked by Michigan and Woodward Avenues, the First Federal Savings and Loan Building soars 23 stories into the Detroit skyline. The bank and many other office tenants have called this building home since its completion in 1965. Clad in a Cold Spring Dark Pearl Granite, an ever-changing expression of dignity and strength, the building remains an impressive beacon to the downtown area. The footprint of the building is a triple tower design, revealing an inviting open plaza at its Michigan Avenue entrance. The three separate, yet integrated pieces, offer such amenities as pure floor area completely free of any obstructions, including interior columns, desirable corner offices, high speed elevators, raised floors, and a heated plaza and walks. These elements enabled the First Federal Building to be an attractive office tower in the 60s and has carried it into today's competitive marketplace. The desire of the initial designers to project a handsomely-scaled building is still apparent in the design, selection and bold use of timeless materials within the interior, which remain unchanged to this day. Soaring planes of granite matching the exterior circle the building's lobby. A rose-colored marble floor unifies the main banking area and retail areas on the ground level. One of Detroit's best known landmarks, it presently serves to stabilize the entire area, as it served to revitalize in the past.

WHAT IS AIA MICHIGAN?

It is a component chapter of the 57,000 member American Institute of Architects. AIA Michigan has nearly 1,700 members in ten Chapters spread throughout the state.

Members of AIA Michigan are dedicated to the highest standards of professionalism, integrity and competence. They are guided by a Code of Ethics and Professional Conduct.

In order to make the directory more useful for non architect readers and clients, the following glossary is provided:

AIA Any architect who is currently entitled under state law to practice architecture is eligible to be an Architect Member. Good standing in the profession and in the community shall be demonstrated. Architect Members may use, in connection with their names and the titles "Architect Member of the American Institute of Architects."

The Acronym AIA is copyrighted and its specific use is limited to an individual architect member. This designation following the name means the architect is a member in good standing of the American Institute of Architects.

FAIA These initials signify that an individual architect has become a Fellow in the American Institute of Architects. It means that the architect has been examined by a jury of peers for extraordinary accomplishments and exceptional leadership.

AIA-E The letter "E" stands for Emeritus and it signifies that an Architect member has maintained membership for 15 years and has reached the age of 70; or, has reached the age of 60 and is retired; or, is incapacitated so as to be unable to work in the profession.

Associate AIA Associate members are individuals without architectural licenses who meet any of the following requirements:

- Employed under the supervision of an architect in a professional or technical capacity, or
 - Faculty members in a university program in architecture, or
 - Are eligible by education or experience and are in circumstances recognized by licensing authorities as constituting credit toward architectural license, or
 - Have a professional degree in architecture, or
 - Have an architectural license or the equivalent from a non-licensing authority and demonstrates honorable standing in the profession in the local in which they are licensed.
- Such persons may be residents within or outside the U.S.

PA Professional Affiliates are construction industry teammates such as mechanical, electrical and structural engineers, artists, planners, interior designers who complete the roster of a well rounded professional organization.

The information in the FIRM PROFILES was submitted by the individual firms listed. Although every effort was made to provide all firms the opportunity to be listed correctly, AIA Michigan does not verify the accuracy of the information received. As in any directory of this size, errors may occur. We apologize for any typographical mistakes. We welcome written corrections and additions.

Behind every issue of PLACE are PLACEMAKERS! But where are they located? Who do I call? What is their specialty? The editors of PLACE are happy, once again, to include the PLACEMAKERS DIRECTORY in this fall issue of PLACE magazine.

This easy to use directory features an alphabetical listing of firms with location, specialty of practice and a contact architect with whom to discuss your project. It is compiled as a resource for clients and other members of the building team in need of architectural service.

Participating firms are AIA Michigan members who support PLACE magazine with their projects, ideas and dollars. So take a look and find the firm best suited to your project! We are confident that it's there! For more information, don't hesitate to contact:

How to Hire Your Architect

by Karen Swanson, AIA
Andy Vazzano, AIA

Finding a Qualified Architect

Selecting the best architect for your next project can be a confusing experience whether you are an individual, building for the first time, or part of a large organization that builds periodically. To help ensure that the owners receive quality architectural services the Michigan Board of Architects examines, licenses, and regulates architects. AIA Michigan offers a guide to licensed architects who publicize their experience in specific building types. This directory can be helpful in establishing a list of architects to consider when sending out a request for information (RFI). AIA Michigan also has a publication on Quality Based Selection (QBS) to guide owners through the selection process. A facilitator is available through QBS to work with you or your selection committee directly. Whether you plan to use the QBS procedure or your own selection process, the key is to develop definitive selection criteria.

Selecting Your Architect

Prior to selecting your architect you need to develop basic criteria specific to your project that can be provided to prospective architects. Basic requirements may include the following:

1. List of functions
2. Approximate size
3. Projected starting dates and occupancy dates
4. Anticipated project budget and financing
5. Required services from your architect

Next you should request information and qualifications from several architects to evaluate your project. A potential theme to rally around is the five C's: Chemistry, Capacity, Capability, Creativity, Commitment. The five C's focus on team resources, availability and relevant experience, design and technical skills and overall interest in your project.

Chemistry

Look at the specific architects or team of architects proposed for your project and see how well they have worked on similar projects. If you are dealing with just one architect for a smaller scale project, talk to other clients he or she has worked with to obtain information. If your project is larger and requires a team of architects, talk to the users of a previous project they have worked on. You should also evaluate the data on the resume.

A second key aspect to consider is how well the architect or specific team will mesh with you and your teams' culture and values.

Are there processes or techniques used by the architect that will facilitate a working relationship and decision making by you or within your organization?

Has the architect or team of architects worked with clients or organizations similar to yours? Whether you are the sole authority or your organization has a hierarchy of decision makers, are the architects comfortable with your decision making structure.

If you are satisfied with the architect or team of architects are they available for your project?

Capacity

Every owner is concerned about the ability of the selected architect to deliver the project effectively within the desired time frame. The real test of this question is the depth of resources available to the architect or project team.

Can they handle your project schedule and adjust to changes you may require without jeopardizing other project commitments? You need data on concurrent project schedules to make this evaluation.

Has the architect delivered projects of similar size and complexity to your project?

Capability

Evaluate the experience of the architect or team of architects on recently constructed similar projects.

Were these projects delivered within the required time and cost restraints?

Have these projects been delivered with the level of quality that meets your expectations?

Given the architects' experience on recent projects, are they able to solve issues specific to your project?

Can the architect or team guide you or your organization through the design process and build consensus with you and your key people?

Creativity

Design and construction is not a simple process. Image, function, the user, technology, environment, construction phasing, operations and cost all influence the complexity of the problem to be solved. Since the creative process is a very subjective response to a given set of requirements, it is wise to interview the specific architect or team leaders. Depending on the building type and its' complexity, ingenuity in both design and technology may be equally important to solve all the issues on the project. The architects' design approach, including analysis of alternatives, may provide key insights into the ability of the architect to provide a creative solution to your problem.

Looking at the architects' past work and calling client references can also be very valuable. Take the time to evaluate past performances.

Ultimately your search may yield more than one very qualified architect that meets your criteria for selection. Final choice may hinge on how interested the architect is in your project.

Commitment

Is this an individual or project team that you can trust with your project?

Have they committed a key principal or principals and team leaders to the project or are they just the interview team?

Do they understand emerging trends that affect you or your business and can they incorporate key elements into your project?

By the firms location or by their demonstrated portfolio are they part of the fabric of the local or regional area? Do they understand community influences and concerns?

Careful evaluation of each architect should lead to an effective choice and eventually to the successful completion of your project. ▼

The oldest and most effective way to protect steel from corrosion is Hot Dip Galvanizing, a method using zinc in molten form to metallurgically change the corrosion properties of the steel. The problem:

Nobody seems to understand anything about Hot Dip Galvanizing.

The Voigt and Schweitzer group of galvanizing facilities in the United States is offering seminars to architects, engineers and specifiers in selected states around the country. V & S is affiliated with the AMERICAN GALVANIZERS ASSOCIATION, and is known to be the largest job galvanizer in the world.

If you have a firm in the following listed states they will come to your office, update your information and present a brief seminar on Hot Dip Galvanizing. Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky, West Virginia, Western Pennsylvania, Michigan, Oklahoma, Arkansas, North Texas, Missouri, or Kansas.

THE FIRST THING WE DID TO HELP REMODEL THIS OLD HUNTING LODGE WAS START FIRING QUESTIONS.

When the new owners of this converted hunting lodge began renovating it in 1991, they asked architect Katherine Cartrett of Mulfinger, Susanka and Mahady to recapture its original rustic charm, using only the finest, high-performance building products available.

So when the question of windows and doors came up, the logical answer was Marvin.

Representatives from the Marvin dealer and distributor, together with the architect and Nick Smaby of Choice Wood Company, inspected every opening in the home one by one.

Then the entire group sat down and planned the job out. They asked specific questions about which sizes, styles, shapes and features, would best reflect the home's original elegance, in the most energy-efficient and maintenance-free manner possible, all within the required budget.

The results: 46 windows and eight sets of doors in all, including Marvin Sliding French Doors with custom divided lites, that open the room to the panorama of woods and hills, plus a specially mixed finish on the exterior.

MAKE US YOUR FIRST CALL,
NOT YOUR LAST RESORT.
