The Fireblocker

Specify Levy lightweight expanded slag masonry units and you give any structure the safety benefits of high-temperature fire resistance – with no significant increase in cost. And because they're so light, masons are able to lay more units every day, resulting in extremely high productivity with reduced labor and transport costs. So you end up with a more satisfied client.

- Expanded slag has a uniquely high fire rating – higher than any other masonry unit material
- Fire rating certified by Omega Point Laboratories, San Antonio, Texas (ASTM method E-119)
- 20% lighter than normal medium-weight block

Levy block is made from 100% expanded slag, a byproduct of steel production. So while its unique high strength and fire resistance are protecting your customer's investment, it is also helping to protect the environment.

For more information, call the Levy sales department at (313) 843-7200, or write us at 8800 Dix Avenue, Detroit, MI 48209.

MAKING CONNECTIONS

As we enter our tenth year of publication of PLACE Magazine, there is an interesting new advantage to the information compiled on this, our third, edition of the AIA Michigan Directory. During 1999, the information contained between these two covers will be offered on the AIA Michigan Website. It will start small and grow to become the resource which you have all come to expect of this edition of PLACE.

For some of you this is good news, for some it is no news, and for others it prompts a "what took you so long" attitude. Yet whatever your on-line IQ, we hope that you will give it a try. What promises to be the greatest benefit of the AIA Michigan Website is its seemingly infinite capability to make connections - connections from AIA Michigan to AIA National to AIA Firms ...whatever you need. It promises to connect you to the information and people that you need to enhance your practice of architecture.

But it is not for everyone. We will continue to bring you PLACE Magazine in its printed, hold it in your hand, linger over a wonderful photograph, read it anywhere, and use it to prop up your computer format. And, because we believe that the practice of architecture is about communications and working together to solve design problems, we continue to encourage you to make connections the old fashioned way. Pick up the phone and call the Beaubien House and talk to our outstanding staff, call the AIA Michigan leadership and make a suggestion that will bring more service to the members, or better yet, attend a Chapter meeting and volunteer your time and effort for an issue in which you believe.

You will find all the information that you need to make those connections right here in the directory! Surf's up.

THE BEST BUILDINGS ON EARTH ARE STILL BUILT BY HAND

More than a million bricks laid in a series of unique patterns, textures and colors make the Veterans Administration Health Care Facility in Detroit, Michigan, a striking example of masonry design by architects Smith, Hinchman & Grylls Associates. But masonry was chosen for more than its beauty and flexibility of design. Buildings built of masonry by skilled union craftworkers will outperform, outshine and outlast any others. Add to that the speed and efficiency of union masonry contractors, and you have a prescription for health care facilities that satisfies any schedule and budget. We're The International Masonry Institute, and we'd like to help you design and construct the best buildings on earth. Visit us on the World Wide Web at www.imiweb.org, or call us toll free at 1-800-IMI-0988 for design, technical and construction consultation.

Our annual listing of members practicing architecture is carried in PLACE Magazine to aid clients to find a design professional. The listing is not only a name and address source but includes the specialties that our members practice. What it does not include is a description of the professional training and experience each architect brings to the project. Our members are held to the high ethical standards of our professional society and are required to maintain their proficiency through a continuing education program.

An architect's training begins with an accredited college program which covers not only design but the basics of city planning, structural engineering, mechanical systems, and the history of art and architecture. The newly graduated drafter then works under the guidance of another architect until they are prepared for the licensing exam. On passing the exam, the candidate submits their college record and work experience to the National Council of Architectural Boards (NCARB) and to the State of Michigan's Licensing Board. The architect is then licensed by the State and may keep a file with NCARB for licensing in other states.

Our members are licensed professionals who have had the training and who maintain their proficiency through education and experience to guide and advise their clients in all areas of a construction project. The architect, of course, doesn't work alone but in conjunction with Building Officials to protect the public's health, safety and welfare. The architect also represents the client in planning and zoning meetings at the jurisdiction of the project's location. Sometimes an architect will work with state inspection agencies if required by the nature of the project. The architect's experience and relationships with these public officials are part of the professional service provided not only to the clients but to the public who will use the building. The architect is trained to view the building as part of the surrounding community.

The architect's professional service to an owner is to complete the project as close to the owner's vision as possible. The architect serves the public by making the project inviting. Inviting not only in the welcoming sense but also as a safe and secure environment where guests and customers feel at ease. The public's safety is essential in good design. The architect is trained to comply with building codes, safety regulations, and barrier free accessibility. Your architect is your advocate in a highly regulated construction industry. The architect is also the owner's representative on all issues that arise during construction. An experienced advisor bolsters the owner throughout the construction process. The architect's familiarity with materials and methods are at the client's disposal during design and construction.

Whether you are building a home, office, hospital or an entire city it will have an impact on the lives of many people. It is important that it be done right. An archiect is trained to produce the best possible building for a particular site. My colleagues and I look forward to working with you.

A I A M i c h i g a n

A Society of the American Institute of Architects

AIA Michigan stands behind its members with a wide range of programs. AIA members benefit from services that keep them informed, protect their interests, increase appreciation of the role that the architect plays in protecting the health and safety of the public and provides the architect with the tools that heighten their efficiency and effectiveness.

AIA MICHIGAN MISSION

The Mission of AIA Michigan is to organize and unite its members to continuously improve the profession and to enhance their positions as leaders of the building team and designers of the built environment. This Mission is achieved by means of:

- Public Advocacy by developing and disseminating policies that enhance the natural and built environment; and by influencing legislation and regulatory policy that impacts the effectiveness of the profession.
- Education of the public to the value of the profession; education of members to a higher standard of practice; and education of students to the changing needs of the profession.
- Fellowship through activities that promote interaction between the members and allied professionals.

OUR FOCUS

PUBLIC ADVOCACY
As the collective voice of the architectural profession in the state, AIA Michigan makes sure that its concerns and interests are heard by key decision makers in Lansing. AIA Michigan monitors all regulatory matters affecting the profession.

COMMUNICATIONS/GOVERNMENT AFFAIRS
This committee and a legislative counsel in Lansing works to produce positive results for the profession. Ongoing activities include the monitoring of legislative issues for interior designers, landscape architects, homebuilders, and school construction. A plan has been developed to strengthen and build industry coalitions among the members of the construction industry. AIA Michigan has a video that was produced to raise the public's awareness of the value of hiring licensed architects. "Architectural Update" is available to legislators, community organizations, other special interest groups, and is available for sale at $9.95 plus shipping and handling.

PROFESSIONAL LICENSING
Efforts to enforce licensing laws and prosecute unlicenced practitioners is an ongoing priority.

MINUTE PERSON PROGRAM
Every member is listed in a data base by home address and congressional district. This makes it possible to contact members immediately for crucial Legislative Alerts.

ARCHITECTS' POLITICAL ACTION COMMITTEE (APAC) - Funds are raised, separate from dues dollars, to be used to support the campaigns of legislative candidates who understand the important role that architects play in creating a liveable environment for Michigan.

EDUCATION

AIA Michigan boosts the public's awareness and appreciation of the unique services and contributions that architects provide, enhancing visibility and stature among both clients and the community.

EXPO
AIA Michigan has joined with several other organizations to sponsor the largest building industry show of its kind in Michigan at the Silverdome each February.

DESIGN CONFERENCE
Architects present their work in a relaxed, informal setting at Torch Lake each Fall. Camaraderie, young architects, lesser known firms and affordable prices take a front seat.

CONTINUING EDUCATION
Continuing education is a mandatory requirement for AIA membership. AIA Michigan offers educational programs throughout the state to enable every architect to attain the required credits.

INTERN DEVELOPMENT PROGRAM (IDP)
AIA Michigan coordinates chapter activities and works with national AIA on this mandatory program.

FELLOWSHIP

MID-SUMMER CONFERENCE
This family-oriented conference celebrates its 56th year on Mackinac Island in August of 1999. It is a major fund raising event. Architects are joined by engineers, contractors and vendors.

HONOR AWARDS
This 31-year-old program promotes Michigan architects by raising the public's awareness of design excellence.

RECOGNITIONS
The achievements of individual members are recognized through the AIA Michigan Gold Medal, the Hastings Award, the President's Award, and Young Architect Award. Honorary Affiliate membership is conveyed upon people who have made notable contributions to architecture but are not otherwise eligible for membership.

RECEPTIONS
Two receptions are typically hosted each year, The Holiday Open House at the Beaubien House in December. The other is in May to recognize the newly elected members of the College of Fellows. These events are important social occasions that promote fellowship and celebrate architecture.

SERVICES

DOCUMENTS
AIA Michigan is a full-service distributor of contract documents, available at special prices to members.

BOCA LIBRARY
A resource library of building codes is retained in the Beaubien House through the AIA Detroit Building Codes and Regulations Committee.

PROFILE
The AIA Profile Directory of architectural firms and architects nationwide is available at the Beaubien House.

JOB REFERRAL
AIA Michigan keeps resumes on file and publishes want ads in the newsletter for architects seeking job opportunities.

ARCHITECT REFERRAL
Firms and individuals calling AIA Michigan in search of an architect are handled on an individual basis. PLACEMAKERS is sent to them as a resource for licensed architects.

INSURANCE
In Michigan, special group rates on homeowners and auto insurance are available through Michigan Benefit Plans, Inc., and a cellular savings program is offered through Cellnet Cellular. Information is available on the AIA Benefit Trust and professional liability insurance as well.

AIA MICHIGAN BULLETIN
The newsletter is a vehicle for internal communication and is mailed to all members.

plAce

The official magazine of AIA Michigan is distributed quarterly to architects and potential clients. PLACEMAKERS, a directory of architectural firms is published in the fall.

Membership Directory - Published annually, the membership directory is included in this issue of PLACE magazines.

Since 1887 in Michigan "AIA" after an architects name means that this person is an honorable member of the American Institute of Architects. It is a proud tradition and it will become more important as we move into the 21st Century.

What is AIA/CES?

It is a continuing education system emphasizing learning that was developed by the AIA. It is a mandatory requirement for architect membership in AIA. The CES is dedicated to creating a strong profession. It enables the architect to keep current, master new knowledge and skills, plan for the future, and responsibly meet the role society entrusts to a professional. It identifies AIA members as architects who seek the highest level of knowledge and achievement.

What is a Learning Unit?

The AIA records continuing education credit as a Learning Unit (LU). A LU is calculated by multiplying the length of an educational program (contact hours) by the quality level.

What is required of AIA Members?

Members must earn 36 Learning Units (LU) annually, including 8 hours of health, safety and welfare issues. Health, safety and welfare in architecture are defined as anything that relates to the structure or soundness of a building. Health refers to aspects of architecture that have salutary effects among users of buildings or sites and addresses environmental issues. Safety relates to the aspects of architecture intended to limit or prevent accidental injury or death among users of buildings or sites. Welfare represents the aspects of architecture that engender positive emotional responses among or enable equal access by users of buildings or sites.

LUs exceeding the annual requirement may be carried over into the next year. First time members are not required to complete the 36 LUs the first year they join. Associate and Emeritus Members are exempt but are encouraged to participate. Anyone with an active membership number will receive a transcript if LUS are reported.

The AIA/CES reinstatement policy takes effect January 1, 1999. A notice of non-renewable status will go out on March 31st of each year. Members who desire to reinstate must obtain and present evidence of 18 LUs prior to reinstatement. These must have been completed within at least one year of the date of renewal. The reinstated member must also obtain 36 LUs (including 8 HSW) for the current year that they are reapplying.

How Are Records Kept and How may they be Accessed?

Automated record-keeping and transcript services are provided under contract by the College of Continuing Education at the University of Oklahoma, Room B-1, 1700 Asp Avenue, Norman, OK 73072, (800) 605-8229 information line and (405) 325-6965 fax.

You may request information by phone or fax. Individual transcript records are now posted on AIAOnline (www.aiaonline.com), found under the Continuing Education menu and available to each member by using his/her member number. (Names and addresses are not listed for privacy reasons.)

CES IN MICHIGAN

AIA Michigan is a Registered Provider. Providers are responsible for developing quality educational programs and reporting the attendance. Accessible and affordable are the keys to AIA/CES effectiveness. Programs like the highly successful Health Facilities Planning Seminar (now in its 32nd year) are an excellent way for the architects to satisfy the AIA/CES requirements. It is sponsored annually by AIA Michigan and Michigan Department of Public Health. Participants receive valuable information for use in daily practice and meet client representatives at the same time. The cost is very affordable. AIA Michigan has modeled other programs on this format to provide a wide variety of continuing education opportunities.

1998 HIGHLIGHTS

PUBLIC AWARENESS

GRANTS

A Chapter Grant was awarded to AIA Huron Valley to fund a lecture at the University of Michigan College of Architecture and Urban Planning. These lectures, open to the public, have an attendance of 150 to 250 people.

The Foundation Grants Committee approved a grant to AIA Detroit for a Home Tour. This popular event is used effectively as a major public awareness program.

In July, the International Union of Architects Group on Educational Facilities met at Cranbrook, UIA committee member John Castellana, FAIA, served as host. The committee has not met in the United States in over twenty years. The program included keynote speakers Casar Pelli, FAIA; Gunnar Birkerts, FAIA, and Balthazar Korab, Honorary AIA Michigan. Presentations of new work constructed at Cranbrook and a tour of schools and university buildings were included in the program. Architects and the public were invited to the presentations.

HISTORIC GRANTS

In accordance with one of the major tenets of the Foundation Mission Statement,the Foundation funded a variety of historical awareness programs. As in the past the Foundation provided funds to support the 1998 Michigan Historic Preservation Network Conference held in Lansing on April 3 and 4. A Foundation grant sponsored the Network Award Ceremony. The conference continues to attract the largest attendance of professional and historic preservation activists of any historic preservation meeting in Michigan.

At the AIA Michigan 1998 Convention in Battle Creek, convention attenders and the public were invited to the Heritage Tower, the former Michigan National Bank Building. The spectacular Art Deco lobby was used as an auditorium for 250 people, with standing room only, for a lecture and music and laser light show. The lobby which has not been open to the public in many years attracted a great attendance of the public who appreciate historic architecture. This program was funded by a grant to AIA Southwest Michigan and a Foundation Historic Preservation Grant.

The final historic preservation grant was awarded to the Michigan African American Symposium, held in Grand Rapids on September 18 and 19. The Symposium theme, "Building Our Past, Preserving Our Future," supplied information about historic preservation for the involvement of the African American community in their neighborhoods.

COMMUNICATIONS

The Foundation's communication with the membership is limited to one mailing at the beginning of the year. This letter solicits its support from the members and thanks the many contributors to the Foundation during the year. The Foundation is using the new one-point collection invoice for the members' dues to invite monetary support. We plan on using next year's invoice for a stronger appeal to our members at the time they contribute to AIA. The AIA Michigan Monthly Bulletin continues to provide a communication link with the membership.

EDUCATION & RESEARCH

AIA MICHIGAN PRESIDENT'S SCHOLARSHIP

The Fourth Design-Build Golf Outing was held on May 21 at the Eagle Crest Golf Club in Ypsilanti. This year's event attracted the largest gathering of architects, engineers, contractors, construction managers, suppliers and owner representatives since the start of the event. The income has raised money for the scholarship program and affords a larger stipend to the college recipients.

This outing was created as a scholarship fund raiser for the President's Scholarship Endowment Fund. The goal of the Fund is to establish the endowment with a sufficient investment income for several scholarships.

The Fifth Design-Build President's Scholarship Golf Outing is scheduled for May 20, 1999 at the Eagle Crest Gold Club. Two President's Scholarship will be awarded in the spring of 1999. Scholarships are awarded to students in an architectural program who exhibit leadership in their field as well as in community activities.

MICHIGAN HIGH SCHOOL DESIGN COMPETITION

The 1997-98 Michigan High School Design Competition continued under the direction of James Shane, AIA. The problem for the year required students to design a Police Customer Service Center located in Detroit. The program is co-sponsored by the College of Architecture and Design at Lawrence Technological University, the Detroit Edison Company, the Illuminating Engineering Society-Michigan Section, and AIA Detroit. The program continues to attract the participation of students from high schools across the state. The Foundation has agreed to increase the scholarship funding for the 1998-1999 program.

INDUSTRY OUTREACH

INDUSTRY SEMINARS

The Foundation, in cooperation with other associations, sponsors two programs; one for health care and one for educational facilities planning. These highly successful seminar/conference programs continue to bring together professionals, public and private officials and user groups in educational programs intended to generate better architectural design.

The Thirty-first Annual Health Facilities Planning Seminar is the longest continual state seminar program devoted to one design subject in the nation. It was held this year at the Shanty Creek Resort in March with a very large turn out of architects, engineers and health care providers. The foundation is represented on the seminar planning committee by Robert Tower, AIA; Stephen Whitney, FAIA and MAF Executive Director Rae Dumke, Hon. AIA/

The Sixth Annual Education Facility Planning Conference continued under the chair of William Kane, AIA, is held each year at the Shanty Creek Resort in October. This year the conference attracted the largest attendance overall, and participation by school officials and non architect personnel increased. The program is gaining acceptance by school officials as an excellent source for planning material for the design and construction of educational facilities.

These programs are part of the Foundation's mission to "advance the science and art of planning and building through research and education." In addition, seminar proceeds contribute significantly to the long-term financial stability of the Foundation and underwrite portions of our non-income producing programs.

PLANNING STRUCTURE, MEMBERSHIP AND FUND RAISING

The membership of the Foundation is composed of members of AIA Michigan. The Board of Trustees of the Foundation is composed of four members of the AIA Michigan Board and five AIA Michigan members elected-at-large.

To develop funds to support the Mission Statement of the Foundation, the Foundation sponsors a variety of programs and fund raisers. The main source of income to the Foundation in addition to the seminar revenue, continues to be the money derived from the accumulated assets and investments of the Foundation that have been generated in the past.

Unsolicited gifts and donations to the Foundation, primarily through AIA Michigan dues check off, though modest, indicate a growing awareness of the Foundation's growth and activities.

FACILITIES PLANNING

The Foundations is embarking upon strategies to increase the endowment beyond the present methods of funding. The Foundation Board is developing methods to stimulate the growth of the assets, which will provide funds for greater programs in keeping with our Mission Statement.

The strength of the Foundation's management has encouraged other funding agencies and foundations to join with the Foundation in future granting programs.

The Board wishes to thank all of the people who made contributions for their support of the Foundation Trust Fund. In the past ten years, the Foundation has made great strides in expanding the goals of the Foundation for the betterment of architecture.

AIA Michigan Government Affairs

Over the past two years AIA Michigan and the Government Affair Committee has been committed to building coalitions with other groups involved in the design and construction industry. Architects are leaders in the design and construction process and must lead in efforts aimed at changing legislation to better deal with the evolving roles and responsibilities of our related professions.

As architects are involved more in design-build, construction management, program management and facilities management, licensing regulations must change to deal with new roles in partnership with all design and construction professionals. AIA Michigan must be a leader in changing our licensing laws to accommodate our evolving profession and acknowledge the change and growth of other groups involved in the industry. Our licensing act was conceived in 1916, a few things have changed since then.

On the legislative agenda for 1999 will be the issue of the Home Builders in the State of Michigan moving to change our licensing laws. Over several years architects and home builders in the State of Michigan have debated this issue. Currently a builder with a residential home builders license requires an architects' involvement on homes over 3500 sf. Home Builders would like to remove the square footage limitation entirely.

Architects and Building Officials in the state oppose this change because residential construction complexity is the real factor in determining the need for greater expertise on a project. Generally, residential construction is becoming increasingly complex.

Environmental issues and building site considerations require more complex solutions for utility distribution, proper grading and drainage or retention.

Alan H. Cobb, AIA
Chair of the Government
Affairs Committee

The typical developer home has larger single rooms, more "open plan" and longer spans, which require much more attention to structural components.

Simple solid lumber, wood frame construction is being complicated with engineered structural materials.

- More and larger window openings and penetrations in the exterior wall weaken the overall structural performance of the enclosure.
- The interior finishes are adding greater complexity and weight to the structure with a much wider array of possibilities and problems.
- Currently the licensing requirements for a home builder in the State of Michigan are not consistent with the increased complexity and engineering education that is required to properly select materials and methods of construction.

The Residential Builders License qualifications are as follows:

- An applicant must be 18 years of age
- An applicant must pass a three-hour exam
- An applicant must show moral character, and
- Pass a credit report
- (No education or training requirements are outlined.)

While some home builders are dealing with the complexity of the newest building materials and construction methods, the current licensing laws for home builders do not provide an opportunity to test the skills, knowledge and qualifications accurately or properly in this area.

Architects stand ready to help the home builders and other partners in the construction industry improve their licensing laws to more accurately gauge those with skills and education to improve the built environment. As stewards of the built environment, we all must evolve to improve design and construction in the State of Michigan.

The AIA Michigan Government Affairs Committee has been organized to address four primary areas of emphasis:

The Legislative Affairs Task Force

Through the efforts of the Legislative Task Force, AIA Michigan will foster a proactive, leadership role for the architectural profession by introducing, supporting or opposing legislation, which will address issues that affect Architects. Utilizing subcommittees of the Legislative Task Force, issues affecting Architects will be given through attention and positions established.

The Professional Licensing Task Force

To propose and secure passage of legislation to assure Architects a pro-active role in the management, enforcement, and regulation of the profession.

The Professional Practice Task Force

To educate the public, Legislators and governmental officials about the licensing requirements of the State of Michigan.

The APAC Committee

To raise funds to support the Public Affairs program of AIA Michigan. These funds go directly for the support of legislators to further AIA Michigan interests. Dues are not, and cannot, be used for this purpose. Please give to our EAPAC fund.

Two Michigan Architects Elected to AIA College of Fellows

Gary Skog, FAIA and Carl Roehling, FAIA are the two members of AIA Michigan who were elected to the College of Fellows of the American Institute of Architects. They were sworn in during a ceremony at the Institutes convention in San Francisco.

Skog and Roehling have a lot in common. Both have Master's Degrees from the University of Michigan. Both have been president of AIA Detroit. Both are recognized leaders in the design of laboratories and research facilities.

Roehling is Senior Vice President for Design at SHG, Inc., a Detroit firm that is the largest architectural firm in Michigan and one of the largest in the United States. He served on Mayor Archer's Urban Task Force and has played a leading role in making sure that the principles of sustainable development were included in Detroit's Land Use Plan and in state Land Use legislation. President Clinton has created a Presidential Council on Sustainable Development that will meet in Detroit this springl. He lives in Birmingham.

The Fellows Jury took note of Gary Skog's national expertise in designing research facilities. He has pioneered new planning models that have significantly advanced the practice of architecture. His laboratories dot the campuses of Michigan State, U of M, Indiana University, University of Connecticut and Northwestern University in Illinois. His concepts on laboratory planning were published in the journal American School & University. He joined the Southfield office of Harley Ellington Design in 1981 and is now the Chief Architecture and Design Officer. He lives in Bloomfield Hills.

With the exception of the Gold Medal, fellowship is the highest honor the AIA can bestow on a member. The College of Fellows was created in 1922 and there are less than 2,000 architects in the United States, out of a membership of 58,000, who are entitled to use the FAIA designation after their name. They all have been judged to have made significant contributions to the aesthetic, scientific and practical efficiency of architecture.

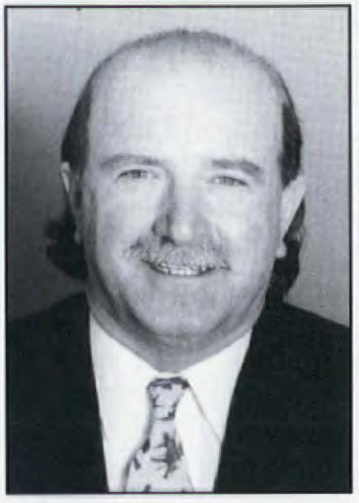
ANN ARBOR ARCHITECT RICHARD FRY, FAIA - WINS GOLD MEDAL

Richard Fry, FAIA has long list of accomplishments in and out of architecture. Now he has earned the Gold Medal. It is given because Fry has a produced a significant body of work that has had a lasting influence on the theory and practice of architecture. The medal represents notable contributions and outstanding achievement in the profession. Except for a National Gold Medal, it is the highest mark an individual architect can achieve.



Richard Fry, FAIA

Fry is president of Fry & Partners Architects, Inc., a firm he founded in Ann Arbor in 1970. His work includes the design of custom residences and vacation homes and he also does commercial and educational work. He has made a contribution to Ann Arbor's quality of life through his designs as well as his community service. He served on the Planning Commission and is now on the Building Board of Appeals.

Fry has won his share of design awards from AIA Michigan, the Masonry Institute and the Historical Society of Michigan. He never misses an opportunity to promote good design in his presentations to community groups and in his lectures at U of M's Graduate School of Architecture, his alma mater. In 1990 he founded the Michigan Design Retreat, a fall weekend dedicated to bridging the gap between established practitioners and young designers.

He is a member of the AIA College of Fellows. He has been president of AIA Michigan and the Huron Valley Chapter. He went to Washington to represent Michigan on the National AIA Board of Directors and served one term as vice president. He has been recognized by his peers and honored by his community.

HASTINGS AWARD GOES TO ARCHITECT RICARDO ANSELMO, AIA

Ricardo Anselmo, AIA

Robert Hastings was a distinguished Detroit architect who served as National president of A IA. When he died in 1978, the Hastings Award was created in his memory. Hastings was one of the City of Detroit's staunchest advocates when he was president of Smith Hinchman and Grylls. He carried the torch for livable cities when he went to Washington to head the national AIA. He was committed to improving the quality of the urban environment. "As architects, we are committed to making a more habitable environment for every man, woman, and child in our society. And to accomplish this, architects must participate in those decisions - economic, political, social - that shape the environment," he said. He believed that architects had a unique set of values that could benefit the community at large. Recipients of this award are individuals who exemplify his views and have made a significant contribution to the improvement of architecture.

Hastings, believed that architects were uniquely qualified to step forward and play an important role in public service and community improvement. Ricardo Anselmo, AIA is a committed architect and sole practitioner of an architecture and interior design firm. He is also determined to make Michigan a better place to live, work and enjoy art. Three governors, Milliken, Blanchard, and Engler have appointed him to important boards and commissions. He chaired the architects registration board where he focused on a clearer understanding and interpretation of the laws governing the profession.

Mr. Anselmo is also a teacher at Michigan State University and Lansing Community College. He has been instrumental in keeping the Lansing High School Design Competition alive. He served as a juror and is currently on the advisory board. Presently he is mentoring and teaching teachers how to teach architecture and design to elementary and high school students.

Since 1988 Anselmo has been a member of the Lansing Township Board of Appeals. This decision-making body reviews and acts on zoning and building code appeals. As the architect member, he has used his unique talent and training to influence orderly growth and development. He served on Mayor Hollister's transition committee on architecture, historic preservation, arts and culture. He advises the mayor on citizens' priorities in these cultural areas.

Anselmo graduated from Mapua Institute of Technology, Manila, Philippines with a Bachelor of Science in Architecture. Originally from Manila, he has been a resident of Lansing since 1955. Ricardo and his wife, Fe G. Anselmo, Ph.d., have four children.

CULTURAL LEADER NAMED AIA MICHIGAN HONORARY AFFILIATE MEMBER

Marilyn Wheaton is the former executive director of the Michigan Concerned Citizens for the Arts and currently heads the City of Detroit's Cultural Affairs Department. She manages a city department that administers cultural grants and implements the Detroit Cultural Plan. She is working with the mayor to make Detroit a cultural destination.

When she was the executive director of Concerned Citizens for the Arts in Michigan, she created and managed a $350,000 annual budget dedicated to promoting the value of art to the cultural well being of Michigan's citizens. She and her sixty member board of directors worked hard to assure adequate private and public support of the arts.

Two years as marketing director in John Hillberry's architectural office gave her a special insight into the value of architecture as full-size living art for everyday living. She was educated at both Wayne State University and Modonna University where she earned a B. A., Liberal Arts.

1998 AIA Michigan Design Honor Awards

An east coast jury headed by Jefferson Riley, FAIA of Connecticut examined 78 portfolios to come up with the winning entries.

Detroit had two winners; the Jefferson Avenue Parking Structure for Blue Cross/Blue Shield by Neumann/Smith Associates of Southfield and the transformation of the Veterans Memorial Building into a training center by SHG Incorporated for UAW-Ford. Coincidentally, the two are located just two blocks from one another on opposite sides of Jefferson Avenue. Both buildings, one long neglected and the other an attractive parking deck, help to freshen up the city's image.

Birmingham's streets have been enlivened by two new award winning commercial structures. The Birmingham Theatre by Victor Saroki & Associates Architects is an old movie theater that was sensitively converted into an eight screen multiplex. The Azar Oriental Rugs building by Luckenbach/Ziegelman and Partners gleaned the Steel Award for innovative use of steel products. Steel was used to create a large open space for uninterrupted display of huge oriental rugs. The street- facing show window puts a bright spot on a drab strip.

The Battle Creek Youth Center is unique in that young people worked along side the architects, TMP Associates of Bloomfield, to design their recreational center. Another building designed for fun is the Tribute Restaurant in Farmington Hills. Victor Saroki Associates now has a string of four AIA Michigan award winning restaurants.

David W. Osler Associates of Ann Arbor has added yet another winning library to his list. The Auburn Hills Public Library began as a Greek Revival house that has become a full service multimedia center.

The architects dream, to design your own office, is especially satisfying when it wins an AIA Honor Award. This time the prize goes to Arthur Smith Associates of Southfield who designed his own space to be a reflection of his architectural philosophy. Smith was honored for a simple low budget exhibit system he designed for AIA Michigan. Both projects prove that good design need not be expensive.

The Fulton Opera House in Lancaster, Pennsylvania by Kessler Associates of Detroit was the only out-of-state building chosen. It is a restoration of the oldest theater in continuing operation in the United States and was featured on the TODAY show. This is Kessler's third award winning theater.

The final four are all huge undertakings. The VA Medical Center Research Building and Energy Center in Ann Arbor by Harley Ellington Design of Southfield is part of a $175 million dollar program of renovation and expansion. The time honored palette of brick and limestone is used to humanize the institutional setting. The General Motors Services Parts Operation World Headquarters occupies 82 acres in Grand Blanc. The architect is Neumann/Smith & Associates in association with Sims/Varner & Associates from Detroit. It houses over thirteen hundred office employees. Large single purpose spaces are hard to deal with creatively. This time the architects used a "main street" concept to organize the space.

The Calsonic North America Headquarters Facility is located in Farmington Hills. All 105,000 square feet were designed to reflect the company's commitment to individual creativity. Studio B Architects from Farmington Hills managed to humanize the interior with art and especially designed workstations.

The last large corporate headquarters building belongs to Kmart. It was conceived twenty five years ago in Troy by Smith Hinchman & Grylls, now SHG Incorporated of Detroit. It earned the Twenty Five Year Award as a structure that has withstood a test of time. It has grown more beautiful with each passing year. A timeless flexible design coupled with superb maintenance has created a restful oasis on busy Big Beaver Road.

The American Institute of Architects - Michigan has sponsored the Design Honor Awards Program for over thirty years. The jury examines photographs, slides and written descriptions to select projects on the basis of how well the architect solves the problems presented.

Project:Jefferson Avenue Parking Structure
Architect:Neumann/Smith Associates
400 Galleria Officentre, Suite 555
Southfield, MI 48034
Builder: Walbridge Aldinger
Location: Detroit, Michigan
Category: Building

Jury Comment: The Jury admired the way the ubiquitous, urban parking structure is, in this instance, brought into the fold of neighboring buildings with the dignity, care and success of a well designed art museum. Bravo!

Project Description: The design challenge was to maximize the density of parking on a very narrow urban site that fronts a primary downtown boulevard, Jefferson Avenue. The solution is a nine story structure that accommodates 480 vehicles for Blue Cross/Blue Shield staff. It is sandwiched between a glass and aluminum office building and a six-story historic brick neighbor. It sits directly across the street from the John Portman designed Renaissance Center.

The building was developed with great care in a simple and direct way. Pre-cast concrete (tinted to match the red brick color of its historic partner) and natural ventilation helped to mitigate the high cost of building on a tight site in a downtown location. Open space and landscaping created a green "pocket park" at an important entrance in the central business district.

Project: Auburn Hills Public Library
Architect: David W. Osler Associates
916 Fuller Road
Ann Arbor, Michigan
Builder: Frank Rewold & Sons, Inc.
Location: Auburn Hills, Michigan
Category: Building

Jury Comment: The jury was refreshed by the elegance of this solution which relied on a simple plan, a restrained use of vernacular materials, and an insistence on unself-conscious details and style, all resulting in an appropriate yet timeless design that will serve this community well for many years to come.

Project Description: The difficulty the architect faced was to add 13,700 square feet to a modest Greek Revival house with a mere 6,300 square feet that was moved to the site in the 1980s for use as a library. The addition could not overwhelm its historic parent and needed to blend in with other buildings on a municipal campus site.

A traditional farm house grouping became the guiding design concept. A series of buildings; the house, a back house, shed and barn are interconnected. A long, low entry gallery that contains restrooms, stairs and a display area leads to the adult library that is housed in the barn.

Materials familiar on a farmstead were used throughout. Cut stone foundations, white clapboards, and a green standing seam metal roof unite the whole. The result is a residentially-scaled traditional building that houses a fully-contemporary public library.

Project: Battle Creek Youth Center
Architect: TMP Associates, Inc.
1191 West Square Lake Road
Bloomfield Hills, MI 48302
Builder: A. J. Etkins Construction Co.
Location: Battle Creek, Michigan
Category: Building

Jury Comment: This building is impressive on two counts: (1) Its participatory design process which involved kids from the community gained the cooperation of community leaders and government officials, (2) Its wonderful plan, which not only enables economic staffing, but also makes for a memorable and lively sense of community. It's fun, it's adaptable, and it happened.

Project Description: Through the fours years of planning, programming and designing the building, hundreds of young people took central roles in directing the process. They organized focus groups of their peers and participated in a charrette to design the outdoor skate park. The end result is, what else? - A Super Mall.

In this case a mall is the perfect model for a youth center. From the two story space all activities in the building can be seen. The visibility of major activities also makes the building easier to use. There is a video arcade, a tot lot, and food court areas as well as non-programmed spaces intended for adaption by the kids. There is a "Wild Room" that is surrounded by retractable curtains that can be used for laser tag, rock climbing, trampoline jumping or future activities yet undiscovered.

The building's materials and colors are intended to set it apart from the traditional institutional buildings while recalling the industrial building south and east of the site. There is a skate park adjacent to the video arcade and a performance/night club space, creating a cool down outdoor area during dances or performances.

Project: General Motors Services Parts Operations World Headquarters
Architect: Neumann/Smith & Associates
400 Galleria Officentre, Suite 555
Southfield, MI 48034
Associate Architect: Sims-Varner & Associates
Penobscot Building, Suite 244
645 Griswold
Detroit, MI 48226
Builder: Granger Construction Company
Location: Grand Blanc, Michigan
Category: Building

Jury Comment: The jury was most impressed by the clear and flexible organization of this building established by a "main street," along which the various functions of the center are arranged, and three distinct meeting room pods that leave large, open office areas unencumbered by partitions. Additionally, the exterior of this huge building is reduced to bite-size portions that act as backdrops to several playful, white, ocularly balanced skylights that promise humane, sun-filled spaces inside. Altogether, this is a great place for people.

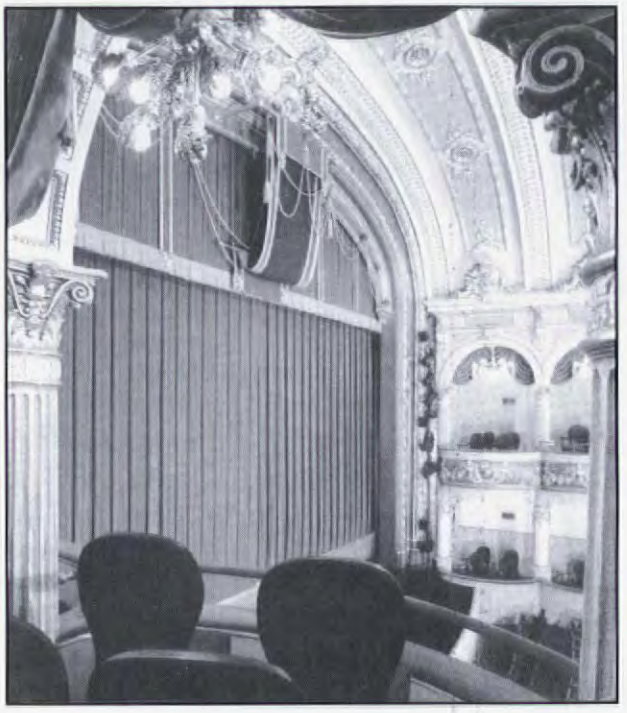
Project Description: The 82 acre rural site has highway exposure, a large wooded wetlands, a cemetery and an undeveloped 10 acre parcel that the company plans to sell. A critical site issue was the strip-like wetlands which covers 40 acres that was created when the cemetery was built. Careful planning with the Department of Environmental Services resulted in two large wetland ponds as a backdrop for the building.

The designers were faced with a need for a large office area with minimal fixed offices and 95% of the staff in open landscaped work stations. The design also had to include one-of-a-kind facilities including a lobby, conference center, vendors offices, wellness center, vehicle evaluation garage, computer facilities, cafeteria and energy plant. The solution was to zone the building into separate components joined by a "main street."



Project: Fulton Opera House
Architect: Kessler Associates
409 East Jefferson Suite 600
Detroit, MI 48226
Associate Architect: Levengood Kautter Architects
354 North Prince Street
Lancaster, PA 17603
Builder: Warfel Construction
Location: Lancaster, Pennsylvania
Category: Building

Jury Comment: The jury was impressed by the painstakingly researched and executed restoration and modernization of this historic gem. The required addition calmly demurs to its fancier ancestor but with contemporary strivings all its own. It properly takes its cues from the existing building on the other flank, pressing the opera house into a burst of glory. This is just the way restoration of our past should be done.

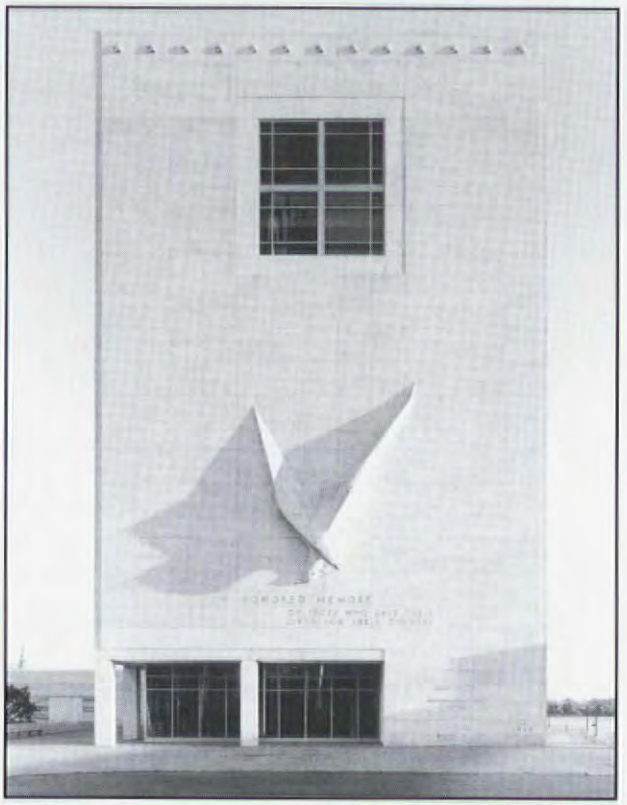
Project Description: The Fulton was designed by the architectural firm of Sloan and Stewart in 1852 as a community gathering place for various entertainments. The recent renovation is the fourth major alteration and represents a return to the spirit of the 1904 neo-classical interior renovation. Lighting fixtures were restored or replicated and lamped with carbon filament bulbs, capturing the warm glow of the early electric lighting era.

Integrating constantly changing theatre technology into a historic interior is difficult to do well. These systems in the Fulton were updated with minimal visible impact. Each system was designed for un-compromised functionality combined with aesthetic sensitivity.

The four-story addition is the key to the success of the Fulton restoration. It contains all of the functional and spatial improvements that could not be contained in the historic structure, yet are required for the theatre to be competitive in the business of modern entertainment productions. The addition was designed as a quiet, background facade in order to focus attention on the original 1852 Fulton. Its scale, materials and aesthetics are typical of downtown Lancaster architecture.



Project: UAW-Ford Joint Programs Center
Architect: SHG Incorporated
500 Griswold Street Suite 200
Detroit, MI 48226
Builder: Walbridge Aldinger
Location: Detroit, Michigan
Category: Building

Jury Comment: The restoration performed here brought this 1940's building, which the jury felt was probably exemplary at its birth, full bore into the 21st century, neither by diminishing it with some ego-laden splash, nor by restoring it timidly, but rather by building on its strengths as if good genetics were at work.

Project Description: Designed by Harley Ellington and Day and completed in 1950 the landmark Detroit Veterans Memorial Building was badly in need of a face lift. It had been vacant and under-maintained for a number of years. A joint effort between the United Auto Workers and Ford Motor Company have resulted in a state-of-the-art training facility. The architect completely retrofitted the building and restored the structure to modern efficiency and usefulness.

A controversial "new window" in the front facade is a two-story element that spans the seventh and eighth floor conference rooms. It acts as an opening to allow natural daylight into the upper levels on the north side and serves as a gesture to the revitalized downtown.

The entire interior was gutted, leaving only the concrete and steel structure. Entrances were reworked to provide accessibility. Interior materials, such as wood paneling, terrazzo floors and indirect lighting were selected to produce an atmosphere of understated sophistication, with a careful eye toward low maintenance and high performance.

Category: Building

Jury Comment: The jury liked the way this well-crafted building elevates a mundane purpose to the level of a fascinating and exquisite sculpture offered to all who pass by.

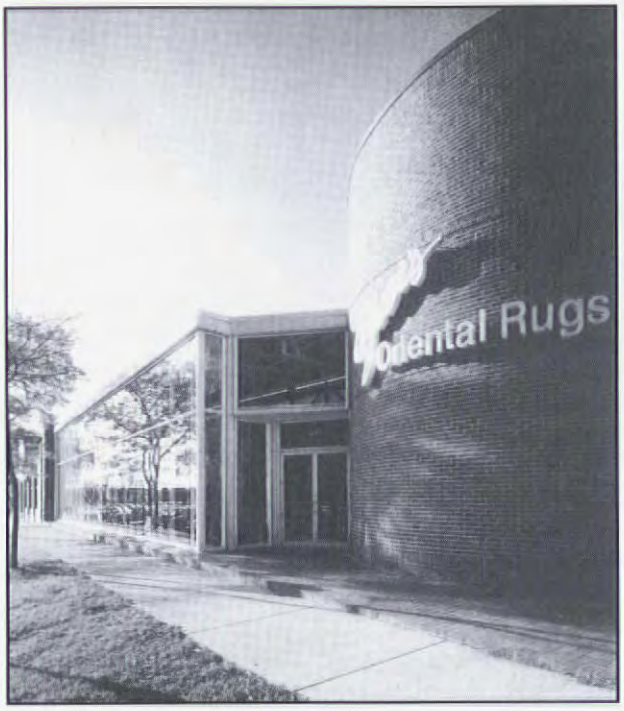
Project Description: The Ann Arbor medical campus has been serving war veterans since 1949. The facility has become outdated and unable to meet the needs of an ever ageing veteran population. The 19 acre site near the Huron River has become densely packed with buildings and parking.

A new master plan calls for a $175 million dollar program of renovation and expansion that includes a new medical research building and a new energy plant.

The research building houses biomedical laboratories, electron microscopy and radiography suites and biohazard containment zones. It is framed in steel and clad in redbrick and limestone to match the spirit of the other buildings on campus. The energy building replaces a 50 year old plant. It provides steam, hot and chilled water and the electrical requirements for the entire medical campus.



Project: Azar's Oriental Rugs
Architect: Luckenbach Ziegelman and Partners, Inc.
115 West Brown Street
Birmingham, MI 48009
Builder: Jonna Construction Co.
Location: Birmingham, Michigan
Category: Steel Award/Great Lakes Fabricators
& Erectors Association

Jury Comment: The clever use of steel truss, able to span the full length of the building storefront window provided an elegant and dramatic solution to the need to display, uninterrupted, sixteen foot high rugs to passers by. Simple, perforated steel columns brace the large expanse of storefront glass, opening it up for display.

Project Description: The owner wished to build a low-cost 7,500 square foot showroom and retail store for the display of oriental rugs. Care had to be take to guard the rugs against sun damage and special laminated insulated glazing was used.

The result is a simple steel tress and roof joist cantilevered over the truss to allow for a non-bearing transparent glass front wall. The cylindrical brick form at the corner encloses a special display area, mechanical equipment on the roof acts as a beacon for signage and entry. The use of brick easily accommodates the cylindrical form and is compatible with the mostly brick urban fabric.

Project: The Offices of Arthur F. Smith Architects
Architect: Arthur F. Smith Architects
25300 Telegraph Road Suite #555
Southfield, MI 48034
Builder: Dowler Ronnisch Company
Location: Southfield, Michigan
Category: Interiors

Jury Comment: The jury was taken by the symbolism of this small office. It is a place that speaks of building and experimenting. As a visitor or client , you are prepared by the building itself for a fun session of tinkering with things and ideas. What fun!

Project Description: The architect as client provided the opportunity for the firm to test its design philosophy within its new 4,400 square foot studio. In the design laboratory, the significance of the birth of an idea is revealed in the open and free use of materials and space.

Each material was selected and used honestly without extraneous ornamentation or detail. The floors are concrete. The work surfaces are particle board with aluminum edges and exposed fasteners. The work stations were developed to optimize efficiency, stimulate dialogue and promote experimentation.

Project:Tribute Restaurant
Architect: Victor Saroki & Associates, Architects, PC
525 North Woodward Avenue
Birmingham, MI 48009
Builder: G. Fisher Construction
Location: Farmington Hills, Michigan
Category: Interior

Jury Comment: The jury acknowledged the great skill and craft that went into this luxuriant interior, but it was mostly attracted to the fantasy and entertaining pretentiousness of this space. We imagined feeling both naughty and nice in this place, as if we shouldn't be here but were glad we were. This is dining at its entertaining best.

Project Description: Amidst the congestion of a bustling suburban intersection the architect has created a restaurant for fine dining that eschews traditional club-like trappings. All vantages from the site look into traffic, signs, telephone poles or gas stations. This forced the building to be introspective. Tasteful landscaping buffers the energetic surroundings.

The scope of the architect's responsibility was extensive and includes the building shell and interior, furniture, lighting, fabrics, tableware and art. The exterior is intentionally stark, the interior elaborate and luxuriant. Tribute succeeds because it creates a lasting impression of fine dining in a sumptuous setting, where all of the details are designed by one architect.

Project: Birmingham Theatre
Architect: Victor Saroki & Associates Architects PC
525 North Woodward Avenue
Birmingham, MI 48009
Builder: Integrated Construction Services, Inc.
Location: Birmingham, Michigan
Category: Interior

Jury Comment: The jury acclaimed this spectacular movie renovation as high art. The theater combines modern motifs and technology with glimpses of the past glory days of film and provides, at long last, a truly elevating experience at the movies, even if it is to see "The Coast is Toast: Volcano".

Project Description: This theater renovation, set in downtown Birmingham, transformed a conventional single-screen movie house into a vital, eight screen multiplex. The marquee sparkles with thousands of colored lights.

The art deco facade was completely restored and reworked to include a central ticket booth. The interior volume was enlarged by excavating below the original house floor several feet and removing the bow-string trusses supporting the roof above. Within the new larger space, a floor plate was introduced.

The large axial space of the main lobby is ideal for the elongated shapes of the art deco style. Geometric patterns are repeated in pilasters and accentuated with flowing fabric panels. Architect designed torchieres and wall sconces were fabricated in metal and glass. The effect is impressive in its grand scale and intimate warmth.

Project: Calsonic North America Headquarters Facility
Architect: Studio B Architects, Inc.
805 East Maple Suite 300
Birmingham, MI 48009
Builder: Campbell/Manix, Inc.
Location: Farmington Hills, Michigan
Category: Interiors

Jury Comment: The jury was greatly impressed by the almost sacred qualities of this exquisite interior. The melding of two cultural styles, the subtle interweaving to the currents of nature, the sympathy among the materials used, the multiple uses of natural light, from filtered to direct to reflected, all combined to make an environment that seems at once to anchor you in this place and transport you to another world. It is simultaneously inventive and inevitable.

Project Description: Calsonic Corporation is an international company headquartered in Tokyo. Previously dispersed throughout world, all of the divisions of the company are unified for the first time in North America. The architect was charged to create an environment for its 105,000 square foot headquarters and testing lab that merges Eastern and Western design principles. Throughout the facility, curving natural forms are designed to contrast geometric, hard edged forms. This represents the Eastern preference for the flowing, intuitive forms of nature and a Western preference for rational, man-made forms.

The company's commitment to individual creativity is integrated into the design of the building. Art work, selected by the architect, ranges in style from local, hand-made Pewabic Pottery to the sophistication of futurist Cranbrook visions. Individual workstations were specifically designed by Studio B Architects to support the needs of each task.

Project: AIA Michigan Mobile Exhibit System
Architect: Arthur F. Smith Architects
25300 Telegraph Road Suite 555
Southfield, MI 48034
Builder: J. D. & M Building Company
Location: Location Varies
Category: Low Budget/Small Project

Jury Comment: The jury saw in this exhibit a simple idea that solves multiple, complex needs with economy, beauty, and timeless design; a goal it felt all architects strive for.

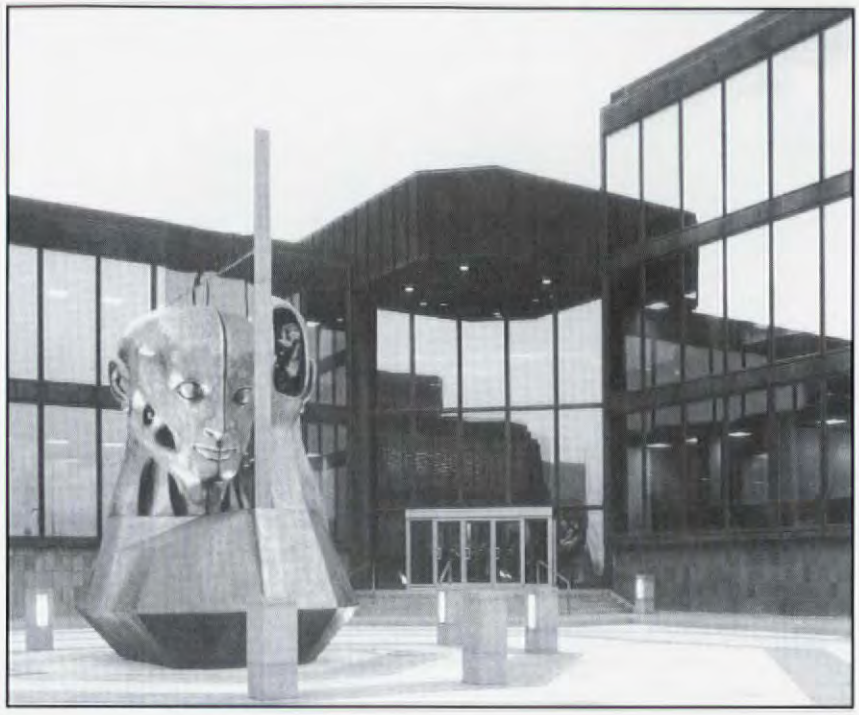
Project Description: The goal here is a low-budget, flexible, space-defining installation used to enlighten people about the American Institute of Architects and the work of its members.

This exhibit is made of portable building components. Since it is intended for temporary display, ease of transport and assembly were key factors in material selection. It is a wood frame panel, connected with flexible joints that pivot to allow for an infinite variety of configurations. Acrylic panels form the background for a display of photographs.

A table is attached to the wall to display pamphlets and to serve as an anchor. This gives reason and purpose to the assembly by capturing and defining the space.



Project: KMart Corporation International Headquarters
Architect: SHG Incorporated
500 Griswold Street, Suite 200
Detroit, MI 48226
Builder: Darin & Armstrong
Location: Troy, Michigan
Category: Twenty-five Year Award

Jury Comment: This award is intended to recognize good architecture that has withstood a test of time. This is a fine example. It has grown into its site and holds up very well against its newer flashier neighbors. We all should look this good after 25 years.

Project Description: This building houses 3,000 executive and administrative staff personnel. It is located on a 30 acre site. The two, three and four story buildings now total more than a half million square feet of floor space. The overall building is composed of a number of units, each containing its own mechanical and support services in an adjacent core tower. Capacity is easily expanded with the addition of more units.

The basic design decision was the creation of a modular building, located diagonally across the site to soften the perimeter masses as they related to the adjacent major traffic arteries.

The solution involved a complex of 13 modular building units, containing just over 10,000 square feet per floor. Where large uninterrupted areas were demanded, the units were connected at their faces; where offices were the prime need, units were connected at their corners, creating a number of interior courts.

The red-bronze tinted glass complements the deep brown tones of the weathering steel curtain wall. An extensive landscaping program was included in the original project. Careful maintenance has allowed it to grown more lovely through the years.

The architect was also responsible for the interior design, graphics and signage, furnishings and color coordination, and acted as a consultant for a major art acquisition program.

placemakers 98

Behind every issue of PLACE are PLACEMAKERS! But where are they located? Who do I call? What is thier specialty? the editors of Place are happy, once again, to include the PLACEMAKERS DIRECTORY in this issue of PLACE Magazine.

This easy to use directory features an alphabetical listing of firms with location, specialty of practice, and a contact architect with whom to discuss your project. It is compiled as a resource for clients and other members of the building team in need of architectural service.

Participating firms are AIA Michigan members who support PLACE magazine with their projects, ideas and dollars. So take a look and find the firm best suited to your project! We are confident that it's there! For more information, please do not hesitate to contact:

HOW TO HIRE YOUR ARCHITECT

Finding a Qualified Architect

Selecting the best architect for your next project can be a confusing experience. Whether you are an individual building for the first time or part of a large organization that builds periodically you need reliable information.

To help ensure that the owners receive quality architectural services, the Michigan Board of Architects examines, licenses, and regulates architects. All architects have a numbered seal that must be used to stamp drawings for issuance to local building authorities. The use of the title "architect" by an unlicensed person, or the use of an architect's seal to stamp drawings not made under his or her direct supervision are both illegal practices. To find out whether an architect is licensed to practice in Michigan or to report an illegal use of the title or seal one may call the State of Michigan, Board of Architects at 517-241-9253.

To get a license and the privilege to use the title "architect," Michigan architects will have completed a five-year degree in architectural studies. Many will have a Master of Architecture Degree. A three-year internship of diversified practical training then follows a candidate's education under the direct supervisory control of a practicing licensed architect. It is only then that they are eligible to take the Architectural Registration Exam. The letters "AIA" after the name means that this architect subscribes to a Code of Ethics. It is an architect that works to earn Continuing Education Credits to be up-to-date on the latest building technology.

AIA Michigan offers a guide to licensed architects who publicize their experience in specific building types. PLACEMAKERS can be helpful in establishing a list of architects to consider when sending out a request for information (RFI).

AIA Michigan also has a publication on Quality-based Selection (QBS) to guide owners through the selection process. A facilitator is available through QBS to work with you or your selection committee directly. Whether you plan to use the QBS procedure or your own selection process, the key is to develop definitive selection criteria.

Selecting Your Architect

Before selecting your architect you need to develop basic criteria specific to your project and make that available to prospective architects. Basic requirements may include the following:

1)List of functions
2)Approximate size
3)Projected starting dates and occupancy dates
4)Anticipated project budget and financing
5)Required services from your architect

Next you should request information and qualifications from several architects to evaluate your project. Successful projects result when clients and architects form cooperative professional business and often personal relationships. These relationships are formed early in the design process. Clear communications, mutually understood expectations, and a willingness of both client and architect to understand and accept their individual responsibilities are important to insure for realizing a successful project. A theme to rally around is the five C's: Chemistry, Capacity, Capability, Creativity, Commitment. The five C's focus on team resources, availability and relevant experience, design and technical skills and overall interest in your project.

Chemistry: Look at the architects specifically proposed for your project and see how well they have worked on similar projects. If you are dealing with just one architect for a smaller scale project, talk to other clients he or she has worked with to obtain information. If your project is larger and requires a team of architects, talk to the users of a previous project on which they have worked. You should also evaluate the data on the resume. A second key aspect to consider is how well the architect or specific team will mesh with your culture and values. Are there techniques used by the architect that will simplify the working relationship and clarify the decision making process for you or within your organization? Has the architect or team of architects worked with clients or organizations similar to yours? Whether you are the sole authority or your organization has a hierarchy of decision makers, the architects should be comfortable with your decision making structure.

Capacity: Once you are satisfied with the architect or team of architects are they available for your project? Every owner is concerned about the ability of the selected architect to deliver the project effectively within the desired schedule. The real test of this question is the depth of resources available to the architect or project team. Can they handle your project schedule and adjust to changes you may require without jeopardizing other project commitments? You need data on concurrent project schedules to make this evaluation. Typically, architects are generalists and produce a great variety of projects. Has the architect delivered projects of similar size and complexity to your project?

Capability: Architectural firms come in many sizes and types. The average firm is made up of five to ten people. Many are smaller, with one or two people, and some are very large with many professionals on their staffs. Evaluate the experience of the architect or team of architects on recently constructed similar projects. Were these projects delivered within the required time and cost restraints? Have they delivered these projects with the level of quality that meets your expectations? Given the architects' experience on recent projects, are they able to solve issues specific to your project? Can the architect guide you or your organization through the design process and build a consensus with you and your key people?

Creativity: Design and construction is not a simple process. No two projects are alike, and each new building brings with it a unique mixture of needs, people, location and financing. Image, function, the user, technology, environment, construction phasing, operations and cost all influence the complexity of the problem. The creative process is a very subjective response to a given set of requirements. Interviewing the specific architect designated for your project is wise. The architect will bring an independent and fresh look at your project and suggest creative ways of meeting those needs. Ingenuity in both design and technology is equally important. The architects' design approach, including analysis of alternatives, may provide key insights into the ability of the architect to come up with a creative solution to your problem. Looking at the architects' past work and calling client references can also be very valuable. Take the time to evaluate past performances. Ultimately your search may yield more than one very qualified architect that meets your criteria for selection. Final choice may hinge on how interested the architect is in your project. The most thoughtful architects are as careful in selecting their clients as clients should be in selecting their architects.

Commitment: Is this an architect that you can trust with your project? Has the firm committed a key principal to the project or are they just the interview team? Do they understand emerging trends that affect you or your business and can they incorporate key elements into your project? By the firms location or by their demonstrated portfolio are they part of the fabric of the local or regional area? Do they understand community influences and concerns? Careful evaluation of each architect should lead to an effective choice and eventually to the successful completion of your project. We create livable communities one building at a time. An informed client and an innovative architect do a lot to insure the quality of the built environment.

(Most of the above information was written by Karen Swanson, AIA and Andy Vazzano, AIA. Additional copy is from Archipages, a publication of AIA Illinois)

What is AIA ?

In order to make this directory more useful for non architect readers and clients, we provide the following glossary:

AIA Any architect who is currently entitled under state law to practice architecture is eligible to be an Architect member. Good standing in the profession and in the community shall be demonstrated. Architect members may use, in connection with their names and titles, "Architect Member of the American Institute of Architects."

The acronym AIA is copyrighted and its specific use is limited to an individual architect member. This designation following the name means that the architect is a member in good standing of the American Institute of Architects.

FAIA These initials signify that an individual architect has become a Fellow in the American Institute of Architects. It means that a jury of peers has examined the architect for extraordinary accomplishments and exceptional leadership.

AIA-E The letter "E" stands for Emeritus and it signifies that an architect member has maintained membership for 15 years and has reached the age of 70; or, has reached the age of 60 and is retired; or, is incapacitated so as to be unable to work in the profession.

Associate AIA Associate members are individuals without architectural license who meet any of the following requirements:

- Employed under the supervision of an architect in a professional or technical capacity, or
- Faculty members in a university program in architecture, or
- Are eligible by education or experience and are in circumstances recognized by licensing authorities as constituting credit toward architectural license, or
- Have a professional degree in architecture, or
- Have an architectural license or the equivalent from a non-licensing authority and demonstrates honorable standing in the profession in the local in which they are licensed. Such persons may be residents within or outside the U.S.

PA Professional Affiliates are construction industry teammates such as mechanical, electrical and structural engineers, artists, planners, interior designers who complete the roster of a well-rounded professional organization.

(Editor's Note: Much of the information in the FIRM PROFILE was submitted by the individual firms listed. Although every effort was made to provide all the firms the opportunity to be listed correctly, AIA Michigan does not verify the accuracy of the information received. As in any directory of this size, errors may occur. To compound these inherent problems in directory creation, we were faced with area code changes. We apologize for any typographical mistakes. We welcome written corrections and additions.)

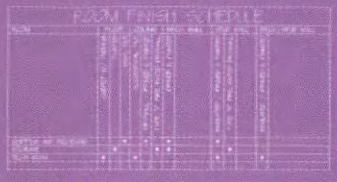
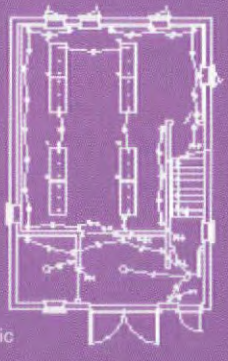
AutoCAD Architectural Desktop™

*automatic



*automatic

*automatic



*automatic

We just made your job a little bit more fun.

By automatically generating components and documentation from your design concepts, Architectural Desktop allows you to spend more time creating, and isn't that where the fun really is?

AutoCAD Architectural Desktop ensures data integrity throughout the entire design process. It smoothly bridges the gap between 2D production drafting and 3D modeling, and actually improves productivity at the same time.

Display Management features in AutoCAD Architectural Desktop™ benefits all phases of the design process.

conceptual design

- Solve design problems conceptually first.
- Generate presentation materials quickly and automatically.

design development

- Automatically generates walls, doors, windows, stairs and roofs to create the building design drawings.

construction documentation

- Construction documents are created and easily updated by referencing design files that contains representations for plan, reflected plan, drafting symbols and legends.
